REPUBLICANS BAN STRESS ON PROHIBITION, SAYS WORK; RELIGIOUS TOPICS ARE TABOO

NEITHER IS HELD POLITICAL

Chairman Says Smith Will Be Fought if He Raises Wet Issue.

FOR HOOVER'S DRY STAND

Nominee's Opposition to Repeal Cited as Summing Up the Party's Attitude.

TARIFF PRESSED FOR EAST

Letter to Committeemen Sets Policies—Eastern Conference in Washington Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Prohibition will not be emphasized as a major issue unless it is stressed by the Democrats, and there will be no discussion of religion in the campaign to be conducted in behalf of Secretary Hoover, according to statements authorized today by Dr. Hubert Work, Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The Republican attitude toward prohibition, Chairman Work said, was summed up in the reply which Mr. Hoover made to the Borah questionnaire. At that time Mr. Hoover said prohibition was a "noble experiment" and that it should be dealt with constructively. He added: "I will say again that I do not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

In a letter to members of the committee Chairman Work declared "the peculiarities of conscience and personal liberty, within the law are not proper subjects for political debate."

Asked for an interpretation of the statement, Chairman Work said:

"It refers to prohibition and religion. As far as we are concerned, it rules out prohibition. We do not think that these things—religion and prohibition—ought to be stressed in a political campaign."

The determination of the Hoover-Curtis organization to go lightly on prohibition, and the fact that in his letter to his committee associates Dr. Work singles out the tariff "as one of the outstanding issues," without specifically mentioning any other, is constructed as an admission by the Republican management that it regards the industrial East as the real battle ground.

Protection to Be Battle Cry.

The Republican fight in the East, therefore, will be waged, in the main, on the tariff, with the plea that protection is needed to maintain "our high standards of living." Dr. Work and his advisers appear to be confident that the "embattled farmers" of the Middle West eventually will swing into the Republican column. The party leaders are said to believe the East is largely "wet," and for this reason, it is understood, they prefer to have the prohibition question subordinated.

Dr. Work made it clear, however, that if Governor Smith, in his speech of acceptance, issues a challenge on the wet and dry issue, it will evoke a militant response from the Hoover-Curtis forces.

"We will not inject prohibition as a major issue," said Dr. Work. "We think there are larger questions in view. If it is brought forward by the Democrats, we will meet it."

Dr. Work's letter to the committeemen was sent on June 29. He urged all concerned in Republican success to begin the work of organization without delay. He stated, in effect, that the party organization would not countenance "mud-slinging." He said that July and August would be devoted to perfecting the organization. The opinion was expressed that Hoover and Curtis would hold the party vote and draw strong support from those "who think independently on political questions."

Outlines Campaign Policy.

The formation of Hoover committees and clubs as auxiliaries to the National committee was urged. The letter was Dr. Work's first formal communication to the Republican organization. It says in part:

"The campaign policy we propose to follow will be informative and constructive only. The promptings of conscience, and personal liberty within the law, are not proper subjects for political debate.

"We wish to secure complete unity in our common purpose for good government. The Republican Party is interested solely in preserving the foundation of good government administration through our party organization.

Warns Fame-Seekers That City Is Not the Fictional Mecca

New York is no place to be without a job, friends, relatives or bank account, according to a warning issued yesterday by the Room Registries Section of the New York Welfare Council. In the council's opinion also, "a single person cannot live independently and decently in New York on less than $25 a week."

The statement points out that New York is a friendly city, but that ambitious youths and girls cannot come here with only money enough for just a few weeks and letters to persons considered influential and be sure of landing jobs, despite the impression given by fiction writers and the movies.

Thousands come here yearly to seek fame and fortune, it is asserted, and of those who survive much is said, while the others "soon find themselves in an environment so depressing or demoralizing as to permanently affect their lives or character, and of these the world hears little."

SMITH PICKS ALBANY FOR NOTIFICATION

Candidate's Decision Seen as New Indication He Will Run Campaign.

GOES TO RASKOB FUNERAL

Governor Invites Senator Reed to Capital to Confer on Issues and Conduct of Battle.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 6.—Governor Smith left here this afternoon in the private car of William F. Kenny to attend the funeral tomorrow morning at Pioneer Point, Md., of William F. Raskob 2d, son of his friend, John J. Raskob. The youth, who was 19 years old, was killed in an automobile accident near Pioneer Point yesterday.

The Governor expressed keen regret over the death of Mr. Raskob's son and sympathy for the family. He has known Mr. Raskob since before the days when the latter became Vice President of E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company and Chairman of the Finance Committee of the General Motors Corporation.

Although the Governor was not inclined to discuss the work that will occupy him during the next few days in preparing for meeting the Democratic National Committee next week in New York, he received the newspaper men for the customary daily conference. In the course of the interview he settled the talk as to where the ceremony will take place at which he will be formally notified of his nomination. Answering a question which has been asked of him repeatedly during the last few days, he said:

"Albany, of course. Isn't that where I live? Where else would they hold it?"

Recalls Cleveland Ceremony.

With Albany as the scene, the ceremony will invoke comparison with that for Grover Cleveland. As in the case of the former Governor, it is considered here today to be quite likely that Governor Smith will receive his notification on the steps of the State Capitol.

In the Governor's announcement his associates professed to see the significant implication that he and not the National Democratic Committee, or any one the committee may name, is going to run the Smith campaign. That he would take such

TEST DOOR TO SOLVE LOEWENSTEIN CASE; HOAX DISCREDITED

SPILL AT 'AIR BUMP' HINTED

Investors Recently Insured Belgian's Life Up to £500,000, With Suicide Covered.

Rumor on Wall Street of $11,000,000 Loan Negotiated Here Is Denied.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 6.—The mystery of how the Belgian financier, Alfred Loewenstein, could have fallen accidentally from his plane Wednesday evening while crossing the English Channel was increased rather than diminished by experiments today at Le Bourget Field with a similar plane.

Two mechanics who tried to open the outside door of a plane while the motor was turning at full speed only succeeded in doing so by using their combined strength and then succeeded only in pushing it far enough open for one man to squeeze out with difficulty. They concluded that it was practically impossible for a lone man to open such a door if the plane were flying at ordinary cruising speed.

This experiment was made by officials of the Fokker Company with one of their machines almost exactly of the same type as that used by Captain Lowenstein and one of their officials who watched the experiment declared afterwards he could not believe it possible that Captain Loewenstein could, alone and involuntarily, have opened the outside door by mistake.

Experiment Redoubles Speculation.

This experiment has redoubled speculation as to the manner of the disappearance of the Belgian financier. Of four possible hypotheses, the first, of crime, may be at once set aside. There was no one aboard the plane with any known motive for such a crime and the idea of collusion among the banker's employes is palpably absurd.

The second hypothesis is suicide. The banker's financial friends ridicule such an idea. Even if Loewenstein had been in difficulties, which they say he was not, he was not the kind of man to run away from them. He revelled in a financial fight and always enjoyed himself most when facing odds. He was in no real embarrassment and the easy way in which his financial friends have been able to maintain the prices of his stocks has confirmed that there was no financial motive for suicide.

A third possibility is that the banker took this sensational method of disappearing from society. This hypothesis, however, presupposes collusion on the part of some, at least, of those who traveled with him on the plane. Only in the most fantastic movie or detective dramas could such a disappearance have been imagined. Those who advance it as a possible explanation declare it at least possible that Captain Loewenstein jumped out and hid at once when the plane landed the first time.

Parachute Drop Is Suggestion.

Some daring aspirants for honors in imaginative fiction even suggest that he dropped from the airplane with a parachute to a mysterious waiting yacht. Such a suggestion of voluntary flight must, however, be discredited. Although he loved to live spectacularly Captain Loewenstein had nothing to gain and everything to lose by such folly. He could never reappear in financial circles, and for him the financial game was the whole pleasure and absorption of his life.

There remains, therefore, as the only really probable solution the hypothesis of accident, and that has been made difficult of acceptance by today's experiment at Le Bourget. On the other hand the testimony of all those who traveled on the plane with him and their real grief for their employer support the theory

Morton Hoyt Leaps From French Liner; Washingtonian Rescued in Fog Off Banks

STEAMSHIP ROCHAMBEAU, July 6 (AP).—A Washington man jumped overboard from the steamship Rochambeau tonight and was rescued twenty minutes later.

When the ship was south of the Grand Bank at 8 P. M. Morton Hoyt, aged 29, of 1,701 Rhode Island Avenue, Washington, plunged from the deck. The cry "Man overboard" was immediately raised and the engines reversed. The ship was proceeding through a dense fog and Captain Leon Rollin directed the search from the bridge.

The vessel turned in a complete circle and followed its previous course. Mr. Hoyt was located within twenty minutes and was heard crying for help. A lifeboat was lowered and he was picked up completely exhausted from his struggle with the waves.

Mr. Hoyt said that he regretted jumping overboard and asked that he be allowed to sleep.

The excited passengers applauded the rescue and the ability shown by the ship's crew in finding the man in the fog.

The Rochambeau sailed from Havre on June 30 and is due to arrive in New York on Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Morton Hoyt, who leaped from the Rochambeau off the Grand Banks, is a member of a well-known Washington family.

He was the son of the late Henry M. Hoyt, who served as Solicitor General of the United States in the Taft Administration. His mother lives at 1,071 Rhode Island Avenue.

Morton Hoyt married Jean Bankhead, daughter of the late Senator Bankhead of Alabama. His two sisters, Eleanor Hoyt Bennett and Nancy Hoyt Wynne, have been prominent figures in society here for years.

A brother, Henry M. Hoyt Jr., a portrait painter, committed suicide in New York in 1920.

CONNOLLY IN COURT, PLEADS NOT GUILTY

SPECIAL JURY TO BE DRAWN

Decision in Daugherty Case Held by Buckner as Precedent in Death of Phillips.

The trials of Maurice E. Connolly, former President of the Borough of Queens; Frederick B. Seeley, former Queens sewer engineer, and Clifford B. Moore, former consulting engineer of Queens, on indictments returned on June 22 by the Extraordinary Grand Jury investigating sewer conditions in Queens were set for Sept. 24 by Justice Tompkins yesterday in the Queens County Court House in Long Island City.

The defendants all pleaded not guilty. Connolly and Seeley are jointly named in an indictment charging that they conspired to defraud the City of New York in connection with sewer contracts, to obstruct the administration of the laws covering sewer construction and to such degree that they neglected their official duties.

John M. Phillips, alleged head of the Queens sewer ring, who died in Atlantic City on Tuesday, was a co-defendant. Moore was named in a separate indictment charging that he falsely certified his State income tax return.

Special Jury Panel for Trial.

On motion of Special Assistant Attorney General Buckner, who is conducting the investigation of the sewer situation by the Extraordinary Grand Jury, Justice Tompkins ruled that a special panel of jurors for the trial be drawn on July 16, the date set for the reconvening of the Extraordinary Grand Jury. The list from which the names will be drawn will be prepared by Commissioner of Jurors William B. Hazelwood.

After Justice Tompkins had fixed the date of the trial, Aaron Steuer, of counsel for Connolly, addressed Justice Tompkins, saying:

"We understand that at its next session the Extraordinary Grand Jury will hand up a presentment which will be its comment upon the testimony that has been taken. We ask the Court to direct the Grand Jury not make any such presentment, because we believe its publication will have a tendency to prejudice the public mind against the defendants."

Before Mr. Buckner could make an objection Justice Tompkins replied:

"The Court cannot anticipate what the Grand Jury will do."

"I realize that," said Mr. Steuer, "but if any such presentment is handed up may we ask the Court to exercise its jurisdiction and direct that it be not made public?"

"The Court will consider carefully all matters coming before it," Justice Tompkins ruled.

May Ask Change of Venue.

Mr. Steuer said that on behalf of his client, Connolly, he desired to reserve the right to make a motion for a change of venue, to inspect the Grand Jury minutes or to dismiss the indictments. He said that he was not prepared to make the motions at this time. Mr. Buckner made no objection and Justice Tompkins granted the motion.

Questioned later, Mr. Steuer explained that he did not know just what motion, if any, would be made. He wanted the rights of his client preserved in this respect, however, and that had been accomplished, he added.

Outside the court room Connolly declared that he had not been asked to attend the funeral of Mr. Phillips in Freeport, L. I., today and did not intend to go. Mr. Buckner, in commenting on the death of Phillips as bearing on the trial of Connolly and the other defendants, said:

"We have a very recent case that decides this matter for us. It was in the Federal courts at the trial of Harry M. Daugherty, Thomas W. Miller and Jesse C. Smith, who were indicted for conspiracy. Smith died before the trial, but all evidence in connection with him was admitted on the ground that the act of one alleged conspirator was the act of all and, therefore, all testimony should be admitted."

Special to The New York Times.

FREEPORT, L. I., July 6.—Queensboro Lodge of Elks, Malcolm Rafferty Post of Spanish War Veterans and Mineola Post of United Spanish War Veterans conducted funeral services tonight for John M. Phillips at his former home, 265 South Ocean Avenue. There will be a solemn requiem mass in the Church of the Holy Redeemer at 10 o'clock tomorrow, the Rev. John L. O'Toole officiating. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

PICK BOARD TO STUDY COLORADO RIVER DAM

Work Names Men Approved by Coolidge to Report on Federal Project.

GEN. SIBERT HEADS LIST

Others Include Robert Ridgeway and Charles P. Berkey, Both of New York.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Three engineers and two geologists were named today by Secretary Work, with the approval of President Coolidge, as members of a commission authorized by the recent Congress to study the feasibility of construction of a dam by the Government on the Colorado River either in Boulder or Black Canyon. They are:

Major Gen. WILLIAM L. SIBERT of Bowling Green, Ky.
DANIEL WEBSTER MEAD of Madison, Wis.
ROBERT RIDGEWAY of New York.
CHARLES P. BERKEY of New York.
WARREN J. MEAD of Madison, Wis.

The commission is to examine the proposed site of the dam, review the plans and estimates and advise the Secretary of the Interior by Dec. 1, 1928, as to matters affecting the safety, the economic and engineering feasibility and the adequacy of the proposed structure and incidental works.

The five commissioners were selected from several score engineers and geologists at a conference between President Coolidge and Secretary Work early this week at Brule, Wis.

While acceptances of the appointments have yet to be received, it was indicated that those named would be willing to serve.

Work's Letter to Appointees.

In his letter inviting the men to become members of the commission Secretary Work wrote that "you have been selected because of your eminence in your profession and for the reason that you have not been connected with the area to be studied either through personal interest, residence or previous intimate knowledge of the subject.

"Compensation is limited by the resolution to $50 per day and expenses. The project being of the greatest importance and the largest heretofore undertaken, I sincerely hope you may consent to assist us, and that you will be available for service at a very early date, as under the law the report must be submitted before Dec. 1, 1928."

General Sibert retired from the army in 1920 after a long and distinguished service. He constructed the Gatun lock and dam at the Panama Canal and the breakwater at Colon Harbor. He commanded a division in France during the World War and returned to America to organize the chemical warfare service. At one time he was Red Cross chief engineer for the study of flood prevention in China.

Daniel Webster Mead is a veteran engineer and an authority on hydraulic engineering and water power, being a professor of those subjects at the University of Wisconsin. As a young man he was connected with the Geological Survey and formerly was professor of hydraulic engineering at the University of Illinois.

Ridgeway a Subway Builder.

Mr. Ridgeway had been chief engineer for the New York subways and engineer for the Transit Commission and the Board of Transportation for New York, in addition to being the engineer for the Catskill Aqueduct. He was in charge of the construction of the South Ferry loop, the tunnels under the East River and the Brooklyn subways.

Mr. Berkey has been Professor of Geology at Columbia University since 1903, in addition to being geologist for the New York State Board of Water Supply on the Catskill Aqueduct, he was geologist of the third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History.

Warren J. Mead is a geologist at the University of Wisconsin, having been a member of the faculty of that institution since 1906. He has had a consulting practice in economic and engineering geology for many years and is a recognized authority on that subject.

CHINESE CHIEFS DROP QUARRELS AT TOMB OF DR. SUN YAT-SEN

Military "Big Four" Report Success of Nationalism to Dead Founder.

FENG'S ARRIVAL DRAMATIC

RITES DRAW MOTLEY CROWD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, July 6.—A dramatic culmination of the Nationalist campaign to unify China was staged this morning at the Temple of the Western Hills near Peking when the "Big Four" of the movement paid homage at the tomb of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of Chinese Nationalism.

When the casket was opened Chiang Kai-shek wept long and bitterly, flinging himself on the coffin of the dead leader from which he was raised by Feng Yu-hsiang, whose arrival several hours before had greatly lightened anxiety over a possible split. Chiang, Feng, Yen Hsi-shan and Li Tsung-jen were the only persons permitted to view the body, which was preserved three years ago in a glass casket filled with oil.

The ceremonies were spectacular and impressive, blending modernism and medievalism.

They included the reading of Sun Yat-sen's will, three minutes of silent tribute, dirges by bands, burning of incense, and the Confucian observance of offering a table loaded with choice food to the memory of the dead.

The actual purpose of this meeting of the main Nationalist leaders was not apparent, since all say nothing will be settled at the conferences in Peking. Yet T. V. Soong, Finance Minister, is joining the gathering and General Li Chai-sum is en route from Canton. Well-informed foreign circles believe that determination of Manchurian policy may be the main topic.

There is a growing feeling in Nationalist circles that Manchuria must be conquered by force, but since the Tsinan-fu affair great reluctance is felt against further embroilment with Japan and Tokio is outspoken in repeating her determination not to permit the ravages of civil warfare in zones of Manchuria where her interests are important. If Manchuria is invaded it will be by way of Jehol and not Shan Haikwan, which, Japan has warned, must not be attacked.

Nationalist leaders refute rumors that the gathering of leaders here means that Peking may remain the capital.

Report Military Phase Completed.

PEKING, July 6 (AP).—The four most powerful military leaders of the Nationalist movement in China today presented an accounting of their stewardship to Dr. Sun Yat-sen at the tomb of the founder of the Nationalist movement.

Nationalism's military "Big Four" united in devout homage before the remains of the dead leader, reporting to the spirit of the father of the Chinese revolution as he envisioned it, and pledging to him loyal cooperation to achieve the reconstruction of their country along the lines which he had pointed out.

At the last minute, just as day was breaking, the ranks of the four were dramatically completed by the arrival of Feng Yu-hsiang, long one of the most picturesque figures among China's military chieftains. He had traveled from his headquarters all night despite illness and appeared at the scene bearded, travel-stained and tired.

A simple, moving memorial service was held at the temple, fifteen miles northwest of Peking, where Sun Yat-sen's body has rested since he died in March, 1925.

Commanders Gaze on Body.

Shortly after 5 o'clock this morning the quartet, walking abreast, climbed to the white carved marble shrine, above which fluttered the Nationalist banners, and entered the

Berlin Jobless Scalp Seats For Straphangers in Subway

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 6.—Seat scalping in Berlin subways has now become a recognized profession among the city's permanently unemployed. The requirement for success in this vocation is ability to get seats during the rush hours and dispose of them to straphangers.

Often the scalpers travel in pairs and make money by aiding in uniting couples who otherwise would be kept more than talking distance apart during their journey.

The standard price for a seat is five pfennigs, or a cent and a quarter. To beat the inspectors the purveyors of subway comfort hold tickets in both directions. Since this requires an investment of ten pfennigs daily, only the élite of the jobless are able to enter the calling.

LUNDBORG RESCUED BY PLANE IN ARCTIC

Lieut. Shyberg, Also a Swedish Pilot, Takes the Savior of Nobile From Ice Floe.

DARING FLIGHT THROUGH FOG

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, July 6.—Lieutenant Einar-Paal Lundborg, the Swedish airman who rescued General Umberto Nobile, has finally been rescued from the ice floe himself. According to a Spitsbergen telegram to the Swedish Minister of Defense, Lundborg was brought today to the Swedish expedition's base ship, the Quest, at Hinlopen Strait. His rescuer was another Swedish flier, Lieutenant Shyberg, who flew a Moth plane.

The story of Lundborg's rescue is told in a series of graphic telegrams from Commander Tornborg, who is in charge of the Swedish expedition. Starting at midnight last night with the hydroairplane Upland and Shyberg's Moth plane, the expedition was able to drop food and other necessaries to the Lundborg party.

[Lieutenant Lundborg was marooned on the ice floe on June 23 when he damaged his plane in landing to take off one of the five men who were with General Nobile after he had rescued the commander of the wrecked dirigible Italia.]

Later the two planes made search flights along the coast of Northeast Land without finding any trace of the missing members of the Italia's crew or Captain Amundsen and his party of five.

Before taking Lundborg off, the Swedish aviators were careful to leave ample supplies, medicines and wireless accumulators for the five Italians who are still marooned on the ice. While landing later at Virgo Bay, the Upland's pontoons were slightly damaged, and they cannot be repaired for several days. The Moth plane, however, will continue its rescue activities.

Lundborg's Wife Rejoices.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ESKILSTUNA, Sweden, July 6.—Mrs. Einar-Paal Lundborg was overjoyed today when a telegram reached her at her parents' home in this little town near Stockholm. The message was from her husband at Virgo Bay, Spitsbergen, and told that he had been rescued from the ice floe and that all was well.

Mrs. Lundborg was frank to admit, however, that the lot of an airman's wife was not always a happy one.

AVIATRIX SILENT ON 'FIANCÉ'

But in Telling Plans Says She Will Continue in Aviation—Byrd Is Luncheon Host.

"Afraid? No, I wish I had been. I didn't think of it. I kept my fingers busy."

A tall, slender girl with a mass of close blond curls, cramped in the cabin keeping her fingers busy writing the log of the airplane Friendship. A log of fog and rain and night, of a sea that had reached skyward for many victims, and of gasoline running low. A wisp of a girl calmly jotting down her reactions.

A chap with a mop of tousled black hair, well shot with gray, at the stick of the roaring craft, and a rangy fellow with a recurring smile watching the engines, listening to the drum of the motors, minding the wireless. Thus, while those tapering fingers were being kept busy, twenty hours and forty minutes sped through June 17 and 18 as the airplane spanned the waste of water between Newfoundland and South Wales.

Came Home for Welcome.

Yesterday Amelia Earhart, first of her sex to fly the Atlantic, came home to receive with her companions of the adventure, Wilmer Stultz, pilot, and Louis Gordon, mechanic, a stirring welcome down the bay, at the City Hall and at a luncheon tendered by Commander Richard E. Byrd. And she gave evidence that her resemblance to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was marked in more ways than one. Shy to the point of timidity, she quickly displayed modesty like the Colonel, turning the acclaim to Stultz and to Gordon with the statement that to them should go the major share of credit.

Taken off the steamship President Roosevelt in the misty murkiness that dampened Quarantine, the fliers came up the bay on the municipal welcoming boat Macom to the tune of sirens and whistles, landing at Pier A. Bad weather and perhaps the frequency of receptions to transoceanic fliers had cut down the crowd somewhat, but about 5,000 were on hand to cheer.

Up Broadway in a parade of automobiles the fliers, with Miss Earhart, Stultz and Gordon riding on the folded top of the leading machine, heard the plaudits of the crowd lining the thoroughfare and then on the steps of the City Hall received an illuminated scroll and gold medals from Joseph V. McKee, Acting Mayor.

Girl Smiles Delightedly.

A delighted smile lighted the girl flier's piquant face as she heard the "true American welcome," and it remained there throughout the day. Only once did it change, and then only to shy embarrassment. This was when an interviewer, questioning her in her suite at the Biltmore, asked if it were true she were going to marry Samuel Chapman, a youthful electrical engineer from Marblehead, Mass. The embarrassment was transient. It was banished by a chuckle and the reply:

"Well, that's a personal matter."

A gracious, laughing refusal to be led away from aviation discussion into discussion of matrimony followed her answer. But a moment later some one asked whether any of the roses in the suite had come from Mr. Chapman, to whom she had been reported engaged. Another laugh and the reparte:

"I did find some roses here, but they weren't red roses!"

On any other topic Miss Earhart talked freely. She had Lindbergh's way of looking full at a questioner as she replied, and the Colonel's little shake of the head and slowly drawn out "well" pretzing a pause before answering. She said that she did not plan to abandon either her social service work at Dennison House in Boston or aviation.

"Aviation on Sundays and holidays," she explained, "and social service work the rest of the week—if I haven't been fired. I flew away on my vacation and I had only June, so I have overstayed my vacation."

Greets Friend From Liner.

As she sat in the Hotel room answering the questions she was the same self-possessed girl who had passed the log, but earlier, when the Macom had nosed along the black side of the President Roosevelt, Miss Earhart had thrilled to the fact that

Kerrigan Operated On for Appendicitis; Mayor's Aide Rests Easily in Hollywood

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—Stricken with acute appendicitis, Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to Mayor Walker and a member of the Mayor's vacation party here, was operated on at the Hollywood Hospital today at 10 A. M.

According to Dr. Silas A. Lewis, surgeon of the hospital staff, who performed the operation, Mr. Kerrigan is in no immediate danger and is resting easily at the hospital.

The operation came none too soon, Dr. Lewis said, and while Mr. Kerrigan will be confined to his bed for about ten days his recovery should be rapid unless unexpected complications arise. Mr. Kerrigan suffered a first attack last night at his room in the Roosevelt Hotel, Hollywood, and Dr. Lewis was summoned.

Following a consultation with Charles Hand, private secretary to Mayor Walker, and Dr. Walter P. Guy, hospital physician, Mr. Kerrigan was hurried to the hospital at 9 P. M. and preparations were immediately started for the operation.

Mayor Walker was out of the city today and was advised of the condition of his assistant on his return tonight.

Mr. Kerrigan's operation for acute appendicitis was made public at the City Hall yesterday afternoon by Miss Mary E. Lennan, his secretary. She had received a telephone message from a member of the Mayor's party saying that the patient's condition after the operation was very favorable and advising his friends that there was "nothing to worry about."

Ex-Gov. Miller Wins Acquittal for Butler; Society Folk Hear Trial for Killing Monkey

Special to The New York Times.

HICKSVILLE, L. I., July 6.—Before a court room crowded with society folk of Oyster Bay Township, former Governor Nathan L. Miller, serving as counsel for the defense, won the acquittal tonight of a butler who was charged with killing a monkey.

The former Governor, who has appeared as attorney in many notable lawsuits, made an eloquent plea for the butler, Felix Solomon, and the jury of six men brought in the verdict of "not guilty" after deliberating half an hour.

Solomon, employed at the Summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernet Reed of Denver at Brookville, killed the monkey on June 23 after it had escaped from the neighboring estate of N. J. Stone, New York real estate man. Solomon testified that when he saw the monkey at work creeping up on the two young children of Mr. and Mrs. Reed. The monkey was showing his teeth and the children were frightened. He got a shotgun and killed the monkey as it ran up a tree.

Mr. Reed and his superintendent, John Adams Walker, insisted the monkey was harmless and that the butler should have frightened the animal away instead of killing it.

Mr. Miller in asking for acquittal of the charge, which was cruelty to animals, said that the shooting of the monkey could not legally be classed as such. He held that monkeys were still classed as wild animals and that in the absence of any game law covering monkeys the butler had a right to kill it.

"This charge is ridiculous," he said. "It would be a fine country if property could be invaded by wild animals without any opportunity being provided to stop them."

she was home. The tall figure in blue was tense against the rail, and as she spotted a friend on the Macom's deck she cried a shrill greeting.

The Macom with the official welcomers on board left the Battery at 8 A. M. The steamship had arrived off Quarantine at midnight and had anchored there to be tossed and buffeted by rain and wind. Grover A. Whalen, as Chairman of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome, was in charge of the party on the municipal boat. Also aboard were delegations from Chicago and Williamsburg, Pa. Miss Earhart having gone to school in the Illinois city, and the Pennsylvania village having been the birthplace of Stultz.

Alderman Leonard J. Grossman was leader of the Chicago group, armed with a welcome and an invitation from Mayor William H. Thompson. Aldermen Frank Sloan and City Clerk Patrick Sheridan Smith were also in the Chicago party. In the group from Williamsburg were the pilot's mother, Mrs. Clara Stultz; Willis Shalley, Chairman of the Williamsburg Reception Committee, and William T. The fiancée of Gordon was another on the Macom. She is Miss Ann Bruce of 81 Francis Street, Brookline, Mass., and her engagement to Gordon was announced in May. Miss Bruce, a striking brunette, declined on the trip down the bay to commit herself on Chicago's invitation to hold the wedding in the Trianon, a Chicago ballroom. With the Brookline girl were a group of young friends from Boston. Miss Lillian Lowe, Lillian Davis, Marguerite Nolan and Arthur Linscott.

John S. Phipps, brother of Mrs. Frederick Guest of London, sponsor of the flight, his daughter, Peggy, and his son, Michael, also were on the Macom. Bradley Martin, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Guest, and Mr. and Mrs. David T. Layman, were in the Phipps party. Mr. Layman later was disclosed by Commander Byrd as the "dark horse" of the flight on this end. Mr. Layman, a banker, insisted that anything he did to further the flight be kept from publicity. Also on the Macom was Miss Ruth Nichols, aviator of Rye, N. Y., who is promoting aviation country clubs.

When the welcoming delegation came alongside the liner a brisk wind was whipping the waves and the skipper of the Macom had to exercise considerable skill before the gangway from the President Roosevelt could be brought to rest on the bestdeck of his craft.

Miss Earhart, trim in blue crêpe silk, with a cream-tiged blouse, further lightened by a collar of white chiffon, watched the manoeuvring from the promenade deck of the steamship. An aviation helmet of black-and-white feathers, with a diamond pin at one side, harmonized with her costume. On either side of her stood Stultz and Gordon, both hatless.

Band Plays "Home, Sweet Home."

The Fire Department Band played "Home, Sweet Home" as Mr. Whalen, Commander Byrd and Lieut. Commander Fitzhugh Green scrambled up the gangway stairs to the deck. A group of stewards carrying the fliers' baggage descended to the Macom, which was pitching and rolling in the swells. Mr. Whalen, the naval officers and the fliers, however, were forced to halt on the stairs on their way down. The Macom had taken a severe, heavy dip and the gangway had lifted from the deck. When it fell a second later Miss Earhart jumped lightly to the deck, the others followed and the Macom pushed off.

A bombardment of flashlights to which the cameramen resorted to overcome the bad light greeted the fliers. Suddenly Mrs. Wilmer Stultz, another who made the trip on the Macom, darted through the crowd and kissed her husband. It was a good hearty kiss and it was echoed a second later as Gordon found his fiancée.

There were no relatives of Miss Earhart there to meet her—that will be done Monday when she goes to Boston—but it was speedily apparent that she was the centre of interest. Arms full of American Beauty roses, the gift of Mr. Whalen and Mrs. Grossman, wife of the Chicago welcomer, she made her way to the forward cabin of the Macom.

Sinking into a chair, she surrendered to the interviewers. Stultz and Gordon were lost in the crowd, but George Palmer Putnam and his wife hunted them up and brought them to the cabin. The publisher, who was one of the principals in the flight of the Friendship, urged Stultz to participate in the interview, but the pilot smilingly retreated behind the roses which Miss Earhart had piled on a chair.

Bought Plane in London.

She disclosed that she had brought back an airplane, an Avron Avion, which she had purchased from Lady Heath in London. It was the same plane used by Lady Heath in her flight to South Africa. Miss Earhart was asked if she planned to continue in aviation.

"Yes, indeed," she replied, with a quick smile; "I am too deeply entangled in it and I intend to do what I can. I am a director in the Dennison Aircraft Corporation of Boston and I am interested in two other companies.

"I'd like to do what I can to promote interest in flying. I'd like to help in organizing light plane clubs. They have many of them over in England and women are keenly interested. The light planes are easier to handle, you see. The idea of aviation country clubs, as suggested by Miss Nichols, is particularly alluring. Women can't get instruction as easily as men can; they can't join the army and be paid while they learn."

Then, in response to a medley of questions, she said she had spent 500 hours in solo flight, virtually all of them in light planes. She broke in here to praise the ability of Stultz as a pilot. "He's wonderful," she remarked, and the bashful Stultz retreated further behind his barricade of flowers.

Won't Take Movie Offers.

Miss Earhart said she had received many offers as the result of her flight, but had not had time to consider them. She indicated she would not accept any movie contracts, but that she might write a book of her experiences. Had she been uneasy on the trip?

"Afraid? No, I didn't think of it. I kept my fingers busy writing a very verbose log. I wish that I had been afraid, thrown a fit or something, because I have been asked whether I was afraid so often. Of course, it was not a very comfortable feeling to have the gasoline low and not having seen any land. I guess the most uncomfortable feeling of all was when we saw the steamship America cutting across our course. We thought we had gotten off our course, but it developed in the end that we were heading for Wales, so it was all right."

Had she brought back much clothing? Miss Earhart's smile widened and she said:

"Oh dear, it's hard to tell. Let's see. There are three evening frocks, six sports suits, a half-dozen hats and a fur coat. I needed the coat in London. It was cold."

Yes, she had received several proposals of marriage, some by cable, and as she replied, she laughed heartily. The first attempt to unearth something about young Mr. Chapman was made and she gave the reply she later returned at the second interview. The matter was promptly dropped by the reporters and she was asked what she proposed doing with the log of the trip.

"Oh, I guess I'll leave it to my grandchildren," was the answer.

"Which trip did you enjoy most, the eastward or the westward one?"

"I did not see the Atlantic going east," she replied, "it was clouds chiefly—eighteen hours of them. But I did see much beauty when the sky cleared. A sunset was particularly gorgeous. Then the play of light on the clouds was stunning."

Stultz Tells His Story.

Stultz finally yielding to the interviewers said that the actual flying time of the Friendship had been 20 hours and 40 minutes. He said he had been at the controls for all but two hours of that time, when Gordon had the stick. He said he had navigated solely by magnetic compass. He added that the plane had averaged 113 miles an hour on the flight, but that from Newfoundland to mid-ocean the average speed had been 128 miles an hour. The average gasoline consumption had been thirty gallons to the hour.

While Stultz was giving the technical side of the flight the Macom came abreast of the Battery and fireboats began pumping streams into the air, rent by whistles and the Macom's siren. Landing at Pier A, the fliers were escorted to the waiting automobiles and driven up Broadway through flurries of ticker tape and torn telephone directories.

The fliers were greeted by Mr. McKee on the platform erected on the City Hall steps for the first voters' meeting held on the Fourth of July. About 3,000 persons who had braved the threatening weather stood in the plaza. The Acting Mayor, after expressing regret at the absence of Mayor Walker, said:

"In the absence of the Mayor, it becomes my happy privilege to receive you and I greet you, Miss Earhart, and you Pilot Stultz, and you, Mechanic Gordon, upon behalf of the people of the City of New York and I welcome you back to your native land."

After observing that New York has paid honor to "the great of aviation," he went on:

"Yes, all the people of all the world, followed with anxious hearts the progress of your heroic flight in the Friendship. We were thrilled beyond words and happy when the news flashed to America that you had come to a safe landing in Wales.

New Laurels for America.

"We knew then, and by your every action since, you have justified our belief that new laurels would come to America, that one of her daughters would wear with grace and dignity a new crown of aviation—the undying fame of being the first woman to span the Atlantic by plane.

"You have done that to the glory of American aviation. Never have three persons carried high honors with better grace.

"Here at the gateway of your home land we demonstrate our joy over your accomplishment and our happiness upon your safe return. Miss Earhart, you have added another achievement to a life already crowded with usefulness to humanity."

Mr. McKee concluded by paying tribute to Stultz and Gordon. He then presented to each of the fliers an illuminated scroll. The text of the one handed to Miss Earhart follows:

SCROLL OF WELCOME.

No nation of the world has, since its founding, held women in such high honor as has America. With peculiar pride and unstinted admiration therefore New York pays homage to you.

MISS AMELIA EARHART,

for your brave accomplishment and undaunted courage in being the first of your sex to fly in a heavier-than-air machine across the Atlantic Ocean from the shores of the Western Hemisphere to Wales.

In winning this prize of fame we realize how you have glorified the name of American womanhood and have won the indisputable right to take your place beside the American heroines whose names are writ large on the golden page of our country's history.

To the fame you had already won as a business woman, student of literature, philanthropic worker among the settlements of the poor, and as a poet, you have now added the crowning laurel as conqueress of the air.

Your bravery, your indomitable spirit, the feminine modesty which has characterized your victory will, we are sure, prove a burning inspiration to the womanhood of America.

This great City of New York esteems it a high privilege to be the first to greet you on your safe return from a perilous adventure, and as a permanent memento of our esteem and admiration, I, speaking in behalf of the millions of men and women whose Chief Executive I am, do now present you with this

SCROLL OF WELCOME.

May it testify always to you the instant recognition New York accords to the doers of brave deeds; and because the welcome comes to you with the united voices of all our people, it bears the official seal of our city and the signature of the Mayor of New York.

(Signed) JAMES J. WALKER,
Mayor of the City of New York.
(Attest) CHARLES HAND, Secretary to the Mayor.

Miss Earhart Responds.

Miss Earhart responded, stepping to the microphone as though it were an everyday matter.

"This is the most glorious reception I ever had," she said. "It is a privilege to come to New York City at any time, but this time seems more glorious than ever. The twenty hours and forty minutes we spent over the Atlantic were quite worth while. The most of the credit should go to Mr. Stultz for his wonderful piloting of the plane. Thank you."

This closed the ceremony at City Hall and the fliers motored to the Biltmore, where headquarters and rooms for them had been assigned on the seventeenth floor. After a rest they went to the Cascades on the hotel roof for the luncheon given by Commander Byrd. The famous airman was the only speaker, Miss Earhart merely voicing thanks for herself and companions.

Commander Byrd in his speech paid a tribute to Marcel Knecht, French journalist, who was one of the guests.

"It seems to me," he continued, "to be fitting to mention today the person who conceived and backed the flight of the Friendship and who was determined to go herself until her family prevented it. I refer to Mrs. Frederick Guest. I feel that we should not go through this luncheon without mentioning two gentlemen who are here today, two great explorers, Sir Hubert Wilkins and Lieutenant Eielson. Their flight is second to none in all history, both from a standpoint of aviation and exploration. It much surpassed our flight to the Pole.

"Then I think we should call attention to the man who had the responsibility of decision in connection with the flight and the work and trials and tribulations of his position. I noticed that he has placed himself at the end of the table when he should be up here with us, and that's George Palmer Putnam.

"There is a 'dark horse' in the flight—a man who first approached me as Mrs. Guest's representative in connection with the proposed flight. It was he who purchased the plane and acted as Mrs. Guest's representative in the preliminary organization. Because of his extraordinary modesty no one knows of his connection with this flight. This man is David T. Layman Jr. of New York."

Group Is Photographed.

After luncheon the fliers were photographed with Bernt Balchen, Sir Hubert, Lieutenant Eielson, Anthony Fokker and Giuseppe Bellanca and others of the seventy-five persons present. When the cameramen were through, Miss Earhart submitted to a second interview.

In this she discussed her work among Chinese and Syrian children in Boston, dodged the matrimonial issue, disclosed that she smoked "a little," rode horseback a great deal, played tennis a great deal more, liked poetry and was not—with marked emphasis—"a feminist."

The fliers attended a showing of pictures of their flight at the 9:30 show in the Paramount Theatre last night and then went to the Palace Theatre, where a benefit program for the American Olympic Fund was staged.

The Friendship's crew were greeted with cheers and applause at both theatres. At the Palace a capacity audience had gathered for the double purpose of seeing the fliers and aiding the Olympic team fund. Entertainment was furnished by stars of virtually all the principal theatrical productions in the city.

A silk American flag which Miss Earhart carried across the Atlantic on the Friendship was auctioned from the stage at the Palace by Charles Winninger of the "Show Boat" and bid in by him for $650. Miss Earhart and her companions, who were introduced to the audience by Eva LeGallienne, stood on the stage while the auction was in progress. At the close of the performances Miss Earhart went to her hotel.

The crew of the Friendship will be the guests of the Weman's City Club, 22 Park Avenue, at a luncheon today. They will see "Show Boat" at the Ziegfeld Theatre tonight as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld, and after the show Miss Earhart will be driven to the Putnam home in Rye. Tomorrow she and her companions will be entertained at the Westchester Biltmore.

AWAITS MISS EARHART.

Boston Plans Elaborate Program of Welcome to Flier.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., July 6.—When Amelia Earhart returns to Boston on Monday for the first time since her airplane trip to Europe she is to be feted, and Boston is apparently ready to go wild over her as it did over Lindbergh. Miss Earhart's friends have tried their best to arrange a homecoming in accordance with the young flier's modest wishes, but today they gave up their struggle against overwhelming odds and let the city fathers go their own way.

Miss Earhart is due at the East Boston airport on Monday at 11:30 A. M. and will be paraded over the Lindbergh route. This route was decided upon only after a heated argument between officials of aeronautical associations and city officials. The representatives of the girl flier insisted that she disliked crowds and parades. Spokesmen for the no-parade plan were Gardiner Fiske, Chairman of the Municipal Air Board, and Bernard Wieseman, secretary of the Boston Chapter of the National Aeronautical Association. It was finally agreed by the committee that Miss Earhart should take the longer route, as did Lindbergh on his first visit here. She will leave the East Boston airport at noon.

Most of the downtown section of the route will be roped off. In deference to the pleas of Mr. Wieseman and Mr. Fiske, the Welcome Committee agreed to cut to a minimum all ceremonies at the East Boston airport. Lieut. Gov. Allen, Mayor Nichols and Commander Richard E. Byrd, the latter representing the National Aeronautical Association, will speak briefly. Miss Earhart will then be escorted to airport headquarters, where she will meet her mother and sister.

FORM AIRWAYS COMPANY.

New Yorkers Incorporate Intercontinental Concern in Delaware.

DOVER, Del., July 6 (AP).—A charter of the Intercontinental Airways Corporation was filed at the State Department here today. Six hundred thousand shares of stock without par value will be issued.

The incorporators were Jay Hughes and William J. Brenner of New York City, and G. M. Hoffman of Brooklyn. The charter gives the concern the right to deal in aircraft of all descriptions.

FLIERS FORCED BACK IN RIO JANEIRO HOP

Italians, Lost for Three Hours, Return Toward Natal and Break Wheel in Landing.

TO GO ON IN ANOTHER PLANE

Washington Experts Figure Record at 4,448.82 Miles—Italy Rejoices Over Feat.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 6 (AP).—A well-earned rest was enjoyed today at Natal by Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlo P. Del-prete. They were brought there by a Brazilian mail plane from Touros, fifty miles north of Natal, where they finally landed after giving up their attempt to reach Rio de Janeiro on the second leg of their record-breaking flight from Rome.

The fliers were in the air 51 hours and 59 minutes and established a world non-stop record computed here at 4,417 miles. That feat was accomplished when they landed at Point Genipabu, ten miles north of Natal, at 7:50 o'clock last night. They rested there an hour and twenty minutes and then took off for this city but lost their course in a welter of mist and rain, finally coming down at Touros.

The airmen reckoned that they had been in the air a total of fifty-nine hours, excluding the brief rests at the two beaches north of Natal. They said that their average speed on the record-breaking part of their flight was 175 kilometers (108 2-3 miles) an hour.

Fliers Happy, But Very Tired.

Both men were in excellent spirits, but they showed the wearying effects of their long sustained effort and retired to their hotel, where even messages from the Italian Ambassador were kept from them until they had rested.

It was ascertained that the landing gear of the S-64 was damaged by the descent on the beach at Touros. One wheel was broken, but it can readily be replaced.

Pending these repairs the Italians are to continue their journey to Rio de Janeiro tomorrow in one of the postal planes of the Latecoere Company. They will be accompanied by a mechanic of that concern. This arrangement was made through the Italian Embassy, which overcame objections by the company officials in this city.

The plane is to stop at Pernambuco, Maceio, Bahia and Caravellas. It will remain at the last named city tomorrow night and proceed to Rio de Janeiro on Sunday, with a stop at Victoria intervening.

Enormous crowds gathered at the Campodos Alfonsos here last night, confidently expecting to see the big Italian plane nose down out of the darkness. Despite its disappointment, the populace is ready to turn out again to meet the two when they make their entry into the capital.

Turn Back to Seacoast.

After leaving Genipabu the Italians encountered mist and rain, which hid the whole Brazilian coast from Natal to Rio de Janeiro.

Ferrarin and Delprete sought vainly for an opening in the fog and clouds that would give them a hint as to their location. Finally, they decided to turn back to the seacoast, where they knew it was possible to make a landing and where the weather was a bit clearer.

The Italians made repeated efforts to locate the Latecoere mail airdrome at Natal. They had found it when they headed south from Point Genipabu, but when they were turned back by the thick weather the landmarks had been obliterated and the most powerful lights failed to penetrate the mists.

The aviators were lost for more than three hours, but it was long after their descent at Touros before word came through to relieve the anxiety of the watchers at Natal, Pernambuco and Rio de Janeiro.

Record Put at 4,448 Miles Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—On their Rome-Brazil flight Captain Ferrarin and Major Delprete set a new non-stop flight record of 4,448.82 statute miles, or 3,862 nautical miles, according to official naval computations made here today on the basis of press reports of their landing. The previous record, set by Clarence Chamberlin and Charles H. Levine on their flight last year from New York to Germany, was officially computed here at 3,911 miles.

The distance actually flown by the Italians was much greater than 4,449 miles, their route through the Straits of Gibraltar and by the Cape Verde Islands being computed at 5,024 statute miles, or 4,363 nautical miles.

Only the airline distance, however, is taken into account under the international rules for aviation records, according to the National Aeronautic Association.

Officials generally were loud in their praise of the flight, and pointed to it as an outstanding example of the steady advance in the radius of action and quality of the airplane.

Our Envoy Congratulates Italy.

ROME, July 6 (AP).—All Italy rejoiced today at the brilliant flight of the S-64.

The first congratulations extended to Premier Mussolini from a foreign source came from the American Ambassador, Henry P. Fletcher. The note was carried to Chigi Palace by the counselor of the embassy, Warren D. Robbins. In it the ambassador said:

"Once more I have the honor and sincere pleasure of offering Your Excellency my warmest congratulations on an outstanding and record-breaking achievement of Italian aviation. The splendid exploit of Captain Ferrarin and Major Delprete has added two glorious Italian names to the world's roll of honor and convincingly proved—though such proof is hardly necessary to those of us who know your country and the sterling qualities of the Italian people—the moral stamina, careful preparation and magnificent courage of your race.

"Italy has well won and well deserved her leading place in the art and science of flying, and I am happy to offer Your Excellency my modest tributa of respect and admiration."

Thanking the Ambassador for this and other expressions and for his thoughtfulness in offering congratulations so promptly, the Italian Premier said:

"The flattering appreciations Your Excellency has been pleased to express anent Italian aviation are all the more acceptable because they come from the representative of a country which has done so much and contributed so fully to the development of aerial methods and which has gained for science and humanity so many ardently desired and difficult conquests in this field."

The Giornale d'Italia, reviewing Italy's air exploits, says that the great feat could not have been achieved except at the price of sacrifices and that sadness over the losses, such as that of the dirigible Italia, is compensated for by the magnificence of the work accomplished.

Preparations are Praised.

The Osservatore Romano, Vatican organ, after praising the care and precautions taken in preparation for the flight and the absolute silence maintained regarding it up to the last minute, says that it is a precursor of commercial transport and a "messenger of the Faith for its more rapid diffusion in the world."

The Impero says:

"The movement of the coming generation is in the air, and the next war will be decided in the air. Fascist Italy, in this field of endeavor, is at the head of modern progress."

Signor Marcheeti, designer of the S-64, expressed extreme satisfaction with the work of the plane and paid a tribute to Captain Ferrarin and Major Delprete as "two insuperable champions of aeronautics."

A report from Captain Ferrarin and Major Delprete to the Ministry of Aeronautics was given out tonight. It said:

"Because of the worst possible conditions of visibility, with rain clouds lower than the hills, making it impossible for us to reach our goal, we went northward where we had experienced clear weather and could find a suitable landing field. We were thus able to land on the beach at Touros where the plane sank in the sandy shore, suffering some damage to the chassis."

Denies Genipabu Landing.

BUENOS AIRES, July 6 (AP).—The Italian Ambassador to Argentina told The Associated Press this evening that Captain Ferrarin and Major Delprete did not alight at Point Genipabu last night, as had been reported. He said they only skimmed the surface there, but did not actually touch ground.

The Ambassador added that the aviators had found it too dark to make a regular landing at Genipabu and that they decided, therefore, to continue their flight until they could discover a better place.

He said that exhaustion of their gas supply finally compelled them to come down at Touros.

PLAQUE GIVEN TO BYRD BY THE CITY OF ROUEN

Presented Here in Remembrance of Flier's Arrival a Year Ago on Normandy Soil.

A bronze plaque from the City of Rouen, France, was presented to Commander Richard E. Byrd yesterday in remembrance of his arrival at Ver-sur-Mer, on Norman soil, a little more than a year ago, after his non-stop flight from Long Island.

The presentation was made on behalf of the city and its Mayor, Dr. Alfred Cernay, by André Lafond, owner and publisher of Le Journal in Rouen, immediately following Commander Byrd's luncheon at the Hotel Biltmore to Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz, pilot of the Friendship, and Lou Gordon, mechanic.

In a brief presentation speech Mr. Lafond spoke of how the history of Normandy was closely connected with that of the United States and mentioned two names which he said will ever remain in the Norman heart, Cavelier de la Salle, who was the first to sail down the Mississippi River to its mouth, and Commander Byrd, the air pioneer who landed in Normandy.

Commander Byrd spoke in high appreciation of the reception tendered him by the people of Normandy after the flight across the Atlantic.

Mr. Lafond then invited him to unveil a monument in July, 1929, which is to be erected on the exact spot where the Commander landed on the shore of Ver-sur-Mer. Commander Byrd promised to attend the ceremony.

The plaque from Rouen bears on one side the arms of the city, with the city, bridge and harbor in the background, and Rouen and a Norman farm are depicted on the other side.

TOUR FLIERS REST IN TEXAS.

Pilots in Competition Will Go From Fort Worth to Waco Today.

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 6 (AP).—Pilots and passengers participating in the national air tour from Detroit to the West Coast and return rested here today. The caravan will continue to Waco and San Antonio tomorrow.

Twenty-two of the twenty-three planes that left Tulsa, Okla., yesterday morning covered the 240 miles to Fort Worth without incident. Pilot E. W. Cleveland was forced down about forty miles from here by engine trouble. He expected to complete the flight today.

Pilot John P. Wood leads in points scored thus far with a total of 4,903. Charles Meyers ranks second with 4,159 and Bruce Braun is third with 3,892.1. Point scoring is based on the load carried, skill displayed in landing and taking off, and general efficiency of pilots and planes.

2 Austrians Killed in Air Crash.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, July 6.—By a strange fate, two officers of the Austrian Army, which, under the terms of the peace treaties, cannot have an aviation service, met their death in an airplane crash at the Aspern flying field, near here, today.

The two men, Captain Zdiarski and Lieutenant Meinert, were making a practice flight in a private plane which crashed when the motor failed on a sharp bank.

SAYS OCEAN FLIGHTS AID INVENTIONS

TEN CREWS LOST SINCE 1873

Twenty-eight Were Successful, Including Recent Feats of Delprete and Miss Earhart.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Out of fifty-four getaways in transoceanic flights between 1873 and the present time, including the notable achievement of Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlo P. Delprete, Italian aviators, on their record-breaking non-stop trip for distance from Italy to Brazil, there have been twenty-eight air crossings of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, north and south, according to an official computation completed by Major Ernest L. Jones, Chief of the Air Information Division of the Aeronautic Branch of the Department of Commerce.

"There is no denying the spirit of youth and accomplishment," said Major Jones today. "Human competition has made whatever one may consider the worth of things that are today. Art, science and industry have ever taken their toll among those who ventured beyond the line of common practice, and it is but natural that the most magnificent problem ever set for man should pay even in proportion.

"Rather than discourage these feats, air opinion inclines to their encouragement, but safeguarded by the best equipment, adequate preparation and under the most experienced and competent pilotage.

Finds Invention Stimulated.

"The great transcontinental and transoceanic flights of the past years have stimulated inventive genius, encouraged skill and stirred increased study by all those agencies which are contributing so much to the bringing of flight within the use of all. Out of the fifty-four getaways between 1873 and May, 1928, there have been made twenty-eight successful air crossings of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, North and South. Other voyagers reached their scheduled destinations by their own means or were found and brought to other ports.

"Ten craft-crews have been lost in the course of these actual flights, beginning with the probable deaths of Romain and Mountayres in their attempt to cross the South Atlantic last year. Seventeen non-fatal voyages had preceded."

Major Jones has prepared an official tabulation of the attempted and successful balloon, airplane and airship transoceanic crossings, listing that of Ferrarin and Delprete as the fifty-fourth getaway and the twenty-eighth successful attempt. He pointed out today that Delprete made the South Atlantic crossing once before in February, 1927, with Commander de Pinedo, but with a stop on that trip.

Coastwise Flights Omitted.

Still other transoceanic flights have been projected and subsequently abandoned, Major Jones pointed out, and many great flights have also been made across other large bodies of water and in coastwise flying but these are not embraced in his official list. Major Jones's list, with definite distances, where given, calculated from point to point between the terminals mentioned, is as follows:

ATLANTIC FLIGHTS.

OCTOBER 7, 1873—First Attempt—William H. Donaldson, Richard Reed and George A. Lunt of The Daily Graphic in the balloon Graphic from Brooklyn, N. Y., landed at New Canaan, Conn., in an attempt to reach Europe.

OCTOBER 15, 1910—First Airship Attempt—Walter Wellman and crew from Atlantic City, N. J., abandoned the airship America some 800 miles out and party rescued by a steamship in response to distress signals.

MAY 16, 1911—First Airplane Attempt—Harry C. Hawker and McKinzie Grieve (Sopwith-Rolls 375 land biplane), from St. Johns, N. F., in competition for The London Daily Mail $50,000 prize for first crossing. Engine trouble after about 1,500 miles and descent in ocean alongside steamship after 14½ hours of flying. Captains P. W. Raynham and C. W. Morgan (Martynside-Rolls 225) attempted the trip an hour later but broke an axle in taxiing.

MAY 8-31, 1919—First Crossing—Three Navy NC flying boats (4 Liberty 400) from Trepassy Bay; NC-1 alighted in sea 256 miles from Azores and was located by destroyer on the seventeenth. NC-3 alighted in water 140 miles from Azores but reached land under own power. NC-4, with Lieut. Commander A. C. Read and five others, continued trip to Lisbon, Portugal, with two stops at Azores. From Lisbon they flew to Plymouth, England, with one intermediate stop. Distance Trepassy-Azores-Lisbon, 2,437 miles. Whole flight 4,761 miles.

JUNE 14, 1919—First non-stop crossing. Captain John Alcock and Lieutenant Arthur W. Brown, an American, from St. Johns, N. F., in Vickers-Vimy (Vickers-2 Rolls 375 land biplane), 1,890 miles in 16 hours 12 minutes.

JULY 4, 1919—Rear Admiral Kerr, Major T. Gras and Major Brackley (Handley-Paige 4 Rolls 350 land biplane) damaged their craft in a start from Harbor Grace, N. F.

JULY 26, 1919—First airship crossing. First round trip. British airship R-34, commanded by Major G. H. Scott (4 Sunbeam, 250 horsepower engines), landed at Mineola, N. Y., after non-stop flight from East Fortune, Scotland, 3,270 miles in 108:12:00. Lieutenant Commander Zachary Lansdowne, U. S. N., was on board on the westward trip. The crew of personnel included ten officers, seventeen of crew and two radio operators. Colonel William M. Hensley, Army Air Corps, replaced Lansdowne on the 75-hour trip to Fulham, England, July 9-12.

MARCH 30-APRIL 18, 1922—First South Atlantic crossing. Captain Sacadura Cabral and Admiral Gago Coutinho (Fairey-Rolls 375 biplane seaplane) from Lisbon to St. Paul's Rock, 3,000 miles, in South Atlantic, with stops at Las Palmas (Canary Islands), St. Vincent (Cape Verde Islands), and Porto Praya. Machine damaged. Balance of flight to Fernando Noronha and Pernambuco, Brazil, and thence with three stops to Rio de Janeiro completed subsequently. From Lisbon by route Pernambuco, 3,750 miles.

AUG. 21-SEPT. 1924—First Westbound Airplane Crossing—An army corps "Round world fliers." Lieutenant Lowell Smith with Leslie P. Arnold, Lieutenant Eric K. Nelson with John Douglas (Douglas-Liberty 400 seaplanes) crossed from Reykjavik, Iceland, to Icy Tickle, Labrador, with stops at Frederiksdal and Ivigtut, 1,320 miles. Lieutenants Ledell Wade and Ogden had alighted in the ocean on the way to the start and were later rescued.

AUG. 21, 1924—Signor Locatelli, Italian pilot attempting world flight from Rome, took off from Reykjavik for Frederiksdal, Greenland (Dornier Wal-2 Rolls flying boat) in company with United States Army "world fliers." Locatelli with his aide and two mechanics, alighted on ocean through engine trouble. They were rescued three days later.

OCT. 12-15, 1924—German Airship ZR-3 (Los Angeles) (6 Maybach 400 HP) crossed the Atlantic from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., via the Azores and Newfoundland, 4,049 miles airline in 81:17:00. In addition to the Commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener, officers and men, there were on board as fellowing Americans: Commander Klein, U. S. N.; Lieutenant Commander Kraus, U. S. N.; Major F. M. Kennedy, U. S. A., and Captain Crissy, U. S. N. Total personnel was thirty-two.

JANUARY 22-31, 1926.—Major Ramon Franco, Captain Ruiz de Alda, Pilot Duran, Mechanic Rada (Dornier Wal-2 Napier 450 seaplane) from Palos de Moguer, Spain, to Pernambuco, Brazil, 5,610 miles, with stops at Canary Islands, Bay de Gracia, Porto Praya, Ribera de Interne and Fernando de Noronha (Cruzan left party). From Pernambuco they continued to Rio de Janeiro, Montevideo, Buenos Aires.

AUGUST 12, 1926.—Jose Ribeiro de Barros, with Captain Newton Braga and Lieutenant Joao Negrao and Vasco Cinquini (C. R. Savio-2 Isota 550 HP monoplane) flying boat) from Gibraltar, Spain, to Natal, Brazil with stops at Las Palmas, Cape Verde Island and Fernando de Noronha, 4,349 miles, in course of flight from Santo Calende, Italy, to Sao Paulo. Flight included stops at Alexandria, Gibraltar, Las Palmas, Cape Verde, Fernando de Maronha, Natal, Recize, Bahia, Rio de Janiero and Santos; arrived in Rio de Janiero July 27, 1927.

SEPT. 21, 1926—Captain Rene Fonck and party (Sikorsky-3 Rhone land biplane) crashed in take-off at Garden City, L. I., in proposed transoceanic flight. Two mechanics fatally burned.

FEB. 19-24, 1927—Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Captain del Prete and Mechanic Zacchetti (Savoia 2, Isotta 500 monoplane seaplane) from Dakar, Senegal, to Fort Natal, Brazil, 2,290 miles, with stops at Porto Praya, Cape Verde Islands, and Fernando Noronha. Continuing to Rio de Janeiro and the United States in course of tour which started from Italy.

MARCH 2, 1927—Major Pedro Larre-Borges, his brother, Captain Thorn and Mechanic Rigoli (Dernier-3 Farman 500) left Casa Blanca for South Atlantic flight but turned back because of ice.

MARCH 16-17, 1927—Lieut.-Colonel Sarmento de Beres and two companions (Dornier Wal-3 Lorraine 450 monoplane seaplane) from Bolama, Portuguese-Guiana, to Fernando de Noronha, Brazil, 1,560 miles in 17:30:00. After refueling, flight was continued same day to Natal, Brazil, 1,350 miles in all, and thence to Pernambuco.

MAY 5, 1927—Captain St. Roman and Commander Montsayre (Farman-3 Lorraine 450 land biplanes) lost between St. Louis, Senegal, and Fernambuco on a flight from France to Buenos Aires.

MAY 8, 1927—Captains Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli (Lavasseur-Lorraine 450 land biplane) from Paris for New York. No report.

MAY 20-21, 1927. First non-stop airplane crossing to France, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh (Ryan-Wright 200 land monoplane) from New York to Paris, 3,620 miles in 33:29:30.

MAY 23, 1927—Commander Francesco de Pinedo and pilot (Savoia-3 Isotta 500 monoplane seaplane) from Trepassey, N. F. After twelve hours of flight was accomplished, he alighted in the water about 100 miles from the Azores, 1,350 miles from start, and was towed to the Azores. On June 12 he arrived at Lisbon, Portugal, after stop at St. Michaels, 2,420 miles in all.

JUNE 4-5, 1927.—First non-stop airplane crossing to Germany. Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine (Bellanca-Wright 200 land monoplane), New York to Eisleben, Germany, 3,930 miles, in about 42:00:00. Later they continued to Berlin with one intermediate stop.

JUNE 29-JULY 1, 1927. Commander R. E. Byrd, Bert Acosta, George O. Noville and Bernt Balchen (Fokker-3 Wright 200 land monoplane), New York to Ver-sur-Mer, France, 3,490 miles, where landing was made in sea. Elapsed time 40 hours.

SEPT. 6, 1927. Lloyd Bertaud, James de Witt Hill and Phillip Payne (Fokker-Bristol 450 land monoplane), from Old Orchard, Maine, on the way to Rome. Early the following day an SOS was picked up from the plane. Some weeks later wreckage was found at sea.

SEPT. 7, 1927—Captain Terry Tully and Lieutenant James V. Metcalf (Stinson-Wright 200 land monoplane), took off from Harbor Grace, N. F., for London. No report.

SEPT. 16, 1927—Captain R. H. McIntosh and Major James Fitzmaurice (Fokker-Bristol 500 land monoplane), from Baldonsel, Ireland, for New York. After six hours of bad weather the plane alighted again in Ireland.

OCT. 11-12, 1927—George Haldeman and Ruth Elder (Stinson-Wright 200 land monoplane), in a flight from New York alighted in the sea alongside a vessel 360 miles from the Azores where the aviators were landed. Distance covered about 2,020 miles.

OCT. 13-14, 1927—Frederick Loose, Karl Loewe, Ralph Starks and Lilla Dillens (Junkers three-engine monoplane-seaplane), from Lisbon for New York. After alighting in the water because of engine trouble, they flew on to Horta in the Azores, 1,050 miles, arriving on the seventeenth. Balance of flight canceled.

OCT. 14, 1927—First non-stop South Atlantic flight. Captain Dieudonne Costes and Lieut. Commander Joseph Lebrix (Breguet-Hispano 500 land biplane), from St. Louis, Senegal, Africa, to Natal, Brazil, 1,980 miles in 19:20:00 in the course of a world tour covering some 35,800 miles, from Oct. 10, 1927, to April 1, 1928.

OCT. 13, 1927—Horst Metz, Wilhelm Bock and Fritz Rhode (Heinkel-500 Packard monoplane seaplane), from Lisbon for United States, via Azores. Forced to return after short distance because of oil leak.

DEC. 29, 1927—Mrs. Frances Grayson, Oskar Omlstad, Brice Goldsborough and Fred Koehler (Sikorski-2 Wright 200 amphibian monoplane), from Garden City, N. Y., for Harbor Grace, N. F., on transatlantic attempt; lost at sea.

MARCH 13, 1928—Mrs. C. S. Hinchliffe and the Hon. Elsie Mackay (Stinson-Wright 200 land monoplane), from Cranwell, England. Last reported about 170 miles off west coast of Ireland.

APRIL 12-13, 1928—First non-stop westbound North Atlantic airplane crossing—Baron von Huenefeld, Captain Hermann Koehl and Major James Fitzmaurice (Junkers-Junkers 310 metal land monoplane), from Baldonsel, Ireland, to Greenly Island, N. F., 2,070 miles, in 37 hours, in an attempted flight to New York.

JUNE 17-18,

ARMY BALLOON WON BENNETT AIR RACE

Piloted by Captain Kepner, It Covered 460.9 Miles From Detroit to Kendridge, Va.

GERMAN WAS CLOSE SECOND

French Entry Was Third—Distances Scaled by Geological Survey for Aeronautic Association.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Army balloon piloted by Captain W. E. Kepner, aided by William E. Eareckson, was today declared by the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association the winner of the Gordon Bennett balloon race in which the participants took off from the Ford airport at Detroit on June 30.

The distances of the twelve balloons that finished the race were officially scaled by the Geological Survey from information as to the point of landing furnished in the log of flight by each contestant.

The survey's computation credited Captain Kepner's balloon with covering a distance of 460.9 miles, winning by a fraction of a mile over the German balloon Barmen, piloted by Hugo Kaulen Sr., which was declared second in the race, and by thirteen miles over the French balloon Blanchard, piloted by Charles Dollfus, which was accorded third place.

The race was so close that it was impossible to determine the winner until the Geological Survey officially scaled the distances.

Standing of Contestants.

The standing of the contestants who finished was announced by the Aeronautic Association's Contest Committee late this afternoon as follows:

1—ARMY BALLOON—Representing United States; pilot, Captain W. E. Kepner; aide, William O. Eareckson; landing place, three miles southeast of Kendridge, Lunenburg County, Va.; distance, 460.9 miles.

2—BARMEN—Representing Germany; pilot, Hugo Kaulen Sr.; aide, Hugo Kaulen Jr.; landing place, three miles south of Chase City, Mecklenburg County, Va.; distance, 459.4 miles.

3—BLANCHARD I—Representing France; pilot, Charles Dollfus; aide, Georges Cornilert; landing place, four miles northeast of Walnut Cove, N. C., on bank of the Dan River; distance, 447.9 miles.

4—LAFAYETTE—Representing France; pilot, Georges Blanchet; aide, Dr. G. A. Legalee; landing place, 1½ miles south of Fife, one mile northeast of Bula, Goochland County, Va.; distance 416 miles.

5—DENMARK—representing Denmark; pilot, S. A. U. Rasmussen; aide, T. W. Southworth; landing place, 2 miles northeast of Roanoke, Roanoke County, Va.; distance, 388 miles.

6—MUNSTER, representing Germany; pilot, E. Ehnermacher; aide, Carl Zech; landing place, Big Island, Bedford County, Va.; distance, 387 miles.

7—AMERICAN BUSINESS CLUB, representing United States; pilot, C. A. Palmer; aide, Lieutenant R. H. McKee; landing place, 2 miles south of Lipscombe, Augusta County, Va.; distance 340 miles.

8—ARGENTINE, representing Argentina; pilot, Edward Bradley; aide, H. H. Elliff; landing place, between Millboro and Millboro Springs, Bath County, Va.; distance, 339 miles.

9—DETROIT, representing United States; pilot, W. C. Naylor; aide, Russell Wherritt; landing place, 3 miles northeast of Marlington, Pocahontas County, W. Va.; distance, 325 miles.

10—WALLONIE, representing Belgium; pilot, Lieutenant Joseph Thonnard; aide, Maurice Boel; landing place, Beverly, Randolph County, W. Va.; distance, 297 miles.

12—HELVETIA, representing Switzerland; pilot, E. Maag; landing place, 3 miles south of Worthington, W. Va.; distance, 251 miles.

The distances for all were scaled and for the balloons U. S. Army, Barmen and Blanchard were also computed.

WILKINS AND EIELSON BUSY.

Arctic Fliers Wind Up Affairs in City Before Starting Air Tour.

Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins and Lieutenant C. B. Eielson maintained a fast pace yesterday to settle their affairs in and around New York preparatory to their air tour of the country. They attended the luncheon at the Biltmore given by Commander Byrd in honor of Miss Amelia Earhart and her shipmates aboard the Friendship.

Sir Hubert devoted the afternoon to business affairs and arrangements for his national tour, while Lieutenant Eielson went to Curtiss Field, L. I., to see George King, his partner in the Alaskan Airways Company. Eielson plans to return to Alaska with King after his tour with Wilkins. The partners are preparing to submit a bid for the contract to carry the mails in Alaska this Winter.

Sir Hubert and Lieutenant Eielson will go to Atlantic City today for a brief outing before starting westward.

The plane in which they flew from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitsbergen is at Miller Field, S. I., where engineers from the Wright company have been checking over the Whirlwind engine. Wheels will be substituted for the skids in the next three days. The Arctic fliers expect to get away the first half of next week.

Second $100,000 of Blackmer Bonds Seized; Counsel Declare Oil Witness Will Not Appear

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Seizure of another $100,000 worth of property of Harry M. Blackmer, missing witness in the naval oil lease cases, was ordered today in the criminal division of the District of Columbia Supreme Court by Justice Jennings Bailey.

This property, consisting of bonds, will be impounded with the other $100,000 worth in a Washington bank under the joint custody of the bank and Edgar C. Snyder, United States marshal until Oct. 15, when Mr. Blackmer is required to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt. If he does not appear both lots of bonds will be covered into the Treasury.

There are now two contempt proceedings pending against Mr. Blackmer, who is in Paris and has refused to return to this country. He was summoned to testify at the first trial of Harry F. Sinclair and refused to appear. The Court then ordered the seizure of the first $100,000 worth of bonds under the Walsh bill which was passed by Congress especially to reach him and another missing witness, James E. O'Neil. The first trial of the Sinclair-Fall conspiracy case resulted in a mistrial and Blackmer was summoned to appear at the second trial.

He refused to appear and the action by Justice Bailey started the second contempt proceeding. It is considered probable that the two lots of bonds will be tied up in litigation for some time, as counsel for Blackmer have declared that it is not their intention to give them up without a hard fight. Nor is it the intention of counsel, it is stated, to produce Blackmer for the hearing on the contempt cases, his lawyers having announced that Blackmer intends to remain abroad.

BREMEN FLIERS FETED ON VISIT TO EX-KAISER

Former Ruler Gives a Banquet to the Trio Which Will Separate Today.

DOORN, Holland, July 6 (AP).—The "Three Musketeers of the Air," Koehl, Fitzmaurice and von Huenefeld, tonight were winding up the close association which began at Baldonnel Field, Ireland, when they manned the Junker plane Bremen for the first east-west flight across the Atlantic. They are guests at Doorn Castle of William Hohenzollern and tomorrow will separate, Major Fitzmaurice returning to Ireland and Captain Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld going to Germany.

They flew from Dublin today, landing at the Soesterberg airdrome, near Utrecht. Thence they were brought by an "Imperial" motor car belonging to the former ruler of Germany to this village, where they rode through flag-bedecked streets in which the colors of Germany, Ireland and Holland were intertwined.

The whole village was en fete and the reception and entertainment of the trio was as near royal as circumstances permitted. School children lined the way, backed by villagers of high and low degree, and they were escorted by Prince Ferdinand, son of Princess Hermine, wife of the former Emperor, and Major von Levetzow, First Adjutant of the former Emperor.

There was a state banquet attended by twenty-five selected guests. At this function their host recalled that when he was reigning over all Germany he took the greatest interest in the development of German technology and never missed an opportunity to further it.

The scenes of their arrival were repeated when they drove to Amerongen for tea. There they were the guests of Captain von Islemann, Second Adjutant to the former Emperor. The school children were out again in force and their elders once more abandoned their daily tasks to cheer the fliers.

FLIERS HAVE NEW KANGAROO

Lyon Reveals Birth of Third One as Liner Reaches Honolulu.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONOLULU, July 6.—Instead of having only two kangaroos to dispose of when they reach the United States, Harry W. Lyon and James Warner, American members of the crew of the transpacific plane Southern Cross, have three, it was revealed on their arrival here today from Sydney.

"How are the Kangaroos?" newspaper men shouted from the launch on which they went out to meet the fliers on the liner Sonoma. Lyon, standing at the rail of the vessel, replied, "We've got three now. Another was born at sea a week ago."

The accuracy of this statement, however, was disputed by the ship steward who had charge of the animals all way cross from the antipodes.

The baby came along just before we left Sydney, he said.

The airmen expect to present one of the kangaroos to Captain Allan Hancock, the Southern Cross flight's backer and the other to President Coolidge. The prospective owner of the third is still to be chosen.

ROSENDAHL GOING ABROAD.

Los Angeles Commander Plans to Fly Back on German Dirigible.

LAKEHURST, N. J., July 6.—Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, commander of the dirigible Los Angeles, left here today for an inspection tour of European air fields. He will sail from New York tomorrow morning on the United States liner Republic to visit England and Germany.

The latest foreign improvements in aeronautics will be studied by Commander Rosendahl. He plans to return on the proposed trans-oceanic flight of the new German dirigible LZ-127, now under construction at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

The command of the Los Angeles was assumed at noon today by Lieutenant Commander Herbert V. Wiley.

BYRD ORDERS POLAR SHOES.

Contracts for Thirty Pairs for His Antarctic Expedition.

YARMOUTH, Me., July 6 (AP).—Commander Richard E. Byrd placed an order with a shoe company here today for thirty pairs of shoes of extraordinary design for use in his proposed trip to the South Pole. The shoes are of such tremendous size that the hides of thirty head of young cattle will be required to make the uppers alone.

The Byrd shoes will have felt insoles and a stuffing of Arctic grass and will be large enough to be worn over five pairs of the heaviest wool socks.

German Fliers Pass 44-Hour Mark.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 6.—Pilots Johann Risticz and Hans Zimmerman completed forty-four hours' flying in their attempt to set a new world's endurance record by midnight tonight. They had good weather until this afternoon, when a heavy rainstorm struck the Dessau district.

The fliers then circled about Leipzig until the storm broke there. After the storm they returned to the Leipzig-Dessau route. The main question now seems to be whether the gasoline supply will hold out for more than sixty hours.

GLOBE CIRCLERS REACH BERLIN AND FLY EAST

Mears and Collyer Delayed Two Hours by Forced Landing Caused by Mist.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 6.—The American fliers, John H. Mears and Charles Collyer, arrived in Berlin from Paris this morning and continued toward Moscow this afternoon in their effort to set a new around-the-world record. On account of poor visibility they lost their way after leaving Cologne and landed near Landsberg. After getting their directions they again took the air and arrived in Berlin two hours behind their schedule.

BERLIN, July 6 (AP).—John H. Mears and Charles G. D. Collyer hopped off from Berlin for Moscow at 1:35 P. M.

Mr. Collyer's first question was regarding the weather conditions on the route to Moscow, their next stop. When he was informed that with today's strong following wind he might make Moscow by night if he flew direct, he gave orders for an immediate refueling of the plane.

"We had a beautiful flight out of Cologne until we reached a chain of lakes south of Berlin," Mr. Mears said. "There the weather was very misty and we lost our way. We were carried east. Finally we decided to land and get our bearings. We came down on an ordinary field at 5:15.

"The farmers did not grasp what we wanted as we could not speak their language, but upon a man on a bicycle came by who told us we were at Landsberg. After that it was easy to resume our way to Berlin."

NICARAGUA HAS BIG SURPLUS

Excess of $1,000,000, Largest Yet, Will Be Used for Improvements.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 6.—Nicaragua's surplus revenues for the first six months of 1928 will be almost $1,000,000, the largest in Nicaraguan history, according to preliminary figures given out by Irving A. Lindberg, Nicaragua's High Commissioner and Collector General of Customs.

Despite revolutionary hardships of 1926 and 1927, Nicaraguan finances are in very good condition, according to Mr. Lindberg, and have exceeded by far the expectations of financial experts. The surplus will be used for the Nicaraguan National Guard under General E. R. Beadle, the expenses of the American electoral commission headed by General Frank R. McCoy, paving Managua streets and sanitary work throughout the republic, declared Mr. Lindberg.

Nicaragua redeemed today $150,000 of 5 per cent. guaranteed customs bonds at the semi-annual drawing held by Commissioner Lindberg. The drawing was more than four times larger than the usual drawing, due to the increased customs revenues.

President Diaz expressed himself as highly elated over Nicaragua's showing, stating that all that was necessary was peace and order for Nicaragua to go ahead.

Some business men believe Nicaragua's continued good financial condition is due to the presence of United States marines, whose large expenditures help business.

CALLES IS EXPECTED TO REVIEW REGIME

Statement on His Foreign and Domestic Policies Predicted When He Lays Down Reins.

TO STRESS ISSUES WITH US

President Will Emphasize Improvement in Relations, Mexico City Paper Forecasts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 6.—Prior to handing over the executive power to General Alvaro Obregon, who was elected on Sunday, President Calles will have an opportunity—and, according to well-informed circles, will take full advantage of it—in his last message to Congress not only to tell of the policies he has pursued during his Presidential term, but also to present to the world the official Mexican view of the international situation, so far as it affects his country.

Plutarco Elias Calles has not been communicative with the press. Indeed, except for Luis Montes de Oca, his Minister of Finance, all his cabinet have been signally silent regarding the work of their respective departments. But the transfer of Presidential power on Sept. 1 is evidently going to mark a departure from this practice, for it is reported that the Minister of the Interior, acting on Señor Calles's instructions, has issued orders to the other Departments of State to proceed without delay to prepare their portions of the Presidential message to Congress.

Discussing this prospective executive report, the Excelsior expresses the view that the Calles message will be of very great importance both politically and historically. The paper states that Señor Calles will give an ample and interesting exposition of Mexican relations with the outside world and especially with the United States. He will discuss in detail Mexican-American problems as they existed when he took over power four years ago, their development during his term of office, how they were solved so as to safeguard national dignity and Mexican sovereignty and, finally, how they reached that basis of satisfactory understanding which today exists between the two republics.

Church Dispute Prediction.

Through the report of the Ministry of the Interior, the Excelsior goes on to say, the President will doubtless inform the outside world of his views regarding the dispute with the Catholic Church, which culminated in withdrawal of all priests from the churches and the ending of services by them nearly two years ago. This point will be highly interesting in view of the constant rumors published lately that the dispute was on the point of settlement.

Some observers who are usually reliably informed hold the view that President Calles will state that the Mexican Government has no quarrel with the Church and that the whole issue depends on the clergy conforming to the law.

The Excelsior also takes the view that the President will pay particular attention to Mexico's financial and economic situation as regards her foreign obligations.

Many in the American circle here do not hesitate to state that the Coolidge Administration considers the the Mexican situation, as a result of the work of President Calles and Ambassador Morrow and also the management of Señor Montes de Oca, to be the most satisfactory in years, although payments on the foreign debt have been temporarily suspended.

See Confidence Inspired.

Renewal of the latter payments depends on a number of inseparable factors in the two republics, it is declared, but, as one of the best informed American students of the situation has stated, Mexico has laid the basis for inestimable improvement by keeping up to date in paying her current bills and by paying all Federal salaries, including those of members of the army and navy, when they are due.

The bare announcement such as was made recently by the Minister of Finance that for the first four months of the current year there was a surplus of 5,000,000 pesos ($2,500,000) is of less importance than the fact that Mexico is undoubtedly operating on such a financial basis as to inspire many holders of her bonds with a belief that some degree of national stability is being established, the paper says. That development, it adds, should be enhanced by the fact that the transfer of the Presidential power is unlikely to be marred by the almost customary bloodshed when one President succeeds another in Mexico.

Calles and Obregon are very close friends despite politically inspired reports to the contrary. They hold similar views regarding the main planks in Mexico's internal and external policy and, therefore, whether the pending problems, either political or financial, are adjusted with Calles or the incoming President will probably make little difference to the United States State Department, says the Excelsior.

As regards the International Committee of Bankers and Mexico, it concludes, perhaps the greatest assistance in reaching a new agreement for payment of the foreign debt would be resumption of the special and general claims commissions. Some settlement of their labors would at any rate assist in defining what Mexico does really owe, this point being considered in local circles as the main obstacle in establishing what the Calles or Obregon Administration should be called on to pay following a careful study of her capacity to pay. It is thought that the early future will see both claims commissions functioning under the presidency of newly appointed neutral chairmen and that the first meetings will be held in Mexico City.

MAP JERSEY TRANSIT ROUTE.

Commissioners Plan Service for Irvington and Elizabeth First.

Special to The New York Times.

IRVINGTON, N. J., July 6.—Irvington and Elizabeth will be the first communities served by extensions of the Newark-Paterson-Hackensack rapid transit line planned by the North Jersey Transit Commission, Glenn S. Reeves, acting chief engineer of the commission, told the Irvington City Club here tonight. The meeting was in the Postoffice Building.

Limited funds appropriated by the Legislature this year for continuing the investigations necessary for planning a rapid transit system in North Jersey have temporarily halted the studies for the extensions, Mr. Reeves declared. But the Commissioners and their staff are developing the main lines of the route to Paterson, Passaic and Hackensack, he said, so that a definite construction plan may be presented at the legislative session next January.

The rapid transit line now planned includes a subway under Broad Street and Clinton Avenue in Newark, with an initial southern terminus in the vicinity of Clinton and Elizabeth Avenues. The extension to Irvington likely will follow Clinton or Springfield Avenue, terminating at Irvington Centre, from where it is planned to extend it later to Summit, Mr. Reeves said.

GIVE MEDAL TO DOUMERGUE.

St. Louis Air Board Presents Duplicate of Lindbergh Award.

PARIS, July 6 (AP).—President Doumergue received the St. Louis Air Board delegation at Elysee Palace today. Thomas M. Pierce and Walter B. Weisenburger presented to the French President a silver medal like that given to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh by the City of St. Louis after his transatlantic flight.

M. Doumergue, in expressing thanks for the gift, said:

"It was exceedingly kind of you to come all the way from St. Louis to present this medal to me. I shall never forget the visit of one St. Louisan, who came to see me in his flying clothes after his triumphant flight across the Atlantic. That was one of the most memorable visits I ever received."

Hindenburg Receives Speyer.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 6.—James Speyer, the New York banker, was received by President von Hindenburg at the Presidential palace this afternoon. He was introduced by Ambassador Schurman. Mr. Speyer said he was greatly impressed by the masterful personality of the President, whom he found looking in the best of health. Mr. Speyer came to Berlin for the opening of the Berlin office of the Speyer firm, which has had headquarters for the past 100 years in Frankfort-on-Main. He is going to Carlsbad for a rest before returning to America.

TEST DOOR TO SOLVE LOEWENSTEIN'S CASE

that perhaps at a moment when the plane lurched and was not flying on an even keel he had opened the latch of the outside door and lurched heavily against it. In such circumstances some airmen at Le Bourget today acknowledged that it would be possible for an accident of this kind to happen and for the door to blow closed again instantly afterwards.

Today the Henry Schroeder Banking Corporation, which has taken charge of the direction of the Loewenstein interests, indicated that these were in a perfectly sound position. Some companies which he controlled, such as Tubize Artificial Silk, made a slight recovery on the Bourse today and there was a slight general improvement.

Pilot Decides Search Is Hopeless.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 6.—A tugboat which left Dover to search the English Channel for the body of Alfred Loewenstein returned tonight. Mr. Drew, who was pilot of the airplane from which the financier fell, conducted the search.

The tug visited all likely spots and finally gave up the search as hopeless at 5 P. M.

An extraordinary rumor, which seems to have originated in France, that Captain Loewenstein was still alive reached the London Stock Exchange this afternoon. Among the theories advanced were one that the financier never left Croydon in the airplane, although photographs pretending to show him entering the machine were published in London this morning, and another that he disappeared in a motor car when the plane landed at Dunkirk.

These rumors receive no credence here. It is pointed out that for months after the sinking of the Hampshire people refused to believe that Lord Kitchener was dead. The rumor still persist that General Hector MacDonald never shot himself in Paris, but is living in retirement, and several persons who lost their lives in attempts to fly the Atlantic are believed by many to be still alive.

May Delay Estate's Liquidation.

BRUSSELS, July 6 (AP).—In the absence of actual witnesses of the disappearance of Captain Lowenstein and in the event that his body is not found, liquidation of the Lowenstein estate may be adjourned for four years under the Belgian laws regulating similar cases.

The Belgian law has no definite provisions for just such a case as that of the Lowenstein death and developments are being watched wit the keenest interest in financial circles, especially if any of the Captain's business associates, for personal or technical financial reasons, should oppose any attempt at liquidation.

A Stock Exchange committee has interviewed a representative of the Lowenstein family with a view to reaching an agreement in behalf of the stocks owned by the noted banker.

M. Caudelier, Captain Loewenstein's secretary, today denied reports that it was impossible to open the exit door of the Fokker machine while in flight because of wind pressure. He said that only last Saturday, he himself had opened the door on a trip from Brussels to Paris.

The secretary declared that undoubtedly Captain Lowenstein, leaving the lavatory, had absent-mindedly pushed, in his usual decided way, the wrong door and had fallen through before he knew what was happening.

Captain Loewenstein, he said, was not a man to commit suicide, which he considered cowardice.

"He was not in the least downhearted owing to any recent setbacks," the secretary continued, "and three days ago developed before me a vast scheme for a fresh combine which he was contemplating."

Recently Insured in London.

LONDON, July 6 (AP).—Newspapers today stated that several insurance policies had been placed in London recently to cover the event of Alfred Loewenstein's death.

The estimates of the total amount ran all the way from £40,000 to £500,000. It was stated that some of these policies specifically include suicide among the risks covered. There was no information as to who placed the policies, but in some quarters it was believed that persons holding stock in companies with which the Belgian financier was identified had placed them to cover possible losses in event of his death.

Those newspapers which regarded his death as suicide sought for a motive in vain. The Daily Express said that although Captain Lowenstein had met financial reverses in recent months he was still at the time of his death worth between five and six million pounds at the present price of his shares.

The Daily Express attributes to an unnamed business man and intimate friend of Captain Lowenstein an explanation in regard to the opening of the door, which deals with the force required for that act and also the splintered wood on the door frame.

This version states that Captain Lowenstein was subject to sudden heart attacks due to an abnormal blood pressure of more than 200 millimeters instead of the normal 150. The discovery on the plane of the financier's collar and tie suggested to this friend that the Captain tore them off, so as to breathe more easily when seized with one of his attacks. Finding this relief insufficient, he is thought to have forced the door open in order to get fresh air, the exertion causing a collapse and his fall through the doorway.

Report of Loan Here Denied.

Reports that Captain Alfred Lowenstein negotiated a loan of $11,000,000 in New York while on his recent visit here were circulated in banking circles yesterday afternoon, but entirely lacked confirmation.

The specific report was that he had arranged to obtain the $11,000,000 from the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, depositing sufficient shares of American stocks in which he is interested to cover the loan. Executives of the bank last night denied that any such loan had been made. James H. Perkins, President of the institution, is out of the city. As far as is known Captain Lowenstein had no dealings with that bank and how the rumor started was a mystery.

Large insurance companies in New York have issued no policies on the life of Captain Lowenstein, their officials said yesterday. The leading companies said that they had had no applications for such policies.

The stock market here once more ignored the development of Captain Lowenstein's disappearance and shares of companies in which he is reported interested were moderately firm.

FOUR DIE IN CRASH OF BUS AND TROLLEY

Seven Injured Taken to Hospital by Motorists Waiting at Grade Crossing.

ONE VICTIM WAS WOMAN

Witnesses of Lockport (N. Y.) Accident Say Traction Car Gave Warning of Approach.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 6 (AP).—Four persons were killed and seven others injured, several of them seriously, shortly before 6 o'clock tonight in a collision between a Lockport bound traction car on the Rochester, Lockport and Buffalo line and an eastbound Lockport-Akron bus. The accident occurred on the Chestnut Ridge crossing.

The dead were Charles McClure, bus driver, of Akron; Miss Genevieve Wilson of Royalton, Walter Stein of Royalton and John Quile of Royalton, who died at hospital.

The injured were: Florence Martin of Walcottsville, Mabel Martin of Walcottsville, Mrs. John Mietz of Walcottsville, Mrs. Gladys Truax of Bunker Hill, Mrs. Hilda Raduns of Royalton, Mrs. Lillian Raduns and Miss Noble of Akron.

The traction car, eye-witnesses said, was not signaled for a stop at the crossing and was approaching at high speed. The bus, they declared, slowed down on the west side of the crossing and then started forward, coming upon the tracks squarely in front of the traction car. The body of the bus was shattered and the driver and passengers hurled beside the tracks close to the crossing, but the bus chassis was carried down the tracks 150 feet.

The occupants of two automobiles which had stopped on the east side of the crossing declared that they heard several blasts of the traction car whistle and were startled when they saw the bus continue across the tracks.

They telephoned to Lockport for ambulances and brought some of the injured to the City Hospital in their cars. Of the injured Mrs. Lillian Raduns is not expected to recover.

An eighth person injured in the grade crossing accident was located tonight by county authorities who are making an investigation. She is Mrs. Willis Carrier, who lives on a farm a short distance from the scene of the wreck. Mrs. Carrier was the only occupant of the bus not injured seriously enough to require hospital treatment.

Mrs. Carrier said she sat in a rear seat. The other passengers realized their danger and were out of their seats crowding down the aisle toward her when the crash came, she said. Mrs. Carrier thinks she was hurled through the rear window clear of the wreckage, but is not certain just what did happen to her.

Up to a late hour tonight the authorities had not taken a statement from A. D. Evans, motorman, and Nick Schneider, conductor of the traction car.

BRITISH LAUD KELLOGG PLAN

Leaders of Three Parties Speak for the Anti-War Compact.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 6.—Leaders of three political parties in Great Britain united today in eulogizing the proposed Kellogg treaty outlawing war, at the opening of the Twenty-second National Conference on Anglo-American Relations organized by the National Council for the Prevention of War.

Ramsay MacDonald, speaking at a luncheon in the House of Commons on behalf of the Labor Party, regretted that the compact was still unsigned and urged that the Government hasten to sign it.

Sir Robert Horne, Conservative, and Walter Runciman, Liberal Member of Parliament, joined in the expression of British welcome to American leadership in the cause of peace.

Coincident with the opening of the conference an appeal to the churches of Great Britain and Ireland to stimulate public opinion in favor of the Kellogg treaty was issued by the British Council of the World Alliance for International Friendship.

BRITISH LABOR URGES SIX POINTS FOR PEACE

Advocates Kellogg Plan in Pamphlet Considered Its Platform for Next Election.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 6.—The Labor Party today issued a resounding statement of its policy. It is written in the form of a pamphlet to be circulated far and wide, and is believed to be the party's platform in the general election, which must come before many more months elapse.

Indicting the Tory Government much in the manner of a keynote speech, Labor's platform covers a multitude of questions, both economic and political. On foreign affairs its attitude is based on the League of Nations and on wholehearted acceptance of the Kellogg treaty, which the party's leaders have previously advocated in the House of Commons.

"The party repudiates entirely the principles of the old diplomacy and the policy which governed international relations before the war," says the pamphlet.

The document enumerates "six pillars of peace" for world security: Renunciation of war, disarmament to mere police strength, arbitration, economic cooperation, frank publicity and political cooperation in dealings between nations.

Although opposing Soviet Russia's interference with the domestic politics of other nations, the Labor Party stands for prompt establishment of diplomatic and commercial relations with Russia and the conclusion of a treaty settling existing differences.

To alleviate unemployment the party wants to withdraw children under fifteen from the labor market, providing a maintenance allowance for them from the Government. It wants the transfer of unemployed miners from place to place and the providing of some permanent machinery for dealing with the problem.

The clearance of the slums and health insurance are included in the social program. In agriculture the party is true to Socialist traditions in wanting public ownership of land. For education it advocates a democratic system organized "from nursery to university."

PROFESSOR DROPS DEAD.

William Esty of Lehigh Collapses Walking to Garage for Help.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., July 6 (AP).—Professor William Esty, head of the electrical engineering department at Lehigh University, died suddenly at Pocono Lake preserve today while en route with Mrs. Esty and some friends to a house party at the Summer camp of Dr. William Pomp Walker, head surgeon of St. Luke's Hospital of this city.

Profesor Esty stalled his car on a steep hill, driving it off into a ditch at the side of the road. He started to walk 100 yards to a garage for assistance, but collapsed and was dead when others of the party reached him.

It is believed that shock, due to ditching the car, brought on the heart attack.

SLASHES NEGRO PREACHER.

Attacker Is Later Shot by Police While Resisting Arrest.

Edward Nichols, 28 years old, a negro living at 5 East 132d Street, resented the efforts of the Rev. Albert G. Taylor, 36, of 6 East 132d Street, minister of the American Catholic Church, "to make a church out of the neighborhood."

LUNDBORG RESCUED BY PLANE IN ARCTIC

ried to an airman," she said. "I have had reason for discovering that, although we have been married only six months. I have a good mind to wire Einar and tell him that I am ill and that he must hurry home. But I suppose that will not do. When they rescued him and not any of the others it means, of course, that he is needed for further flights.

"I suppose that I must be satisfied that it's over for this time. I have learned what it means to wait in breathless anxiety. The next time something happens I shall be better prepared for the shock. I am certain Einar will start again. My husband is the sort of man who stops at nothing when once his mind is made up. Up to now he has had extraordinary luck."

Rescuers Flew Through Fog.

BERLIN, July 6 (AP).—How Lieutenant Lundborg was rescued is told briefly in a dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Virgo Bay.

With great daring, two Swedish planes, Nos. 255 and 257, penetrated through the fog to the Nobile encampment and dropped provisions, the dispatch says. The pilot of 255, Lieutenant Shyberg, observing open water, decided to risk a landing. He succeeded in this and took Lundborg aboard and then rejoined the other plane.

As the weather is improving, there is hope that the remainder of the group may be saved within a short time.

Germans May Abandon Plan.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 6.—There is some doubt tonight whether Ernst Udet, the greatest living German war ace and stunt flier, will start on his proposed expedition to the Arctics to try to rescue members of the Italia's crew. Since the news of Lieutenant Lundborg's rescue arrived the German Government is doubtful whether his assistance will be needed.

An official inquiry was sent to Stockholm tonight asking what the probabilities were of the bringing of the five Italians on the ice floe to land in the same way as the Swedish expedition saved Lundborg. If the reply indicates that the chances of taking them off are good the German expedition will be dropped.

However, preparations are still going on at top speed and the ship will be ready to leave Hamburg tomorrow night with Udet and his two Flamingos aboard.

Searches for Trio Futile.

KINGS BAY, Spitsbergen, July 6 (AP).—Hope that the three members of the Italia's crew who started for land from the Nobile group would be found was exceedingly slim today when reports began to come in from parties which had started out to look for them.

Students of the Alpine Club reported that they had carefully explored the whole northern coast of Northeast Land to a point seven miles from Cape Leigh Smith without finding any trace of them. Swedish and Norwegian airplanes explored outer Reps Island, north of Northeast Land, and an island immediately to the south of it and found no one on either.

Another Swedish airplane searched along the eastern and southern coasts of Northeast Land without finding any trace of Captain Amundsen and the five men missing with him.

Maligin Resumes Search.

MOSCOW, July 6 (AP).—The Russian icebreaker Maligin has resumed her search for Captain Amundsen, Captain Guilbaud and their four companions in the region of South Hope Island.

She is reported to be forcing her way through the ice field toward Charles Land at a speed of ten miles an hour. The position of the Maligin at 8 o'clock last night was latitude 76 north, longitude 33 east.

Babushin, the Soviet airman, who was lost for five days recently before he returned to the Maligin, is preparing for another flight.

Makes Inquiries on Amundsen.

ROME, July 6 (AP).—The regular night radio report from the Citta di Milano, General Nobile's base ship at Spitsbergen, said that Captain Ravazzoni had continued his search of the waters and islands off the coast of Norway for traces of Captain Amundsen, but without success.

The captain flew from Tromso past Hammerfest. He landed there and questioned fishermen concerning the report that a fishing vessel had discovered Amundsen's body. But he found no one who knew anything about the alleged discovery.

COOLIDGE SPEECH LIKELY ON JULY 29

Minnesotans Think He Will Make First Campaign Address at Unveiling of Monument.

LABOR DAY TALK POSSIBLE

Expected Attendance of 75,000 at Tri-State Fair Is Viewed as Political Opportunity.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

Special to The New York Times.

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 6.—The first speech which President Coolidge will make in the coming campaign probably will be at Cannon Falls, Minn., when a monument will be unveiled on July 29 to Colonel William Colvill, one of the State's heroes at the Battle of Gettysburg.

A delegation of Minnesotans, including Governor Christiansen, who called upon the President today, gained the idea that Mr. Coolidge had virtually accepted the invitation, and later it was learned that the Executive was willing to make this initial public appearance of his vacation if it could be arranged.

The Minnesotans understood from their talk with Mr. Coolidge that he would not make an out-and-out campaign speech and would take only about ten or fifteen minutes; but it was also felt that he might take advantage of the opportunity to touch upon some of the accomplishments of the administration as well as its policies, and to dwell upon the benefits of a Republican instead of a Democratic régime.

Representative Walter H. Newton of Minnesota, Chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the Republican National Committee and a member of the delegation which visited the President, left the executive offices with the same impression that Secretary Work, Chairman of the committee, obtained earlier in the week after a visit to Cedar Island Lodge. Mr. Newton thinks the President will give aid in the coming campaign, although the Minnesota Representative said plainly that he did not know to what extent this help from the President would go.

Speeches to Be "Non-Political."

Mr. Newton stated that the Hoover campaign directors do not count upon the President making strictly political speeches, and that his public utterances would be upon occasions such as the one to which he has been invited at Cannon Falls, which have not been inspired by political motives. However, it is hoped that his appearance in this territory will stimulate sympathy for Mr. Hoover as the Republican nominee.

Representative Newton said he would be happy to arrange a number of speaking dates for the President, but he realized Mr. Coolidge's reluctance to take a really active part in the campaign because of his position. Mr. Newton said he had not received the slightest indication of how many addresses Mr. Coolidge would make, but he thought these would be limited to two or three, and that none would be delivered in the East. Every member of the Cabinet except Secretary Mellon will make a campaign speech, Mr. Newton stated.

Expect Coolidge to Speak at Fair.

There will be a large gathering of men and women from Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan in Superior at the Tri-State Fair on Labor Day, and there is a feeling among those who have discussed this occasion with the President that he probably will attend and may have a word to say.

It has been predicted that more than 75,000 persons will assemble on this occasion if it is known that they are to have an opportunity to see and hear the President. State leaders, who have discussed the matter at the executive office, argue that this would be a most opportune time for the President to make an address, not only from a political viewpoint but as the means of telling the people of this section of the country how he has enjoyed living among them this Summer.

Reports brought to the Summer capital by Representative Newton and Governor Christiansen of the political situation in their State were of a highly encouraging nature. The consensus of the Minnesotans was that Mr. Hoover would carry the State by a huge plurality. It was agreed, however, that the agricultural sections are still complaining over the failure of the Republicans to afford some definite form of farm relief and that Mr. Hoover would do well if he made some definite promise in the matter of relief legislation.

Says State Hinges on Farm Vote.

Governor Christiansen, who has just been renominated by a large vote, declared that the only possible chance for the Democrats to make any inroads upon Mr. Hoover in Minnesota would be through the medium of farm relief. He said the only thing that could lose the State for the Republican ticket would be an uprising of the farmers as a means of showing their resentment against their treatment by the Republicans.

Governor Christiansen added, however, that there was little likelihood of this happening. Moreover, he was satisfied that Mr. Hoover could easily pacify the farmers if he would make some amplification of the farm relief provisions of the platform adopted by the Kansas City convention and give his own interpretation of what the platform stands for. He believes also that Mr. Hoover should be very specific in this respect.

Governor Christiansen can see no chance for Governor Smith in Minnesota, and declared that the New York Governor would lose more votes than he would gain, on a wet issue. Farmer-Labor supporters would vote the regular Republican ticket, this year, the Governor stated. He confidently predicted the defeat of Senator Shipstead, the Minnesota radical, by Arthur E. Nelson, the Republican nominee of St. Paul.

Zimmerman Caught Bigger Fish.

Colonel Colvill, whose monument will be unveiled July 29, organized the First Infantry Regiment for President Lincoln just after Fort Sumpter was attacked and it was this first Minnesota infantry that steamed the advance of the Confederates at Gettysburg and turned the tide for the Union Army to final victory.

Governor Fred R. Zimmerman of Wisconsin, who spent last night at Cedar Island Lodge, visited the executive offices again this morning and said that his visit was purely social and that he had a very delightful time.

"The President caught more fish than I did, but my catch weighed more than his," said the Governor.

As far as is known, no information has been received here concerning any plan Secretary Hoover has to visit Cedar Island Lodge.

Ambassador Judah to Train With Field Artillery Reserve

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The unusual circumstances of an American Ambassador enrolling for training in Summer military service occurred today when Noble B. Judah, Ambassador to Cuba, a Colonel in the Reserve Corps, called upon Major Gen. Summerall, Army Chief of Staff, and arranged to attend a training camp at Sparta, Wis., with his regiment, the 332d Field Artillery of the Organized Reserves.

The regiment is the reconstituted 140th Field Artillery of the war-time Forty-second Division. General Summerall commanded the Field Artillery brigade of that division when it was organized.

Ambassador Judah was first a Captain, then a Major in the 149th, serving in France.

COOLIDGE NEAR ISLAND OF INDIAN LOVE TALE

There, Legend Goes, Great Manitou Saved Sioux Brave and Chippewa Princess From Pursuers.

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 6 (AP).—There is a spot in this land of streams, lakes and forests, Summer playground of the President, which Chippewa Indians, once rulers of the region, regard with superstition.

Never do they go near it and never do they mention it unless they are questioned, legend has it.

In the St. Louis River, not far from Mr. Coolidge's Executive offices, is a tiny bit of land called Spirit Island, and therein lies a tale.

The Chippewas and the Sioux were permanent enemies and many were the bloody battles fought until the Chippewas, in a great conflict on the Brule, drove the Sioux from the land.

Long before the advent of the white man, a young Sioux brave, while hunting deer east of the St. Louis in Chippewa territory, came upon the beautiful daughter of Buckada, chief of the unfriendly Chippewas. He and the Princess fell in love, but the laws of the Indian were hard. There was no peace between their nations, therefore no intermarriage.

Defying the two great tribes, however, the lovers fled and the Sioux and the Chippewas started in common pursuit, tracing them at dusk to Big Island. The young brave was too clever for his fellow Indians and he slipped away into the night with his Princess in a canoe.

Dawn found the Indians on Spirit Island tracking the pair to death, but the only traces were the broken canoe and the balsam boughs where they spent the night.

The island was deserted. The great Manitou had taken the sweethearts to the happy hunting grounds, decided the Indians, to show two of the most powerful nations of the forest his regard for true love.

To this day, so goes the story, no Indian has since trod the shores of Spirit Island.

DENIES BOARD MADE PROFIT ON CEMETERY

Trustee at Ottinger Hearing Declares Burial Ground Is Philanthropic.

At a hearing yesterday in Attorney General Ottinger's inquiry of charges made by the Hebrew Religious Protective Association of Greater New York, Inc., of irregularities and misuse of cemetery funds, Morris Wolburg, a trustee of Washington Cemetery for twenty years, in defending the management, declared that it had always been philanthropic in its purpose and that he knew of no one who had made any money out of the cemetery.

The organizations owning plots in the cemetery, Mr. Wolburg said, were "so neglectful that they won't even take care of their own dead and never have contributed a cent" for the upkeep of the grounds, and that the management last year spent $30,000 for road improvement in the cemetery and $20,000 for restroom accommodations. He said it would take between $80,000 and $100,000 to complete the road program.

Mr. Wolburg denied that any member of the management had ever sold plots, but declared that outsiders had bought land for speculative purposes. Some plots have been sold eight and nine times, he said.

Counsel for the Protective Association complained to Mr. Wolburg that no meeting of plot owners had ever been called and that they were not adequately represented on the Board of Trustees. It was said that the superintendent of the cemetery was in the monument business near by.

In defense Mr. Wolburg said that the superintendent had to provide all of the equipment for taking care of the grounds. He said he, personally, had supervised the repair work in the cemetery and that neither he nor any other trustee had ever received remuneration.

Assistant Attorney General Robert S. Conklin, who is conducting the investigation, overruled an objection to examination of the books of Washington Cemetery in the absence of the treasurer, who is in Europe.

WOMEN DEFY COURT; BUILD TABERNACLE

Take the Place of Men Enjoined by Dallas Judge to Stop Construction.

INJUNCTION IS AMENDED

But Women Declare They Will Continue Work—Pastor Is Held in Jail.

DALLAS, Texas, July 6 (AP).—Despite the issuance of a second temporary injunction ordering cessation of construction of a tabernacle for the Fundamentalist Baptist Church here, more than fifty women and boys continued work on the structure today. They built part of the roof after men in the congregation had laid down their tools in obedience to an injunction issued yesterday by County Judge Towne Young.

Meanwhile, the Rev. Earl Anderson, pastor of the church, spent the day in the hospital ward of the county jail, where he was sent yesterday when Judge Young found him guilty of violating the first temporary injunction.

Judge Young issued the first injunction after residents in the vicinity of the tabernacle had charged that city ordinances providing for fireproof structure in auditoriums of more than 600 seating capacity and for widening of one street on which the tabernacle is located were being violated. The complainants also charged that night work on the tabernacle disturbed their slumbers.

Warned by assertions of the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Fundamentalist and pastor of the First Baptist Church of Fort Worth, who is conducting a revival at the tabernacle, that work would be continued despite the injunction, deputy sheriffs in large numbers went to the scene this morning.

The men who had hammered and sawed on the tabernacle for several days and all of one night had disappeared, and in their stead was a crew of women who were hauling heavy sheets of roofing material up ladders and hammering them into place in an amateurish but enthusiastic manner.

When officers sought to interefere their attention was called to the word "men" in the first injunction to cease the building.

The deputies hurried back to the court house, and at 5 P. M. a new injunction, substituting "man, woman or person," was placed in their hands. They returned to the tabernacle only to find that the women, many of whom were laboring in overalls, had gone home to wash up and get ready for the preaching tonight.

As work was suspended this afternoon, word was passed about among the women to report back for resumption of the work tomorrow morning. Chief Deputy Jameson met the reports with the declaration that any one who attempts to continue the work will be arrested.

In addition to fining the Rev. Mr. Andeson and ordering him to jail, Judge Young, who said he wanted only to have his mandates honored and had no thought of interfering with the building of a church, said the pastor would remain in jail until he made bond and promised to obey the injunction.

The Rev. Mr. Anderson declared he could make bond quickly, but would not do so until his "protest" against the action of the Court had "been heard throughout the country." Preparations have been made for him to preach over the radio from his prison all day Sunday.

The minister's room looked like a flower shop tonight as a result of the many floral gifts sent him by his parishioners. He spent the day reading telegrams and letters, many of which came from outside the city.

CALL FOR ANNAPOLIS.

Navy Asks Service to Select Enlisted Men for Examinations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The navy, in filling its quota of 100 enlisted men for appointment to the Naval Academy next Spring, will have 1,522 recruits to draw upon who have completed a four-year high school course. Of those who enlisted during the twelve months ending on May 1, 4,234, or 26 per cent. of all the recruits, had completed two or more years of high school work.

Orders were sent throughout the service by the department today for all men to be selected who can qualify for the preliminary examinations for the academy which will be held on Sept. 1.

Informal boards will be convened on each ship and at each station to examine applicants and select the most promising officer material to take the examinations.

Excommunicated Man Dies After Church Revokes Edict

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 6 (AP).—Exaire Breault, one of the fifty men who were excommunicated from the Catholic Church as a result of their controversy with the Right Rev. William A. Hickey, Bishop of the Providence Diocese, died today. He was readmitted into the Church last Sunday.

Mr. Breault was one of the signers of the papers which resulted in the Bishop's being summoned into court when the complainants demanded an accounting of the diocesan funds.

He was taken ill early last week and wrote to the Bishop apologizing for his action and saying that he had signed the papers with the belief that the action was to be directed against law trustees of the funds. His name was read from the altar Sunday as having been received again into the Church.

FRENCH HALT TAPESTRY SOLD FOR AN AMERICAN

Decision Is Expected to Bar Further Export of Nation's Finest Art Objects.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 6.—A test case which may have wide influence upon the future sale of French objects of art to Americans is now in the hands of a special commission of the Ministry of Fine Arts, following the sale of the famous Beauvais tapestry to a Paris dealer for the account of a New York client. The price was 2,500,000 francs and the tapestry was a part of that in the magnificent hotel De Duc de Rohan.

The sale took place at the George Petit Gallery and as soon as word of it reached the Minister of Fine Arts, M. Herriot, he notified the purchaser, Edouard Jonas of Place Vendome, that he would not be permitted to send the tapestry out of the country without permission of the Fine Arts Commission.

The commission has been set up for the purpose of determining what French buildings, objects of art, and so forth, should be classed as "national monuments"; in other words, objects of priceless value which should be conserved for the nation.

After due consideration the commission will pass upon the disputed tapestry. In art circles it is believed that the commission will make a test case and rule against its export. It is understood here that the tapestry was destined for some New York millionaire for whose account a New York dealer was arranging the purchase from M. Jonas.

The question is of considerable interest to dealers in France and throughout the world. If the commission succeeds in restraining M. Jonas from shipping the tapestry to New York, either by means of its decision or by subsequent legal procedure, it is deemed likely that future sales to Americans will be greatly curtailed.

SHARPEN FIGHT ON RIVERA.

Maura Brothers Group Conservatives Around Them in Spain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 6.—In political circles it is said that political hostility between the Maura brothers and Primo de Rivera has accentuated lately. The dictator has forbidden Miguel Maura to hold a series of political conferences. Many letters have been exchanged and now Gabriel Maura has written his political friends of the Conservative Party, saying:

"Despite the Presidential pirates, early 1929 will see a Constitution. I have lost no atom of any one's confidence in me."

It is known that a portion of the political elements of the Conservative and independent grouping around the Maura brothers is without official organization, but able suddenly to constitute a party prepared to govern.

It is assured, however, that Gabriel Maura will not accept the succession to power. Nevertheless he is a partisan of a Government without a military dictatorship, having advised the King that upon the arrival of the moment for a change in Government he will take the part of General Berenguer.

Princeton Summer Session Opens.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 6.—The Summer session of Princeton University opened today with enrolment which is expected to reach 180 men. This afternoon there was a meeting for all those attending the Summer session which is open to members of last year's freshman and sophomore classes who are making up deficiencies in order to retain class standing. Dr. Charles R. MacInnes of the mathematics department is director and is assisted by sixteen Faculty members. The school will be closed Aug. 23.

CHINESE CHIEFS DROP QUARRELS AT TOMB

small alcove containing the heavy flowered and lacquered coffin, draped with flags, which held the body.

The four leaders bowed before this and stood in profound silence as the great gathering of Generals, officials and soldiers, which filled the courtyard outside, also bowed in homage.

Then the report to Sun Yat-sen's spirit was read before the coffin and a few moments later came a dramatic climax when the heavy wooden outer lid was raised, permitting the four commanders to gaze upon the body of their late chieftain.

Chiang Kai-shek, for many years Sun Yat-sen's chief disciple, broke down and wept, and his sobs, continuing for three or four minutes and audible in all parts of the courtyard outside, caused many others to weep in sympathy.

In the meantime military bands played dirges at intervals. The gathering had attracted to the cedar-shaded multiple courtyard a throng in varied uniforms. Troops from nearly all parts of China mingled among the sober-robed civilians and smartly tailored younger Nationalists.

The public assembling of the Big Four for the first time in the revolutionary campaign in manifest sincerity in their devotion to Sun Yat-sen is viewed in Peking as a hopeful augury calculated to allay the current rumors of imminent dissension.

The marked diversity of types was noticeable. Chiang Kai-shek, slender, youthful, self-conscious and flushed with emotion, was spick and span in the uniform of the Nationalist army, with the occidental Sam Browne belt around his waist. Feng Yu-hsiang, towering, bulky and stolid, was in a well-worn uniform, unbelted, and a stained straw hat, and with his recently grown heavy black beard, showed the effects of a three days' fast, which he recently underwent at his ancestral tombs near Paoting-fu. Yen Hsi-shan, self-effacing and with an ingratiating smile, wore a loose-fitting military tunic without any insignia of rank, while Li Tsung-jen, small, boyish and alert, was dressed in the latest military fashion, with glistening boots and spurs.

A tomb for Dr. Sun Yat-sen's body is being built by the Nanking Nationalist Government at Nanking at a cost of more than 1,000,000 yen and it is expected that the body will some day be taken south to rest in the new capital.

After today's ceremony, the four military commanders opened a conference with the questions of a drastic military reduction and a possible invasion of Manchuria as the dominating matters on the agenda.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO THE CHURCHGOER

Annual Midsummer Conference at Union Theological Seminary to Open Monday.

CARDINAL RETURNS TODAY

Dr. C. F. Reisner and Dr. W. H. Matthews Sail for Europe—Luther in a Motion Picture.

The eighth annual midsummer conference at Union Theological Seminary, Broadway and 120th Street, will begin Monday evening and continue for ten days. Already more than 250 clergymen from all parts of the country and representing virtually all of the large Protestant denominations have registered. The opening function will be a dinner at the Faculty Club of Columbia University and this will be followed by a religious service in the chapel of the seminary. At its close the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, the President, and Mrs. Coffin will give a reception to the Summer students in their home, which adjoins. The lecturers the first week will be Dr. Coffin, Professor Hugh Black of Union, and Professor Cosby Bell of the Virginia Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va. The lecturers the second week will be Professor William Adams Brown and James Moffatt of Union, Professor Eduard C. Linderman of the New York School of Social Work, and Dr. Lewis B. Hill, Assistant Superintendent of the Worcester, Mass., State Hospital.

The Rev. Dr. Henry C. Offerman, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Brooklyn, has been appointed assistant instructor in the New Testament at Union Seminary, and, beginning in the Fall, he will teach the New Testament in the orginal Greek.

Cardinal Hayes is due to arrive home this evening at 7:25 o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, at the Grand Central Station on the private car The Washington, which was provided by George MacDonald, a papal chamberlain, who accompanied the Cardinal to Omaha and Grand Island, Neb. The other guests of Mr. MacDonald were Justice Victor J. Dowling and Mgr. Stephen J. Donahue, private secretary to Cardinal Hayes. The prelate made the trip West to install the Right Rev. Joseph F. Rummel, New York priest for twenty-seven years, as Bishop of Omaha, and to officiate at the dedication of the new cathedral on Grand Island.

When Bishop Rummel gets settled he will take Mrs. Theresa Rummel, his 82-year-old mother, to his new home to live with him. "I am going to come East myself and bring her out, or, if that is impossible, to have some one close to her bring her out," said Bishop Rummel. Arno, the inseparable companion of the Bishop, is on his way to Omaha. Arno is a large German police dog.

The Rev. Dr. Mauritz Stolpe, for many years pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Church of Gustavus Adolphus, 151 East Twenty-second Street, recently observed his seventieth birthday. The members of the church, who number 935, gave a reception to Dr. Stolpe and "showered" him with letters, telegrams, cablegrams and flowers. They also presented him with a check for $1,000, which he is using for a Summer's visit to his native land of Sweden. Dr. Stolpe has been decorated by the King of Sweden.

The Second Presbyterian Church, for more than 150 years known as the Scotch Presbyterian Church, has bought the residence at 354 Central Park West, and here the Robertson School, believed to be the only remaining Presbyterian parochial school in the United States, will be conducted, beginning in September, until the completion of the new sixteen-story apartment house and church, to rise on the site of the present edifice at Central Park West and Ninety-sixth Street in the fall of 1929. Seven class rooms will be provided for the school, which was founded in 1790 and is endowed.

Monday will mark the second anniversary of the death of Mother Alphonsa Hawthorne Lathrop, daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne and founder of the Rosary Hill Home for Incurable Cancer, Hawthorne, Westchester County, N. Y. Mother M. Rose Huber, her successor as Superior of the Servants of Relief for Incurable Cancer, has issued a eulogy. "Mother Alphonsa is dead, but not forgotten; her memory is kept green not only by the sisters and patients but by the numerous friends of the work who hold her name in veneration," said Mother Huber.

Because of the crowd of students from the Summer school of Columbia University expected at the services tomorrow in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, a large staff of ushers will be on hand to show the visitors from out of town the edifice, including the seven Chapels of the Tongues. "Those desiring to make this pilgrimage under the guidance of ushers are requested to take the front seats in the crossing after the service," says the current weekly bulletin of the cathedral.

The Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, who is building the Broadway Temple, and his only son, Ainsworth, 19 years old, will sail on the steamship Republic today for a vacation in the Scandinavian countries. The trip is made possible through the aid of friends.

The Rev. Dr. William H. Matthews, Secretary of the American Tract Society, will sail for England today to visit places associated with John Bunyan in preparation for the celebration this Fall of the Bunyan tercentenary.

The New York City Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, with headquarters at 38 Bleecker Street, has issued an appeal for $30,000 to enable it to provide vacations for poor families. Last year outings were given to 1,240 mothers and children through the society's Fresh Air Fund. Bishop Manning is President of the organization.

"Martin Luther: His Life and Time," a motion picture, will be shown at the Bible School of the Lutheran Church of the Advent, Broadway and Ninety-third Street, every Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock through this month. A Luther League pin will be awarded to the members for perfect attendance.

RABBI DENIES REMARKS.

Quotation on Lipsky at Zionist Parley, Incorrect, Says Silver.

Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland has denied to the Jewish Daily Bulletin the remarks imputed to him on the floor of the Zionist convention in Pittsburgh last Tuesday, which were said to have resulted in the re-election of Louis Lipsky as President of the Zionist Organization of America.

Rabbi Silver was quoted as having said that Abraham Tulin, leader of the opposition, informed him that Lipsky would not run because he did not "dare" do so as the Judges' Committee would "have the District Attorney on his trail."

According to Rabbi Silver, he made no such statement as ascribed to him by Jacob Fishman, a delegate, at the convention and published on Wednesday. His conversation with Fishman, he said, was in the strictest confidence and "in the nature of an inquiry."

Fishman, said the rabbi, undertook to speak to Lipsky in private, but violated a confidence and "spread a rumor for political ends." On learning of the spread of the rumor, added Rabbi Silver, he sought to put a stop to it and got Mr. Lipsky to promise not to permit his final decision in the matter of being drafted for the Presidency to be influenced by it.

In commenting on Rabbi Silver's statement, Mr. Fishman denied that his talk with the rabbi was confidential. He also insisted that Rabbi Silver attributed to Mr. Tulin "exactly the words I quoted."

"However, this was not the determining factor of the convention to draft Mr. Lipsky," he declared. "This decision was based upon an open statement made at a caucus of the opposition."

Mr. Fishman also denied that he had spread Rabbi Silver's statement.

CHURCH TO BE CONSECRATED

Bayonne Congregation Also to Honor Rector, 35 Years a Priest.

A double ceremony will be held tomorrow at the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, 91 West Twenty-third Street, Bayonne, when the Right Rev. Thomas J. Walsh, Bishop of Newark, will officiate at the consecration of the church and participate in the celebration of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of its rector, the Rev. Michael Mercolino.

Father Mercolino has been with the church since 1902, when it consisted of a small frame building and had a membership of only 500. It now has a congregation of more than 8,000.

The church earned its right to consecration as the result of a drive two months ago, in which $18,000 was raised, and it became free of debt. It is said to be the first of the forty-three Italian churches in Bishop Walsh's diocese to have canceled its indebtedness. A part of the sum raised represents a year's salary given outright by Father Mercolino.

The ceremonies will consist of a solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock, followed by an open air service at which the canceled note of the church's indebtedness will be handed to the Bishop and the rites of consecration will take place.

MEN OF SCIENCE HAIL MUMMY DISCOVERY

Agree on Importance of Find in Aleutian Islands and Await Further Details.

BURIAL INTERESTS OSBORN

HEYE STRESSES NOVELTY

No Big Burial Ground Unearthed Before, Declares Director of Museum of American Indian.

Scientists were agreed yesterday on the importance of the discovery of the mummified remains of stone-age men, made by the McCracken-Stoll expedition of the American Museum of Natural History and reported by wireless from the Aleutian Islands to THE NEW YORK TIMES by Harold McCracken, a member of the party.

Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of the American Museum of Natural History; Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, and George G. Heye, director of the Museum of the American Indian, Heye Foundation, declared that the discovery was a most interesting one, but that its exact value could not be gauged until the return of the party and a complete examination of the mummies and the implements found with them.

Dr. Osborn said he had received a cable message yesterday from the Aleutian Islands signed by Dr. Anthony, chief zoologist of the expedition, announcing that the schooner Morrissey was now headed westward and north toward the Siberian shore. The expedition will be gone for many months.

Interested in Burial Method.

The exact importance of the discovery, said Dr. Osborn, cannot be gauged in the absence of further details. The method of burial, he said, was very interesting. It was known that Asiatic people used the burial method of disposing of their dead, but gave it up. There was no doubt that the mummified remains were those of "a" stone age, but whether they were of "the" stone age, going back many thousands of years, Dr. Osborn was unable to say.

Mr. Stefansson also said the find was extremely interesting and that Mr. McCracken's report was worthy of complete confidence. He declared that although the indications pointed to the possibility that the mummies were of stone-age men, this did not necessarily mean they were of the ancient stone age, for the stone age in the Aleutian Islands, in the sense that stone implements were used there, dated no further back than a hundred years ago. At the same time, he said, it might be possible that the mummies were thousands of years old.

In this connection Mr. Stefansson said that the inhabitants of the Coronation Gulf on the north coast of Canada were still in the stone age for they had not yet completely discarded bows and stone tipped arrows.

"The unique thing about the find is the burial," declared the Arctic explorer. "That is the chief argument for the theory that the mummies are very old. We know of no recent customs similar to those described in the dispatch.

Fears Deterioration of Bodies.

"However, these are not mummies in the ordinary sense of the word, bodies preserved by the use of chemicals or by drying. From the report we cannot say exactly whether the bodies were buried beneath the surface or not. Burial in frozen earth three feet deep would be sufficient to cause preservation for ten thousand years as the ground does not thaw more than eighteen inches and no oxygen or bacteria can penetrate below that depth.

"If the bodies were buried with their natural fluids and are now to be held until returned to the museum it may be that they will deteriorate, for the condition of the bodies may change once they are exposed to a higher temperature. It seems to me that the bodies ought to be examined at once, instead of when the expedition returns to New York, for the great knowledge of the museum authorities cannot restore the bodies to the actual condition they are in now."

Mr. Stefansson said that frozen bodies dating back to the stone age were discovered in Alaska about four or five years ago by a school teacher and that he had the impression that one was preserved in alcohol at the museum of the University of Pennsylvania. This is the first time, however, that such an unusual burial has been discovered in connection with the finding of Aleutian mummies.

Whether the bodies were those of pre-Eskimos and people who crossed from Asia to America, the scientists said, would have to be determined from an examination of the implements found with the mummies.

Mr. Heye said that the discovery was most interesting. No big burial such as that reported by Mr. McCracken has ever before been discovered on the Aleutian Islands, he explained. While the discovery, in his opinion, was of the very greatest importance, the meager details from Mr. McCracken were insufficient on which to form a conclusion as to whether the bodies were those of pure Indians or of a Mongoloid type.

DIVORCE SUITS DISMISSED.

Audrey Maple and Helen Carr Lose Cases in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP).—Divorce suits of two actresses suing as residents of Chicago were dismissed today. Judge Thomas J. Lynch in Circuit Court dismissed the bill of Mrs. Elsie Audrey Maple Griffiths, known on the stage as Aubrey Maple, against George E. Griffiths, New York broker.

Judge Sabath of the Superior Court dismissed the complaint of Mrs. Helen Cressman Carr against her husband, Alexander Carr, an actor.

In each case the Court decided that the complainant had not established legal residence here.

Huntington Principal Quits; Lost Only 1 Day in 57 Years

Special to The New York Times.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., July 6.—The Board of Education of Huntington Union School District 3 has adopted unanimously a resolution in honor of Miss Sarah Maybee, who resigns as Principal of the Main Street primary school after continuous service of fifty-seven years, during which she was absent from her duties only one day.

Miss Maybee began her service as a teacher in 1871, coming to this village for her first assignment. She was a graduate of the Oswego Normal School, although the first year of her course was spent at the Albany Normal School.

She is a native Long Islander, having been born in Brookville and received her early education in the schools of East Norwich.

A number of years ago she was advanced in the Huntington school system from a teacher to supervising principal of the Main Street primary school.

Miss Maybee has for many years been actively identified with church and community work, being a member of the Central Presbyterian Church and connected with its Sunday school.

RARE 'DIVINE COMEDY' FOUND IN OLD TRUNK

Scoto's Edition of 1484 Discovered by Lawyer—11 Other Known Copies in This Country.

The discovery of a rare edition of Dante's "Divine Comedy" in a trunk filled with old books was announced yesterday by Standish Chard, lawyer, of 277 Park Avenue.

Fifteen years ago, Mr. Chard said, he inherited the trunk as well as many art objects from his uncle, George M. Standish, who lived in Italy for forty years. After his uncle's death, Mr. Chard said, he brought the trunk to this country, and it remained unopened in a barn on his farm at Sunderland, Mass.

Mr. Chard said he opened the trunk several weeks ago and his curiosity was at once aroused by the inscription "Dante—1484" on one of the books. He brought it to this city to be examined by experts. It was pronounced a rare edition, printed by Octaviano Scoto at Venice in 1484, and containing a commentary by Cristoforo Landino.

The book is fourteen inches high and ten wide, and is bound in yellow leather, Mr. Chard said. He added that he intended having the contents of the trunk catalogued by the librarian at Amherst College, from which Mr. Chard was graduated in 1902.

Bibliographical experts in this city said yesterday that there were eleven other known copies of the Scoto edition of the "Divine Comedy" in this country. There is one in the Morgan Library, and others in the libraries of Cornell University, the University of Pennsylvania, Radcliffe, Yale, Williams, the Boston Public Library, and in several private collections. While the experts were unable to place a value on the book without knowledge of its condition, one said that it was worth a minimum of several hundred dollars.

SAILS ON TRIP WON ON BET.

Mrs. Schoenherr Picked Governor Smith on the First Ballot.

The French liner France sailed for France last night with a full passenger list that included C. C. Pyle of coast-to-coast derby fame; Vincent Richards, the tennis star, and Mrs. Ann Kennelly Schoenherr of 1,645 Grand Concourse, the Bronx. Mrs. Schoenherr won her trip abroad when she bet her husband that Governor Smith would receive the Democratic nomination for President on the first ballot.

Mr. Pyle is going to London, Paris and Berlin as representative for Milton D. Crandall, promoter of the recent dance marathon at Madison Square Garden, to arrange for putting on dance marathons in the European capitals. He said that he and Mr. Crandall evolved a plan whereby the dances would be conducted in a similar manner to the six-day bicycle races, with two teams paired up, each relieving the other at stated intervals, and the prizes going to the teams that complete the greatest number of laps round a dance floor.

The liner was delayed a few minutes so that Mr. and Mrs. George Nickel of San Francisco might be among the passengers. Mr. Nickel, the son of a wealthy California land owner, had entertained Rudolph Spreckels, San Francisco banker; Mrs. Robert Hayes Smith, Chesley Richardson and other guests at a dinner at the Ritz-Carlton. The guests went to the pier while the Nickels completed their packing.

At 10 minutes to 12, Mr. and Mrs. Nickel not having appeared, their guests telephoned the Ritz-Carlton and learned they had just left. The boat was held until Mr. and Mrs. Nickel reached the gangplank at 12:12.

Harlem Dance Derby Prize Divided.

Eight finalists in the Harlem dance marathon, which was halted in the Manhattan Casino, 155th Street and Eighth Avenue, July 4, by Health Commissioner Harris, last night received equal portions of the $1,000 prize which had been offered to the last couple to survive the contest. The prize money was given to the four surviving couples before 1,500 people in the Savoy ballroom, Lenox Avenue, between 139th and 140th Streets.

Wife of Cornell Manager Killed.

GLENWOOD, N. Y., July 6 (AP).—Mrs. Olive Berry, wife of Romeyn Berry, graduate manager of the Cornell University Athletic Association, was instantly killed today when her automobile was struck by the eastbound Black Diamond Express on the Lehigh Valley Railroad on a grade crossing near here. Mrs. Berry, who was alone in the car, had taken her two daughters to a Girl Scout camp. The light touring car was wrecked.

SCREEN NOTES.

Arthur Hammerstein announced yesterday that "The End of St. Petersburg," the Soviet film, would close tomorrow evening. The theatre will be used to rehearse "Good Boy," his new musical comedy.

"Dawn," the Edith Cavell film at the Times Square Theatre, will also close tomorrow evening, that the theatre may be made ready for "The Front Page," Jed Harris's production, which opens there on Aug. 14.

BREEN DIES, VICTIM OF ATTACK IN PARK

Lawyer Found Unconscious Near Battery Succumbs to Injuries in Hospital.

REMARK TO WOMAN BLAMED

Her Escort Started Fight, Assert Witnesses — Police Seek Slayer Vainly.

Matthew P. Breen, attorney and son of the late City Magistrate Matthew P. Breen, Tammany leader, died at the Broad Street Hospital yesterday afternoon from injuries suffered on Tuesday night when he was beaten in Battery Park. Detectives of the Old Slip station have been unable to discover Breen's assailant and have only a very fragmentary report of what happened.

The lawyer was found near a comfort station in the park with his skull fractured. According to some persons who were in the park he had engaged in an altercation with a man who was walking with a woman companion. It was reported that Mr. Breen spoke to the woman, her escort resented it and a fight followed.

Mr. Breen was divorced in May, 1917 by Mrs. May Breen, daughter of Henry U. Singhi, a builder. There is one child, a daughter 14 years old. Mr. Breen is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary C. Breen, and two sisters.

When he was taken to the hospital, however, another woman appeared and called on him stating that she was his sister.

J. J. SHUBERT BACK.

Brings Operetta, "The Duchess of Chicago," a Vienna Success.

J. J. Shubert of the Shubert Theatrical Enterprises returned yesterday on the Cunarder Aquitania from a six weeks' visit to Europe, which he spent chiefly in London, Paris and Vienna. He brought back with him six new plays for production during the coming season in New York.

Mr. Shubert declined to make public the titles of the plays, except the operetta, by Emmerich Kalman now being played in Vienna with great success and called "The Duchess of Chicago." This will be produced in New York during the Winter, he said. He returned much benefited by his holiday.

JACK PICKFORD STRICKEN.

Nature of Film Actor's Illness Is Not Made Public.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 6 (AP).—Jack Pickford, film actor and brother of Mary Pickford, was ill at a hospital here tonight with an ailment involving his heart.

For a time after he was stricken, late last night, it was feared that the actor's condition was serious, but he rallied, and today physicians said he was "not now critically ill."

The exact nature of Pickford's illness was not made public, the doctor in charge explaining that it was a matter "confidential between the patient and physician."

Dr. E. D. Adams Gets Belgian Honors

Dr. Edward Dean Adams, engineer and financier of this city, has received an honorary doctorate from the University of Louvain and been made a Commander of the Order of the Crown by the Belgian Government, according to word received here yesterday by the Engineering Foundation, which Dr. Adams represented at the dedication of the Louvain Library and the engineers' memorial carillon and clock on July 4. He was Chairman of the Committee on War Memorials to American Engineers.

Richard Bennett in "Jarnegan."

Richard Bennett, it was announced yesterday, will play the title rôle in "Jarnegan," the dramatization by Charles Beahan and Garret Fort of Jim Tully's novel, which Paul Streger is producing. Mr. Bennett is now on the west coast making a talking picture for Warner Brothers. He will return in mid-August for rehearsals of the play, which was first announced for an early September opening, but now will not come to town until late that month.

Shavitch to Conduct in Berlin.

BERLIN, July 6 (AP).—Vladimir Shavitch, conductor of the Syracuse Symphony Orchestra, has been engaged to conduct the Berlin Symphony Orchestra for several months annually. Mr. Shavitch, who is the first American to hold such a prominent post in Berlin, will resume his duties with the Syracuse Orchestra in October.

GERMAN FILM APPROVED.

'City Without Jews' Licensed by State After Deletions Are Made.

James W. Wingate, Director of the Motion Picture Division of the State Department of Education, issued a license yesterday for the showing of the German film, "The City Without Jews," which will be presented at the Fifth Avenue Playhouse for a week beginning today.

The reviewers originally saw the film on June 28. They finished their inspection on June 30 and recommended it be rejected. Application was made for rescreening before Director Wingate, who saw it in Albany last Monday. He said that with the elimination of some scenes he believed the picture would be unobjectionable. The film was shown again yesterday in this city after deletions had been made, and the license was issued.

WALTER DAMROSCH RETURNS

Brings From Europe Several New Musical Compositions.

Walter Damrosch, guest conductor of the New Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra of New York, returned yesterday on the Aquitania from a ten weeks' holiday in Europe. He said that he was present at the first performance in Vienna of Richard Strauss's new opera, "Queen Helen of Egypt," in which Jeritza sang the leading rôle. Mr. Damrosch added that it would be interesting to see how the American operagoers take to this opera.

He brought back several new compositions to produce with the orchestra at the end of October. There was very little creative work in music in Europe, the veteran maestro said.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Constance McKay has replaced Grace Menken in "The Town's Woman," which goes into rehearsal next week.

David Bennett will stage the dances for two forthcoming Dillingham musical shows—those for the Stones and for Leon Errol.

Prisco, it was reported yesterday, will be in the new edition of Earl Carroll's "Vanities." The team of Barto and Mann has also been engaged for this revue.

Roberta Beatty has replaced Frieda Inescort in the cast of Edgar Selwyn's play "Possession," now in rehearsal.

The Jefferson Theatre in Birmingham, Ala., has been added to the Erlanger chain of houses. It will be renamed the Erlanger.

"The Happy Husband," of which Billie Burke is the star, will close tonight at the Empire Theatre.

Clarence Nordstrom has been engaged for the musical comedy which Sammy Lee is to produce.

"Smudge," a new play by Douglas Murray, will be tried out next week, beginning Tuesday night, by the Scarborough Stock Company, Scarborough-on-Hudson, through arrangement with A. H. Woods. Charlotte Walker and Douglas Wood will be among the guest players.

Waring's Pennsylvanians, who have been appearing in an American revue in Paris, will return to New York in a week or so. This band has been engaged by George Choos for his new musical comedy, "Hello, Yourself," which will be produced in the Fall.

After today "The Grand Street Follies," at the Booth Theatre, will abandon its Saturday matinees for the Summer. Performances will be given on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

COOLIDGE TO HEAR STADIUM CONCERTS

Station WEBC, Near His Summer Camp, Added to WEAF Chain by Special Request.

FIRST BROADCAST TONIGHT

Programs Will Be Available for President Every Saturday—Radio Strife in Brooklyn.

Every Saturday night will be Stadium symphony concert night over the radio for President Coolidge at his Summer camp in Wisconsin. Station WEBC, at Superior, Wis., was added to the WEAF network yesterday by special request for the Saturday night concerts in the Lewisohn Stadium, according to a representative of the National Broadcasting Company.

The first broadcast of the concert series will be on the air tonight at 8:30 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Saving Time. A few weeks ago the superior broadcaster received permission to increase its power during the President's visit so that he would not be entirely out of touch with things on the air, according to a report.

Willem Van Hoogstraten, conductor of the Portland (Ore.) Symphony Orchestra, will lead more than 100 musicians recruited from the ranks of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. The program tonight will consist of the Overture Ruslan and Ludmilla, by Glinka; Afternoon of a Faun, by Debussey; the Artist Life waltz of J. Strauss; Spanish Caprice, by Rimsky-Korsakoff, and the New World Symphony, by Dvorak.

Charles G. Unger, President of WCGU, in a letter to the Chamber of Commerce of Brooklyn, has demanded the resignation of Eric Palmer and Freemont C. Peck as members of the chamber and its Radio Committee because of favoritism said to have been shown to WBBC, another Brooklyn station, at a meeting of the committee on Thursday, according to Mr. Unger's representative. The meeting was held to determine what recommendations Brooklyn as a community would make at the radio hearings to be held in Washington on Monday before the Federal Radio Commission.

According to the representative, Mr. Unger charges Messrs. Peck and Palmer with "acting in bad taste toward the Brooklyn radio situation," and says that they are "interested in a personal way in maintaining and securing a better wave length for WBBC" in the new radio allocation scheme. He said Mr. Unger charged that the committeemen allowed WBBC'S representatives to present more evidence on the question of public service when the full Radio Committee was not present, and that it was announced publicly after the meeting on Thursday that "in the minds of the entire committee WBBC was to be considered above all others in Brooklyn" at the hearings in Washington.

Mr. Unger will seek immediate action by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce to prevent such recommendation being made on Monday before the commission, the representative said.

Borough President Patten of Queens sent an appeal yesterday to the Federal Radio Commission asking that radio station WMRJ in Jamaica be kept on the air. It has been reported that the commission contemplated removing this station. The Borough President said the station always was available to civic leaders in broadcasting messages to the borough, and that therefore it performed a public service.

TO DEFINE AIR POLICY.

Secretary Davis Directs Fechet to Report on Airships and Balloons.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—With a view to defining a policy to govern the future development of lighter-than-air craft, Secretary Davis of the War Department today directed Major Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the Army Air Corps, to submit a detailed study discussing the operation of this branch of the Air Corps with definite conclusions as to the value and necessity to the army in peace and war of both balloons and airships.

Based upon these conclusions, the chief of Air Corps will make recommendations as to the development required for each type.

The development program will include data as to the present status of organizations, equipment and personnel; whether present types of organizations should be maintained in status quo, reduced, or discontinued entirely, and recommendations with respect to the Air Corps Balloon and Airship School. The balloon and airship activities of the army are centred at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill.

SEEK IMPROVED TRANSIT.

Directors of Coney Chamber Urge Relief From Congestion.

A resolution petitioning the Transit Commission and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for better transit facilities for Coney Island residents has been adopted unanimously by the Board of Directors of the Coney Island Chamber of Commerce as part of a campaign by that body to relieve transit congestion at the Stillwell Avenue terminal of the B. M. T. and replace the Norton Point trolley line by an overhead road along Railroad Avenue.

The resolution recites a number of conditions which, according to Dr. Philip I. Nash, President of the Coney Island Chamber, constitute a menace to pedestrian and vehicular traffic and prevent a proper distribution of the population on Coney Island.

Celebrate Escape of Barcelo.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JUAN, P. R., July 6.—The saving of President Antonio Barcelo's life from an assassin on June 18 is the reason for observing tomorrow as a special day of thanksgiving. The program will start at 5 A. M., ending with a parade to the President's home, when he will speak for the first time in public since the attack. A solemn mass will be celebrated in the cathedral with an orchestra and special chorus.

Wagner Sees Surge to Smith.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 6.—Senator Wagner of New York, leaving Atlanta today for Washington after a conference with Georgia Democrats, predicted that many Eastern and Western States would go for Governor Smith in the election. He likened the Governor to Andrew Jackson.

FUND OF $750,000 TO ADVERTISE COTTON

Southern Producers, Bankers, Merchants and Mill Owners Will Aid Project.

NEW ORLEANS, July 6 (AP).—The South's cotton industry is to be promoted and advertised for the direct benefit of the producer through a fund of approximately $750,000 which will be raised annually for the next five years by the Southwide Cotton Council, an organization initiated last year by Governor Dan Moody of Texas and made permanent by vote of its members here today.

The council will raise the fund by an assessment of five cents on every bale of cotton produced in the South, including last year's crop, assessments on which the members plan to collect within the next ninety days.

The council took cognisance of the deplorable financial status of many of the cotton producers by agreeing that such portion of the money as could not be secured direct from the producer would be made up in contributions from bankers, merchants, cotton mill owners and allied industries, all of which are represented in the council's membership.

Four objectives of the council are: Stabilization of price and production of cotton, coordination of activities of all agencies and societies, a study of the cotton situation from the standpoint of supply and demand and dissemination of information that will enable the farmers to produce their crop at a profit, encourage economic production on restricted acreage, increase the food and feed supply, conserve fertility of the soil and generally improve conditions.

PARK CANOEISTS ARE FINED.

Court Scents Publicity Stunt in Use of Reservoir by Chorus Men.

Despite pleas of their counsel that they paddled a canoe in the Central Park reservoir on July 3 to aid the campaign to open the reservoir for public use, four chorus men were fined $10 each in Yorkville Court yesterday by Magistrate Gotlieb. "This looks like some sort of a publicity stunt to me," commented the Magistrate.

The four were David Labris, 21 years old, of 2,081 Morris Avenue, the Bronx; Frederic May, 20, of 1,072 Halsey Street, Brooklyn; Jack Blair, 21, of 3,611 Thirty-first Street, Queens, and James Reardon, 24, of 17 Pulaski Street, Brooklyn. After Patrolman Quinlan of the Arsenal Station had testified that he had seen them in their canoe and that they had left the reservoir in orderly fashion after a "little persuasion," A. L. Gordon, their counsel, told the Magistrate the jaunt had been part of an orderly plan.

"The authorities are not to be stampeded," said the Magistrate, "and no public official will allow himself to be stampeded. We have a Board of Estimate that is open to reason and we have never had a Mayor more receptive to the public needs. He is neither cold nor reserved. We all live under the law and the law must be observed."

Five professional swimmers received suspended sentences from Magistrate Brodsky on June 18 for diving into the same reservoir as a part of the same campaign, said to be sponsored by the International Professional Swimmers Association.

1,000 SEE RESCUES AT FIRE.

Upper Part of Tenement House in West Fortieth Street Burned.

More than 1,000 persons last night watched a fire that swept the two upper floors of a five-story tenement house at 323 West Fortieth Street, endangering the lives of negro tenants.

The fire was not seen until flames issued from windows on the top floor. A passer-by then sent an alarm, but before the firemen arrived the fire had spread to the roof and also to the third floor, forcing tenants to the fire escape. Firemen ran a ladder to the fire escape and assisted men and women to the street, covering them with tarpaulin to protect them from falling glass. After half an hour's work the fire was extinguished.

NEW BEDFORD CALLS GUARD

Mayor Orders Them Out When Too Few Volunteer for Strike Duty.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 6 (AP).—When an insufficient number of National Guardsmen volunteered for special police duty at the mill gates, Mayor Charles S. Ashley served a precept tonight on Major Harold Winslow commanding the second battalion of the 101st Field Artillery, Massachusetts National Guard, to assemble for duty at the State Armory here Sunday afternoon.

Many of the National Guardsmen are textile strikers or members of families in which there are strikers.

Major Winslow said tonight that every man was willing to assist in preserving order and upholding the laws of the Commonwealth, but that they preferred to be ordered to duty for fear their attitude might be misunderstood by fellow workers if they volunteered for strike duty.

EXPECTS ROYAL WEDDINGS.

Spain Hears of Three, Including King's Daughters Among Them.

HENDAYE, France, July 6 (AP).—Three royal marriages, two of them uniting the Spanish ruling family with foreign sovereign houses, are expected to be announced soon.

Princess Isabel Alfonsa, daughter of Prince Carlos and the late Princess Mercedes, sister of the Spanish King, will be married to Count Zamoyusky of the family pretendent to the throne of Poland, it is said.

Two daughters of the Spanish monarchs will be wed, it also is reported, one to a foreign Prince and the other to a titled member of one of the most aristocratic families of Spain.

Cuban Senator and Writer Plan Duel.

HAVANA, July 6 (AP).—Senator Modesto Maidique has challenged Dr. Arturo Don, newspaper man, to a duel with rapiers. The Senator is believed to have taken offense at recent newspaper articles attributed to Dr. Don. This will be the second duel to be fought in Camaguey Province in a month.

Six-Story Fall Kills Window Cleaner

Patrick O'Rourke, 40 years old, of 1,017 Intervale Avenue, the Bronx, was killed yesterday when he fell from the sixth floor of 307 Pearl Street. O'Rourke was cleaning a window when he lost his balance.

ATTORNEY PLEADS IGNORANCE OF LAW

Says at Inquiry He Was in Army Overseas When Ambulance Chasing Act Was Passed.

ADMITS 50% RETAINER

Testifies He Used Runners but Curtailed Practice on Learning It Was Illegal.

Louis Rothbard, Brooklyn lawyer, admitted yesterday that he had hired runners and paid hospital physicians to bring him injury cases, but explained that he did not know this practice was illegal and that he curtailed the practice when he found it was a violation of law. He appeared before Referee Harrington Putnam in the investigation into ambulance chasing.

The act describing ambulance chasing as a misdemeanor was passed in 1917. Rothbard said he knew nothing about it, as he was in the army overseas. Admitte to the bar in 1917, he said he had studied law in the office of Adolph Ruger. Ruger recently resigned from the bar and was arrested last week on charges of grand larceny and forgery. In 1919 Rothbard said he opened a law office. In 1923, he went on, one of his negligence cases was investigated by the Kings County Bar Association and Mortimer W. Byers, now prosecuting him, advised him then to curtail his negligence business.

He said he followed the advice and restricted the activities of his runners to specific leads and visits to hospitals. Late in 1926, he said, he was again advised by Frank Holmes, another lawyer, to stop employing runners and doctors, and that he did stop. Holmes is now representing Rothbard as his counsel. Rothbard is accused of trying to impede the investigation by urging Dr. John Viviani and Dr. Joseph Caruso to tell Justice Faber that they did not know Rothbard. The accused lawyer denied that he had tried to influence their testimony.

Mr. Byers introduced a check for $1,500, dated in March, 1926, made payable to Dr. Morton K. Hertz, alleged to have been for sending an accident case to Rothbard. When Mr. Byers asked about a case in which Rothbard had been called before Justice Carswell, Rothbard explained that he had obtained a settlement of a negligence action for $12,500 on a 50 per cent. retainer. He said the woman insisted that he pay three doctors' fees. Justice Carswell decided that he need not pay these fees, he said.

The prosecutor asked if he knew of any physician who was able to retard the recovery of a patient to increase the recovery in a case. Rothbard shouted a denial, adding that he had never heard of such a thing.

John J. Ahern of 1,312 Decatur Street, one of Rothbard's investigators, and Solomon Moses of 2,177 East Twenty-first Street, his brother-in-law, testified that they were in Rothbard's automobile when Dr. Caruso and Dr. Viviani discussed their testimony before Justice Faber. Both said Rothbard made no effort to influence the testimony of the physicians.

The case was adjourned until July 13.

IGNORES TEXAS BOLTERS.

State Committee Chairman Says He Will Not Call Meeting.

GEORGETOWN, Texas, July 6 (AP).—D. W. Wilcox, Chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, said at his home here today that the committee had not been called to consider the question of barring party bolters from the Texas primary ballot. He added he did not expect to call the committee together for that purpose.

Jed Adams, Democratic National Committeeman, several days ago suggested such a meeting after Thomas B. Love and Mrs. Edith Wilmans, candidates for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor and Governor, had declared they would not vote for Governor Smith for President.

Mr. Wilcox's statement today followed closely a suggestion by Albert S. Burleson that Mr. Love's name be kept on the ballot so the voters would have opportunity to express their attitude toward bolters. Mr. Burleson was Postmaster General in the Woodrow Wilson Cabinet.

SHOT IN SUICIDE POSE.

Pittsfield Man Accidentally Fires Pistol as He Faces Mirror.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 6 (AP).—While standing before a mirror today pointing a gun at his head to see how he "would look committing suicide," Charles A. Jarvis, a janitor, heard a noise and turned quickly, accidentally discharging the gun and sending a bullet into his head, near the right temple.

Shaking off the daze occasioned by the surprise shot, Jarvis walked to the office of a doctor, and, after being treated, returned to work for two hours. He had to give in finally, however, and go to a hospital, where he is awaiting an operation for removal of the .32-calibre bullet.

The man readily admitted to the doctor that curiosity to see how a man committing suicide would appear to himself caused him to take the pose that nearly resulted in his death.

BURKITT PAYS $25 FINE.

Jersey City "Jeffersonian" Also Gets Threat of Jail "Next Time."

James Burkitt, Jersey City's self-styled "Jeffersonian Democrat," was fined $25 by Judge Leo Sullivan in the First Criminal Court yesterday in Jersey City and a jail sentence was threatened if he came before Judge Sullivan again. Burkitt was charged with being a disorderly person by Policeman Patrick McGovern, who testified that on June 26 Burkitt became abusive.

"You have only contempt for constituted law," said Judge Sullivan, "and no respect for peoples' rights. This is the second time you have been before me for raising disturbances. The next time you'll not get off with a fine but will go to jail." Burkitt paid the fine.

Niagara Whirlpool Gives Up Suicide.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 6 (AP).—The body of the Rev. Metrophan Poplavsky of Ansonia, Conn., Greek Orthodox Priest, who ended his life June 26 by jumping over the American falls, was taken from the whirlpool today by William "Red" Hill. There will be no inquest.

ELECTIONS HERE FIGURE IN LEAGUE CONFERENCE

Import and Export Parley Makes Convention's Operation Dependent on Our Signing.

GENEVA, July 6 (AP).—The American Presidential elections had an echo today in the League of Nations. The conference for the removal of prohibitions and restrictions on exports and imports was trying to decide whether ratification by the United States would be necessary before the convention should go into force.

M. Serruys, French plenipotentiary, emphasized that Congress might find it impossible to ratify the convention at an early date owing to forthcoming political events. Other delegates deemed ratification by the United States indispensable, as the other nations might hesitate to act unless the United States ratified, or might use the American delay as a pretext to retard operation of the convention.

A compromise was accepted whereby the convention will go into force in 1930, provided it is ratifed or acceded to by eighteen States, including the United States. However, should Congress fail to ratify within the prescribed time, the convention still could function unless some nation objected.

Czechoslovakia abandoned her request for the right to put restrictions on the importation of automobiles. Objection to this right had been offered by both the United States and France.

SEEK MORE CLERKS IN ROCKAWAY COURT

Members of the Trade Board Say Extra Sessions Will Swamp the Staff.

NEW POLICE AIDE ASSIGNED

Business Men's Committee to Put the Situation Up to Chief Magistrate McAdoo.

Declaring that the clerks of the Far Rockaway Magistrates' Court would be unable to keep their records up to date unless additional help was assigned to the court during the rest of the Summer season, in view of the fact that three court sessions weekly will be put into effect starting next Tuesday, the Police and Traffic Committee of the Far Rockaway Board of Trade announced yesterday that they will communicate with Chief Magistrate William McAdoo and urge him to see that at least another clerk is assigned to the court for the rest of the season.

"There is only one complaint clerk assigned to the court, and with the Summer season here it is almost impossible for him to take care of the heavy volume of work," said the Chairman of the committee yesterday. "When three sessions are conducted weekly it can readily be seen that one man can hardly handle all of the work.

"The Police Department took recognition of the fact that the work in the court has increased and assigned an additional court attendant to the court, and while he has assisted the complaint clerk, there should really be at least one if not two more clerks assigned to the court. Last year there was an additional clerk on duty at the court. This year when the business is even greater, no additional help has been assigned to the clerks."

The committee recently succeeded in having three court days weekly scheduled for the court in order to reduce the congestion in the small court building.

SAVES 2 BOYS IN CREEK.

Fireman Rescues Lads When Their Freak Raft Capsizes.

Two small boys, using an improvised raft made from a bed spring, were saved from drowning last night while paddling about in the waters of the Coney Island Creek, Brooklyn. Fireman James Hennessy of 2,743 West Third Street, Coney Island, heard their cries as the raft capsized. He rushed from his home, which is near the scene of the accident, and dived overboard. He managed to grasp hold of the two lads, placing one of them back on the raft and holding the other out of the water.

The boys, Robert Batterson, 8 years old, of 2,720 West Third Street, Coney Island, and Jerry Valantino, 10, of 2,710 West Third Street, were suffering from immersion, but Dr. Wurzel of the Coney Island Hospital, with the aid of Fireman Hennessy, revived them.

MISS MARY S. KING MARRIED IN GARDEN

Wed to C. Shelby Carter at Her Parents' Home, Villa Raggio, Convent, N. J.

UNION OF OLD FAMILIES

Bridegroom and His Attendants Wear White Flannel Trousers and Navy Blue Coats.

Special to The New York Times.

CONVENT, N. J., July 6.—Two descendants of families that have figured in the Colonial history of this country were united this afternoon when Miss Mary Spingler King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Vinton King, was married to C. Shelby Carter, son of Mrs. Charles Todd Carter of New York and the late Mr. Carter, at Villa Raggio, the home of her parents here. It was not only picturesque but a country wedding in every sense, the ceremony taking place in the garden abloom with flowers adjoining the house, of Italian architecture. The guests seated on the terraces on each side of the stone steps leading down to the pergola, added to the brilliance of the scene, the bright costumes of the women suggesting an animated flower garden.

The bridal procession made its way from the house down many stone steps to the Italian pergola close by a pond filled with gold fish. A temporary altar had been erected in the pergola against a background of flowers, before which the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Cornelius Clifford of Whippany, N. J.

The cortège was led by the ushers who like the bridegroom and his brother Huntington Todd Carter, the best man, were white flannel trousers and navy blue coats instead of more formal attire. They were Willard van Beuren King and Gordon King, brothers of the bride; Archbold van Beuren, her cousin; Hugh Eustis Paine, Gardiner Trowbridge, Hugh Campbell Wallace 2d, Herbert Noble Jr., Robert L. Perkins, John W. Pope, J. Shipp, McCarroll, Jerome V. Delmer and John Haskell. They were followed by the flower girl, Daphne Bayne, a cousin of the bride; the bridesmaids, the Misses Jessica van Beuren, Emily Augusta Thomas and Betty Bayne, also cousins; Sally Ford, Charlotte Miller, Betty Marvin, Dorothy McEwan and Louise Burton Laidlaw; then Miss Barbara Humphreys who was maid of honor.

Father Escorts the Bride.

Next came the bride escorted by her father. Her gown of cream colored chiffon, made on simple lines with long close sleeves, was embroidered in seed pearls and worn over a slip of cloth of silver. A feature of her costume was her veil of old rose point lace, mellowed with age to a deep ivory color, which for several generations had been worn by members of his family at their marriages. It fell from under a Juliet cap of pearls, in graceful folds over her court train of cloth of silver. The bride carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

All the bridal attendants wore garden frocks of organdy, long, full skirts with tier upon tier of ruffles, finished with pink and blue bustle bows. Those of the bridesmaids were in four shades of pink, shading from light to rose, two in each color. They wore blue garden hats. The maid of honor's frock was of blue and she wore a pink hat. All carried arm bouquets of garden flowers. The flower girl's costume was of mauve organdy and she carried a Leghorn hat filled with blossoms.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Mr. Carter and his bride, followed by their attendants, retraced their steps up the stone walk to the open porch, where they received the good wishes of their relatives and friends. The orchestra of Anna Byrne, which played before and during the services also furnished music for the reception.

After the reception, dinner was served at small tables placed about the lawns. For the bridal party there was a table in the dining room, decorated with white flowers.

Will Motor to Colorado Springs.

Mr. Carter and his bride on their wedding trip will motor to Colorado Springs, and later through Colorado, returning in August. They will live in New Jersey during the Summer and next Winter will be in New York. She is a member of the Spingler and van Beuren families, who for generations have owned extensive property in the vicinity of Fourteenth Street, New York. She is a great-granddaughter of the late Mrs. Michael M. van Beuren, the former Miss Mary Spingler Fonderden, and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. van Beuren who for many years occupied the brownstone house at 21 West Fourteenth Street, long a landmark in that section of the city, and which was built on a part of the old Spingler farm. The old homestead has now given way to business. The bride's father is Chairman of the Advisory Board of the American Exchange Irving Trust Company.

Mr. Carter is a descendant of King Carter, the first Governor of Virginia in Colonial days, and a great-great-grandson of Colonel Isaac Shelby, the hero of the Battle of King's Mountain and the first Governor of Kentucky. He is also a great-great-grandson of General Ebenezer Huntington, a relative of Samuel Huntington, who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence and several times Governor of Connecticut.

ETHEL SIMPSON ENGAGED.

Magistrate's Daughter to Wed Nicholas Sansone—Other Betrothals.

Magistrate and Mrs. George W. Simpson of 337 Convent Avenue have announced to their friends the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ethel E. Simpson, to Nicholas Sansone of this city.

Miss Simpson is a granddaughter of the late Dr. Thomas Jefferson Simpson and has spent the last three years traveling abroad. Mr. Sansone is a graduate of Columbia University and of the Damrosch School of Music. The date for the marriage has not been selected.

Shirley—Mendelsohn.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Alice Georgina Shirley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. J. Shirley of Mount Vernon, to Robert Mendelsohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mendelsohn of Mount Vernon and Havana, Cuba.

De Bauchamp—Hemwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry de Bauchamp of Valley Stream, L. I., announce the engagement of their daughter, Thelma, to John Thomas Hemwood of Rockville Centre.

SON CONTESTS DOBSON WILL

Reporter Charges Fraud in Disposal of Brooklyn Editor's Estate.

A contest of the will of George F. Dobson, former managing editor of The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, was started in the Surrogate's Court yesterday by his son, George F. Dobson Jr., a newspaper reporter, who was cut off from the $200,000 estate. Surrogate O'Brien denied an application for the appointment of a temporary administrator.

Mr. Dobson died on May 8 in a fall from a window at 115 West Seventy-third Street. His will was filed for probate on May 21, disposing of one-half of his property to his widow, Mrs. Eugenie Dobson; one-fourth to his grandson, George F. Dobson 3d of Camden, N. J., and one-fourth to a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn E. Thompson of 127 Parkside Avenue, Brooklyn. The son, who lives at 55 East Mosholu Parkway, the Bronx, was not mentioned.

The objections to probate of the will are based in part on charges of fraud and undue influence on the part of the widow and grandson.

TO SEND GIFTS TO MEXICO.

San Antonio Schoolboys and Girls Also Seek Correspondence.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 6.—San Antonio school children in the minor grades are taking a keen interest in developing friendship with Mexican school children by exchanging presents, following the system used by the World's School Children Friendship Committee of New York, which sent dolls to the Japanese school children.

A group of young girls here have prepared four friendship bags which will be included in the collection now being made in all parts of the United States and which are expected to be shipped to Mexico City this month.

In addition to the Girls Friendship Association, a group of young school boys have formed a second association which will send mechanical toys and the like to Mexican boys. Weekly correspondence will also be cultivated.

SYLVAN OESTREICHER WEDS.

New York Lawyer Is Married to May Masterson Gray.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., July 6.—May Masterson Gray became the bride of Sylvan Oestreicher, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McCall in Middle Hope, on Saturday evening, it has become known here.

Both bride and bridegroom are residents of New York City, where Mr. Oestreicher is a lawyer. He is a close friend of Mr. and Mrs. McCall, who attended the couple.

The ceremony was performed by Justice Albert T. P. Seeger of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. About twenty guests were present.

The couple were to sail for Europe on the steamship Columbus tonight.

A Son to Mrs. Clement S. Crystal.

A son was born yesterday at the Woman's Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Clement S. Crystal of 1,160 Park Avenue. Mrs. Crystal before her marriage was Miss Beatrice Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Moss of Hewlett Bay Park, L. I.

MISS CHAVANE WED TO RUSSIAN PRINCE

Bride of Dmitri Sidamon-Eristoff in Russian Church of Christ the Saviour.

RECEPTION AT PARK LANE

Bridegroom, a Brooklyn Lawyer, Served in the Czar's Guards in Imperial Army.

A wedding of unusual interest took place yesterday afternoon in the Russian Church of Christ the Saviour, Madison Avenue and 121st Street, when Miss Nicole Elisabeth Chavane, daughter of Mrs. Donald Bennett Adams of Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., and of the late André Chavane of Paris, was married to Prince Dmitri Sidamon-Eristoff of New York.

The Rev. Vasily Kourdoumoff, pastor of the church, officiated at the Russian ceremony, which was marked by the holding of a crown over the heads of the bride and the bridegroom. The bride was escorted to the altar by her stepfather, Major Donald Bennett Adams. As is the custom in such a service, she had no attendants. She wore a medieval gown of white satin embroidered with seed pearls and carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Prince Sidamon-Eristoff had no best man, which is also a custom of the Russian Church. His ushers were his cousins, the Princess Simon and Pierre Sidamon-Eristoff; Norman Ogden Whitehouse, Charles K. Moser, Everett M. Hill and Kyrill Scriabne. The ceremony was followed by a small reception at the Park Lane. On their return from a wedding trip the Prince and his bride will probably live in New York.

The bride is a niece of Baroness Charil des Mazures and Count and Countess de Trolamonts of Paris. She went to Miss May's School in Boston and Barnard College. Prince Sidamon-Eristoff is related to many noble families of Russia. He is a relative of Mrs. Norman Ogden Whitehouse, the former Russian Princess Tamara Bagration Moukhransky and of the former Princess Xenia, daughter of Prince and Princess Georges Sidamon-Eristoff, who in 1923 was married to Charles K. Moser of Washington, former American Consul at Tiflis, in the Russian Province of Georgia.

The Prince was graduated from the Imperial School of Jurisprudence in St. Petersburg, Russia, and received the degree of LL. B. from Washington and Lee University. He served in the Czar's Guards Horse Regiment in the Russian Imperial Army. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Alpha Delta societies and for a number of years has been practicing law in Brooklyn.

Weston—Addoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hallett Addoms of Cranford, N. J., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Katherine Addoms, to Lieutenant Standish Weston, U. S. A., son of Walter Weston.

The marriage took place last Wednesday in the Church of St. Peter-in-the-East, Oxford, England, and was followed by a reception at Magdalen College. Mrs. Thomas Bishop of Stewart Hall, Stirling, Scotland, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Lieutenant Charles E. Saltzman, U. S. A., was best man.

Mrs. Weston is a graduate of Vassar College. Lieutenant Weston was graduated from West Point in 1925 and will take a degree at Magdalen College, Oxford University, in August.

After a tour abroad Lieutenant and Mrs. Weston will visit the bride's parents in Cranford, N. J., in the Autumn.

PASSES BIDS ON NEW COURT.

Miller Says Traffic Building on West 151st St. Will Open in Spring.

Bids for the construction of the new Traffic Court building, at 151st Street between Amsterdam and Convent Avenues, have been approved by Julius Miller, Borough President of Manhattan, and have been sent to Controller Berry for his approval of the surety furnished by the successful bidders.

According to Mr. Miller and the Superintendent of Public Offices and Buildings, Colonel Frank H. Hine, the new court should be in readiness for occupancy late next Spring. The contractors have 220 working days in which to complete the job. When the new court is ready it will handle a great volume of traffic cases which are now put through the lone Manhattan traffic court at 300 Mulberry Street.

The new building is to cost $590,916. Besides the Traffic Court, it will house three other Magistrates' Courts and four Municipal Courts.

George M. McCabe of 96 Fifth Avenue is architect of the building, and according to Assistant Engineer John Henry Stewart, who has charge of the plans now, the building will be unique in that it will house both criminal and civil courts. James McWilliams, Inc., 55 West Forty-second Street, obtained the general contract for $528,400. The plumbing contract went to the George E. Gibson Company, 44 Lexington Avenue, for $27,250. The Dierks Heating Company, 208 East Thirty-first Street, got the heating contract at $35,166.

CAPTAIN HERE ON LAST TRIP

Master of the Aquitania Will Retire on 63d Birthday, Aug. 2.

Sir James Charles arrived yesterday in command of the Cunarder Aquitania from Southampton with his commodore flag flying at the mainmast head for the last time. When he docks his ship at Southampton he will do a few days' shore duty and retire on Aug. 2, his sixty-third birthday.

Sir James has been forty-eight years at sea and half that period in command. For the past eighteen years he has had charge of the company's three biggest liners, the Lusitania, Mauretania and Aquitania. He has crossed the North Atlantic 726 times, roughly estimated at 2,323,200 nautical miles, in addition to his travel in the eight years he served in sailing vessels round Cape Horn to South Africa and in the Boer War.

WORLD CALLED CYNICAL.

Quaker Conference Hears Attack on Materialism and Pessimism.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 6 (AP).—S. Archibald Smith of Locust Valley, N. Y., told the Friends General Conference today that cynicism, "not antheism," was terrorizing the world.

"We are but picking up pebbles on the seashore," he said, "while the ocean of truth flows unceasingly. The fact that man today, with great material knowledge, cynically refuses to perceive the highest truth and be true to it is no evidence that he is a better product than his early forebears.

"We need to be rescued from pitch-black pessimism. We need to know that God is love, the regenerating faith that makes men free."

Several hundred Quakers from New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Indiana, Illinois and other States are attending the conference.

Austen Gray has arrived from New York to join his mother, Mrs. John Clinton Gray, at the Pine Lodge.

William Laurens Van Alen, who has been in Europe, has joined his mother, Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen, at Wakehurst.

YOUTH SEEKS PARENTS.

Was Left at Bellevue for Treatment in 1907 and Never Called For.

Michael Wangella, who believes he is about 23 years old and who works and resides with a florist, Anton Fredericks, at Northport, L. I., appealed yesterday to Dr. Mark L. Fleming, General Medical Superintendent of Bellevue Hospital, to aid him in finding his parents, Michael and Mary, who in 1907 brought him to the hospital for treatment for spinal curvature and never returned for him.

Hospital records show that his parents then lived at 114 Essex Street. The young man has canvassed that neighborhood, but found no trace of them.

In 1910 he was transferred from the hospital to Saint Agatha's Convent at Nanuet, N. Y. In 1922 he left the convent, not entirely cured, and spent a year in New York undergoing treatment at the Orthopedic Hospital and conducting a search for his parents. At the end of the year he gave up his efforts and went to Ann Arbor, Mich., where he worked on a farm and went to high school. On July 1, 1927, the desire to find his parents and know something about himself brought him back to New York.

BARS NEWARK DANCE DERBY

Police Chief Says City Is "Better Off Without Those Things."

Chief of Police James A. McRell of Newark refused permission last night for the holding of a dance marathon in the Paradise Ball Room, a dance hall at Broad and Hill Streets. The reason given was that "Newark is better off without that sort of thing."

The promoters of the proposed dance derby, which was to have started last night, was postponed to next Wednesday on account of other difficulties, plan to seek an injunction restraining the Chief of Police from interfering with their enterprise. The matter was referred to the head of the Police Department because of a city ordinance which requires every dance held in a public dance hall to have his sanction.

The city Health Department has also taken official notice of the proposed marathon, but has announced no definite policy regarding it.

300 Have Grippe in Pittsfield.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 6.—The Town of Lee was guarding today against the further spread of the epidemic of influenza and grippe that it sent 300 residents to their beds. The attacks in most cases are mild. Dr. Leland French, State Health Officer, has investigated and says there is no cause for alarm. There was difficulty today in obtaining sufficient pallbearers for the funeral of Elmer Childs of East Lee. Up to noon only two had been secured. Most of Mr. Child's friends are stricken.

Thomas L. Leemings Have a Son.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Leeming of 212 East Forty-eighth Street and Glen Cove, L. I., on Thursday at the Sloane Hospital. Mrs. Leeming is the former Miss Jane Comstock Read.

EXTENDS D'ANNUNZIO BAN.

Vatican Places on Index All His Works That Bishops Deem Offensive

ROME, July 6 (AP).—All the works of Gabriele d'Annunzio which are deemed "offensive to the faith and morality" are to be considered on the index of prohibited works, the Osservatore Romano, official Vatican organ, will say this evening.

The Osservatore reproduces a statement of the Congregation of the Holy Office printed in the official organ Acta Apostolicae Sedis," which replies to the request of a number of Bishops who asked whether, in addition to d'Annunzio's novels, his plays, poems and selected prose, notably those produced subsequent to the first indexing on May 3, 1911, come under the ban.

The Holy Office answered affirmatively, with the qualification that it was left to the local Bishops to judge when they were offensive to the faith and morality, and the reply was inscribed in the index on June 27. The next day the Pope approved the Congregations finding and he ordered its publication today.

FREES STALLINGS OF BLAME

Philadelphia Court Clears Playwright in Auto Accident Case.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6 (AP).—Laurence Stallings, co-author of "What Price Glory," was released today when he appeared before a police magistrate after his automobile had struck a woman. The magistrate said Stallings was not to blame for the accident.

Stallings was driving through the Falls of Schuylkill section of Philadelphia when the woman was struck. He took her to a hospital and then reported to a police station. He was released on bail and when he came up for a hearing today there were no witnesses against him.

The woman was only slightly bruised.

A Daughter to Mrs. E. F. Eidlitz.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Frederick Eidlitz of 920 Fifth Avenue on Tuesday at Miss Lippincott's Sanatorium. Mrs. Eidlitz is the former Miss Dorothy Eleanor Meigs.

Yale, California Crews Gain Olympic Final—Wykoff Stars in Olympic Track Test

CALIFORNIA AND YALE WIN ROWING TRIALS

Poughkeepsie Champions Defeat Columbia by Half Length in Great Duel.

ELIS' MARGIN ALSO SLIGHT

Princeton's Fast Start Leaves Yale at Line, but Blue Drives to Ten-Foot Triumph.

HARVARD 4-OARED VICTOR

Bachelors Barge Club Also Reaches Final—Hoover, Myers and Schoenfeld Sculling Winners.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Late tomorrow afternoon the eight-oared crews of Yale and California will row over the 2,000 meter course on the Schuylkill here to decide which shall represent the United States at the Olympics next month.

In two races rowed at a blistering, heartbreaking pace this evening, these two eights, champions at Poughkeepsie and New London, came through to the final round of the Olympic trials regatta.

In the first semi-final Yale won in a slam-bang fight with Princeton by a margin of ten feet. In the second the big California crew stood off Columbia's crippled eight by a little less than the same margin by which it beat the Lions at Poughkeepsie, or a half-boat length.

With extremely fast conditions prevailing, a current going like mad downstream and a bit of a following wind, the crews turned in some extremely fast times.

The times of the Yale-Princeton race were: Yale 5:18 4-5, Princeton 5:19 2-5. The times in the other semi-final were: California 5:20 3-5, Columbia 5:22 4-5.

The early part of the day was devoted to semi-final heats in the single sculls and in the four-oared shells with coxswains. Otto Schoenfeld of New Orleans, a young preparatory school student at Cornell, won the first heat from Thomas Clark of the Undine Barge Club and Russell Codman of Boston.

Hoover Wins Second Heat.

Walter Hoover took the second heat from Algernon Fitzpatrick of the Penn A. C., with Clyde Adams of Washington scratched. Ken Myers of the Bachelors Barge Club took the third heat from Al Vogt of the Penn A. C. and John Crooks of the Union Boat Club.

In the fours, Harvard University won pretty much as it pleased over the San Diego Rowing Club, and the Bachelors without too much effort from the Pennsylvania Barge Club.

There was some good rowing and the excitement that an event of this importance must hold for these races, but the singles and four-oared races paled far into the background before the stirring contests that the four university eights put on in the evening to round out the day. The only race that has held so much excitement in recent years, at least among s,print events, took place at the Olympic Trials of four years ago when Yale nosed out the Navy officers.

If two winning crews ever needed fighting courage to come through, Yale and California certainly needed it tonight, and two losing crews never went down to defeat fighting harder than did Princeton and Columbia.

Columbia Race Delayed.

The California-Columbia race was to have started things off, but Arthur Douglas, No. 3 for Columbia, broke his rigger as the crews paddled up to the start and the shell had to be taken back to the boat house for repairs. The committee hastily sent down the river for Yale and Princeton and, after a half hour's wait, they came paddling up to start things. The sun had begun to go down behind the west bank and shadows were falling on a river that was bubbling along almost with a flood speed in its current.

The current was so strong that there was a great deal of difficulty in getting the boats on the line. Yale drifted over and the race was further delayed. Finally, when the crews did start the gun went off as Pete Stewart's hand in the Yale stern was still in the air asking for delay. Yale was jumped flatfooted, and it came mighty close to being a fatal start for the Elis.

For this Princeton crew, patched together to make a bid for the Olympics, was going away from that start in no uncertain fashion. Clingerman, brought up from the freshmen to stroke, asked for forty-four strokes from the men behind him during the first minute, and he got what he sought.

Yale settled down to its stern chase. The Elis rowed forty-two for the first minute and kept the Princeton margin down to a half length. Coming up to the trolley bridge, Yale dropped to forty-one and Princeton to about the same, and Yale began closing in.

Yale Overtakes Princeton.

As they shot under the bridge and headed out to the posts marking three-quarter miles to go on the other side, Yale had caught up. Then there came as pretty and as desperate an eight-oared fight as any river ever held. Princeton found the strength somewhere in the boat to stay up around the forty mark and Yale stayed around thirty-eight. Drive for drive they went speeding over nearly a quarter mile of the middle part of the race looked together almost as one crew.

It was not until the tip of Peters Island, which marks a quarter mile to go, was reached that Yale began to look the winner in certain terms. Here, for the first time, there began to be signs of a slight weakening in this amazing Princeton shell which had saved so much from an early season disappointment. There was a bit of splashing.

Relentlessly and with the same even beauty of rhythm that has made this Yale crew look so well at high strokes, Yale applied the pressure.

Princeton recovered quickly from its flurry and clung to the Elis with the tenacity of one of Yale's own bulldogs. But the Tigers couldn't get back the few precious feet by which Yale led them. With both crews up to forty and better they slammed over the finish line and the gunshots came so close together that they seemed the reports of a machine gun.

The great Tiger try at the end of a bad season had just fallen short and Yale had found the stuff in the boat to overcome that which is considered fatal in these sprint races, being left at the post.

Second Race Also Great Duel.

The second race, when it finally started, just before darkness settled down, lacked the finish of the first race, but there was the same nerve-wracking fight down the course, with California jumping to a half-length lead soon after the start, but never widening it, sometimes losing part of it, until just before the last quarter mile, when the great Western crew went ahead by almost a full length.

Columbia found something with which to answer. It found an answer even when California's white towel called for the last spurt and the New Yorkers closed up half a length.

The start of this race was more even and so, with neither crew fighting to catch the other, the pace was a bit less blistering than in the first race. But it was away up in the high thirties all the way and above forty at the finish. The California lead was not won by a jump at the start, but was worked out during the first half of the race, foot by foot. The stern chase that Columbia made was as game and gallant a thing as any the sport has ever held.

MacBain Rows Though Ill.

It is taking nothing from the victory of California to say that Columbia had still another bad break in the luck last night. MacBain, after the excitement of stroking last night, became ill and lost nearly all of his sleep.

At the finish tonight he toppled forward on his face like a boxer that had been hit. He had turned in a superb race and Columbia's eight, which had started the season with such high hopes, had finished just this side of the heights, but near enough for the Lions to share a good deal of the spotlight.

The varsity eight-oared final tomorrow is scheduled to start at 5 o'clock Daylight Saving Time at the end of an afternoon of racing which is to open at 2 o'clock. Granted the proper conditions, this race ought to rank high in the annals of rowing history, for certainly Yale and California proved themselves conclusively today in two mighty hard tests.

GIANTS OVERWHELM PIRATES BY 11 TO 7

SCORE SEVEN IN 1ST INNING

Bush Uses 3 Pitchers in Effort to Halt Attack—Genewich Relieved by Faulkner.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 6.—The Giants lost no time loitering as they started prowling through the provinces with a pennant in view today. In fact they started their invasion of the West a little sooner than the Pirates wanted them to.

They started in the first inning with seven runs and they ended the day with an 11-7 victory, which was pleasing, not to say profitable, as the Cardinals were idle, and the Giants crept within two games of the league leaders.

It took an injunction to stop the dance marathon here last night and it looked very much as though it would take another to stop the Giants' marathon in the first inning. Fred Fussell tried it and failed. John Miljus made a feeble attempt and it finally took Joe Dawson, the third pitcher, to slow them down to a mere gallop.

Joe managed to remain in public view until the end, but he didn't show any signs of taking the place once held by Houdini as a man of mystery and cuning. The Giants rapped him for a couple more runs in the fifth and another pair in the eighth before they let him escape.

Genewich Fails to Last.

Joe Genewich started pitching for the Giants but departed in the fourth, more in sorrow than in anger. It was the first time he has failed to finish what he has started since joining the boys from the big city.

He still had a four-run lead when he was relieved, but the Pirates were making motions of depriving him of even that when John McGraw decided that discretion was the better part of valor, and summoned Lefty Faulkner to calm down the threatened mutiny by the Buccaneer crew.

He did, shutting the Pirates out until the ninth, when a couple of errors prevented the Giants from retiring the side on schedule, and four hits that never would have been made except for the misplays followed. All that gave the Pirates four more runs but didn't cause any excitement for either of the spectators.

About everything happened in the first inning, but a hole-in-one. It took three pitchers to get the Giants out and it looked for a while as though the fire department would have to be called on.

Four Singles Start Giants.

Seven hits—all singles—two bases on balls, an error, a sacrifice and a balk resulted in seven runs and a second-hand ball game from then on.

Cohen, Welsh, Lindstrom and Mann started the cyclone with singles which accounted for two tallies. Terry sacrificed and Jackson rolled to Traynor, who trapped Lindstrom on the way home. However, before Lindy was completely surrounded and run down, Bartell threw the ball to no one in particular, allowing not only Lindy but also Mann to score.

When Reese walked and Hogan singled, driving in another run, Manager Bush decided he would rather have Fussell elsewhere. Miljus was summoned to the relief, but proved inadequate. Genewich and Cohen singled off him and he got so excited over the situation that he committed a balk. After that he was free to go swimming, fishing or do practically anything but pitch.

Bush, on his third guess, picked Dawson to do the flinging and at last found a human means of stopping the Giants.

Pirates Peck at Genewich.

Still, with seven runs in, the ball game seemed as good as over, if not better. The Pirates started pecking away at Genewich, though, and at the end of the third inning those seven runs didn't loom quite so large. While Dawson was holding the Giants scoreless his teammates accumulated three runs and knocked Genewich from the box in the third.

But why go into that? After the first inning they were just playing to make it official anyway.

Lindstrom made his seventh straight hit with a single off Fussell's glove in the first inning and ended his streak with a long fly to Paul Waner in the same frame.

The Giants announced before the game that they had signed Garland Buckeye, recently released by Cleveland. They hired him because he's a left-handed pitcher. The Indians fired him because he wasn't a good left-handed pitcher.

Lindy overran third on Ott's double and was tagged out while sitting on the grass, enjoying the view and admiring the atmosphere. There were some who thought tagging was too good for him.

The Pirates are going to meet the Giants in a double-header tomorrow whether they want to or not.

SHOCKER RELEASED AS A FREE AGENT

Yankees' Offer of Retirement Is Declined by Veteran Spitball Pitcher.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Another member departed yesterday from the once great legion of spitball pitchers. Urban Shocker has been unconditionally released by the Yankees, and unless he is signed by some other major league team, finis has been written to the career of one of the finest pitchers that ever held sway on the mound.

The passing of Shocker was confirmed yesterday by Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, who explained that the club had offered to place Shocker on the voluntarily retired list, but that he had insisted upon his unconditional release, which makes him a free agent, able to sign wherever he wants to.

Ill health hastened Shocker's end with the Yankees. After enjoying a successful season last year, he refused to sign a contract last Winter, saying that he wished to retire and devote himself to an electrical and radio business in St. Louis.

Accordingly, the Yanks placed him on the voluntarily retired list, but after the season had started Shocker changed his mind and applied for reinstatement, which was granted, and he returned to the Yankees.

But he was many weeks behind in training, and then sickness set in to hamper him further. Urban was able to put on a uniform and appear on the field, but it was apparent that he was a sick man and not himself. His stomach gave him trouble and it was also whispered that his heart was ailing. His only appearance was in an exhibition game.

WHITE SOX BEAT SENATORS, 9 TO 8

Washington Fights Uphill, but Four-Run Rally in Ninth Falls Short.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP).—Despite a four-run rally in the ninth by Washington, the Chicago White Sox today gained a 9 to 8 victory over the Senators in their series opener. Each club used three pitchers, and both teams made a total of 29 hits.

CUBS' TWENTY HITS BEAT ROBINS, 14-8

20,000 CHEER CUB VICTORY

Jess Petty Hammered Off Mound in the Third, While Percy Jones Subdues Brooklyn.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 6.—The Robins this afternoon plunged fearlessly into the strife and turmoil of a seething pennant race that seems to be going on out here in the great West, but became enmeshed in some barbed wire or something and got terribly mangled. While they were trying to disengage themselves the Cubs pelted them, 14 to 8, and 20,000 Chicagoans chortled with glee.

It was a bruising afternoon for the Dodgers, who seemed on the wrong end of everything. Jess Petty, the distinguished silver fox, was knocked out of the box in the third inning. Ray Moss, his successor, who followed in the seventh, and Lou Koupal caught what was left as the Cubs rounded out a total of twenty base hits, two of these being the twentieth and twenty-first home runs of the season by Hack Wilson.

Only Representation Is in Women's Doubles—Miss Wills to Defend Title Today.

By J. S. MacCORMAC.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 6.—A gathering which included the King of Spain, the ex-King of Greece, the Duke of Alva, Princess Helena Victoria, Princess Marie Louise and the Grand Duke Michael saw Rene Lacoste become Wimbledon champion today, defeating Henri Cochet, 6—1, 4—6, 6—4, 6—2, in a final that was a disappointing conclusion to some of the struggles which had led up to it.

The American mixed doubles team of Francis T. Hunter and Miss Helen Wills were beaten in the semi-finals by the South African and American combination, P. D. B. Spence and Miss Elizabeth Ryan.

As Jack Crawford and Miss Daphne Akhurst of Australia completed their unfinished match with Cochet and Miss Eileen Bennett, winning the final set, and then defeated their compatriots, E. F. Moon and Mrs. O'Hara Wood, America and South Africa thus will have one representative each in the mixed doubles, while Australia has two.

Two English Teams Remain.

England's only representation will be in the women's doubles, where two British pairs, Miss P. Saunders and Mrs. Watson, and Miss E. H. Harvey and Miss Eileen Bennett will dispute the final.

Most of the interest had left the men's singles with Tilden's disappearance since this eliminated all international flavor. What was expected, however, was an exhibition of subtle tactics and polished stroke play of a kind likely to be appreciated at their full only by close students of the game.

It was to be a battle between a steady and penetrating base-liner capable of following his drives to the net and a superb volleyer able to exchange ground strokes with the best. By most people Cochet was expected to repeat his triumph of the French national championships.

What happened, however, was that Lacoste at his best met Cochet almost at his worst. Lacoste was a piece of well-oiled machinery, Cochet a dlunted sword. Tactics are of little use when strokes fail and Cochet's simplicity wouldn't come off today.

Frequently Drives Into Net.

Time and again one of those brilliant dashes to the net would be nullified because Cochet netted a stroke. Despite high winds his smashing was what it always is—the soundest and deadliest in the world. But his drives went into the net and his volleys outside the court.

Lacoste double faulted thrice and was foot faulted once. Otherwise his game was almost errorless, his length perfect, and his mobility such that in retrieving one ball he turned a complete somersault.

When the first set went to Lacoste, 6—1, experts said that meant nothing since Cochet always loses the first set of a match which he is going to win. When Cochet took the second set they applauded their own wisdom notwithstanding that Lacoste probably would have saved the set were it not for Cochet's lucky net-cord last point.

In the third set Cochet overcame an initial 2—4 disadvantage by squaring it at 4-all. Then Lacoste took the next six games, which made him a set up and gave him a 4-love lead in the next. To win them he outplayed Cochet at net.

Cochet took four more games and saved match point three times but finally fell. Then Lacoste's racquet and cap were thrown high in the air and Cochet ran forward to congratulate the new Wimbledon champion.

Both Miss Ryan and her partner were unsteady in the first set of their mixed doubles match. With Miss Helen Wills showing greatly improved doubles play and Hunter playing a forceful game the American team quickly achieved a 3—1 lead by capturing Miss Ryan's service and kept it to take the set, 6—4.

In the second set, Miss Ryan, who is almost certainly the best woman's doubles player, steadied down and Spence, finding himself still unsteady, played safe and wisely left most of the last shots to his partner.

Miss Wills Serves Well.

Overcoming a 1—3 disadvantage, Miss Ryan and Spence, despite clever lobbing and magnificent serving by Miss Wills—she took the eighth game at love with her lightning serves—made it one set all.

In the final Spence and Miss Ryan captured Miss Wills's service to gain a 3—1 lead and then went to 5—2. Miss Wills rallied to win on her own service with strokes that beat Spence and Miss Ryan outright. Her driving also had been of great speed but she made the mistake of aiming at the net player instead of for the open court.

She saved match point in the ninth game by lobbing back three terrific smashes but Miss Ryan kept on and won the match at 4—6, 6—4, 6—3.

Senorita de Alvarez has decided she is well enough to play tomorrow and her match with Miss Wills will head the centre court program.

The summaries (P):

Men's Singles—Rene Lacoste, France, defeated Henri Cochet, France, 6—1, 4—6, 6—4, 6—2.

Mixed Doubles—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, California, and P. D. B. Spence, South Africa, defeated Miss Helen Wills and Francis T. Hunter, United States, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3; Mrs. Pat O'Hara Wood and E. F. KYNASTON REACHES TENNIS SEMI-FINAL Eliminates Johnson by 6-3, 6-3 in New Jersey Clay Court Championships.

DE MOTT ALSO TRIUMPHS

Vanquishes Tarangioli of New York University Without Difficulty by Score of 6-0, 6-1.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., July 6.—Percy Kynaston and R. M. De Mott today joined Wilmer Allison and Berkeley Bell in the semi-final brackets of the New Jersey State clay court singles tennis championship at the Montclair Athletic Club. Three of the first four seeded players are now in the semi-finals while De Mott, the only unseeded player to advance, had disposed of Herbert L. Bowman, the defending champion, earlier in the week.

Kynaston was in fine form today. He encountered rugged opposition from Wallace Johnson in his fourth round match. Kynaston met the test with a burst of added power to vanquish his rival, 6—3, 6—3. In the quarter-final clash Kynaston had an easy time of it. He dropped only one game in the two sets against Harry Wolf, winning, 6—1, 6—0.

De Mott was too experienced for Edward Tarangioli of New York University, winning, 6—0, 6—1.

Singles.

Fourth Round—Percy Kynaston defeated Wallace Johnson, 6—3, 6—3.
Quarter Final Round—Kynaston defeated Harry Wolf, 6—1, 6—0; R. M. De Mott defeated Edward Tarangioli, 6—0, 6—1.

Doubles.

Third Round—Greer and Muller won from Dailey and Rockafellow by default; Johnson and Mangin defeated Terhune and Cole, 6—2, 8—6; Knox and Baker defeated French and Steinkamp, 9—7, 4—6, 6—2 and default.

RAIN INTERRUPTS TENNIS.

Floods Courts at Glen Cove and Glen Head, Halting Play.

Play in invitation tennis tournaments at the Nassau Country Club, Glen Cove, and at the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club, Glen Head, was suspended yesterday due to the heavy rain which flooded the courts.

Matches will be resumed at the Nassau courts today with Dr. George King opposing Dr. Carl Fisher and William Aydelotte facing E. W. Feibleman in two remaining fourth-round events. The winners will be in the semi-final while the other semi-final will find John Van Ryan opposed to Fritz Mercur. The final will be staged tomorrow.

In the event the courts at Glen Head have not dried sufficiently for play today, the tournament will go over to tomorrow. Miss Virginia Hilleary and Miss Dorothy Andrus are the finalists in the singles and also are bracketed together in the final of the doubles.

291,524-FRANC FINE ON FRENCH TENNIS

Sport Is Killed, President of Net Body Says, When Judge Announces His Decision.

GAME AN ENTERTAINMENT

Subject to Tax, Court Rules, Because It Does Not Develop Players in a Military Sense.

PARIS, July 6 (AP).—Paris tennis fans, unable to attend the championship finals at Wimbledon, disputed today between two Frenchmen, Rene Lacoste and Henri Cochet, gathered in force at the Seine tribunal where they heard a judge sentence the French Tennis Federation to pay a fine of 291,524 francs to the French Treasury.

The case was the outgrowth of the refusal of the federation to pay taxes levied upon music halls, theatres and other entertainment places. It has been before the courts for several months. It was a coincidence that the decision, which tennis officials say may ruin tennis in France, was handed down at a moment when two Frenchmen were fighting for supremacy in England.

The French Federation demurred payment, claiming that tennis receipts came under the law of 1920 exempting from taxation gate receipts of organizations with the aims of developing sports and physical education as military preparation.

Not a Military Game.

The court ruled that tennis failed to fulfill the last named, stressing the fact that women are perfectly able to play tennis while they are unable to serve as soldiers. Tennis officials countered with the Wimbledon match between Lacoste and Tilden, consisting of five terrific sets. "Certainly Tilden and Lacoste are both mentally and physically equipped to be the best soldiers of any army in the world," it was said.

President Canet of the French Tennis Federation was disappointed at the court's decision. "This is a terrific blow to tennis," he said. "I don't want to criticize the courts, but they are just about going to kill tennis.

"Many clubs in Northern France already have closed and others will follow suit. Where will our young players be developed to take the place of our stars?

"To think that this comes when France had placed five men out of the last eight and three in the semi-finals in what is still considered the world's championship at Wimbledon."

Challenge Round in France.

Canet had threatened to hold the Davis Cup challenge round at Wimbledon if the judgment went against the federation. He was asked today as to this possibility.

His reply was a question. "What would France look like in the eyes of the tennis world?" adding, "No, we must stage the challenge round here."

He said that a special invitation would be sent the Judge giving the decision today to attend.

"After he has watched Tilden, Lacoste and Cochet play, he may change his mind about tennis not being fit preparation for military service," Canet said.

LEE AND WRIGHT GAIN DIAMOND SCULLS FINAL

Champion Beats Gaye and Wright Conquers Guest—Thames Club and Trinity Win.

HENLEY, England, July 6 (AP).—The duel of last year in the Diamond Sculls between Joe Wright Jr. of Toronto and R. T. Lee of Oxford will be repeated tomorrow. Wright and Lee won their semi-finals today. Lee won last year when Wright's oar became entangled in a punt rope.

Wright gained the final by defeating his fellow townsman and clubmate, Jack Guest, by a half length in the comparatively fast time of 9 minutes 5 seconds.

Lee defeated D. Guye, London, his time being 9 minutes 19 seconds. The holder of the Diamond Sculls was in distress at the finish. He had a lead of a length but was fully extended.

The Thames Rowing Club will meet Trinity College, Cambridge, in the final for the grand challenge cup, the eight-oared crew event. Thames defeated London Rowing Club by a length in 7 minutes 22 seconds, while Trinity conquered Leander Club by one and one-half lengths in 7 minutes 41 seconds.

Sailing Tradition Personified in Name Of Adams, Skipper on Schooner Atlantic

The smelt were running off Hangman's Island one time not so long ago and the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court was holding sessions at the same time. A lawyer was missing for the fourth time and the Court did not choose to postpone the case any longer, so it sent a bailiff down to the smelt fishing grounds and ordered the lawyer into court.

The answer of the lawyer was:

"Can't come, Judge; smelt running like thunder."

The lawyer was Charles Francis Adams, who will be amateur skipper of the Atlantic when she starts today on the ocean race to Spain in an endeavor to keep her laurels as the fastest racing boat ever to cross the Atlantic Ocean. In the Kaiser's Cup race of 1905, she set the record of twelve days four hours and one minute for the passage.

The education of Charles Francis Adams, paraphrasing the title of a book his brother Henry wrote, has been one of sail boats, and "the Deacon," as Charles Francis is known, has acquired as much erudition in this line as any amateur in the country. It was he who sailed the Resolute in the defense of the America's Cup, and who has sailed about every kind of boat there is.

In the boats he has owned there has always been a double letter. Why, is one of the secrets of Marblehead and New England tradition. The Atlantic will be the first to provide a variation. Double O boats have predominated. There have been the Papoose, Baboon, Harpoon, Rooster and Crooner. The one variation has been the double E boat, the Ahmeek.

The direct descendant of two Presidents of the United States, Adams's presence on the famous Atlantic adds distinction to the impending ocean event.

HEWITT WINS PLACE ON U. S. MAT TEAM

Michigan 125-Pounder Beats Lupton, Western Conference Champion, in Final.

MORRISON IS ALSO VICTOR

Conquers Thomas in 135-Pound Class — Edwards Triumphs in Final of 190 Pound Class.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 6 (AP).—Robert Hewitt of the University of Michigan defeated Ralph Lupton of Northwestern, Western Conference champion, in the final of the 125-pound class here tonight and qualified for the American Olympic wrestling team. Lupton, who lost on decision, also qualified for the team as alternate. In all final bouts, the winner will be chosen for the regular berth and the loser for the alternate position.

Allie R. Morrison of the University of Illinois defeated Blair Thomas of the University of Michigan by decision in the 135-pound final, while in the 145-pound final Clarence Berryman, Oklahoma A. and M., conquered Ralph Prunty, Lions Club, Ames, Iowa, also on decision.

Ensign H. L. Edwards of the United States Naval Academy threw Daniel J. Whittacre of Ohio State University in the 190-pound class final. In the semi-finals Edwards figured in the biggest upset of the tourney when he defeated Charles W. Strack of the Oklahoma A. and M. College. Whittacre won from Louis Hammock of the Navy in the other semi-final.

Lloyd C. Appleton, Cornell College (Iowa), took the decision from Clarence Geis, Grand Rapids, Mich., Y. M. C. A., in the final of the 158.5-pound class. Geis gained the final by defeating Frank H. Bryan of the Multnomah A. C. Appleton eliminated Erwin Forbes, Los Angeles A. C. star.

In the 112-pound division final, Gordon Rosenberg, Iowa Falls, Iowa, took the decision from Paul Y. Kirimura, University of Michigan. This match was for the A. A. U. championship only as there is no flyweight competition in the Olympic games.

Hewitt defeated Cecil Paxton of the University of Kansas in the semi-finals. Lupton qualified by winning the decision from Johnny Reed of Bethlehem, Pa., after a terrific struggle in an overtime bout. Morrison, the present A. A. U. champion, defeated Alfred M. Watson of the University of Michigan in the 135-pound semi-final and Thomas took the measure of John K. Sareckson of the Baltimore, Md., Y. M. C. A.

Prunty, defending A. A. U. champion, defeated William Culp, University of Illinois star, in the 145-pound semi-final. Berryman gained his place in the finals by eliminating Ben F. Sherman of the Multnomah A. C., Portland, Ore.

Ralph H. Hammonds of Texas University, a track athlete of ability as well as a wrestler, entered the 175-pound finals as the result of a victory over Albert Cornewest of Brown University. Glenn D. Stafford of Cornell University qualified for the other bracket of the final by defeating Kaare Krogs of the University of Chicago.

Roger L. Flanders of Stillwater, Okla., unattached, became a finalist in the heavyweight class when he won by default from Rollan Kirchmeyer, Cushing, Okla., high school student. The other heavyweight finalist was Ed George of the Grand Rapids Y. M. C. A., who defeated the Ohio State star, Harry Steele.

OLYMPIC TEST WON BY ARGONAUT EIGHT

Beats Winnipeg Rowing Club by Length and Wins Right to Represent Canada.

WYANDOTTE CREW SCORES

Senior Eight Wins Heat, With Its Intermediate Shell Second—Leander Club Victor.

ST. CATHARINES, Ontario, July 6 (AP).—Canada will be represented in the Olympic eight-oared crew competition at Amsterdam by the Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto.

The Argonauts clinched their right to carry the Dominion's colors in international competition by defeating a strong, hard-fighting Winnipeg rowing club eight in the final clash of the tryouts here today.

The Argonauts won by a length after a bitter struggle from start to finish. After the two crews had fought it out on even terms for the first mile Winnipeg opened up a slight lead. Undaunted, the Argonauts staged a spurt that brought their boat back to even terms with their Western rivals and then ahead of them. Slowly but surely the Toronto crew increased its lead to finally win by a full length. The time for the 2,000 meters was 6:38.

The Argonauts and Winnipeg had won their right to meet in the final by eliminating Toronto University and McGill University of Montreal in the semi-finals yesterday.

Shortly after leaving the train from Philadelphia the Wyandotte (Mich.) senior crew won the first heat of the the senior eight-oared event, taking an early lead and holding it to the finish line.

The Wyandotte intermediates were second, University of Toronto third and McGill University fourth. The American intermediates beat Toronto for second place by inches in a terrific rowing duel. The time of the winners was 7:12 2-5.

The eight-oared struggle climaxed the second day of the forty-sixth annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen.

The Leander Rowing Club of Hamilton, Ontario, won the 140-pound maiden fours race, with an Argonaut entry second and West Side, Buffalo, third.

Olympic Eights Final—Won by Toronto Argonauts (F. Hedges, F. Riddes, J. Hand, H. Richardson, J. Murdoch, A. Meech, E. Morris, W. Ross; J. Donnelly, coxswain); Winnipeg (G. M. Connacher, G. W. Armand, V. O'Donnell, H. Moody, W. Watt, H. Bothwell, K. Gordon, E. Boxer; E. Murray, coxswain), second. Time—6:38.

Junior Doubles—Won by Reed and Raysmith, Toronto Argonauts; Stanfield and Meed, Dons, Toronto, second; Dunham brothers of Lachine, Montreal, started, but dropped out at the mile.

Final Heat, Senior Eights—Won by Wyandotte, Mich., Seniors; Wyandotte, Mich., Intermediates, second; University of Toronto, third; McGill University, fourth. Time—7:12 2-5.

MILLER KNOCKS OUT TERRIS IN 1ST ROUND

Chicagoan Ends Comeback Attempt of East Side Fighter at Coney Stadium.

PALMER STOPPED BY BAKER

Mitchel Field Battler's Terrific Attack Halts Semi-Final in Seventh Round.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

The pugilistic star that was Sid Terris came to rest last night in the rain-soaked ring at the Coney Island Stadium before a crowd of about 10,000 an. with a completeness that was staggering. Propelled by the long, devastating left hook of Ray Miller, Chicago's sorrel-topped contender for the lightweight crown, Terris collapsed in the first round of what was to have been the ten-round feature.

It signalized Terris's return to local competition after an absence of four months, or since the night last Winter when Jimmy McLarnin stopped him in seventy-three seconds at Madison Square Garden.

Last night's knock-out of the erstwhile east side ring idol was almost as speedy and altogether as sudden and unexpected. Backed to the ropes under his rival's rush, Terris left his jaw unprotected for a left hook which swished through the air from nowhere and landed with unerring aim on the jaw.

Pulls Victor to the Floor.

Sid's body convulsed and as he bounded out from the ropes he locked Miller in a tight embrace, even as he started toward the floor. Terris fell, but he pulled Miller with him, and when they hit the canvas, Miller was on top. Terris lay motionless.

There in the same ring in which another east side idol, Ruby Goldstein, was counted out two years ago in response to the slashing drives of Ace Hudkins, Terris last night was counted out while thousands of his friends who had backed him at 5 to 1 and as good as 6 to 1, stood aghast, shocked into a mournful silence.

The end came after 2 minutes 33 seconds of the first round—the fourth knockout Terris has suffered. His record shows knockouts at the hands of Joe Ryder, Eddie (Kid) Wagner and McLarnin prior to last night's upset which, his friends fear, spells finis to Terris's once hopeful career.

It is probable the banging Terris's head got when it hit the canvas under the impetus of that left hook to the jaw and the added weight of Miller's body played not a little in the sudden knockout. This is said without attempting to detract from the triumph of Miller, a good little ring warrior who has been carefully brought along by Hal Hixon to the more or less exalted position he enjoys this morning among the lightweights of the world.

There was not much to the battle. Terris tried his old dancing and pecking and feinting and flashy style, but the floor was too wet for much footwork. Miller kept plunging in and tearing at Terris persistently and finally worked Terris near his own corner, where he let fly with that left hook that ended the battle. Miller weighed 130¼ pounds and Terris 137.

Baker Subdues Palmer.

Sergeant Sammy Baker, Mitchel Field soldier-fighter, battered Nick Palmer former National Guard welterweight champion, into submission in seven rounds of what was scheduled as the semi-final. Palmer folapsed under the terrific body fire of Baker after 3 minutes 5 seconds of the seventh round, after one of the gamest exhibitions seen in a local ring in years. Baker weighed 148 pounds and Palmer 152.

The first of the scheduled ten-round bouts had as its principals Italian Joe Gans and Henry Goldberg and was cut to eight rounds to facilitate matters. Goldberg won the decision. He weighed 159½ pounds and Gans 157½.

In the scheduled six-round semi-final Willie Siegel, east side lightweight, knocked out Herman Bernstein of Brooklyn after 1 minute 31 seconds of the fifth round. Previously he had floored Bernstein three times.

Charles Raymond, Brooklyn bantamweight, won the decision over Oscar Goldman of the east side in the opening bout for four rounds.

Goal of Boats Is Fishing Town Of 70,000 With Fine Harbor

A spacious deep harbor awaits the boats that left last Saturday and those that are scheduled to leave at noon today on the ocean race to Spain when they reach Santander. Fishing is the principal industry there, and salting and pickling establishments abound. There are also sugar and oil refineries, iron foundries and plants to manufacture glass, candles, soap, perfumes, chemicals and cotton goods. The population is around 70,000. Near by is San Sebastian, the Summer capital of the Spanish royalty, which will be the concentration point of numerous social activities that will follow the race.

TUNNEY TAKES ROAD FOR 8-MILE DRILL

He Also Unleashes a Vicious Attack on Bags in an Afternoon Workout.

HEENEY HAS BRISK DAY

Mixes With Two Sparring Mates and Appears in Excellent Trim at the End.

Special to The New York Times.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 6.—With cool weather prevailing, champion Gene Tunney ran eight miles this morning as well as going through his boxing drill this afternoon in preparation for the defense of his crown against Tom Heeney in New York, July 26.

Tunney was slapping the light and heavy bags with renewed viciousness this afternoon, and there was a set scowl on his face each time he drove his right hand, which appears to be stronger than ever, wrist deep into the heavy object.

A corps of moving picture cameramen broke into the champion's boxing routine this afternoon, but Tunney good-naturedly performed the rites of star performer for the cameramen.

Boxing experts will swarm into camp next week to see the champion in action, it was indicated today by the large num'er of reservations received at the local hotels.

Heeney in Brisk Workout.

Special to The New York Times.

FAIR HAVEN, N. J., July 6.—Six rounds of hard fighting and tugging marked a hard workout for Tom Heeney, heavyweight challenger, at his training camp here today. The big New Zealander went three fast rounds with Paul Swiderski of Syracuse, who was used for speed and kept running away as much as possible from Tom's punishment. Tom then mixed it up with Jay Lawless, Newark heavyweight.

Tom got in some hard body punches with his left and right and some uppercuts at close range. At the close of the rounds the challenger danced about on his powerful legs and appeared as fresh as at the start of his workout. Tomorrow and Sunday Jack Desimone of New York will spar with Heeney.

Bronson to Visit Tunney.

Jimmy Bronson, local manager of fighters, who acted as chief second for Gene Tunney in the champion's two fights against Jack Dempsey, announced here yesterday that he planned to join the champion at Speculator on Monday. It is understood that he will act as Tunney's chief second when the champion enters the ring against Heeney. Add Warren, Southern heavyweight, who is managed by Bronson, is to join Tunney's sparring staff at Speculator, the manager announced.

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT.

New Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn—Canada Lee vs. Tony Vaccarelli, Freddie Lindstrom vs. Pete Martin, Joe Curry vs. George Goldberg, Jimmy Slaven vs. Pete Passafiume, Joey Caruso vs. Dave Moore; five six-round bouts.

Long Beach Stadium—Marty Silvers vs. Georgie Balduc, Frankie Lang vs. Jackie Saunders, Vincent Bisel vs. Chris Scheiman; three eight-round bouts.

5 YACHTS WILL SAIL AT NOON FOR SPAIN

Tod's Thistle May Join Others Today in Quest of the King's Cup.

MARINE PAGEANT IN STORE

Start Will Be Off the Ambrose Lightship—Big Spectator Fleet Expected.

ATLANTIC RATES FAVORITE

Noted Schooner Holds Record for Ocean Passage—Elena Also Has Many Supporters.

Five schooners, the Atlantic, the Elena, the Azara, the Zodiac and the Guinevere, and possibly one yawl, Robert E. Tod's Thistle, will be sent on their way at noon today from Ambrose Channel Lightship as the second division of racing yachts in the ocean race to Santander, Spain, weather conditions permitting.

Although the smaller division of yachts got under way last Saturday, the start today marks the climax of the first transatlantic ocean race since 1905, when the prize was the Kaiser's Cup, which was won by the Atlantic in the record time of 12 days 4 hours and 1 minute, which she is out to defend on the present expedition.

The craft which sail today will compete for the King of Spain's Cup, while those that sailed last Saturday are racing for the Queen's Cup.

Spirit of Sail Prevails.

The race today is a yachting event of transcending interest. The gallant nine or ten craft that will finish at Santander, excepting mishap, are a glowing tribute to the hold that sail still has despite a motor-minded age.

They will tell you that sailing "ain't what she used to be," that the clipper days are gone, that the Gloucester fishermen go out these days under power, but, nevertheless the starting signal sounds today there will be at least nine or ten intrepid craft and crews. In the 1905 race there were eleven, two of which went only to add numbers and color.

Immediate interest will centre, of course, in today's start, but there will be thoughts also of the four little boats—the smallest ever to attempt a race across the Atlantic. On board of one of these, the Rota, is the first woman sailor, Mrs. William Roos, wife of the owner, who has ever tried to cross the ocean in a race as a working member of a crew. This woman's presence is only a spectacular incident in the yachting interest in the event.

The weather outlook was encouraging last night. The Weather Bureau reported fair weather in view all along the coast. The little boats got away last Saturday in sunshine under a blue sky, and enthusiasts are hoping for at least the same conditions today, so that a delay in starting the classic race will not be necessary.

Previous Race Was Delayed.

It will be recalled that the race in 1905, scheduled to start on May 17, had to be postponed one day, and even then the boats were lost in mist after a few miles.

Given the prevalent conditions at this time of year, light winds, the favorites as they go over the line today will be the Atlantic and the Elena. Heavier weather would favor any of the others. The Atlantic, as has been told, won the 1905 race, holds the record for the crossing and also holds the record for the greatest single day's run, 341 miles made on the seventh day, and has aboard her Charles Francis Adams of Boston, a name to conjure with in amateur sailing as well as in national history.

The Elena, a much smaller schooner has been out of commission for twelve years, but behind her lies a distinguished sailing record, including victories in the Astor Cup once and the King's Cup race in 1912. She is a Herreshoff masterpiece and has aboard as professional captain John Barr, nephew of Captain Charley Barr, who handled the Atlantic when she won in 1905. Captain John Barr was aboard at that time as mate.

To try to pick the winner in a race of this sort would require a person who is gifted with the foresight to tell what the weather will be. Aboard the five or six boats will be the greatest sailing and navigating talent this country has to offer, aboard also will be hands or officers who have sailed Gloucester fishing boats, one who has raced from that port around the Horn to Seattle, and any number of Scandinavian sailors who were born and reared on the fiords. Scandinavians, incidentally, predominated in the crews of both the boats that raced last for the America's Cup.

Commander Clark on Board.

Notable among the navigators is Commander Vincent A. Clark, navigator of the dirigible Los Angeles, who is on the Zodiac. Robert W. Johnson's entry which has been lying off the Atlantic Yacht Club. Besides the noted Charles Francis Adams, the Atlantic will have aboard as navigating adviser, Lieutenant Felix Johnson, on leave from the United States Navy for the trip.

To enumerate the genius and experience of the personnel would make a protracted story. Since the professional masters are after all the key to the performances among the larger boats, the roster of them is significant.

Already mentioned has been Captain John Barr of the Elena. Captain Abraham Aasen is master on the Atlantic, he formerly was on J. P. Morgan's Corsair. The Zodiac will be handled by a collection of Gloucester fishermen, under the leadership of Captain Norman Ross, who sailed boats in the recent Atlantic Coast races among fishermen. Captain James H. Dungan is on the Guinevere.

WYKOFF TIES MARK IN WINNING DASH

exceeded by one hundredth of an inch. Herman Brix of Washington accomplished this nicely calculated feat when he hurled the iron ball 50.27 feet as against 50.26 feet, the American record. This mark will doubtless be exceeded tomorrow, however, as the four other qualifiers are Johnny Kuck, Eric Krenz, Harlow Rothert and Herbert Schwarze, all capable of more than 51 feet. None strove to more than qualify today.

One of the surprises of the day was the failure of Krenz to qualify in the discus throw, in which he is considered even more efficient than in the shot put. Recently he set new intercollegiate records in both events, and his slump was a great surprise. It cost him his national champion ship, for he won at Nebraska last Summer.

Lloyd Hahn qualified in the 800-meter run in 1:58 1-5, faster than the accepted American record but not as fast as the new mark he set in the Eastern tryouts at the Yankee Stadium. Earl Fuller of the Olympic Club also bettered the accepted American record but ran one-fifth of a second slower than Hahn. One of the surprises of this race was the failure of Sam Martin, Eddie Swinburne or Scuyler Enck to qualify.

As there had been no previous national championship record at 1,500 meters, the time of Sid Robinson of the New York A. C. established a new mark for that distance. His time was 3:59 4-5. Hahn's time in the 800-meter race set a new 800-meter national championship mark.

Many Stars Shut Out.

Other stars who were eliminated were Ketz of Michigan and McEachern of California in the hammer, Adelman of Georgetown and Forster of Stanford in the shot, Dyer of Stanford and Mathias of Penn State in the broad jump and Cor. Luttman and Kirby in the 1,500-meter run.

Among the national champions who qualified and who will defend their titles tomorrow and also seek a further chance at the Olympics are Ray Conger, 1,500 meters; Ray Watson, 800 meters; Johnny Ruck, shot-put; De Hart Hubbard, broad jump; Levi Casey, hop, step and jump, and Chuck Harlow, javelin.

Harry Hinkel and Pat McDonald successfully defended their championships in the three-mile walk and fifty-six-pound weight throw. Neither of these events is on the Olympic program. The competition had no Olympic complexion and was completed today.

The summaries:

Tuckahoe Purse Goes to Sun Forward in Three-Horse Contest at Empire City

SUN FORWARD WINS TUCKAHOE PURSE

Is Only Favorite to Triumph at Empire City—27 Out of 46 Entries Start.

DEAR LADY, 8 TO 1, SCORES

Mrs. Musante's Filly Beats Skylight and Dicing by Scant Margin in Driving Finish.

Four in the Aspirant Purse, four in the Dobbs Ferry, three in the Bryn Mawr, three in the Tuckahoe Handicap—pause for a moment, for there was a jump to eight in the Getty Square (yes, we're in Yonkers now)—and then a drop to five in the Sparkill.

By the simple process of addition it will be found that the total of the foregoing figures is 27, representing the number of starters out of 46 entries at the Empire City track on the hilltop yesterday, second of the twenty-one-day Summer meeting sponsored by James Butler.

Three more than half of the horses carded to start did not do so notwithstanding the new scratch rule, for the rule allows withdrawals under unfavorable track conditions. Owing to the rain overnight the track was muddy and trainers therefore took full advantage of the blue pencil. But notwithstanding all this there was plenty of sport and a full measure of excitement, enough to satisfy the most exacting.

Of course there were six winners. Perhaps some of the racegoers got the money. But the most of them did not. They were stung. As the last race was run none was seen to throw out his chest and tell how good he was at playing winners. No loud shouts were heard at Harry Payne Whitney's Lew Black, at 3 to 1, hustled home ahead of A. C. Schwartz's King at Arms and John E. Madden's Cowhide, at 3 to 2 and 9 to 5, respectively. The result of this race was the finishing touch to a Black Friday, dealt the talent by Lew Black with his rider, Robertson, looking back over his shoulder, grinning at the desperate efforts of McAtee and Kelsay on the first and second choices to catch him.

Long Shots the Rule.

Right down the line the winners were Mrs. J. Simpson Dean's Friar's Hope, at 5 to 1, in the Aspirant; G. C. Winfrey's Easy Money, at 5 to 1, in the Dobbs Ferry; Mrs. F. Musante's Dear Lady, backed from 10 to 1 to 8 to 1, in the Bryn Mawr; J. P. Smith's Sun Forward, at 13 to 20, in the Tuckahoe, feature of the card; Mrs. M. E. Herz's Sea Hawk, at 5 to 1, in the Getty Square, and Harry Payne Whitney's Lew Black, at 3 to 1, in the Sparkill.

Hard to see a favorite in the foregoing list of winners. But let's get a glass, Ross, there is one, Stan Forward. Memory says he rewarded the talent just after the sun broke through the couds. And, looking still further, it can be seen that half the winners are owned by women, showing wit hwhat energy and perspicacity the women are taking up the thoroughbred game. Incidentally it was the first turf victory achieved by Mrs. J. Simpson Dean.

In the three-horse Tuckahoe Handicap Sun Forward had an easy victory. Ramoneur and Devonshire had been scratched, leaving as the only other starters the Flying Horse Farm's Endless and the Canyon Stable's Caroler. The track seemed to suit the four-year-old gelded son of Sun Briar and Hussy. Shillick held him off the pace of the route of one mile and seventy yards until midway around the last turn, at which point he hustled his mount up to Caroler, coming on to win easily by a length and a half from Endless. The latter, which is a full brother to Vitto, finished with a belated rush, while Caroler stopped to a walk, finishing four lengths behind Endless.

Battle For Bryn Mawr Purse.

Harry Payne Whitney's Skylight and Lee Rosenberg's Dicing were heavily played to win the Bryn Mawr Purse, for three-year-old fillies at about six furlongs. Dicing was backed from 13 to 10 to 4 to 5 at post time, with Skylight at 6 to 5 and Dear Lady at 8 to 1, after opening at 10 to 1.

These three fillies put up a real horse race, one that sent the spectators into a paroxysm of excitement. It was a battle all the way, for the three got a good running start, with Dicing and Skylight fighting it out in front, head and head with Dear Lady right on top of them. There was surprise that Dicing and Skylight could not shake off the daughter of Pennant and My Dear, for the last named was holding right up with the leaders.

Three abreast they came to the wire, with Dear Lady gaining inch by inch to make such a close finish that the crowd did not know which had won until the numbers were posted. Then it was Dear Lady first, Skylight second and Dicing third, heads apart.

RAIN HALTS SCHWARTZ BOUT

Match With Grande Set for Next Friday—Long Beach Show Tonight.

The rain caused a postponement yesterday of two of three boxing shows scheduled. Corporal Izzy Schwartz, flyweight champion, will meet Frisco Grande at the Rockaways Playground Stadium next Friday night in a twelve-round bout.

The Long Beach Stadium was compelled to postpone its show until tonight.

PROMOTION SCORES IN LATONIA FEATURE

Easily Wins Mills Point Purse After Outclassing Five Other Starters Over Mile Route.

Special to The New York Times.

LATONIA, Ky., July 6.—R. S. Clark's Promotion made good in the Mills Point Purse, the feature race here today, by running the mile in 1:38 3-5 after taking the lead at the start and holding it all the way. Of the five other starters, Whiskarm finished four lengths behind while Peter Parley, the favorite, was third by a neck. The winner, a son of Ambassador IV and Sunstep, conceded weight to all his rivals, but his speed outclassed them entirely. He was ridden by Earl Pool.

Drastella, paying $152.62 for $2, took the opening race of six furlongs. Best Spade was second and Bob Johnston third.

MOTOR BOAT RECORD SET.

Third Mark in Albany Regatta Made by Miss Hasbrouck.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 6.—It developed today when the performance of Miss Marion Hasbrouck of Flushing, L. I., was checked up by the committee in charge of the second regatta of the Albany Yacht Club that a third record had been made. Late Thursday afternoon Miss Hasbrouck drove her B class outboard motor boat 28.569 miles an hour over the measured mile course.

The previous record was made by Arthur Sutherland of Worcester, Mass., several weeks ago.

evere. Frank and George Baker jointly will be in command of the Azara, which is manned principally by amateurs.

On board two of the boats will be two Spanish noblemen, who came here especially for the race and hoped to command a Spanish boat so that the King and Queen of Spain might be represented in the race for which they have donated the principal cups. They chartered the Santa Maria, but were unable to get the old schooner ready in time.

One of these Spaniards, the Duke of Santo Mauro, will be aboard the Guinevere and the other, Señor Enrique Careaga, will ship on the Azara. An added note of regret is voiced in their failure to get the Santa Maria ready because it leaves the race without a Lawley designed craft, though most of the other notable yacht designers are represented. The Santa Maria may perhaps be best recalled by yachting followers by her old name, Tammany.

The Atlantic was designed by Gardner and Cox, the Azara by A. Cary Smith, the Elena by Herreshoff, the Guinevere was designed by A. L. Swasey and built in the Lawley yards, so there is a Lawley touch after all; the Zodiac was designed by William H. Hand Jr., and the doubtful Thistle is another Herreshoff creation.

Of the boats already on the way the designers include similar notable names Rofs is by Herreshoff, Mohawk by John G. Alden, the Pints, also by Alden, and the Nina by Starling Burgess.

The statistics of the boats follow:

	Length—Overall.	Length—Water line.	Extreme Breadth.	Draft.
Atlantic	135	104	29.6	17.6
Azara	113	85	21.4	5.10
Elena	135.6	90	26.8	16.11
Guinevere	165	126	32.6	15
Thistle	103	....	21.6	13.2

The owners are: Atlantic, Gerard B. Lambert; Azara, Frank and George Baker; Elena, William B. Bell; Guinevere, Edgar Palmer; Thistle, Robert E. Tod, and Zodiac, Robert W. Johnson.

List of Those to Sail.

Those who will go aft during the voyage are listed below, though in some instances the designation of "guest" should be qualified because those mentioned will actually take part in handling the vessel. The non-professionals on the last obtainable lists are as follows:

Atlantic — Gerard B. Lambert, owner; Charles Francis Adams, Dr. Malvern B. Clopton, Lieutenant Felix Johnson, Mrs. Lambert, the Misses Rachael and Lillian Lambert and Gerard Jr.

Elena—William B. Bell, owner; Mrs. Bell, Miss Helen Driscom Bell and Miss Marion M. Walters.

Zodiac — Robert W. Johnson, owner; J. Seward Johnson, William Dorman and Dr. Theodore Badger.

Guinevere—Edgar Palmer, owner; the Duke of Santo de Mauro, Dr. Charles Brown, Norman H. Donald and Godfrey Gundry of Hatfield, England.

Azara—Frank and George Baker, owners; Dr. George A. Brown, David Whittemore, E. E. Griner, Edward Donelley, Ted Rippengill and Enrique Careaga.

Thistle—Inasmuch as her starting is doubtful no list is available, but if she does go Robert E. Tod, the owner, will be aboard.

Boats at Different Pieces.

Though all of the boats were in adjacent waters yesterday the scattered positions made impossible any record of definite activities. The Atlantic was off Sandy Hook during the afternoon; the Azara moved from Caddell's Basin, Staten Island, to an anchorage off the Atlantic Yacht Club; the Zodiac was anchored off Atlantic Highlands; the Guinevere was off Stapleton, S. I., and the Elena was headed to Gravesend Bay.

All were expected to make rendezvous in Gravesend Bay last night, from where they will go to the starting point at noon today just as the smaller craft did last week.

As last week, the warning signal is to be set at 11:50 A. M., the preparatory signal five minutes later and the red cylinder will be raised at noon. The Racing Committee of the New York Yacht Club will be in charge of the start. This is headed by Gherardi Davis, Chairman; Clinton Mackenzie and Edmund Lang.

Officiating also will be Henry Howard, Secretary to the Spanish Yacht Race Committee. They will be aboard the naval tug Iuka and will establish a starting line between that boat and Ambrose Channel Lightship.

Big Spectator Fleet Expected.

If the weather is propitious, a big spectators fleet is expected, probably including among its passengers the Spanish Ambassador, Señor Alejandro Pavillo, who watched the smaller boats make their start last Saturday from J. P. Morgans classic Corsair. Atlohugh no definite word has been received it is likely that Wilson Marshall, owner of the Atlantic when she won in 1905, and Fred Hoyt, amateur navigator aboard on that memorable trip, will come down. It would add a reminiscent touch.

Walter W. Horn, Commodore of the Long Beach Yacht Club in California, arrived here yesterday to join the crew of the Atlantic and to carry a trophy from the Pacific Southwest Exposition to the King of Spain. The prize is to be in perpetual competition among Spanish yachts. It is a gold cup on a bronze copy of the statue "Aspiration" by Roger Noble Burnham. The figure stands in Pershing Square Park in Los Angeles.

The yachtsman is bearing credentials from the Governor of California, and the King of Spain, it was stated last night, will present a gold trophy to the Californian to be raced for annually in the Long Beach regatta.

It also was announced last night that the yachts which will sail today had received their numbers as follows: Atlantic 11, Guinevere 14, Zodiac 16, Azara 12, Elena 17 and Thistle, if it starts, 15.

HOLLYROOD COLIN TAKES THE TAVERN

Harriman Trotter Wins $3,000 Purse in 2:20 Class in Straight Heats.

BENELWYN, FAVORITE, 2D

Bogalusa the Great Captures $2,000 Fasig—Peter Poem Also Victor on Grand Circuit.

NORTH RANDALL, Ohio, July 6 (AP).—The Tavern "steak," a $3,000 event for 2:30 class trotters, and the Fasig, a $2,000 event for three-year-old trotters, topped the fourth day's program of grand circuit racing here today and resulted in colorless affairs.

Hollyrood Colin, owned by E. R. Harriman of Goshen, N. Y., and ably driven by Will Dickerson, won the Tavern in straight heats, while Bogalusa the Great, the property of John M. Barry of Rome, Ga., driven by Fred Egan, took the Fasig in a like manner. Benelwyn, favorite for the Tavern was the runner-up, while Kewanee Boy, Fine Girl and the Virginia Senator took turns at chasing Bogalusa the Great.

Though the track was fast the time in both events was far below the record for either stake.

The third event, 2:11 trot, was won by Peter Poem, driven by Sep Palin of Indianapolis, after dropping the first heat to Dewey McKinney.

The final event of the day, a 2:04 pace, was won by an added starter, Lucy Wood, from the Harry Stokes Stable.

BENEFIT SWIM TODAY.

U. S. Stars to Perform for Olympic Fund at Atlantic Beach.

A benefit swimming show for the Olympic Fund will be held in Castle's Pool at Atlantic Beach this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The members of both the men's and women's teams which will represent the United States at Amsterdam will take part in exhibition races against records. The meet is sanctioned by the Metropolitan Association A. A. U.

Some of the women stars who will appear include the Misses Martha Norelius, Helen Meany, Eleanor Holm, Kathryn Brown, Adelaide Lambert and a number of Western swimmers.

John Weissmuller, Clarence Crabbe of Honolulu, Tom Blankenbert, Oakland, Cal.; George Kojac, Ray Ruddy and Austin Clapp will attempt to shatter some of the men's records. Several youngsters will also take part in the show, being headed by Pete des Jardines, Mickey Reilly, Harold Smith and Walter Colbath.

Matsuyama Wins Two More.

Kinrey Matsuyama won at three cushions and 18.2 balkline yesterday at the Hoppe Academy. He defeated Charles Seaback, 30 to 18, in 38 innings at three cushions, and Joseph Ballasy, 300 to 44, in 6 innings of balkline.

Hagen's Record 67 Gains Tie for 4th in State Golf

RECORD 67 MARKS HAGEN COMEBACK

Brilliant Afternoon Play Keeps Walter in the Tourney After Poor 79 in Morning.

IN TIE FOR FOURTH PLACE

Was 28th in 1st Round—Bob MacDonald Leads Field in State Play With a 139.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 6. — The nonpareil Hagen played one of his characteristic rounds in the first New York State open championship today.

Way down among the ordinary mortals as a result of his disastrous 79 in the opening round this morning, when he had a 9 on one hole on the Onondaga Golf and Country Club course, Walter fought his way back into the foreground with a gorgeous record-breaking 67 in the afternoon with the result that he is still in the hunt.

When the morning scores were all posted Hagen was in a tie for twenty-eighth place; after the 67 he was up into a tie for fourth and only seven strokes behind the leader.

That round of Hagen's, two elegant rounds by Big Bob MacDonald of Chicago, who is entered from Transit Valley, Buffalo, and some sterling golf played by young Maurice J. McCarthy Jr. of old Flatbush, recent winner of the intercollegiate golf title, and by George Voigt of North Hills, winner of practically every tournament held in the metropolitan district this year, were features of the inaugural tournament of the New York State Golf Association today.

MacDonald Leads Field.

With the event at the halfway mark tonight, MacDonald, shooting almost flawless golf throughout the day, is leading the field of 107 starters, and the next six places are held by metropolitan district representatives.

MacDonald was the leader at the end of the first round, when he scored a 70, two strokes under par, to lead the pack by one stroke. Close on his heels were McCarthy, Voigt and Jack Sabol of Westchester Hills, with 71s and Pete Harmon of Rockwood Hall with a 72.

But none of those who were pressing him hardest at noon were able to keep up the pace in the afternoon and the result was that big Bob opened up a six-stroke lead by the end of the day. His 68, added to the 70, gave him the impressive total of 139 for the day, representing an average of 69½, which is wonderful scoring over a course with so many treacherous hazards on it as Onondaga.

It was as fine an exhibition of golf as one could ever hope to see and the ease with which he made his figures brought back memories of a few years back when big Bob was up at the top of the profession and winning his share of tournament honors, among them the Metropolitan, Western and Chicago district championships.

He was driving the ball tremendous distances and straight as a die without apparent effort, his second shots were up to the pin and he was getting down in two putts.

As a matter of record he might just as well have had a 33 on the last nine holes in the afternoon as not. There were three holes in succession in which he required only a few more turns of the ball for birdies instead of pars and on one other hole he almost chipped into the cup.

Practically the only men he has to look out for tomorrow are Willie Klein of Wheatley Hills, who, after attending the Farrell celebration at Mount Vernon last night, came here without having looked at the course and shot a 74 and then a 71; McCarthy, who is tied with Klein, having scored in reverse figures today; Hagen and Willie Macfarlane of Oak Ridge.

Hagen Nearly Makes a 66.

Big Bob's 69 was low, but not for long. A short while later Hagen came in with his record-smashing 67, which might easily have been a 66. He was within putting distance of the hole on the eighteenth, but missed his try for a 3 by a narrow margin.

Hagen's golf in the morning round was not a 79 to look at, but it had to go down as a 79 just the same. What jumped his figures up to such an astonishing height was that 9 on the eighth. This is one of the most curious golf holes in the country. It is 455 yards on the card, but it can be cut down provided one has the temerity to cut corners and flirt with woods. Most of them did that and most of them did it successfully. Macfarlane, for example, registered an eagle 3 on the hole in the morning by playing a No. 4 iron over the trees to the green and holing a good putt.

Well, Hagen tried it and failed. Not only did he fail the first, but also the second, and the result was stroke and distance twice lost. Except for that, Walter did not play bad golf, but it wasn't the kind of golf he played in the afternoon. That round was a gem. Four birdies, three of them in a row, and four pars put him out in 33 and he got two more birdies coming in, everything else being par.

New Competitive Record Set.

Not only was it a great round but it set a new competitive record for the course. The only mark of the kind ever recorded here was made by Pete Harmon, who was professional here prior to his going to Rockwood Hall. Harmon's 67, however, was made in a friendly match; Hagen's in a scoring event in which every stroke counts, there's a difference. Outside of that, the best previous figures were made by Johnny Farrell, the new open champion, who had a 68 in an exhibition match here last year.

Voigt, who was in a tie for second place in the morning, slumped considerably in the afternoon when, after going out in 35, he took 42 strokes to come home for a total of 77.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

It is fairly evident that French is to be the official court language again this year. Over the championship court at Wimbledon today they might as well hang the sign: "Ici on parle français." Five of the eight quarter-finalists at Wimbledon were standard-bearers of the oriflamme and wearers of the fleur-de-lys. With every book of tennis instruction for beginners they are now giving out a French primer. The idea is that if the youngsters can't learn the game, at least they can learn the language.

Some of our players didn't even get far enough at Wimbledon to meet the French wave. Frank Hunter was knocked out in the first round by a New Zealand student at Cambridge University. Andrews was his name. He was later beaten by Christian Boussus in straight sets. Junior Coen was tossed out of the tournament by H. W. Austin of England.

Lacoste beat Lott and Tilden, Pierre Landry defeated Sidney Wood. Cochet turned back Johnny Hennessey. Thus stand the melancholy records so that he who runs may read 'em and weep. Well, they won't win our New Jersey championship, anyway. That's something. Or as Beranger put it: "Autant de pris sur l'ennemi!"

A Clean Sweep.

Wimbledon. Fatal word. Sounds something like Waterloo. Only this time the French played havoc with the Allies. Facing, in several cases, the men they will meet in the Davis Cup matches at Auteuil in a few weeks, our players were swept from the courts.

Perhaps we should be getting accustomed to it. Lacoste seems to make a habit of beating Tilden. Our youngsters are not yet ready to cope with the French stars on the tennis court.

There's no point in giving up ahead of time, and our Davis Cup players have no intention of abandoning the campaign and taking the first boat home. Judging from the results at Wimbledon, the French should retain the trophy against the United States or whichever team survives the interzone finals. But, even so, our younger court coverers will gain experience in international competition, and it may come in handy next year or the year after.

There's an outside chance that Tilden might gather himself for one great effort in the challenge round. Hennessey defeated Cochet once last year. He might do it again. We will have a fighting chance in the doubles. It's a far, faint hope, but one might as well cling to it until the umpire calls "Game, set and match."

The Turn of the Tide.

It's odd to find the French holding such complete possession of the courts. England was turning out great tennis players half a century ago. This country moved into the tennis spotlight thirty years ago. Australia came to the fore twenty years ago. Even Belgium advanced to the challenge round of the Davis Cup matches in 1904, but over a forty-year stretch French players were practically invisible in championship competition.

The Wimbledon tourney was started back in 1877. It wasn't until 1911 that Max Decugis and André Gobert won the doubles title at Wimbledon and thus scored the first international victory for France. It was a lonely victory at that. No further French successes were chalked up until the four galloping Gauls of the present era came dashing to the net.

Now they rule the courts with a heavy (fore) hand. They have six stars of international magnitude in Lacoste, Cochet, Brugnon, Borotra, Boussus and Landry. This isn't a wave; it's a landslide.

Short but Good.

Another odd point is that these French wizards of the court are rather short in stature, whereas it was always held that tall men had a decided advantage and usually made the best players. No one would ever call Tilden a midget, and he held sway over a seven-year span. The great Australian players were six foot and over. The added height gave greater reach and a better opportunity for smashing forehand drives.

It was only the other day that a spectator returned from the intercollegiate tennis tournament lamenting the small size of the college tennis leaders.

"You can't see them over the net," he mourned. "If they wanted to reach Tilden's shoulder, they'd have to get a ladder. They'd have to lift each other up to shake his hand."

With the French showing how well small men can cover a court, there may be hope in the intercollegiate situation Perhaps something can be done with the Singer Midgets.

Skimming the Net.

Bill Tilden's proposal to send a foreign legion abroad in May to get acclimatized received a volunteer trial by Frank Hunter. It didn't work out so well. Frank was the first man out at Wimbledon. He was eliminated shortly after he was acclimatized.

A good many conservative critics are still in favor of tall men for tennis teams. Those West Coast college oarsmen are tall enough. The only trouble is they can't play tennis.

It's no surprise to find Tilden tiring in a hard-fought match, but why should Johnny Hennessey bog down in a four or five-set battle? Johnny is a comparative youngster. He should be able to stand the pace without undue strain.

It took Lacoste five sets to beat H. W. Austin, the English player who needed as many sets and a large part of the afternoon to subdue little Junior Coen. The Kansas City schoolboy did well for a young 'un.

We haven't won the singles championship at Wimbledon since 1923. But think of England! They haven't won their own championship since 1909. A. W. Gore was their last winner.

Well, it took Lacoste to defeat Lott and Tilden, and it took Cochet to defeat Hennessey. We can beat everybody but the French.

But it's the French we have to beat if we are to regain possession of the Davis Cup. Zut alors!

NOYES BROTHERS LEAD IN JUNIOR GOLF

Frank and Sidney Each Get a 77 in Westchester County Title Tourney.

GAIN SEMI-FINAL ROUND

Sidney Beats Healy, 2 Up, and Frank Eliminates Burton at 19th —Bliss Has an 84.

Special to The New York Times.

TUCKAHOE, N. Y., July 6.—The Noyes brothers, Frank and Sidney W., practically monopolized the first day's play in the Westchester County Junior golf championship over the Lee Wood Golf Club course here today. They started off by having 77 each in the qualifying round, which tied them for medal honors, and then advanced to the semi-final play as they scored in the first match play round this afternoon.

They led the next man, Conrad Bliss of Ardsley, who had 84, by seven strokes, and the rest of the first division which was made up of eight players, including all those under 90.

Their qualifying cards, with par, were:

Out—
Par	4	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	5—37
Sidney Noyes	5	3	4	4	5	3	4	4	3—35
Frank Noyes	4	5	4	5	5	3	4	5	3—38
In—
Par	4	3	5	4	4	3	4	4	4—36
Sidney Noyes	5	4	6	5	4	5	5	5	4—42—77
Frank Noyes	5	4	4	4	5	4	4	4	4—38—77

Sidney drew Gerald Healy of the Westchester Biltmore in the match play and won by 2 up. Healy was 1 down at the turn, principally because he lost the fourth as he put his second shot out of bounds, and then Noyes ran down a birdie 3 at the eighth on a five-foot putt.

Frank Noyes had to go nineteen holes before he eliminated George Burton of Bonnie Briar, 1 up. Frank was 2 down at the turn, but he picked up the next three getting two of them, the tenth and twelfth, with birdies. Burton evened the match at the thirteenth, but the lead swung back again to Frank who was 2 up at the sixteenth. Burton squared it once more by taking both the seventeenth and eighteenth, but he hooked his second shot at the extra hole and lost it with the match to Frank.

The qualifying round summaries:

Nina Seen 724 Miles at Sea, Aquitania's First Officer Says

When the Aquitania of the Cunard Line docked here yesterday First Officer W. C. Battle reported that a racing schooner with the number 2 on her mainsail had been sighted at 9:30 A. M., Greenwich Time, Thursday, about 724 miles at sea. Two is the number of the Nina, owned by Paul Hammond, and is one of the four yachts of the smaller division of the fleet which is racing to Spain. The little vessel had all sails set in a fair wind and was making about six knots an hour. Officer Battle said: "Our position was 41.08 N. and 59.31 W. and the yacht was about one mile south of our port side."

FLANAGAN DEFEATS SCOTT BY 4 AND 3

Defending Champion Triumphs in First-Round Match on Lenox Hills Links.

Special to The New York Times.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., July 6.—Despite the fact that this morning's rain threatened to postpone the second day's play in the invitation golf tournament at the Lenox Hills Golf Club here today, the contestants went out upon the water-soaked links and completed all of the original schedule with the exception of one second-round match. The postponement of the latter, however, will necessitate the extension of the tourney until Sunday.

Mark Flanagan, winner of the tournament last year after a postponed final, won his first match today from J. P. Scott of Montclair, 4 and 3. J. C. Gilmore of the home club won from L. S. Jadwin of Nassau, 3 and 2. He will oppose Flanagan in a second-round match tomorrow.

The other six golfers who won played their second rounds and in the semi-final tomorrow afternoon Silas Newton will take on the winner of the Flanagan-Gilmore battle. On the lower side George Appel Jr. of Crestmont will meet Bert Edwards of Old Westbury.

HONEMAN, BIKE STAR, DEFEATS MARTINETTI

Newark Rider Scores in One-Third Mile Championship Event at New York Velodrome.

Willie Honeman of Newark, former junior national road champion and now competing in his first professional season, scored a brilliant victory in the one-third-mile titular event, eighth of the twenty-four deciding the American sprint cycling crown, last night at the New York Velodrome, defeating Avanti Martinetti, the Italian, after a thrilling duel.

It was Honeman's first points in the championship competition and another amateur star champion of 1927, earned his first tallies when Jimmie Walthour of New York trailed George Dempsey, the Australian, in the heat for third and fourth place, getting one point.

The second place gave Martinetti the lead in the point table. He passed Tony Beckman, who did not reach the final.

The point standing now is: Martinetti 18, Beckman 17, Walker 13, F. Spencer 9, Horder 8, Fenn 7, Dempsey 7, Honeman 5, Piani 2, A. Spencer 1, J. Walthour 1.

Franco Georgetti of Italy, whose sixteen straight streak was stopped last week at Newark, started another when he took the thirty-mile motor-paced event, defeating Vic Hopkins, Davenport, Iowa; Alfred Letourner, France; George Chapman, Newark; Rene Boogman, Belgium, and Francesco Zucchetti, Italy. The time was 42:00 1-5.

The summaries:

Half-Mile Handicap (amateur)—Won by Jack Carmicino, Bayview Wheelmen (70 yards); George Metz, Long Island C. A. (60 yards), second; John Simone, Unione Sportiva Italiana (60 yards), third; L. Salvatore, Acme Wheelmen (60 yards), fourth; Herman Ramsay, German Bicycle Club (70 yards), fifth. Time—0:58 4-5.

Unknown Distance Race (professional)—Won by Charlie Winter, New York City; Leroy Garrison, Kearny, N. J., second; William Hanley, San Francisco, third; William Keller, Newark, fourth; Paul Croley, Brooklyn, fifth. Distance—Two miles one lap. Time—3:27 2-5.

Two-Mile Class A Invitation (amateur)—Won by Charlie Ritter, Bayview Wheelmen; Waldort McClay, Bayview Wheelmen, second; Fred Eder, Penn Wheelmen, third; George Shipman, Empire City Wheelmen, fourth; William Behrens, Bayview Wheelmen, fifth. Time—3:48 3-5.

One-Third Mile National Championship (professional)—Won by Willem Honeman, Newark; Avanti Martinetti, Italy, second; George Dempsey, Australia, third; James Walthour Jr., New York City, fourth. Time —1:20. Last eighth mile—:13 4-5. Time of heat to decide third and fourth places— 1:33. Last eighth mile—0:12 1-5.

One-Mile Consolation, Class B (Amateur)—Won by Thomas Moran, Unione Sportiva Italiana; Joseph DeVito, Unione Sportiva Italiana, second; Wesley Wood, East Orange, third; Mickey Asaris, Unione Sportiva Italiana, fourth. Time—2:27 4-5.

Two-Mile Handicap (Professional)—Won by Charlie Winter, New York City (30 yards); William Hanley, San Francisco (20 yards), second; Otto Petro, Germany (20 yards), third; William Grimm, Newark (60 yards), fourth; Leroy Garrison, Kearny, N. J. (50 yards), fifth; William Keller, Newark (50 yards), sixth; Paul Croley, Brooklyn (60 yards), seventh. Time—3:42 4-5.

BROOKLYN CRICKETERS DEFEAT FORDHAM

Victors by Margin of 30 Runs—Keep Lead in New York and Jersey Series.

With a victory over the Fordham eleven gained by a margin of 30 runs at the Fordham grounds yesterday, the Brooklyn Cricket Club maintained its lead in the annual series of the New York and New Jersey Cricket Association.

Of the Fordham batsmen, who occupied the wickets first, B. Kortland, E. H. Cook and J. Gildea alone got into double figures. The side was out for 71, chiefly because of the successful bowling of P. B. Green, who captured 5 wickets for 11 runs.

J. L. Poyer and G. B. Cuthbertson of Brooklyn made a fine stand for the second wicket and together gathered enough runs to assure Brooklyn a victory.

The score:

Fordham C. C.

If you listened to automobile engineers buying oil for their private cars

—you would hear most often the words, "Give me Mobiloil."

Gargoyle Mobiloil is by long odds the favorite oil among the engineers who design and build automobiles.

These men know Mobiloil quality. They also know the scientific standing of the Vacuum Oil Company as lubrication specialists.

Mobiloil engineers are in close touch with every automobile plant in the country.

This engineering contact is maintained to make sure that the grade of Mobiloil recommended for each car is scientifically correct both in body and character.

You can buy Gargoyle Mobiloil from most dealers who are not controlled by gasoline refiners. The Gargoyle Mobiloil sign is a mark of the independent dealer. You are always sure with EARLY SILLINESS.

In Presidential years a silly interval fills the space between the end of the national conventions and the first speech of acceptance. It is usually a matter of several weeks. In off-years August is traditionally the period of foolish speeches and dog-day yarns. But this year July is bearing away the booby prize.

Easily leading the troupe which is making the present calendar space what it is stands Dr. HUBERT WORK, who has resigned as Secretary of the Interior and is now the Grand Supreme Manager of Secretary HOOVER'S campaign. Having a few days ago announced what he had decided that the people must regard as the Paramount Issue, Chairman WORK has naturally proceeded to his "don't" list. High on it are "the prompting "of conscience and personal liberty "within the law." These, he pontificates, "are not proper subjects for political debate." Will orators please take notice? And not only orators, but editors and voters. They are not to debate this subject, whatever it may mean. And Republican speakers are directed to "stress "their objections to the opposing "candidates for the substantial rea-"son that they are Democrats," which "warrants the belief that "national prosperity would cease if "they are elected."

If the calendar did not establish the fact that this is 1928 a reading of Dr. WORK'S catalogue of campaign do's and don'ts might convince the country we are back in the Summer of 1896. It must be said for Mr. HOOVER—thus far, at any rate—that he has made no comparable remarks. In fact he has made none at all. The ordinary presumption would be that the National Chairman shows his proclamations to the candidate in advance, but their content reveals the Doctor as no ordinary man. He swings the weapons and wears the costume of the political Stone Age. Mr. HOOVER'S one public appearance was yesterday before the National Safety and Highway Conference, and that was only to endorse uniform city traffic regulation. But the atmosphere of the silly season followed him there, one of his worshipful scribes writing of this perfectly ordinary occasion that Mr. HOOVER entered the conference room "without any ceremony and without one word of himself." Presumably he should have arrived in a coach of state, reciting his achievements to a microphone!

PROGRESSIVE CONFUSION.

Once there was a Progressive family, happy in its unhappiness over the state of the country. Now there is division among them. Some follow one candidate for President, some another, some are on the fence. Who pursues the pure Progressive truth? Not even Senator NORRIS. He wants a Third Party; but weakly pleads that it would cost a lot and that there is no time to organize it. He contents himself with advocating a constitutional amendment for the direct election of candidates for President and Vice President, and with sweet words for the election of certain "Progressive Independent" Senators, whose terms expire next year.

HIRAM JOHNSON, that old Roman reactionary, is on the Norrisian fair Mat. Mr. BORAH is not, but his term doesn't end until 1931. Let us not imagine that there is any wrath in the celestial mind of his Nebraska friend, with the Solitary One so active in booming and unbooming him for President. Mr. LA FOLLETTE was able to get some 4,700,000 votes. He didn't sit down and make faces at the Electoral College. Where is Mr. NORRIS'S ancient courage? Was it wrecked, with all the other hopes of humanity, on Muscle Shoals? From this despondent Progressive it is a relief to turn to a hopeful Semi-Progressive. Governor ZIMMERMAN of Wisconsin, who is trying to be re-elected over the candidate of "the Madison ring" and that of the pure Conservatives, is all for HOOVER. He fills Cedar Island Lodge with bright dreams.

HOOVER will carry Wisconsin because it is "a Republican State." But there are two or three kinds of "Republicans" in Wisconsin. It is a Wet State by habit and referendum. Mr. ZIMMERMAN has the pretty notion that the support which Governor SMITH'S views on prohibition may get him in Wisconsin will be counterpoised by the Badger fervor for the St. Lawrence waterway. This rum-and-water theory is ingenious. And how about Senator BLAINE, that impenitent Wet, that mocking sinner, who has scattered flowers on Governor SMITH? His term doesn't end till 1933. So he may be "a little bold." Even if he favors SMITH, says the Governor, he won't greatly "cut in on HOOVER."

The old talk is repeated of a rift between BLAINE and young Senator LA FOLLETTE. Again we are told that the latter will turn to HOOVER. Why? He was the high man on the list of delegates to the Republican National Convention. There he had a decided personal success. His standing in the State seems to be stronger than ever. Does he need to make terms with his opponents? It doesn't look too probable, but we can await without impatience his decision. At least, he will do what he wants to, whereas Mr. NORRIS won't. In justification of the latter, it should be remembered that he is a no-party man. So his adherence to the Third Party in 1924 may be regarded as a deviation from his strict principles. Even so, he shouldn't lament that he can't deviate again.

GROUP PRACTICE OF MEDICINE.

Though Dr. WILLIAM J. MAYO is one of the world's foremost exponents of the group practice of medicine, he does not look forward to the disappearance of the general practitioner. In his address before the National Education Association he said that the physician is no longer an individual practitioner, however general, but must turn to one or another specialist for the information which in the nature of things a single individual cannot have of all that medicine has learned. He would need several lives to attain that competency, and even then collective knowledge would surpass his own.

Dr. JOSEPH COLLINS has in the current Harper's set forth in a clear and convincing article the need of such organization of specialized skill in the field of medicine as will insure to patients the advice of the highest diagnostic service and most approved treatment, whatever their ailments may be, at a cost which they are able to meet. Great progress has been made in the training of physicians. They are as well taught in America as in any country of the world, but when they persist in practicing medicine individually they fail of their maximum possible service. As it is, the poor, or very poor, do in most communities enjoy the advantages of group practice through the clinic or hospital in which specialists are associated. Those of ample means may also have such advantages, but, except in such institutions as the Mayo Clinic and the medical centres now developing, only by going from one specialist to another. The man who is neither rich nor poor is "often denied the medi-"cal service to which he is entitled "because he cannot afford it," but could have within his means if group practice were organized in some such way as Dr. COLLINS suggests:

> He would go to the consulting rooms and laboratories. Here he would be received by a discerning, affable person who would seek to get enough information about his symptoms to lead him to the appropriate hopper of the medical mill. Before he is taken there it should be ascertained whether he is a wage-earner or a wage-payer. If he is a wage-earner, the firm should then and there collect the equivalent of one week's salary. If he is a wage-payer, $100 should be collected with similar dispatch, and he should be told that he may anticipate supplementary charges should his case require extensive investigation. Then the patient should be given an appointment with a member of the firm in whose province the symptoms would seem to be, who would examine and pass him on to as many others as are necessary to get a complete report. The patient is now ready for the verdict. The man who gives it to him should know not only the disease but the diseased and he should always have in mind that man's fears are magnified by illness, his hopes minimized.

The ideal way would be for the physician to have his own laboratories and assistants in such number as to cover the field of his practice, but this is impracticable. It must be constantly kept in mind, however, that, with all the organization, the service must not be impersonalized. There will ever be need of those who have skill in caring for the sick—who have the qualities of those general practitioners who have ennobled and endeared the profession. Organization has, as Dr. COLLINS has said, made medical education more efficient. The next step is to do the same for medical practice.

ALEUTIAN GRAVEYARDS.

From the tip of the Aleutian landbridge across which man first entered the North American Continent from Asia comes the story of a find unquestionably rich in drama and carrying the possibilities of a rare contribution to science. The Morrissey expedition, under the leadership of HAROLD MCCRACKEN, has unearthed, in a burial ground on top of an almost inaccessible rock islet, a sarcophagus containing the mummies of three adults and a child. In the construction of the coffin and the elaborate integuments of one of the mummies a high degree of technique is revealed. The McCracken-Stoll expedition of the American Museum of Natural History set sail from Seattle last April in the hope of discovering, as Mr. MCCRACKEN then wrote, mummies older than those preserved in the Pyramids of Egypt. His dispatch in yesterday's TIMES does not assert definite antiquity for the remains, though there is no doubt that they are of the Stone Age. The authoritative story, as he properly points out, must be written here at the Museum of Natural History.

Prehistoric and Stone Age both have a relative meaning. As the historic records go back it is obvious that the prehistoric period recedes. On the American Continent, where the historic monuments are far briefer than in the Old World, the prehistoric period lies closer to our own times. Similarly, the Stone Age does not describe a chronological but a cultural status. For some areas in Europe it may go back 10,000 years, but there are races now living in their own Stone Age. This continent has no human remains dating back to an antiquity comparable with the primitive human or pre-human types of Europe, Asia or Africa, around which centres such a vast speculation relating to the origins of man. Such American finds as from time to time have been assumed to rank with Neanderthal and Piltdown have always been demonstrated to be of the same human type as that of the present or recent inhabitants of the region. That is why Dr. CLARK WISSLER of the Museum of Natural History speaks of the Aleutian discovery, on the basis of the McCracken dispatch, as unique, differing not only from previous Eskimo and Aleutian discoveries but from "anything else."

Until the archaeological value of the evidence is fully determined the dramatic nature of the find suffices. If the tenants of the lonely Aleutian grave are not members of an ancient race en route from Asia to North America, we must think of the powerful motives of loyalty or religious faith which spurred a people of the present cultural status of the Eskimos or Aleutian Indians to the tremendous labor of transporting timber 600 miles for coffin-building and of interring its dead on the crest of a precipitous cliff.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

Most of the reports of the two recent meetings abroad at which international copyright was discussed have made it appear that America is an interested observer but not a prospective member. That may have been the case at the Berne Convention. But the spread of American films, the popularity of American music and the increasing enjoyment of and demand for American plays and books have given the producers a strong desire to safeguard their privileges. These interests are doing more than reports of the Berlin Congress and the Rome Conference would indicate. All of the principal countries of the world except the United States are members of the Copyright Union. It becomes increasingly difficult to maintain our traditional isolation under pressure from authors, publishers, librarians, broadcasters, musicians, artists and motion - picture producers whose product may be freely used abroad.

A clear idea of the attitude of at least one group may be obtained by reading the account of the congress of the International Confederation of Authors and Composers at Berlin written by GEORGE MIDDLETON for the Authors' League Bulletin. Representing the Dramatists' Guild, of which he is President, and the Authors' League, of which the Guild is a part, he attended every session of the congress and had many private discussions with authors, agents and playwrights of Europe. He informed them of the intricacies of getting their plays translated and produced in this country and learned how the financial interests of American authors are affected by European customs.

With the producers Professor REINHARDT and Herr ROBERTS, and with the authors HERMANN SUDERMANN, LUDWIG FULDA and others of Germany, Mr. MIDDLETON discussed the best manner of placing plays and making contracts. The Italian delegation, EDUARDO MARQUINA of Spain, one of the CAPEK brothers, SCHNITZLER, LEHAR and KALMAN, the composers; MOLNAR, LENGYEL, who has had American experience; translators of SHAW and of EUGENE O'NEILL, HENRI BERNSTEIN, SACHA GUITRY and many other notable French authors and composers contributed wisdom from a store accumulated in long dealing with the copyright laws of many countries.

Almost everywhere except in this country and in England royalties are not left to personal arrangement, but fixed by custom, law or public agreement. The rights of directors to a share of the royalties vary in different countries. Some directors insist on a share if they make a single change in any line spoken. The numerous differences in trade habits make a speedy union of America with the confederation difficult, but Mr. MIDDLETON and the group he represents are convinced that American societies for the protection of authors' rights cannot remain domestic, for "light and sound waves know no national boundaries."

POLITICAL MACHINES COME HIGH.

Coincident investigations on both sides of the Hudson River are throwing some light on the reasons for increasing municipal taxes. Two kinds of delinquent but very costly office-holders have been disclosed. One is the sort that pads payrolls and gets money out of the city Treasury in the names of dummies or non-existents. In addition there is the form of graft which consists in sneaking through improvident city contracts. All this ought to be called stealing, but it is stealing of a nature which, for the most part, should have been prevented or detected by a competent system of auditing accounts. The only consolation New Yorkers have in this matter is that the city authorities seem to be running down the thieves and grafters with energy and honesty.

Quite another way of burdening the taxpayer by lax municipal administration is revealed in Jersey City. The legislative committee which is ostensibly trying to discover why so many Democrats voted in the Republican primary has chanced upon a trail rich in political information. It has drawn the veil from the features of a most surprising Sheriff of Hudson County. He drew his salary and "signed checks," but about any other duties of his office he admitted that he knew little. The slightest questioning of him unearthed an ignorance on his part which was so profound as really to move his very inquisitors to mirth. Others of the office-holding class in Jersey City, like unto him, gave their reluctant testimony before the committee of the Legislature. There were highly paid "inspectors," who were unable to say what they inspected—so busy were they with running their own private business at the same time—and several other ingenuous persons who confessed that they thought of their official duties only as something to be done "on the side."

Sinecures like these, with their resultant waste and inefficiency, have a way of going straight into the figures on the bills of taxpayers. The defense is that such loose methods are necessary in the building up of a strong political organization, such as Mayor HAGUE confessedly has in Hudson County, New Jersey. But it apparently needs only a little scratching beneath the surface to find out that partisan machines of this kind require a great deal of money, which, unfortunately, the taxpayer has to provide for the boss.

THE RODEO.

From various parts of the West come reports that this is the open season for the rodeo. The Fourth of July is usually one of the most popular days for this frontier sport, but so great is the interest that a rodeo may be visited in some part of the "great open spaces" on almost any holiday during the Summer. Throughout the cattle country there are numerous youngsters who a generation ago would have been bona fide cowboys. Some of them occasionally condescend to work on a ranch. But to most of them the opportunity to take part in a rodeo is the principal inducement for saving money. When the great events come they must have their horses, and, above all, their chaps and ten-gallon hats and boots.

Rodeos are becoming almost institutionalized. Their programs include "standard" exhibits such as bronco busting, steer twisting and, in the Southwest, "chicken pulling." But they have not lost the spirit of adventure which attended the earlier performances in the old West. Your bronco buster may play polo today—a thing which would have been utterly scorned by his predecessor of a generation ago—and may even be willing to walk across the street instead of riding. But he still requires an iron nerve and a concrete constitution. It is no ordinary man who will ride a wild horse that has a mean streak in him. In the old days when this was done as a business, these men lasted only a few years. Those who did not suffer serious injury in the form of broken limbs were so battered and shaken that, when the elasticity of the early twenties was gone, they were of little use any more.

When an American rodeo exhibition was held in London a few years ago it was criticized as being unsportsmanlike. We in this country have usually looked upon rodeos as typical expressions of the American sporting spirit. They are not child's play, it is true, nor are the events safe for any but the most hardy. But they are exhibitions of nerve and skill such as delighted the pioneers in the West. Their origin was utilitarian. The rodeo was the round-up of horses or cattle or both. The games that have since become formalized under the Spanish name grew out of individual contests between cowboys in camp or at the ranch corral. Personal prowess was always at a premium on the old frontier, and the successful bronco buster, or the man who could throw a steer, was deeply admired. These men were a hardy lot. Their children of today may appear more sophisticated, but they can still "deliver the goods." Men in physical strength and in courage, they are still children enough at heart to take almost as much pride in the cut of their boots as in the successful taming of an unruly bronco.

ITALY'S TRIUMPH IN THE AIR.

In record-making that counts most in development of the airplane Italian aviators are now in the van. They have flown faster, they have gone further in a non-stop flight from continent to continent and they have kept in the air longer than the airmen of other countries. The flight from Rome to Brazil by Captain FERRARIN and Major DELPRETE, a distance estimated to be 4,417 miles, has set a high mark. It is not a mere coincidence that the plane they used was the same as that in which they lately made an endurance record exceeding fifty-eight hours. Italy is turning out in the Caproni a superlatively good plane and airmen worthy to fly it. The speed record is held by another Italian, Major MARIO DE BERNARDI, who on March 30 attained a maximum of 350 miles an hour at Venice and flew at an average rate of 318.57 miles. He used a specially built machine, "Manchi 52," which came out of the Caproni factory. To MUSSOLINI is given the credit today for most of the big things done in Italy. It is pertinent to recall what he said in 1926:

> Italian aviation projects its forces toward the future with a passionate faith in the fundamental importance which, in modern civilization, attaches to every attempt at the mastery of the air.

Italian aviation has been advanced from a rear place to a position very near the front in two or three years. France and Germany must look to their laurels. In the way of advertising to promote aviation the most will be made of the achievement of FERRARIN and DELPRETE. Its daring is impressive, but the skill and stamina of the pilots are even more notable. They had been fifty-two hours less one minute in the air when they landed at Point Genipabu. In spite of losing their bearings, the Italians nursed the Savoia-64 down to a safe landing in a country about which they had scant information. The performance comes at a time when Italy is chagrined by the collapse of NOBILE'S plans to explore the Arctic with a dirigible and his final disaster. It is a glittering consolation prize.

Fifty-two hours from Rome to Brazil is a promise of greater things to come. It is believed that the Savoia-64 could keep the air for sixty-five hours. There is no reason to doubt that the plane of the future will attain 100 hours in the air and that a distance of more than 5,000 miles will often be covered.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Lowenstein Episode, and Others.

The consternation of the London, Paris and Brussels markets for shares of Captain LOWENSTEIN'S company enterprises, on the news of the promoter's sudden and mysterious death, called to mind numerous striking incidents of the kind in older finance. The effect of such news has always been greater or less according as the markets were themselves in a normal condition or in a state of high speculative activity.

Captain LOWENSTEIN'S death, following as it did a prolonged and excited European speculation, seems to have had particularly disturbing results on the Stock Exchanges. But the death of HUGO STINNES in 1924, a few months before Germany's currency inflation had been definitely terminated, caused hardly a ripple on the markets. It occurred when Stock Exchange prices had already gone some distance in downward readjustment. Its failure to influence the markets was the more interesting from the fact that, a year later, the German promoter's "vertical trusts" were crumbling and the Boerse talking of "the Stinnes crisis."

That the imagination of DICKENS had been caught by a similar episode in England's wild "company exploitation days" of the '50s is shown by the use he made of the idea in "Little Dorrit." Like most of his fellow-novelists, DICKENS was a poor hand at picturing finance or financiers. Merdle was as unconvincing a sketch of the company promoter as Dombey was of the City merchant. But the description of the response of the Stock Exchange and the general public to the news of Merdle's suicide was entirely true to the probabilities. No doubt DICKENS had personally watched those phases of a parallel incident in real life.

Needs of American Tennis.

Two or three things were obviously wrong with the American players in the men's singles and doubles at Wimbledon. If this country is to regain the privilege of playing in the finals of the British tennis championship these plain faults must be corrected.

TILDEN played brilliantly, but it is the consensus of expert opinion that he can no longer withstand the best of the younger players in this instance, LACOSTE. Though he won more points and one more game than his youthful opponent, his successes did not occur at the most critical moments. His partner in the doubles, HUNTER, could not handle the flashing volleys of the Australians.

In the Franco-American doubles, HENNESSEY and LOTT displayed beautiful individual playing, but could not get their team work down. With magnificent energy, perfect stroking and unflagging spirit, they were yet unable to coordinate well enough to match the well-knit work of COCHET and BRUGNON.

If we are to profit by our lesson, our younger stars must be given the opportunity for improving their doubles play. They must have time to be acclimatized for performances on foreign courts. If any one of them is to defeat LACOSTE, he must duplicate TILDEN'S brilliance to add to his own young strength.

Middle Initials Again.

It is clear that Presidential candidates simply must have middle initials. If their parents didn't see to that when they were baptized their political godmothers are quick to respond to the need of the hour, even if it is necessary to improvise.

The National Republican Club has a handsome electric sign high above Bryant Park in which it proclaims to the world that it is supporting this ticket: "For President, HERBERT C. HOOVER. For Vice President, CHARLES S. CURTIS."

There never was a man of that name who ran for Vice President, Senator BORAH was apparently the first to realize that between the candidate's Christian name and his surname there was a great gulf fixed. So when he put him in nomination at Kansas City he supplied the lack and called him "CHARLES L. CURTIS."

That brought a rebuke from the candidate's daughter, Mrs. KNIGHT, who insisted he was "just plain CHARLIE CURTIS." The Republican Club chooses to ignore her expert testimony, and has evidently made up its mind that "S" would look very nice.

The "C" in HERBERT HOOVER'S name is technically correct, but, in his own signature, the "CLARK," for which it stands, long ago went the way of WOODROW WILSON'S "THOMAS."

A Reformer, But Yet A Woman,

A part of the rare quality which marked the life and prompted the activities of the late Mrs. HENRY VILLARD came to her by inheritance. A daughter of WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON was surely entitled to a large endowment of conscience and courage. These made it easy, or at least natural, for Mrs. VILLARD to champion unpopular causes, and to stand up, even if she had to do it almost alone, for reforms still nascent.

Yet to those who knew her the militant and crusading temper was subordinated to her overflowing benevolence. It was this which prompted her to throw herself into so many charities, to labor with such intelligence and zeal in behalf of the children of misfortune and to anticipate with so much patience and confidence the wider spread of well-being and of joy in the commonalty. She clung tenaciously to her principles and her ideals, but even the sternest of them seemed to become attractive as embodied in her gracious personality.

For many years in a great social position and with large resources at her disposal, Mrs. VILLARD kept unspoiled the simplicity and sweetness of her own nature. She impressed all her friends as a woman of strong intellect and firm character, but what outshone everything else in her was the irradiation of grace and goodness which for so long she shed over so wide a circle.

PRAYER OF ONE LIVING IN LODGINGS.

Lord, grant before old age begins,
this wish
(My very heart and soul's desire) to me:
A modest home that's all my own, set in
A small green garden with an apple tree!

Let me experience the matchless joy
Of hunting rugs and cretonnes for each room,
Of buying brass and prints and pottery,
And dear, prosaic things like mops
and broom!

I'd love a kitchen with blue painted walls,
A singing kettle and a braided mat,
Some shining pans, a friendly eight-
day clock,
And, last of all, a portly Maltese cat.

No stately domicile, or large estate,
Or furnishings magnificent and fine;
Just a small place, where I may lock
my door
And dream before the fire—knowing it's mine.

I have some Quimper ware and candlesticks,
And several chairs—as nucleus to
At keeping house. So, Lord, keep me in mind
And send me soon a home to put them in!

MAZIE V. CARUTHERS.

MR. DANIELS EXCEPTS.

Former Secretary Disapproves of Smith; Also of Third Party.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A few days ago in an editorial on political inconsistency you said: "In the attitude of ex-Secretary Josephus Daniels, for instance, there is a splendid inconsistency which he magnificently ignores. He is now wholeheartedly for Governor Smith, but is equally ardent in demanding a Congress which would thwart the Governor if he became President."

It is in your province to say I am wrong, but the facts do not justify you in saying that in supporting the national Democratic ticket I am inconsistent. There are times, however, when "consistency is the hobgoblin of small minds." The people who elected me as a delegate at large to the national convention did so with the knowledge that I would not vote for the nomination of Governor Smith because he had approved the repeal of the Mullan-Gage act for the "concurrent" enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and because of his utterances with reference to national prohibition. They also knew that I would not bolt the Democratic Convention's nominees. In a telegram I received from a Californian on May 2, asking if I would run on a third party ticket if Smith should be nominated, I sent this reply:

"Replying to your wire of this date, my answer is that the biggest issue in America today is to wrest the Government from the hands of privilege and corruption.

"The only hope for that end is a victory by the Democratic Party. I therefore expect to support the nominees of the Houston convention.

"I expect that convention to declare without equivocation for the sacred enforcement of prohibition and all other laws, and I do not believe any man it will nominate will be as indifferent and as inefficient in enforcement as Mellon has been under the Harding and Coolidge Administrations.

"I see no hope in any third party. Enough prohibition Democrats will be elected to Congress to guarantee no weakening of prohibition laws. I would not accept a nomination on any third party ticket."

I was a member of the Democratic Platform Committee and had some part in securing a plank on prohibition which to the letter fulfilled the prediction in my telegram of May 2. I repeat today what I said then: "Enough prohibition Democrats will be elected to Congress to guarantee no weakening of the prohibition laws." In common with other Democrats I will leave no stone unturned to elect Congressmen who will uphold Smith, if elected, upon all Democratic policies, and to oppose any step backward in prohibition legislation. The platform pledges Smith to enforcement of the Volstead act. It does not pledge me or any other dry Democrat not to fight to the death any effort by anybody to weaken prohibition or its honest enforcement. Prohibition is not and cannot be made a party issue. Though I do not approve Governor Smith's letter sent to Houston, I cannot support, as I said in the Dallas interview, which brought forth your criticism, the "party which has been as false to prohibition as it has been true to corruption."

PROHIBITION NOT SACRED.

It Is Held to Be No Crime to Discuss the Eighteenth Amendment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The editorial in THE TIMES today "Bringing It Down to Earth" is so excellent and so convincing that to my mind it should be reprinted for the benefit of every voter. It is the best analysis I have read in regard to the absurd sacredness which many have felt in discussing the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act.

As you have so ably stated, these laws are open to the same examination, discussion and criticism as any other laws on our books. There is nothing unusual in changing laws or amending them. If we have bad or unreasonable laws on our books some one must challenge them to effect a change, otherwise we would still be subject to those fanatical blue laws of New England and thousands of others that did more harm than good.

In regard to criticising the prohibition law, I wonder, as a matter of fact, how many people know or remember that even former President Wilson vetoed the Volstead act and that he stated that in his opinion it could not be enforced. If I recall correctly, Senator Borah also voted against the Volstead act. Why all these sneers at such honorable and intelligent men as Dr. Nicholas M. Butler, Ex-Senator Wadsworth and Governor Alfred Smith? The amazing thing to my mind is that we have had so few big public men willing to come out in the open regarding this vital question. In fact, no law ever developed so many political cowards as the Eighteenth Amendment and its enforcement act; and I doubt if any law, even though well intentioned, has ever indirectly produced so much evil. To cure one sore it has created a dozen much worse.

New York papers as a whole have showed splendid courage and independence in revealing the sham in enforcing this law. And now we have Governor Smith meeting the issue frankly and boldly. All success to him! And I say this although I am at the present time an enrolled Republican. JOSEPH GAVIN.

Boomerang for Tammany Critics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I hear that the Republican campaign managers are going to make much of Smith's connection with Tammany Hall, featuring Tammany as a most corrupt political organization. Before doing so they had better study the qualities of a certain weapon called the boomerang, and also the well-known Bible parable of the beam and the mote. Tammany may perhaps be a mote—although every fair-minded citizen knows that the Tammany of today is a far better organization than it was in the days of Tweed and Croker—but there is no question that the Republican machines of Philadelphia, Chicago and Indiana are very roof-sized beams. PLANS DRIVE TO CUT DEATHS BY TRUCKS National Safety Council to Open Campaign on Monday With Aid of 500 Concerns.

WILL CONTINUE TO SEPT. 22

Owners Whose Drivers Make Best Records In Preventing Accidents Will Receive Awards.

To cut down the "mounting casualty list" caused by truck accidents in New York City, a safety campaign will be launched under auspices of the National Safety Council on Monday and will continue until Sept. 22, it was announced yesterday at a luncheon of the New York Safety Committee at Hotel McAlpin. More than 500 business houses operating more than 40,000 trucks will participate in the drive, according to T. W. Pratt, director of the Motor Truck Association of America.

At the conlusion of the campaign, which is to be known as the Inter-Fleet Safety Drivers' Contest, trophies will be bestowed upon the concerns leading in accident prevention. The awards will be distributed at the annual congress of the National Safety Council to be held in this city from Oct. 1 to 5.

"There has been an alarming increase of 11 per cent. in motor accidents in this city over last year," Mr. Pratt said. "The situation is particularly serious in the field of truck accidents, as the ratio of motor truck accidents over passenger cars is steadily increasing.

"While the primary purpose of the National Safety Council in sponsoring this contest is to reduce motor truck fatalities, we hope that at the end of this campaign we shall be able to formulate a plan by which we may be able to solve the entire traffic accident problem."

SCOUTS GO ON SAFETY TOUR

Four Boys Will Follow Lincoln Highway in Prairie Schooner.

Off on a transcontinental tour to inaugurate a highway safety program, four Boy Scout caravaners left New York yesterday morning after a brief send-off at the national offices of the Boy Scouts, 2 Park Avenue. They will follow the route of the Lincoln Highway from New York to San Francisco, giving demonstrations of highway safety methods en route.

Their conveyance is a truck with a prairie schooner top. The four Boy Scouts riding in it are of Eagle rank, save one. The demonstrations are to be in charge of Remo M. Lombardi, one of the executives at the National Scout offices, while the trip will be managed by Charles Howard Mills, Scout Commissioner of New Rochelle, N. Y.

The Scouts on the Lincoln Highway tour are: Edward B. Pratt, of Fairfield, Conn.; Bernard Quenean, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Mark Hughes, Joliet, Ill., and Carl Zapffe Jr., Brainerd, Minn.

The party stopped for a few minutes to meet the Mayor and other officials of Jersey City, and then proceeded to Newark, where they gave their first demonstration in Military Park. Other stops were made in Elizabeth, New Brunswick, and Princeton. They headed into Philadelphia for the night and expect to be in Pittsburgh next Monday. It is estimated that five weeks will be required for the party to reach Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, the western end of the Lincoln Highway. After the conclusion of the tour local Boy Scouts across the continent will place concrete markers each mile on the Lincoln Highway.

TOKIO AWAITS TREATY LEAD

Japanese Believe Avoidance of Haste Will Help Anti-War Compact.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, July 6.—The draft of Secretary Kellogg's proposed anti-war compact is still nominally under examination by Treaty Bureau experts, but what is actually proceeding is the sounding-out of opinion in the Privy Council and other influential circles.

The Government's silence on the matter does not imply any change of attitude or hesitation regarding the new draft. If the treaty concerned Japan and the United States alone, it would be signed immediately, but as fourteen nations are involved Japanese statesmen would feel that they had committed a faux pas if they rushed in ahead of the others.

"This is an orchestral piece," said a high official of the Foreign Office today. "It would sound very bad if the Japanese flute struck in before trumpets and violins."

Secretary Kellogg can rest assured that Japan is ready to accept the draft as it stands and is ready also to accept modifications if these make it more agreeable to France. Japan realizes that other powers have reasons for hesitation, from which she is free, and her delay simply indicates a desire to do nothing which might interfere with the removal of differences between the French and American viewpoints.

SIR THOMAS CULLINAN HERE

South African Diamond Man Arrives on Aquitania for First Visit.

Among the passengers on the Aquitania, which arrived yesterday, was Sir Thomas Cullinan, D. S. O., discoverer of the Premium diamond mine in South Africa, where the big diamond was found that was named after him and later presented to King Edward VII. Sir Thomas said that the production of diamonds in South Africa was being restricted to avoid flooding the market and bringing prices down. Labor conditions were good, he said, and general business was improving. This is his first visit to America and he expects to return to England in six weeks and go to South Africa in October.

Another passenger was Herman Bernstein, author and playwright, who has been in Europe getting material for a new book.

Commander H. Auten, V. C., R. N. R., who won the medal for valor while commanding a "Q" boat during the World War, arrived with a film depicting his experiences in fighting submarines, which he intends to exhibit here.

BOY'S 'GALLEON' DUMPS HIM IN MUD

Man Going to the Aid of the Skipper of the Good Ship Bedspring Also Sticks.

VENTURE STARTS JAUNTILY

Twilight Is Chosen for Launching on the Raging Waters of Coney Island Creek.

Last night's dusk was the hour set for the great adventure of launching a raft in Coney Island Creek, but the two boys who were joint proprietors and skippers of the craft didn't really get it off from the slimy margin of the stream until some time later. The boys were Robert Batterson, 8 years old, of 2,720 West Third Street, Coney Island, and Jerry Valentino, 10, of 2,710 West Third Street.

Under the streaky night sky the old wooden bedspring became a galleon of the Spanish Main, and the streets that lined the canal a shore of El Dorado. The raft couldn't sail or steam or steer, but somehow the boys kept her under way for a good half hour, during which they sighted Hispaniola, Nombre Dios Bay, and the doubloon-crammed ramparts of Cartagena, the Gem of the Indies. Then something went wrong.

It might have been the danger semi-circle of a hurricane that hit them, or perhaps just a tricky current in the narrow, malarial stream that makes Coney a real island. The raft capsized.

Captain Batterson clung to the ship. Captain Valentino was swept away. He floundered for a moment, made a stroke or two, and reached shore—or thought he did. In reality he had come to ground in a morass of sticky mud which held him as if it were quicksand.

Both boys let out cries of fear. James Hennessey, fireman of Hook and Ladder 161, on sick leave and sitting on his porch at 2,743 West Third Street, heard them. He dashed to the water's edge, made out the figure of the boy in the mud, and plunged in for him. He got Jerry, but the mud got him. When he tried to make shore carrying his wriggly burden he couldn't free himself. Hennessey's voice was added to the shouting.

Motorists stopped and turned their headlights on the scene. Walter Cleveland, a mechanic, who lives in the same street, heard the excitement and saw the lights. He descended the bank and, using Hennessey's predicament, and gallefully picked his way by boards and grass tufts through the morass. He was able to rescue both, and the two men went back for the Batterson boy. Jerry Valentino went to Coney Island Hospital to be treated for immersion and submersion. Robert Batterson was able to go home.

INJURED GIRL RECOVERING.

Broke Wrist and Ankle in Leap From Window of Home in Queens.

Lina Eichelberger, who was badly injured when she jumped from a window on the second story of her home at 56-19 Thirty-ninth Avenue, Woodside, Queens, on the night of July 4, is recovering at the home of her friend, Mrs. Benger, 71-08 Thirty-fifth Avenue, Woodside.

The girl went out with friends of her own age on the holiday, and, according to the story she told Detective Reddington of the Newtown police station, her father scolded her when she returned at 9 P. M. and then he beat her.

She was locked in her room, she told Reddington, and later in the night jumped out of the window. She suffered a fractured wrist and ankle and possibly a fractured spine, but managed to make her way to the sidewalk, where she hailed a taxicab to take her to Mrs. Benger's home.

She was attended by Dr. Elmer Ammenmaan and later by Dr. Taylor of St. John's Hospital, Long Island City.

SON GETS $25 OF $150,000.

Dr. Myles Standish of Boston Cut Off 3 Children for Their Good.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., July 6.—Myles Standish of this city who traces his ancestry back to the Myles of Pilgrim days, has just learned that his father, Dr. Myles Standish, an eye specialist, left him $25 out of a $150,000 estate. Dr. Standish left three children, Barbara and Alexander being the other two, and in leaving $25 to each he said in his will, "I have in mind their welfare."

The estate is estimated at $150,000 and after payment of these legacies, funeral expenses and debts, the remainder is to go to his widow, Louise M. Standish and her heirs. Mrs. Standish and the New England Trust Company are named executors.

Dr. Standish was Professor of Ophthalomology at Dartmouth College and an assistant professor at Harvard. His son, Alexander, was married in 1922 to Mary Elizabeth Dennis, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Alfred L. P. Dennis of New York City.

SEIZE FRANKLIN PLAN AIDE.

Detectives Arrest Manager at Home in Company's Bankruptcy.

Detectives of District Attorney Banton's office last night arrested Antonio Camporini at his home, 850 West 179th Street, on an indictment in connection with the bankruptcy of the Franklin Plan Company, 233 West Forty-second Street. Camporini, according to Detective Sullivan, was manager of the company, which sold $250,000 worth of stock.

The Grand Jury two weeks ago handed down four indictments when Assistant District Attorney Joseph Burns presented complaints of stockholders that funds of the company were missing. The police have been searching for the President of the company, Luigi Pirelli and Felix H. Randis, Treasurer.

Harry Shier Seriously Ill.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIELLE, N. J., July 6.—Harry Shier, President of the Brielle Association, a civic organization, is in a serious condition in the Ann May Hospital, Spring Lake, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis and gall stones. Mr. Shier is proprietor of the Brielle Inn here, where he and his family live, and of the Squan Hotel, Manasquan.

Spanish Social Leaders Snub Rivera For Breaking Engagement to Countess

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 6.—The month of June was one of many social activities in the Spanish capital, with the topics most discussed in court society being Primo de Rivera's difficulties with Countess Castellano and the future of two young Spanish princesses who have made débuts in society.

The sensation of the ministerial ball given by the President of the Council was the refusal by the Duchess of Montellano and the Marquessa Urquillo of a formal invitation to it addressed to them by Primo de Rivera. Ten or twelve other women of the most notable aristocratic families absented themselves from the ball in protest against the Dictator's action in breaking his engagement to Countess Castellano, their friend, and the subject still remains one of continual comment.

Conspicuously absent from all the season's activities was Prince Alfonso de Bourbon, son of the late Princess of Asturias, who has been previously devoted to Princess Beatrice, his cousin and the oldest daughter of the King and Queen. It is believed that for reasons of State the Prince's attentions have been discouraged since it is understood that the Princess is expected to marry into foreign nobility.

Recent visits made by Queen Cristina to Austria and Switzerland and by the King to England are commonly connected with this matter. On the other hand, the report is current that one of the royal princesses will be married into the Spanish nobility, her husband to be chosen from the heirs to the most illustrious Spanish titles.

RULES TEARING VOIDS WILL CUTTING OFF SON

Philadelphia Court Upholds Rights of Albert E. Ford's Heir in $2,500,000 Estate.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Ruling that the tearing of the last will of the late Albert E. Ford, manufacturer, amounted to "destruction and revocation" of the document, Register of Wills Campbell refused to probate it today. By this decision Mr. Ford's son, Leighton Ford, who had been disinherited by the terms of the will, won an important step toward acquiring the $2,500,000 estate.

Mr. Ford asked for this will a few days before his death, according to his secretary, C. L. Spering, and tore it irregularly across the bottom. He then handed it to the secretary and asked him to tear it across near the top. Mr. Spering said the manufacturer had become reconciled with his son about that time but apparently had no time to make another will.

Two wills were made previously. One of these is in existence and only a carbon copy of the other is available. In the latter Mr. Ford planned to make provision for a school of fruit culture. As a result of the decision today Leighton Ford now becomes the sole heir to the estate, unless it is held that destruction of the last will revives the two former ones.

If these wills are both revoked the wife of former Mayor Kendrick, niece of Mr. Ford, will lose an annuity of $5,000 and the University of Pennsylvania and the Home for Incurables also will lose bequests.

THE MAURETANIA SETS NEW ATLANTIC RECORD

Liner Does Double Crossing in 12¼ Days, Including 32 Hours at New York.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PLYMOUTH, England, July 6.—The Cunard liner Mauretania, the world's fastest ship, set another record today with the quickest round trip across the Atlantic and back. She covered the distance from Southampton to New York, and then back to Plymouth, in 12¼ days, including a stay of 32 hours in New York harbor.

On board were 2,000 American tourists, anxious to begin their Summer vacations.

The average speed on the eastward crossing was 25.3 knots, a speed which is said to be faster than any liner has ever before achieved. For a period of several hours the Maurstania's throbbing engines carried her along at 26½ knots, and the best single day's run was 611 miles.

SUBPOENAS 11 ON VARE VOTE

Senate Subcommittee Will Hear Philadelphia Officials Monday.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6 (AP).—Subpoenas to appear Monday before the Waterman subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections were served today on eight city and county officials and three private citizens in connection with election fraud charges made against Senator-elect William S. Vare by William Wilson, Democrat, his defeated opponent in the 1926 election.

They are the first of 300 subpoenas sought by David Wallerstein, Mr. Wilson's counsel, and were issued by Senator Charles W. Waterman of California, subcommittee Chairman, who said he wanted to learn how many witnesses could be heard in a day before additional groups are called.

Each subpoena specified what papers and books the witness is to produce or disprove allegations made by the Wilson group that the 1926 registration and election in Philadelphia was largely fraudulent.

The contestants seek to prove sufficient fraud to warrant asking the Senate to throw out the entire Senatorial vote cast in this city, which would wipe out Mr. Vare's majority in the State.

Police Keep Czech Reds Quiet.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, July 6.—Contrary to general expectations, the Communist demonstrations announced for today in every important town and city of Czechoslovakia passed quietly. The police took the fullest precautions and the result was that only a few arrests on technical charges of disturbing the peace were made, according to an official communiqué tonight.

Man, 52, Found Dead of Gas.

Oscar Mayer, 52 years old, was found asphyxiated in the bathroom of his apartment at 600 West 157th Street yesterday. Death was self-inflicted, the police reported. Mayer, a married man, was alone at the time. Lily Evart, a tenant across the hall detected the odor of gas and summoned Patrolman Ehre who found Mayer lying on the floor.

Reports Pangalos Will Be Freed.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, July 6.—According to the newspaper Ethnes, M. Venizelos intends to free the former Dictator Pangalos, on the grounds that his incarceration was illegal.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS SEE MILITARY FUNERAL

Hundreds Line Roadsides as Caisson Passes With Body of Private Killed by Train.

PLATTSBURG BARRACKS, N. Y., July 6.—Hundreds of students at the Citizens' Military Training Camp here were spectators today at the impressive military funeral of Frank J. Vanderberghe, private first class, of Company L, Twenty-sixth Infantry, who was killed by a Delaware & Hudson train on Wednesday on the tracks south of the reservation.

It was a sight that many had not seen before and roadsides were lined as the cortège marched slowly from the post chapel to the cemetery, the band playing the customary dirge. An armed escort accompanied the flag-draped coffin, which was borne on a caisson. Colonel John E. Madden, Regimental Commander, and other officers marched beside the coffin. Lieutenant William H. Hunt of Schenectady conducted the rites.

Vanderberghe, who is survived by a brother, Thomas, who was present at the funeral, and a sister, Mrs. Julia Maloney, both of Brooklyn, is believed to have become melancholy over the recent death of his parents and not to have heeded the Montreal express as it bore down on him. He was a veteran of the World War.

Supreme Court Justice P. J. McCook of New York was one of the distinguished visitors today. He watched the Citizens' Military Training Corps regiment pass in review on the parade grounds and then went to the rear to meet his son, Daniel B. McCook, a candidate in Company L.

Justice McCook, who is an old soldier, was delighted with the appearance of the young men and congratulated Colonel Madden on the rapid progress they showed.

Today's parade was considered a vast improvement over the first one held yesterday. It is Colonel Madden's belief that ceremonial formations make for steadiness and discipline and at the same time give the youths a chance to show their ability. Parades will be held daily for the rest of the tour.

LINER DRAGS BUOY 65 MILES

Captain Surprised to See Same Marker on Both Sides of Channel.

When the Cunarder Aquitania arrived late yesterday from Southampton via Cherbourg, officers reported an unusual incident which occurred, crossing the English Channel last Saturday.

As the liner was leaving the Solent on her way across to Cherbourg Staff Captain G. R. Dolphin noticed a buoy close to the port bow. On anchoring in Cherbourg Harbor four hours later he saw another buoy in apparently the same position and called the attention of the pilot to it. The latter said it was an English buoy and he did not know what it was doing in the French port.

On further inquiry Captain Dolphin said it was found that the buoy had been hauled across sixty-five miles from Spithead by a 100-fathom cable attached to it. The cable was down under the bow to starboard and its weight and the speed of the ship had kept it clear of the propellers. Captain Dolphin said it was described as a buoy the British Government had placed to mark a new electric cable.

ACCUSED OF FAKE LOT SALE

Man of Many Aliases Faces Charge of Selling Land He Did Not Own.

William McCloundy, known to the police as "I. O. U. O'Brien" and under many other aliases, was brought to Brooklyn Police Headquarters last night from Asbury Park, N. J., where he was arrested as a fugitive from justice. He will be arraigned in the Kings County Court today on a charge of selling ten lots on Highland Boulevard, Brooklyn, which he did not own, to Max Schmeyer of 997½ De Kalb Avenue, Brooklyn.

McCloundy was arrested by detectives of the Gates Avenue Station. The police say that at various times he has represented himself as a captain of a transatlantic liner, Warden of the City Prison and on one occasion as the owner of the Brooklyn Bridge, which he sold to an unsuspecting visitor. His police record dates back more than twenty years, the police say, and he has served many prison terms for various offenses.

Leaves $20,000 Fund for Husband.

MINEOLA, L. I., July 6.—The will of Mrs. Clara Gautier Bird of Hempstead, L. I., who died on June 25, was filed today in the Surrogate's office here. It provides a trust fund for Mrs. Bird's husband, Oliver W., of $20,000, and stipulates that he shall receive $100 a month until he remarries. After his death the fund is to be divided among the four children, Oliver W. and Dudley Bird and Mrs. Marie Louise Jackson and Mrs. Claire Bird Lewis. The residuary estate is divided among the four children with a few minor bequests to friends.

Mgr. Migherian Dies of Auto Injury.

Mgr. Maderous Migherian, leader of the Armenian Roman Catholics in the United States, died about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Bellevue Hospital after he had been struck Thursday night on Lexington Avenue by an automobile which did not stop. Mgr. Migherian was 74 years old. He had been in this country twenty-seven years and made his headquarters at St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church in East Twenty-ninth Street. He lived at 124 East Twenty-ninth Street.

LOUIS C. RAEGNER, LAWYER, DIES AT 72

Authority on Patents and Owner of Hotel Seville Stricken in Germany.

HANDLED IMPORTANT SUITS

Interested In Many Pieces of Property in the Midtown District—Retired in 1910.

Louis Christian Raegner, retired lawyer and owner of the Hotel Seville, Madison Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, which he built twenty-five years ago, died on Tuesday in Wildbad, Germany, according to an announcement last night by his son, Louis C. Raegner Jr., also a lawyer. He was 73 years old. He is survived by a widow, his second wife, who was Johanna Thomas of Baltimore at their marriage in 1916, and a daughter, Mrs. L. Mitchell-Henry of London, as well as by his son. Mr. Raegner's first wife, the former Meta Rettig of this city, died in 1914.

Throughout his long career at the bar, which terminated with his retirement in 1910, Mr. Raegner specialized in patent cases. He had charge of litigation in many of the important actions of this type during the last twenty years of his practice. Among his clients were the Aeolian Company, the Union Carbide Company, the Savage Arms Company and various firms involved in suits concerning dyestuff patents.

Mr. Raegner was an intimate friend of the late Judge Dugro, with whom he was long associated as a lawyer and as a hotel owner. They were both members of the class of 1876 at Columbia, and the law firm of Dugro & Raegner was the first with which Mr. Raegner was connected. Judge Dugro was concerned with Mr. Raegner in the erection and ownership of the Seville, and Mr. Raegner had a minority interest in the Hotel Savoy, of which Judge Dugro was the chief owner. Mr. Raegner was a member of the Board of Directors of the Murray Hill Hotel and was President of the Roy Realty Company, which owned various pieces of real estate in the Madison Avenue section near the Seville.

Mr. Raegner was a son of the Rev. Herman Raegner, who was pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church on Sixth Avenue. After his early partnership with Judge Dugro, he was for eighteen years a member of Boesel & Raegner, and for the final ten years of his practice he was a member of Dickerson, Brown & Raegner.

He belonged to the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, Fifth Avenue Association, New York City Bar Association, and the Briar Hills Country Club.

Funeral services will be held in the Church of the Transfiguration in East Twenty-ninth Street after the arrival of the body from Europe.

WOMAN DAZED IN TERMINAL.

Taken to Bellevue When She Forgets Name at Grand Central.

A woman who was noticed wandering in a daze in the Grand Central Terminal last night was taken to Bellevue Hospital for observation after a worker for the Travelers Aid had questioned her and found that she did not remember her name or address. Patrolman Ward of the East Fifty-first Street Station, summoned the ambulance and the woman was attended by Dr. Sullivan. She is about 40 years old, 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighing 125 pounds. She wore a blue and white checked house dress, a brown close-fitting hat, black shoes and flesh colored stockings.

WOMAN FELLED BY HEAT.

Rain Brings Lower Temperature—Highest Is 76 Degrees.

One heat prostration was reported late last night despite the fact that the hot spell of the past few days was broken yesterday by the rainstorm that visited the city. Nellie Strickland, 45, of 132 East Fourth Street, was treated by Dr. Wilson of Bellevue and removed to that hospital, overcome by the heat.

The highest the mercury reached was 76 degrees, at 7 P. M., while the average was only 70 degrees, three degrees below the average for the past forty-six years. The rainfall totaled 1.93 inches.

The forecast for today is "fair and warmer." The weather man said that tomorrow would probably be partly cloudy. No immediate return of the oppressive heat of the early part of the week was expected at the Weather Bureau.

WILLIAM GWYNNE DIES, 88.

Stock Exchange Member for Forty Years—Fought in Civil War.

William Gwynne, who had been a member of the New York Stock Exchange for forty years at his retirement in 1906, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Willis French, 272 Park Street, Upper Montclair, N. J. He was born eighty-eight years ago at Little Falls, N. Y. The funeral services will be held privately at the French residence at a time to be announced later.

Mr. Gwynne was a veteran of the Civil War. He was one of those who went out from New York in April, 1861, with the Fifth New York Volunteers, known as the "First Duryee's Zouaves." It was one of the first of the two-year regiments recruited in this State. After taking part in the small engagement of Big Bethel it did garrison duty in Baltimore and then joined McClellan's army on the Peninsula and fought at the siege of Yorktown with the regular army brigade of the Fifth Army Corps. Mr. Gwynne was in the famous "seven days' fighting," and was at Gaines's Mills, Malvern Hill, second Bull Run, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville. He was mustered out in 1863 at the end of the term of his enlistment.

Not long after he became a financier Mr. Gwynne formed one of the Gold Board that combatted Jay Gould's attempt to corner the gold market. He married Mary E. Parker, now deceased. Besides his daughter he left three brothers and a son.

MOTHER EVA MARY.

Daughter of Justice Stanley Matthews and Founder of an Order Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, July 6.—Mother Eva Mary, founder of the Episcopal order known as the Transfiguration Sisterhood, at Glendale, near Cincinnati, and daughter of the late Stanley Matthews, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, died today in Denver, according to word received at the religious colony. Her age was 70.

Mother Eva was a gifted organizer and was endowed with intellectual qualities of a high order. She was educated at Oxford, England. The order she founded here in 1898 established the Bethany Home for Girls, an educational institution, and the St. John Orphanage for Boys in Cleveland. While on a visit to Hawaii she founded a girls' boarding school at Honolulu. In Wu Hu, China, she established St. Llovas School for Girls, which has remained undisturbed amid recent war conditions.

DROWNED YOUTHS BURIED.

Services in Plainfield for Barbara Adams and George Mellick.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., July 6.—Funeral services for Barbara W. Adams, 17-year-old daughter of Major and Mrs. Henry Adams of 934 Park Avenue, Plainfield, and George Phelps Mellick, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick of 1,019 Hillside Avenue, who were drowned on Tuesday while swimming in the Ottauquechee River at Woodstock, Vt., were held this afternoon at the two homes. The Rev. Robert Rock of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church officiated at Miss Adams's funeral and the Rev. Harold Belshaw of Newburgh, N. Y., a relative, conducted the services at the Mellick home. Both victims were buried in Hillside Cemetery.

Former Pony Express Rider Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 6.—Albert Mooney, who was a mail rider in the days of the pony express and one of the oldest conductors of the Boston & Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad, is dead at his home in Lynn. His age was 74.

Mr. Mooney was attracted to the West as a youth by the opportunity for adventure, and, after living for two years in Utah, became associated with William H. Cody (Buffalo Bill), who, with Pawnee Bill, persuaded him to enter the Government service as a rider for the pony express. Although many times chased by Indians, he brought his mail through safely.

The Rev. Dr. Frederick S. Storey.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 6.—The Rev. Dr. Frederick S. Storey, retired Baptist minister, died today at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Barbara S. Rowland, 28 Madison Avenue, East Orange, 78 years old. He was born in England and had been in the United States fifty-seven years. He preached in New York prior to his retirement. He leaves two other daughters. Private funeral services will be held on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Thatcher Choate.

Special to The New York Times.

FRAMINGTON, Mass., July 6.—Mrs. Mary Thatcher Choate, widow of Fred E. Choate and talented musician, died here today after a brief illness. She was born in Brockport, N. Y., the daughter of the late Walter Scott Thatcher and Mary Helen Shumay Thatcher. She was living in Waverly, N. Y., at the time of her marriage in 1888. She left a daughter, Mrs. Russell Ohnemus of Framingham.

J. Henry Staats.

A. J. LICHSTERN, GRAIN BROKER, DEAD

Member of Chicago Board of Trade Had a Strenuous Career as Speculator.

WON WHEN LEITER LOST

Later Made a Coup on Long Side of Market—Served by Two Scores of Brokers.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 6.—A dramatic figure passed out of the Chicago grain market with the death from cerebral hemorrhage this morning of Adolph J. Lichstern, whose single-handed operations in speculative markets had made him for a generation an important factor on the Board of Trade.

Mr. Lichstern was seldom seen on the floor of the Board of Trade. He kept in close touch with speculative affairs through a battery of thirty or forty direct wire telephones connecting his North Shore home with the brokers who handled his orders.

Born in Germany sixty-six years ago, Adolph Julius Lichstern came to Chicago as a boy and received his education in the public schools and at the University of Chicago. Contact with speculative interests began early in his career, being fostered by his experience in the Chicago stock yards where he held his first job.

From his first speculation he played a lone hand.

Nearly thirty years ago he was on the short side of the market when the meteoric Joseph Leiter shook the world and dropped $10,000,000 because the bottom dropped out of an attempted wheat corner. Mr. Lichstern took the long side of the market in the Fall of 1911 and produced such an effective buying power in his own person that he ran what is generally considered to have been a signally successful operation on the bullish side of the market.

Surviving besides the widow are four sisters, Mrs. Max S. Sickle and Mrs. Julius Beecher of Chicago, Mrs. George Skilling of Portland, Me., and Mrs. Wm. S. La Londe of Los Angeles.

H. O. Seeley Dies of Auto Injuries.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 6.—Harry O. Seeley, 51, President of the Seeley Tube and Box Company, of Newark, with residence at 94 South Munn Avenue, East Orange, died today in the Dover General Hospital from injuries received yesterday in an automobile accident at Succasunna while returning from Culver Lake. Funeral services on Monday will be conducted by the Rev. Louis W. Pitt of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Newark. Mr. Seeley leaves a widow and a daughter.

Hugh Clougher Dies in Ferryhouse.

Hugh Clougher, Chief Clerk of the International Mercantile Marine at Pier 61, North River, died suddenly late yesterday afternoon in the Twenty-third Street ferryhouse of the Erie Railroad. Mr. Clougher was on his way to his home at 982 Summit Avenue, Jersey City, accompanied by Edward H. Kobbe of 127 Pleasant Avenue, Englewood, N. J., when he was taken ill. Dr. Stubenbord, who was summoned from New York Hospital, attributed death to heart disease. Mr. Clougher was 56 years old.

Mrs. Sarah J. Tenney.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 6.—Mrs. Sarah J. Tenney, a life-long resident of this city, died at her home, 2 Wayne Avenue, today after an illness of several years. She was one of those injured in the wreck of a Brewster express at Mott Haven on Feb. 16, 1906, and, according to members of her family, the injuries she received then were responsible for the illness which finally led to her death.

MOSES TO BE LEADER FOR HOOVER IN EAST

Campaign Manager Here Picked, National Committee Meets Today in Washington.

TO SELECT HEADQUARTERS

Hilles to Attend Session and Will Be Active in Drive — Ottinger-for-Governor Boom Grows.

Republican leaders here have been informed definitely that Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, who functioned as Permanent Chairman at the Republican National Convention, will be Eastern manager of the Hoover campaign.

Whether the Republican National Committee, following the practice in recent years when a President has been elected, will establish a headquarters in this city or not, will probably be decided at a conference in Washington today. All the Republican National Committeemen from Eastern States have been summoned to this conference at which the conduct of the Hoover campaign in the East will be the topic of discussion.

In the event that it should be determined to established the principal Eastern fighting base at Washington, rather than this city, it was predicted that the Treasurer of the Republican National Committee would have a branch office here in close proximity to the source from which in other years have flowed the bulk of contributions into the Republican campaign coffers.

Hilles to Aid Drive Here.

Republican National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles, who ever since the Republican National Convention has been under a physician's care, left yesterday afternoon for Washington, where he is to attend the Hoover campaign conference. Mr. Hilles, while not re-elected Vice Chairman of the Republican National Committee, continues a member of its Executive Committee and undoubtedly will function importantly in the Hoover campaign. Suggestions that Mr. Hilles might be sidetracked and Under Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills supersede him unofficially in the management of the Hoover campaign in this State were not taken very seriously in Republican circles, where a belief was expressed that any ascendency of the political star of Mr. Mills, a prime mover in the Hoover pre-convention campaign in this State, would have to await the election of his candidate.

Chairman George K. Morris of the Republican State Committee will not sit in at the conference in Washington today, but will visit Dr. Hubert Work, who will be in supreme command of the Hoover forces during the campaign at Washington for conferences over the week-end. It was assumed yesterday that the question of candidates for State offices might come up at the Work-Morris conversations, the Presidential nominee naturally being interested in seeing the strongest kind of a State ticket named in this State, which is destined to be a battleground where, with Governor Smith the Democratic nominee, the fighting will be exceptionally hard and the outcome of momentous importance.

Ottinger-for-Governor Boom Gains.

What could be learned yesterday in Republican circles confirms earlier reports indicating the probability that Attorney General Albert Ottinger will be the Republican nominee for Governor. He is regarded by most of the Republican leaders in the State as the strongest candidate that could be named, having demonstrated his vote-getting ability in the election two years ago, when he alone out of all the party candidates on the State ticket was re-elected. He is said, also, to be acceptable to the Hoover forces.

Friends of Attorney General Ottinger are looking forward to the meeting of the Republican State Committee late this month as an occasion where the sentiment for him among the Republican leaders throughout the State will come strongly to the surface. The meeting will be held at the National Republican Club on July 20 for the purpose of issuing the official call for the Republican State Convention, to fix the time and select the place for that gathering. The call to the State Committee meeting was sent out yesterday.

Under the terms of the Election law the convention must be held one of the last days in September or one of the first days in October. Syracuse and Saratoga, it was stated yesterday, are likely to put in bids for the convention, and at the present time Syracuse appears to be in the better position to win out.

DR. LATANE LAUDS SMITH.

Johns Hopkins Professor Says New Political Deal Is Needed.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, July 6.—"If there ever was a time when we needed a new political deal, a change in the national administration in order to break the hold of the corrupt interests that have dominated the Republican party for the past eight years, it is the present moment, and the nomination of Al Smith gives a tried leader of great ability and magnetic personality under whom the fight can be enthusiastically and, we believe, successfully waged."

This declaration was contained in a statement issued today by Dr. John H. Latane, Professor of American History at Johns Hopkins University, at a luncheon of directors of the Young People's Democratic League. Dr. Latane recently accepted the presidency of the league.

"Smith's is the kind of frank and bold leadership that neither party has supplied for the past ten years," Dr. Latane continued, "and we believe that the younger generation will welcome it and rally to it as they did to the leadership of Roosevelt and Wilson."

"The political pendulum," he said, "has begun to swing back from intolerance and corrupt control of the machinery of government toward liberalism and democracy."

GARBLE FARM PLANK ADOPTED BY DEMOCRATS

Some Rural Western Papers Omit Party's Pledge on Crop Surpluses.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Discovery was made here today that garbled copies of the Democratic plank on agriculture are being published in some rural newspapers.

The deception was brought to the attention of Chairman Thomas F. Donovan of the Democratic State Committee. A representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation visited the State Committee headquarters with a copy of the Quincy (Ill.) Herald-Whig of recent date which contained what purported to be copies of the Republican and Democratic planks of agriculture and prohibition, published in parallel columns. The omitted portion of the Democratic farm plank is as follows:

"We pledge the party to an earnest endeavor to solve this problem of the distribution of the cost of dealing with crop surpluses over the marketed units of the crop whose producers are benefited by such assistance. The solution of this problem would avoid Government subsidy to which the Democratic party always had been opposed."

The representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation also brought with him a copy of the Michigan Farm Bureau News in which a similar omission occurred.

MRS. SHAVER ASSAILS DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS

Includes Moody and Daniels in New Attack on Smith's Prohibition Policy.

MRS. ROOSEVELT REPLIES

Predicts Boomerang on Wife of Chairman — Illinois Women Rallying to Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Mrs. Clem Shaver, wife of the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and who was associated with Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson at Houston in attacking the policies of Governor Smith, today startled the women of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League by denouncing the Democratic nominee for President and Governor Moody of Texas, ex-Secretary Josephus Daniels and others for their attitude toward the prohibition plank. She asserted that Governor Smith had "stamped himself as a charlatan and faker."

"Regardless of what Democratic leaders from top to bottom may do," Mrs. Shaver said, "we dry Democratic women will not support the dripping wet ticket and the joke platform named by the Tammany delegates to the recent convention at Houston.

"And, furthermore, we do not believe more than a few of the millions of the Democratic women in this country can be fooled as all of the Democratic leaders appear to have been fooled by it.

Charges Disloyalty to Party.

"The idea of men like Josephus Daniels, Dan Moody, Joe Robinson, Carter Glass and Jed Adams saying 'I am Democrat, I shall support the party nominee.'

"How many times has Tammany supported the party nominee in the past sixteen years? Not once. Yet they have fooled these heretofore able Democratic leaders into saying 'I am Democrat, I will vote for Tammany, whisky and a trick platform.'

"We say a man who will shut his eyes like an ostrich to the things which the Democratic Party has always stood for is a 'booze-o-crat,' not a Democrat.

"The Democratic nominee has always said in his public utterances that the party should make the platform and a candidate should stand on it. He has always said that his one outstanding issue is whisky and booze, the return of the legalized liquor traffic, which means the return of the licensed saloon.

Calls Smith Insincere.

"Every politician knows it, and when the party adopted a 'dry' platform, if the nominee had been either honest or sincere in his public utterances he could have done nothing but decline the nomination.

"He did not, and therefore stamped himself as a charlatan and a faker who is attempting to prove that Lincoln was wrong and that you can fool all the people all the time.

"Those heretofore great leaders of democracy who are hitching their political wagons to such a star as this will find their wagons demolished before the women of the nation get through answering their 'I am a Democrat' assertions at the polls.

"This attempt to bring back legalized whisky and booze will arouse the women of the nation such as nothing else possibly could, and there will be more than one political funeral celebrated before the cold weather sets in next November."

Illinois Women Back Smith.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Mrs. Clem Shaver's attacks upon Governor Smith produced no responsive ripples among Chicago's Democratic women today. On the contrary, two of the leading women of the party declared emphatically the women of Illinois are for Smith without any reservations.

"Every one that I have talked to is enthusiastically for Al Smith," Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, National Committeewoman for Illinois, said. "I think Mrs. Shaver stands alone. Women from all over the State have telephoned and written to me pledging their support and asking what they can do to further the success of our nominee."

Mrs. George E. Brennan, wife of the National Committeeman, herself a leader in the party, said:

"The Smith movement in Illinois is increasing daily. The women of Illinois are working hard and supporting him energetically. Republican men and women have informed me they are going to support Smith. I can't understand why Mrs. Shaver should make the statment she did."

Mrs. Conkey said she was going to New York Monday to attend the meeting of the National Committee.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt Hits Back.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, taking up the cudgels for Governor Smith, in a statement made public here yesterday in reply to Mrs Clem Shaver's attack on the Governor, predicted that it would prove a boomerang. Mrs. Roosevelt said:

"Mrs. Shaver's attack is well in line with the extreme and frequently untruthful statements made by the little group of women represented by the Women's Democratic Law Enforcement Committee of Baltimore.

"Any one who saw the 'Woman Voter' will realize that apparently truth is a matter of secondary consideration. There are women, of course, who consider the enforcement of the Volstead law more important than truth or fair play.

"Apparently Mrs. Shaver has allowed herself to be misled by this group.

"I can only say that I feel sure that the American sense of fair play, which is as strong in women as in men, will make exaggerations and misrepresentations of this kind become not only useless but hurtful to those who make them."

The reference by Mrs. Roosevelt to the "Woman Voter" recalls that in a supplement to the June issue of the Women's Democratic News, of which Mrs. Roosevelt is editor, matter attacking Governor Smith, and somewhat in line with the statement of Mrs. Shaver, had been placed in parallel with a column containing the facts. This supplement was widely circulated among women who attended the Houston convention.

In the supplement the allegations on which the attack upon the Governor was based were referred to in a prefatory way as "long buried lies which the lowest ward politician would scorn to use."

ADVISES DRY DEMOCRATS.

Mrs. Ross Tells Them They Can Vote for Arid Representatives.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 6 (AP).—Suggestion that "the people exercise the right of sending dry candidates to Congress" if they do not want modification of the Eighteenth Amendment was made today by former Governor Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming, upon her return to Cheyenne from the Democratic National Convention.

"If elected, Governor Smith may exercise the right of recommending modification of the laws which have been enacted under the prohibition amendment," Mrs. Ross said. "But Democratic members of Congress may also exercise the right of declining to vote for such modification. And Democratic voters may, if they choose, support only such candidates for Congress as will decline so to vote."

Mrs. Ross said Governor Smith's acceptance telegram "emphasized the honesty and courage that are typical of the man."

It was to be expected, she said, that a man of his honesty would declare to enforce to the limit "without reservation or evasion" the prohibition law, and at the same time to reiterate his personal views.

Ex-Senator Gore, Former Foe, To Campaign for Smith

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 6 (AP).—T. P. Gore, former Senator from Oklahoma, today announced that he would withdraw his name as a candidate for Representative in Congress on the Democratic ticket from the Sixth Oklahoma District to campaign for Governor Smith.

The former Senator opposed the nomination of Governor Smith for President at the Democratic National Convention.

ROOSEVELT ATTACKS SMITH AND TAMMANY

Criticizes Governor's Speech Lauding the Society as a Patriotic Organization.

HITS DEMOCRAT PLATFORM

Colonel Calls It Contradictory in Speech at Rochester—Urges Hoover's Election.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 6.—Criticizing the Democratic platform as a flimsy structure of contradictions, and assailing Tammany Hall, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt Jr., speaking before members of the Columbian League here today, made a plea for the election of Herbert Hoover.

Although he declared the integrity and ability of Governor Smith were above reproach, Colonel Roosevelt took the Democratic standard-bearer to task for his Fourth of July speech in New York in which he lauded Tammany as a patriotic organization.

"The platform contradicts itself," Colonel Roosevelt said. "It condemns President Coolidge for twice vetoing the McNary-Haugen bill and does not advocate the passage of that bill. It urges that we get out of the Philippine Islands in one paragraph and in another demands that we get into Armenia.

"It declares against interference in Nicaragua and demands at the same time the protection of American lives and rights.

Calls Corruption Talk 'Hypocrisy.'

"Perhaps the crowning hypocrisy of the whole platform is where they assault the Republican Party for corruption. There has been corruption in the Republican Party. I have spoken and worked against it myself. I am proud to say that we Republicans have cleaned up this corruption in our party.

"The Democrats have the insolence, however, to condemn the Republican corruption and then proceed to nominate a leader of Tammany Hall. No one questions the personal integrity of the Governor of this State, but we know only too well the organization he represents. Here in New York State we do not have to be told what Tammany is.

"We remember vividly its actions in the past and should these become dim, they are recalled and revivified by the happenings of today.

"Tammany today is the same as Tammany yesterday, and that Tammany tomorrow will be in no wise different from the other two.

Criticizes Smith's Speech.

"The Democratic standard bearer, the present Governor of the State, undertook day before yesterday, on the Fourth of July, a defense of Tammany.

"Speaking at Tammany Hall, in whose old home the name of Boss Tweed rests in the corner stone, he declared, in effect, that that organization had been a great benevolent institution. He defended its past, as well as its present. In a building which enshrines the memories of Tweed, Kelly, Croker and Murphy, he spoke of patriotism and clean Government.

"What choice lies before the people this Autumn? On the one hand stands Herbert Hoover, unbossed, save by his conscience; a man of experience, a man of wide humanity, whose benevolence has taken the form of deeds, not empty words.

"On the other hand stands the self-acclaimed leader of Tammany Hall.

"I believe in Herbert Hoover because of his great administrative ability, because of his vision, because of his humanity, because of cleanness and because he will be the next President of the United States."

HARDMAN FOR THE TICKET.

"I am a Democrat," Says Georgia Governor on Smith.

Special to The New York Times.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 6.—A dispatch to The Savannah Press from Atlanta says Governor L. G. Hardman of Georgia, when asked today if he intended to support Governor Smith for President, replied: "I am a Democrat."

Under the rules of the primary to be held in Georgia in September, the Governor will be called upon to support all the nominees of the party since he is to make the race for Governor again.

The Governor intimated that the Democratic prohibition plank was not entirely to his liking, and he does not agree with Governor Smith on that issue. It is expected that he will issue a statement on prohibition within the next few days. The Governor holds, the dispatch says, that there are other issues besides prohibition which are important to Democracy and the country at this time.

The Governor, the dispatch points out, thus takes his place beside Senator George, Senator Harris and other leading Georgia Democrats under the Smith-Robinson banner.

SMITH LEADS HOOVER IN PITTSBURG 'VOTE'

Straw Ballots Give Him 3,225 Plurality Out of 19,599 in Republican Stronghold.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 6.—Those who enjoy Independence Day in the open as a holiday took advantage of the opportunity to express their Presidential selection while away from their labors and the result of their balloting in The Sun-Telegraph voting machines was that Smith was given the preference by a 9 to 5 ratio over Secretary Hoover.

The amazing thing about the present straw vote is the fact that men and women in all walks of life are anxious to cast their ballot in the machines. The fact that the voting is secret and no one can know for whom a ballot is cast appears to influence hundreds to cast a vote for their favorite Presidential nominee.

With Smith leading Hoover by 3,225 votes in a total of 19,599 cast so far, in this Republican stronghold, politicians are wondering what it means.

The remarkable feature of the straw vote being taken by this newspaper is the "drift" of normal Republican voters to the Democratic banner. Of those who have participated in The Sun-Telegraph's straw vote, 1,752 said they voted for the Democratic candidate, John W. Davis, four years ago and 7,625 voted for Coolidge. In other words, there were 1,752 Democratic votes in 1924 to 11,462 Democratic votes in 1928 in the present straw balloting.

DEADLOCK IN SERB CRISIS.

King Resumes Conferences After Raditch Refuses to Form Cabinet.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, July 6.—The Government crisis today was in the deadlock stage, following Stefan Raditch's double refusal last night to accept a mandate to form either a concentration or an election Cabinet.

King Alexander this forenoon began a series of conferences with leading politicians, but tonight he had not asked any other potential Premier to form a Ministry.

VOTE REGISTRATION SLOW.

Travelers, Who Can Sign Lists Now, Fail to Visit Bureaus.

Few voters who expect to be absent from the county where they are entitled to register during the regular period of registration are taking advantage of the opportunity for "central registration" under the terms of the Election law, as amended at this year's session of the Legislature. However, the Board of Elections continued yesterday to extend facilities for prior registration to the voters in this class.

Owing to many questions having been asked, the board yesterday repeated an earlier statement defining the scope and operation of the new law.

Under its provisions, registration in advance of the regular period (Oct. 8 to 13) is permitted in any case where a voter, because of his duties, business or occupation, may be unavoidably absent from the county where he is entitled to vote. The same privilege applies to wives accompanying their husbands who come in this registration classification.

Employes of railroads identified with the operation of trains crossing the boundary lines of their home county, actors, commercial travelers, Federal employes whose offices or positions keep them outside of their home county and students at institutions outside their own county are included. They may apply in person at the office of the Election Board in their home borough on any Monday, excepting Labor Day, or any Friday between the hours of 9 A. M. and 4 P. M., or any Saturday before noon.

A special provision, applicable this year, will admit to advance registration privileges members of the American Legion or its auxiliary branch, the United Spanish War Veterans or the ladies' auxiliary of that organization, or husbands, wives or children of such members who intend to attend the convention of either of these organizations.

The offices where application for central registration may be made are located as follows: Manhattan, Room 1835, Municipal Building; Brooklyn, Room 600, Municipal Building; Bronx, 442 East 149th Street; Queens, 10 Court Square, Long Island City; Richmond, Borough Hall, New Brighton, S. I.

Gets 53 Tons of 1929 Auto Tags.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 6.—Fifty-three tons of next year's automobile license plates were delivered today to County Clerk Charles J. F. Decker for storage until the end of this year. Ten more tons are to be delivered here in a few days. All the plates are for Westchester County motor vehicles.

a stand has not been doubted by those who know him, but up till now he had withheld all comment supporting this theory, excepting, of course, the general reiteration of the views on prohibition which he set forth in his message to the Democratic convention.

With the meeting drawing near of the National Committee, which is officially charged with arranging the formal notification, the Governor's announcement of his own decision was made without consultation with its members, so far as is known here.

In further confirmation of his interpretation of the announcement, the Governor's friends point to the fact that he is scheduled tomorrow to see Senator Pittman of the committee which the National Convention designated to bring the formal notification to the nominee.

Aside from the inferences drawn from the announcement itself, little significance was considered to be attached to the fact that the ceremony is to take place in Albany rather than in New York, although in some quarters it was pointed out that the scene of the ceremony would place emphasis upon the Governor's present position and record rather than upon his east side origin and connection with Tammany Hall.

Albany More Convenient.

This latter view is not widely credited and the Governor is believed merely to be following his own convenience in choosing Albany. He has lived in Albany for many years, and tells his fellow-citizens here "this is my home." His home and his executive duties will keep him here much of the time until the end of his term on Jan. 1, so that an arduous ceremony in New York would be an added strain on the powers he is conserving for the campaign.

The Albany Capitol will provide a fine setting for the notification. Its massive steps alone can accommodate 1,000 persons and from their top the Governor will be visible to the many thousands for whom space can be found in the Capitol grounds. From the grounds and the streets thereabout it is believed possible for 40,000 or more persons to get a good view of the affair.

The older citizens here are already beginning to speculate on whether the Governor will attract the crowd here that Bryan did, when he campaigned in 1896.

The Governor received few callers today. He played a few holes of golf with his son, Alfred E. Smith Jr., at the Wolferts Roost Country Club. The Governor wore new white golf stockings with figuring in blue, and a gray tweed suit.

Family Sees Him Depart.

Boarding the Kenny car at the Union Station, he departed for Pioneer Point at 4:22 A. M. Mrs. Smith, his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Warner, and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, and five grandchildren were at the station to see him off. He was accompanied only by George Graves, his secretary, and Mrs. Graves, who were to leave the car at Weehawken.

The car was attached to a West Shore train and was to be transferred to the Pennsylvania line at Weehawken, where the Governor expected to be joined by his friends, Mr. Kenny and James J. Riordan, who will attend the funeral. Mr. Kenny and Mr. Riordan did not accompany him to Albany yesterday as reported.

The Governor expected to arrive at Wilmington, Del., about midnight, remain on the car over night, leave it only long enough to attend the funeral, and return at once to Albany, arriving here tomorrow evening. It is possible that Senator Pittman, who was to have come to Albany to see the Governor late tonight or tomorrow, will board the car when it passes near New York on the return trip and ride to Albany with the candidate.

Arrives at Weehawken.

Governor Smith arrived in Weehawken aboard the St. Nicholas, private car of William F. Kenny, last night at 8:45 o'clock. He was greeted at the station by Mr. Kenny, James J. Riordan, Dr. Raymond Sullivan and Timothy J. Mara, who accompanied him to Pioneer Point, Md. The party remained on the car while it was switched to Pennsylvania Railroad tracks and attached to the train of that line leaving the Pennsylvania Station at 11:45.

A throng of ferry passengers collected about the Governor and his party when they strolled down the platform and through the station. There was no demonstration.

SMITH INVITES REED.

Asks Late Rival to Albany to Confer on Campaign and Issues.

Governor Smith sent a letter yesterday to Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, his foremost rival for the Democratic nomination for President at the Houston convention, inviting him to be a guest at the Executive Mansion at Albany in the near future, with a view to conferences on the issues and conduct of the national campaign.

The text of the letter was made public last night at Smith headquarters in the Hotel Biltmore. It is regarded as the forerunner of other invitations of a similar nature to other late candidates. When the campaign gets under way it is fully expected by Governor Smith's friends that under his leadership ancient rivalries will be forgotten and practically all the prominent Democrats who aspired to the Presidential nomination as "favorite sons" or otherwise will occupy positions of more or less importance in the fighting organization to be built up, in preparation for one of the most vigorous Democratic national campaigns on record.

Reed Promised His Aid.

Senator Reed, even before the nominating stage was reached at the late convention, made it clear to the campaign managers of Governor Smith that once the convention had reached a decision he would be found in the thick of the fighting to elect Governor Smith President of the United States.

The letter to Senator Reed was as follows:

Hon. James A. Reed,
Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Senator:

Now that the storm of battle is clearing away, I hope that I can prevail upon you to spend a night at Albany at the Executive Mansion and confer with me on the conduct and issues of the campaign in which we are all engaged together.

Please let me know what your plans are for the near future so that we can perhaps get together soon.

Sincerely yours,
ALFRED E. SMITH.

It is half expected at Smith headquarters that Senator Reed may come East for the conference of Governor Smith and Democratic leaders who are members of the special committee created by the Democratic National Committee to get together with the Governor and discuss the selection of a Democratic National Chairman to be in charge of the campaign. This conference is to be held next Wednesday at the Hotel Biltmore. Senator Peter Goelet Gerry of Rhode Island, it was stated yesterday, is still in the strongest position for the important place as Governor Smith's campaign manager.

It is held probable that Governor Smith is anxious to consult Senator Reed with regard to certain features of his forthcoming speech of acceptance. Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, who was Chairman of the convention's Committee on Resolutions, is also to be consulted by Governor Smith on the acceptance speech. Senator Pittman is expected in this city today and will go on to Albany to be Governor Smith's guest at the Executive Mansion.

King Visits Headquarters.

United States Senator William H. King of Utah called at the Smith campaign headquarters here yesterday and he spent about half an hour with Public Service Commissioner George R. Van Namee, who is in charge there. He said that the Governor would make an extraordinary run in Utah and other intermountain States, ordinarily counted upon by the Republicans to swell their column. Senator King, who was to leave for Washington last night, said that on his way North from the Houston convention he had made several stops and everywhere found strong Smith sentiment.

"Governor Smith makes a strong appeal to the imagination of the people," the Senator said. "I would say that at this time the odds favor him on choice for the election next Fall. It is putting it mildly to say that Governor Smith has an excellent chance."

"Will the Governor be invited to visit Utah on his campaign tour?" Senator King was asked.

"We certainly want the Governor," he replied. "But it is too early to say whether he should take the time to come."

The Senator said that Governor Smith had a good chance to carry Republican Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Nevada, Arizona and Idaho, States that almost without exception normally give their electoral vote to Republican candidates.

"What will be the effect of the stand on prohibition taken by Governor Smith in his message to the Houston convention in the dry States of the West?" Senator King was asked.

"That is a question which it is a little hard to answer," he replied. "It is difficult to determine that offhand. The repercussion from any issue involving moral or religious questions is exceedingly difficult to gauge."

Daniel F. Steck, Republican United States Senator from Iowa, said that in his State, normally strongly Republican in a Presidential year, the Democrats this year would have a fighting chance, owing to dissatisfaction among the farmers with the Republican stand in Congress on the McNary-Haugen bill and their general distrust of Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee for President.

Questions First Ballot Figures.

Joseph Johnson Jr., Commissioner of Public Works of Manhattan and a delegate to the Democratic Convention, in a statement made public yesterday, declared that owing either to the failure of the Secretary of the convention to hear or an error in addition, Governor Smith failed to be credited with several votes on the first ballot which would have assured him of the necessary two-thirds without any of the delegates who had voted for other candidates on the roll call of States, changing their votes in his favor.

Governor Smith was short of the necessary two-thirds when the roll call of States was ended. By that time the Oklahoma delegation, whose twenty votes had been cast for Senator Reed of Missouri, as a result of the vote being challenged, had been polled. When the Secretary of the convention announced the result he awarded ten of the twenty votes to Governor Smith, eight to Senator Reed and two to Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, according to Commissioner Johnson.

The Commissioner declared that a tally was being kept by the New York delegation and that this tally showed ten and one-half votes for Smith, which, under the unit rule, applicable to the Oklahoma delegation, should have given him all the twenty votes, ten and one-half being a majority.

Commissioner Johnson quoted a letter from John J. Harden, Smith leader in Oklahoma and a delegate at large, which bears out his contention in every respect and carries the name of twenty-one delegates, each of whom cast one-half vote for Governor Smith and according to Mr. Harden are willing to make affidavits affirming the truth of the statement.

Mr. Johnson said he had written to Mr. Van Namee urging that the Secretary of the convention make a correction.

Denies Dissension Reports.

James J. Hoey, one of the circle of close friends of Governor Smith last night denied published reports of dissension in the Smith camp. He authorized the following statement:

"The statement in the daily press that I have criticized Justice Joseph M. Proskauer in connection with his activities at the Democratic National Convention at Houston is absolutely untrue. On the contrary, I have nothing but words of praise for the unswerving loyalty, untiring energy and great ability of Judge Proskauer at Houston and elsewhere.

"The report of friction among Governor Smith's friends is undoubtedly propaganda intended to cover up and draw attention away from the dissension in the Republican camp.

"Judge Proskauer, myself, and all other sincere friends of Governor Smith will be found fighting side by side for a common cause until election day despite the efforts of the Republicans to cause dissension in the Democratic ranks."

Reed Awaits Smith Invitation.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 6.—Senator Reed, who is in St. Louis, has not received Governor Smith's invitation to confer with him at Albany about the campaign. Until he received it he would not comment.

REPUBLICANS BAN STRESS ON DRY LAW

peting nations and to give employment to our workers, that they may buy the produce of our farms, is, of course, one of the outstanding issues of this campaign. Our people should vote to protect the American payroll, vastly larger than that of all the rest of the world. It is our one universal asset. We must protect it to maintain our high standards of living.

"The Republican Party is most fortunate in the selection of our standard bearers. The favorable reaction over the country at large to these men since their nomination has been almost unprecedented. They will, of course, carry the party vote and also draw to themselves support in great numbers from those who think independently on political questions.

"Former associates of Secretary Hoover in the food administration and his relief activities overseas are eager for the opportunity to assist in his election.

"Racial groups, because of his services for their relatives in foreign countries who were distressed by hunger and destitution, now wish to demonstrate their appreciation. The thinking masses, especially professional and business people, have unlimited confidence in him. These groups, ordinarily inactive in political campaigns, can in the present one be mobilized as never before, particularly in getting voters to register and enlisting their active interest before and on election day.

"Hoover committees and clubs should be stimulated as auxiliaries to the regular organization and encouraged to associate themselves with State organizations, to secure a common direction of effort.

"We should begin now to impress upon the thoughtless the privilege of the franchise, and urge them to prepare themselves for its exercise on election day. Eight millions of young men and young women are now eligible to vote for a President for the first time. They should be given special consideration by our committee members.

"Our speakers should be advised to stress their objection to opposing candidates for the substantial reason that they are Democrats; that the election of those candidates would install the Democratic Party in control of this Government, and precedent warrants the belief that national prosperity would cease.

"Politics is the art and science of government and should be so regarded. In all the history of our great country since the Republican Party was founded, it has been the dominating influence that has carried us forward to world supremacy. Our efforts should, therefore, be directed to the selection of men and women of this proven party who are qualified and willing to serve the country from the highest motives.

"The Republican National Committee is the official campaign committee of the Republican Party. Each member is a constituent part of the national organization. It is hoped that you will at once initiate active campaign work associated with your State organization."

Dr. Work said that there would be no further development of party policy until Mr. Hoover had delivered his speech accepting the Presidential nomination.

Mr. Hoover spent a busy day at his office in the Department of Commerce. The rush of visitors made it impossible for him to work on his speech of acceptance. Among those with whom he conferred were Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts; Secretary Davis of the Labor Department; Noble Judah, Ambassador to Cuba, and Samuel Dolbear of New York.

Eastern Conference Today.

At the conference of Eastern leaders called for tomorrow in Washington, efforts will be made to whip the party organization into shape. It was said today that Senator Moses of New Hampshire had intimated that he would not care to undertake the management of the Eastern campaign unless assured, in advance, of a large measure of authority. A like stipulation is understood to have been made by James W. Good of Iowa, to whom the management of the Chicago headquarters was offered. As a result, friction is said to have developed between Dr. Work on the one hand and Messrs. Moses and Good on the other.

There was gossip here today, moreover, that some actual opposition has developed to the proposal to place Senator Moses in charge of the Eastern campaign. A conference held today between Secretary Hoover and Rrepresentative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader of the House, gave rise to reports that to Mr. Tilson might be offered the management of the Eastern headquarters in the event of the failure of Chairman Work and Senator Moses to compose their differences.

John Richardson of Boston, who had charge of the Hoover pre-convention movement in Massachusetts, is also said to be regarded by the campaign chiefs as particularly qualified to take over the Eastern post.

Hoover Sees Moses and Good.

Senator Moses and Mr. Good arrived here today and conferred with Secretary Hoover, as well as with Dr. Work. They had luncheon with Mr. Hoover in the latter's private office in the Department of Commerce.

Among those to be present at tomorrow's conference with Dr. Work are National Committeemen Charles D. Hilles of New York, Frederick S. Peck of Rhode Island, Louis K. Liggett of Massachusetts, and Earl S. Kinsley of Vermont. E. O. Hastings will represent Delaware in the absence of Senator T. Coleman du Pont, National Committeeman from that State, who will be unable to attend because of illness. Senator Moses, Representative Fort of New Jersey, Secretary of the Republican National Committee and Henry J. Allen of Kansas, who will have charge of the Hoover-Curtis publicity bureau, also will attend.

Asked if a decision would be reached at this conference as to who will have charge of the Eastern headquarters in New York, Chairman Work said:

"No settlement has been arrived at as to who will direct either New York or Chicago headquarters. Mr. Good's professional engagements make it doubtful whether he can see his way clear to take command at Chicago. The next statement I have to make on the subject will be to announce definite conclusions. I am unable to say, at this time, whether these announcements will be made after tomorrow's conference."

Dr. Work announced that National Committeeman Kinsley of Vermont had reported for duty to headquarters. He said other members of the committee would be called upon for like service, among them Mr. Hilles of New York, who will confer with Mr. Hoover and Dr. Work tomorrow for the first time since the adjournment of the Kansas City convention.

BANTON SURVEYS KILLINGS

In Two Years 113 Were Indicted for 104 Deaths—Eight Guilty in First Degree, 13 Insane.

While the police of New York City, with the co-operation of the police of Chicago, pressed their hunt in New York City, Chicago, Knoxville, Tenn., and Miami, Fla., for clues to the slayers of Frankie Yale, Brooklyn gang leader, on Sunday, District Attorney Banton yesterday made public figures showing that 113 persons had been indicted for first-degree murder in New York County in connection with 104 killings since May, 1926. Police Commissioner Warren denied that he was planning to increase the "gang" squad to exterminate the gang evil. Mr. Warren said he saw no need for such a shift at this time.

Mr. Warren refused to discuss the activities of the police in connection with the murder of Yale. He refused to confirm or deny reports that Chicago detectives were in New York on that New York detectives were on their way to Chicago and other places in search of evidence to establish the identity of the slayer or slayers. He did say, however, that the police of New York and Chicago were co-operating on this and other cases.

It was learned from other sources that at least six detectives had been sent to the Middle West from New York to check up information that Yale was killed as a result of a feud with a Chicago gang leader.

Trace Car and Machine Gun.

The police in Brooklyn made known that they had broadcast a request for the arrest of a "man named Cox," who about a year ago purchased the automobile which was found near the place where Yale was killed and in which was found a sub-machine gun, a .38 calibre revolver and a .38 calibre automatic pistol. The police have established the identity of the man who originally bought the car from a Nash sales agency in Knoxville, Tenn., and who turned it in before it was resold to Cox.

Confident that they know who was in the car at the time that Yale was killed, the police are making such progress in their investigation that it was announced yesterday afternoon by a high police official that one or more arrests might be made.

The police further said that they had traced the Thompson sub-machine gun, through the Colt Patent Firearms Company's secret number, to a dealer in a suburb of Chicago and knew to whom it was sold.

Police Inspector John J. Sullivan, in command of detectives in Brooklyn, denied a report that members of the Brooklyn Detective Bureau and Industrial Squad had been hurried to Atlantic City to intercept an automobile party of gangsters that started from New York for the New Jersey seashore resort to avenge the murder of Yale. Detective Inspector James Malseed in Atlantic City likewise denied that he had been warned to be on the lookout for a band of Brooklyn gangsters.

13 Insane in 104 Killings.

District Attorney Banton's review of killings here for the past two years shows that of the 113 indicted 8 were convicted of first degree murder, while ninety-one others either were convicted or pleaded guilty to lesser crimes or were discharged on arraignment in General Sessions. Thirteen others were adjudged insane by the courts and committed to State hospitals for the insane.

One of those convicted of first-degree murder, Robert Weiner, subsequently was freed on two indictments in connection with the Tombs outbreak in November, 1927, after his conviction for participation in the slaying of Warden Mallon had been set aside by the Court of Appeals. Thomas Hyland, convicted of participation in the murder of a lower west side restaurateur, was spared from the electric chair through commutation of his sentence by Governor Smith to life imprisonment. His three co-defendants had received life terms on their pleas of guilty to second-degree murder.

James Mason, a negro, also was saved from the electric chair by the Governor, and received a life term, while Harry Vishnitser, youthful participant in the killing of two detectives in a lower east side restaurant hold-up, was declared insane and sent to a hospital from the Death House, after the Court of Appeals had confirmed the first-degree conviction of Vishnitzer and another youth in the murders.

A summary of the disposition of these murder cases follows:

Convicted murder first degree	8
Convicted (or pleaded guilty) murder second degree	11
Convicted (or pleaded guilty) manslaughter first degree	22
Convicted (or pleaded guilty) manslaughter second degree	13
Acquittals	12
Discharged for lack of evidence	31
Insane	13
Total	110

Printer Held in Senter Case.

At Police Headquarters it was said that the fight in which Detective John J. V. Cronin of Inspector Coughlin's staff had been injured in Atlantic City last Thursday night had no connection with the Yale case. Cronin, who was largely instrumental in rounding up the Whitmore gang, and who is a department honor man, was injured in a fight in a dance hall. He was reported yesterday to be slightly improved in the Atlantic City Hospital.

Edward Jacob, 32 years old, a printer, 332 Rogers Avenue, Brooklyn, was held without bail on a short affidavit charging complicity in the murder of James Senter or Hunter, whose bullet-ridden body was found in a sandpit in Cherry Street between Porter and Varick Avenues, Brooklyn, on Tuesday morning. Jacob was arrested by Detectives Abraham Stern and James Clauer of the Greenpoint Station in front of a garage at Nostrand Avenue and Sullivan Place. The police said he had a record showing he was sent to Elmira Reformatory as a boy and to Sing Sing in 1909. Harry Veasy, 47 Jaya Street, Brooklyn, was held without bail on Thursday on a charge of having fired the shots that killed Senter.

Arthur Palumbo, 22 years old, 696 Courtlandt Avenue, the Bronx, was committed to jail as a material witness in the shooting of Sylvestre Carafalo, 28, of 251 East 151st Street, the Bronx, early on the morning of July 4. Palumbo was committed by County Judge Albert Cohen. He had been charged with felonious assault by police, who found him standing on the running board of the car in which Carafalo was shot. The charge was dismissed by Magistrate Vitale in Morrisania Court. Carafalo's condition is serious, according to the latest reports from Lincoln Hospital.

Atlantic City Awaits Thugs.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 6.—Police officials in Atlantic City were silent today concerning the reported movement of New York gangsters to this city in quest of revenge for the slaying of Frankie Uals, notorious Brooklyn racketeer. Detective Inspector Malseed said no word of the move had been sent the local Detective Bureau by the New York authorities, and that the usual precautions against violence would be maintained here.

It had been reported from New York that fifteen or twenty gunmen had come here seeking revenge. If they are here their whereabouts is unknown.

GLAD TO PUNISH GUNMEN.

Judge Nova, Scoring Parasite Thugs, Sets High Bail for Suspects.

Judge Nova in Kings County Court yesterday expressed pleasure in imposing severe treatment on two gunmen.

Rocco Morganti, 43, of 153 Sackett Street, charged with possession of a loaded pistol, pleaded not guilty, saying he was too intoxicated to know what he was doing when he was found with the weapon. Assistant District Attorney Sullivan said he was thought to be a member of the Frankie Yale gang. Unable to produce $10,000 bail Morganti went to Raymond Street Jail to await trial.

"I have little patience with these fellows," Judge Nova declared. "Drunk or sober, they have but one purpose in mind when they carry a gun—to commit crime. Law-abiding persons are really concerned when parasite gunmen can live in opulence without honest occupation and flout law and order in wreaking vengeance or removing those who stand in the way of easy profits. Personally, I find it a very pleasant task to inflict the maximum punishment on gunmen brought before me."

Salvatore Agro, 27, of 152 Varet Street, came up charged with second degree assault for shooting Leonard Klotz of 228 Cook Street last May. Agro pleaded not guilty, and in default of $10,000 bail he went to jail.

With two previous felony convictions, Charles Wyatt, 45, was arraigned on a burglary charge. He admitted entering a home in search of food. Informed that Wyatt worked steadily until he lost his job because of illness, Judge Nova said life imprisonment would be injustice, and entered a plea of not guilty for him. He said a plea of guilty to a misdemeanor should be accepted.

DETECTIVE SUES HUDSON.

Named in Broker's Counter-Claim to Wife's Suit, Braun Asks $100,000.

Percy K. Hudson, member of the New York Stock Exchange, who was sued recently for a divorce by Elizabeth C. Hudson, is now defending an action for $100,000 damages brought by Julius B. Braun, a private detective, because Mr. Hudson named him as corespondent in a counter-claim to his wife's former suit for a separation, the counter-claim having been withdrawn later. Braun alleges that the broker named him maliciously because he was employed to protect Mrs. Hudson while she was in litigation with her husband and that his reputation was damaged by the publicity resulting from the alleged baseless charge against him. The detective also asserted that telephone calls were sent to his wife threatening that unless Braun withdrew from the employ of Mrs. Hudson his home would be broken up and his business ruined.

The case will come before Supreme Court Justice Townley on Monday on an application by Mr. Hudson to strike out the bulk of the allegations in the complaint on the ground that they are scandalous and unnecesary.

AWAIT ALBANY POOL DATA.

Federal Aides Hear M. F. Dugan Will Reveal Operators.

A report that Matthew F. Dugan, one of the men indicted for alleged connection with the Albany Baseball Pool, had furnished Federal investigators with information which would reveal the names of the men who control the pool, reached the Federal Building yesterday. Assistant Federal Attorney Thomas T. Cooke, who is in charge of the prosecution, would not discuss the report further than to say that the inquiry was still going on before the Grand Jury and that interesting developments might be expected next week.

Two witnesses were before the Grand Jury yesterday. They were Michael Biahauer, an official of the Boyd Printing Company, Inc., of Albany, and Michael Mansion, an employe of the company. They were questioned concerning the printing of pool tickets, announcement sheets and literature advertising the pool. On Thursday United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle said that the pool had decided to go out of business.

Boy Scouts Urged to Ask Women to Stop Smoking

CLEVELAND, July 6 (AP).—Six thousand Cleveland Boy Scouts today had a new "daily good turn" opportunity offered to them. A resolution passed by the Executive Committee of the Boy Scout Council, and said to be for "psychological reasons," admonished each Scout to use his influence to stop cigarette smoking by women.

The executives explained they felt that smoking by women coarsens them and detracts from the ideal of fine motherhood.

TOLEDO 'CLUBBER' CONFESSES CRIMES

Charles J. Hoppe, on Trial for Child's Death, Is Disclosed as Maniac Slayer.

ALIENIST OBTAINS FACTS

Counsel Agree to Let City Judges Decide as to Death or Confinement of Prisoner.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 6.—A murder mystery laid to the "clubber" who terrorized Toledo nearly three years ago, was solved today when Charles J. Hoppe, aged 26, confessed slayer of Dorothy Sielagowski, 7 years of age, admitted that he slew Lily Dale Croy, school teacher, here on Oct. 26, 1926.

The latest confession, read to a shocked court room, came as a climax in the trial of Hoppe. He also admitted attacking three other women.

Hoppe's admission that he killed Miss Croy was revealed by Dr. L. A. Querner, called as an expert witness for the defense. Dr. Querner characterized the slayer as the mixed detective type. He is lacking in all emotions, the witness said, and doesn't care what happens. He shows a spirit of irresponsibility to anyone but himself.

Eldon H. Young, chief of defense counsel, aided Dr. Querner materially in obtaining the confession.

Hoppe admitted the Croy murder to the doctor on Tuesday. His confession of the Sielagowski kidnaping and murder was made on Memorial Day.

The second confession clears up a murder which baffled Toledo police and detectives from other cities for nearly two years.

The body of Miss Croy was found under the fire-escape of a school where she had been attending night classes. She had been accustomed to riding to and from the school in an electric brougham and was murdered on the only night that she walked. The condition of the body indicated that she had been slain by a maniac.

The murder, following three other deaths and several attacks attributed to a "clubber," aroused the officials and people of Toledo.

Rewards totaling $12,000 were offered for the capture and conviction of the slayer. Of this amount, $1,000 offered by The Toledo Blade and $1,000 by the Toledo Teachers' Association still stand.

After Hoppe broke down under the questioning in jail of his own alienist and attorneys they conferred with the Court and changed the defendant's plea to guilty by permission of Judge Milroy.

It was agreed that Judge Milroy should invite all the Common Pleas Judges of the county to hear the defense testimony and decide whether Hoppe should die or be sent to the Institution for the Criminally Insane. This course was delayed today because of the illness of one Judge and the absence from the city of two others. The disposition of the case was postponed to Monday after Dr. Querner had detailed the confession Hoppe made, which included attacks on women with an automobile crank, a brick and a bottle. In each of these cases the woman recovered.

POUGHKEEPSIE BANK THEFT

Assistant Treasurer Is Said to Have Admitted Taking $20,000.

POUGHKEEPSIE, July 6 (AP).—Theft of about $20,000, in eight years from the Poughkeepsie Trust Company by Walter J. Wesley, 52, assistant treasurer and floor manager of the bank, was indicated today by County Judge C. W. H. Arnold, Executive Vice President and general counsel for the Trust company.

Judge Arnold said that Wesley had admitted the defalcation in a statement made to him after an investigation had been begun. No criminal proceedings have been started against Wesley.

Wesley, who had been in the employ of the Trust company for thirty-five years, was said to have disclosed how he stole sums from the income on the bank's investments before they were entered on the bank books. His thefts, acording to Judge Arnold, ranged from $300 to $4,000 a year.

Wesley was widely known at one time as a semi-professional basketball player. He was married twice, the first time to Miss Jane Post of Buffalo, from whom he was divorced about seven years ago. He later married Mrs. Cora L. Thomas of Albany.

TWO DENY PRISON MURDER.

Jersey Convicts Indicted in Slaying of Guard Plead Not Guilty.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 6.—Charles Sullivan and Rowland Esdaile, inmates of the New Jersey State prison here, who incriminated themselves while testifying at the joint trial of Harry Baxter and Frank Wunkowski for the murder of Joseph H. Tinney, a guard, today pleaded not guilty in the Mercer County Court.

Sullivan was indicted for supplying arms to Baxter, and Wunkowski for carrying a concealed weapon. Esdaile is accused of aiding and abetting. During the trial of Baxter and Wunkowski, Sullivan testified that he killed Tinney, but later retracted this statement. He insisted, however, that he smuggled four revolvers, ammunition and materials for a bomb into the prison, keeping one of the weapons for his own use.

Esdaile admitted passing revolvers from Sullivan to Baxter and Wunkowski, but declared that they were so wrapped in a package that he did not know at the time what it was he was giving them. Baxter and Wunkowski were convicted of murder, but sentenced to life imprisonment on the jury's recommendation of mercy.

Clergymen Fight: Auto Crash Fine.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., July 6.—Following a crash between a car driven by the Rev. Lewis H. Uber, rector of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church of Gibbsboro, and a car driven by Louis Rathner, 426 Kaighn Avenue, Camden, on the Berlin Road, the clergyman was fined $25 and costs for reckless driving by Recorder Berry of Delaware Township. Mr. Uber suffered bruises. Later the Recorder remitted the fine, the convicted man strenuously insisting that testimony that he was driving on the wrong side of the road was untrue.

Boy and Policeman Accuse Each Other Of Firing Bullet Which Killed a Woman

Charged with responsibility for the death of Mrs. Jennie Ricci, who was accidentally struck by a pistol bullet on July 4 and died yesterday morning, Antonio De Vivo, 17 years old, of 47 Lafayette Street, insisted yesterday that Policeman Frederick Schwerdtfeger of the Grand Avenue Station had arrested him to evade blame for the woman's death, which the boy said was caused by a bullet from the policeman's pistol.

He was brought before Supreme Court Justice Byrne late yesterday afternoon on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by Hyman Barshay, his attorney, and released under $3,500 bail. According to the policeman's story, he saw a youth at Navy and Tillary Streets at 9 o'clock in the evening firing a pistol as he ran through the street. Pursuing him, the policeman said, he shouted orders to halt and emptied his own weapon into the air to stop the fugitive. After a three-block chase, he said, he arrested De Vivo in a garage at 68 Prince Street, but could find no weapon.

Mrs. Ricci, who was 66 years old, was sitting in the front yard of her home at 224 Tillary Street and was struck by a bullet.

Louis Tierno, 19 years old, of 102 North Oxford Street, who was passing, was struck in the leg by a bullet. He is recovering in Cumberland Street Hospital. Although the policeman says all his shots were fired into the air, Mr. Barshay declared he could produce witnesses who saw the shots fired at the fugitive.

According to these witnesses, De Vivo is not the man the policeman was pursuing. They say they saw the policeman running after some one and firing six shots. De Vivo declares he was naturally curious to see what the trouble was and ran after the policeman to the garage at Prince Street. There he says the policeman picked him out of a crowd and arrested him. He denies having had a weapon or firing any shots.

Detective William Kinnear of the Poplar Street Station, who investigated, in disparaging the youth's story, said the policemen could not have known that either Mrs. Ricci or Tierno had been wounded when he made the arrest. He said the policeman had been assigned to five days of plainclothes duty and was on active duty when he made the arrest. If his bullets wounded Mrs. Ricci and Tierno, Detective Kinnear said, the shootings were accidental and occurred in the performance of police duty. De Vivo will be arraigned in Adams Street Court this morning.

2 EDUCATORS SHOT AT COLORADO CAMP

Dr. Sleight of Lake Forest, Ill., and Son Virgil Seriously Wounded While Asleep.

ATTACK LAID TO MANIAC

Assailant Fires Into Tent and Flees to Woods—Eludes Posse of Forest Rangers.

ESTES PARK, Col., July 6 (AP).—Mysteriously attacked while they slept, Dr. George N. Sleight, 59, head of the Department of Education at Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Ill., and his son, Virgil, 25, assistant professor in the School of Theology at Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y., were shot and seriously wounded by an assailant who fired four bullets into their tent at the camping grounds here soon after daybreak today.

An all-day search of the forests of the Estes Park area failed to yield any trace of the assailant, whose identity and motives were completely shrouded in mystery. Park officials expressed the belief that the shooting was the work of a maniac.

The condition of Dr. Sleight, who with his son was removed to a private hospital here, was critical. He received two bullet wounds, one in the left cheek and another in the left temple. The son was shot in both the right and left sides of his forehead. Physicians expressed belief that he would recover.

Awakened by the shots which wounded him, Virgil Sleight rushed out of the tent, believing belated Fourth of July celebrators were setting off cannon crackers. He was unaware he had been shot until he felt the blood trickling down his face.

In a semi-conscious condition at the hospital, the younger Sleight stated that he had seen a man of medium height, dark complexion and wearing a checkered suit standing nearby with a revolver in one hand. The man fled into the timber and soon was lost to pursuers who were notified after the son awakened other campers in a near-by tent.

When the younger Sleight returned to his tent he found his father also had been wounded. They were immediately taken to the hospital while a posse of about twenty forest rangers took up the search.

The father is believed to have been shot first by the assailant, who apparently lifted the flap of the tent, took careful aim at his victims and fired.

Virgil Sleight said he was unable to assign any motive for the attack. An investigation showed neither money nor personal effects had been taken from the tent.

DELAYS BLOODGOOD RULING

Justice Taylor Hears Husband Admit He Tricked Wife in "Marriage."

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, July 6.—Decision was reserved today by Supreme Court Justice Taylor upon the application of Mrs. Edith Webb Bloodgood, formerly a resident of Westchester County, but now living on Long Island, for annulment of her marriage to Harry L. Bloodgood of New York.

Mrs. Bloodgood testified today that she had been taken to Chicago by Bloodgood in 1902, when she was 17 years old, on the promise of marriage, and that there a marriage ceremony was performed by a man she believed to be an alderman, but later learned that she had been tricked. She continued to live with Bloodgood and returned to New York, where they started the Bloodgood Theatrical Costuming Company. They lived together until 1922.

Bloodgood took the stand and admitted the facts as told by his wife, also that he had gambled for a living and upon several occasions had been caught using marked cards. He declared that his first wife, Mattie Carnahan, is alive and that he had never been divorced from her.

JERSEY LANDSLIDES HALT FERRY TRAFFIC

Palisades Avalanche Tears Away 100 Feet of Hudson Drive at Alpine, N. J.

TRESTLE TO SPAN DEEP PIT

Huge Boulders Broken Off Cliffs and Trees Uprooted by Cloudburst.

Special to The New York Times.

ALPINE, N. J., July 6.—Landslides caused by a terrific cloudburst last night carried away 100 feet of the Henry Hudson Drive along the slope of the Palisades, blocked the road with huge boulders broken off the cliffs, uprooted trees and resulted in a tie-up of the Alpine-Yonkers ferry for vehicular traffic. There was little property damage and no one was injured, but it was estimated today that repairs will cost $15,000.

The results of last night's severe storm were not discovered until early today, when the first ferryboat left the Yonkers slip at 6 A. M. and reached the New Jersey side of the Hudson shortly afterward. Arriving here, the ferryboat crew saw a huge pile of débris, thousands of tons of rock and dirt, at the foot of the Palisades, several hundred yards from the ferry landing. Immediately officials of the Interstate Park Commission and the Westchester Ferry Corporation, which operates the Yonkers-Alpine ferry, were summoned to the scene.

The worst of the slides came down to the bottom of the slope next to a machine shop belonging to the Palisades Interstate Park. It was this slide which tore away part of the Hudson Drive, leaving a jagged hole a hundred feet wide and several hundred feet high on the slope of the Palisades.

This part of the road was undoubtedly carried away by the torrents of water rushing down the face of the cliffs and causing the foundations of the roadbed to crumble and give way, it was said by H. H. James, resident engineer of Palisades Interstate Park, who, with other Park Commission officials, was superintending the work of repairing the damage today. Several other slides, Mr. James said, were due to large pieces of the cliff being torn off by the combined force of wind and water.

Workmen started to remove the débris about 8 A. M. today, a steam shovel being used at the large pile near the ferry landing. It was necessary to place the shovel in a children's playground.

Leo E. Schwarzstein, Vice President of the Westchester Ferry Corporation, arrived here early and arranged with Park Commission officials for the erection of a temporary tressle to bridge the gap in the Henry Hudson Drive, the expense to be borne by his company. Mr. Schwarzstein said that he expected the trestle to be finished in time for use Sunday when the Yonkers-Alpine Ferry would be reopened to vehicular traffic. While two ferry boats ply normally, today only one of them was running intermittently to accommodate pedestrians. Vehicular traffic between Yonkers and New Jersey was diverted to the Dyckman Street Ferry.

Rene Fonck Fined in Traffic Court.

René Fonck, 33-year-old French war ace, who is planning a transatlantic flight, failed to appear in Traffic Court yesterday to answer a summons for exceeding the automobile parking time limit, but through a representative pleaded guilty before Magistrate Rosenbluth and paid a $5 fine. Fonck was in Washington on business, his representative said. The summons was issued Monday by Patrolman Donnelly of Motorcycle Squad 1, who said Fonck left his automobile parked for four hours outside the Ritz Tower, Fifty-seventh Street and Park Avenue, where he lives while in the city.

HUNT FOR WOMAN BARES DROWNING

Mrs. S. C. Bertuch, 51, Had Been Treated for Nervous Disorder at Bloomingdale.

MISSING AT SHIPPAN HOME

Police Start Search as Life Guard Finds Body Off Beach Near House.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 6.—Within an hour after she had been reported missing from the bedroom of her Summer home, Sherwood Cottage, Shippan, the body of Mrs. S. C. Bertuch, 51 years old, was found dead, floating in the water off Manor Beach, about a half mile from her home and 800 yards from the beach connected with the cottage. The body was found by Frank Purdy, a life guard at the Manor Beach.

Police Headquarters was notified of Mrs. Bertuch's absence from home by a telephone call from a Miss Berg, said to be a sister of the dead woman. The family of the woman refused to give any details of the death or family connections of the woman.

From the police report it was learned that Mrs. Bertuch retired to her bedroom about 12 o'clock last night and at that time seemed to be in excellent spirits. When her room was visited about nine o'clock this morning her absence was discovered and the police notified.

Detective Sergeants Bartley Fahey and William J. Lynch were dispatched to Shippan to make a search for the woman and received the report of the discovery of her body. No clothing was missing from her room. When the body was discovered it was without clothing, but a nightgown was found near by.

Mrs. Bertuch came to Stamford last Sunday from Bloomingdale Hospital, White Plains, where she had been a patient for several months. She is said to have been in a nervous state since the death of her husband several years ago. One son, Edwin H., was at the cottage. Another son, Norman H., is said to be the manager of his mother's properties in New York.

The body was taken to Pritchard's Morgue. The funeral will be held from Campbell's undertaking parlors in New York.

Medical Examiner Dr. Ralph W. Crane, after an examination this morning, said that he would report the death as a suicide as all indications were that the woman walked down to the sea wall at Manor Beach and, after removing her nightgown, dived from the wall.

The force of the tide and waves was sufficient to keep the body in virtually the same place as it landed and where it was found by Purdy.

SIX BODIES RECOVERED.

Unidentified Man and Boy Among Those Taken From Waters.

The body of a well-dressed man, apparently about 45 years old, was found in the East River near Twenty-third Street last night by Patrolman Barrett of the East Twenty-second Street Station. It apparently had been in the water about twenty-four hours.

The body of an 8-year-old boy was recovered from Pelham Bay near the Pelham Bay bridge by Patrolman Volz of the Westchester Station. The lad wore a blue and white bathing suit and had on one finger a gold ring with the initials "R. C. M."

TRENTON, N. J., July 6 (AP).—Found floating in a canal basin today, a body was identified as that of John Tucko of 2,525 Eastern Avenue, Baltimore. Police there will be asked to try to locate his relatives. The man, who was about 50 years old, apparently had been in the basin about two weeks.

GLEN COVE, L. I., July 6.—Samuel Coyle, 17 years old, of Glen Cove Avenue, was drowned today when swimming off the North Shore Country Club in Hempstead Harbor. He was caddymaster at the club. His body was recovered.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., July 6.—The body of Mrs. Louise Smith of 543 West 129th Street, New York, who was drowned when a launch was overturned off Croton Point on Wednesday, was washed ashore at Croton Beach this afternoon. John Gillispie, superintendent of the Croton Point Park, took it to the Ferris undertaking rooms in Croton. The body of Mrs. Nellie Lakosky of Irvington, N. J., who also was drowned, has not been recovered.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 6.—The body of Joseph Swartz, one of the three boys from New York who were drowned in the Hudson River near Alpine on Wednesday, was washed ashore today. Jacob Wolman's body was found soon after the canoe upset. The body of I. Budrosenite, the third victim, is still being sought.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., July 6.—Thomas Erskine, 30 years old, an ambulance driver for the Presbyterian Hospital in New York, died in the United Hospital here tonight. He broke his spine when diving into the surf at Rye on July 4.

WOMAN ROBBED IN HOTEL.

Servant Sought in Theft of Cash and Gems at Long Beach.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., July 6.—Police of this city started a search today for a servant at the Villa Coq d'Or, a private hotel at 262 West Penn Street here, in connection with the disappearance yesterday of jewelry and cash valued at $5,000 from Mrs. Anna Kaminsky of 270 Riverside Drive, New York City. The valuables were taken from Mrs. Kaminsky's room while she was in bathing in the company of Dr. Marie Feldman, proprietor of the hotel, and Victor Shimkin, a New York publisher, whose room also was robbed.

When Dr. Feldman went to question the servants one of them was missing. An almost illegible scrawl from the vanished domestic informed her of his departure and added that he was sorry to cause her trouble, but would pay her back some day. The stolen articles included a diamond ring, a diamond-set platinum bracelet, and a sapphire ring in a platinum setting. Both Mrs. Kaminsky and Mr. Shimkin lost about $100 in cash, they told the police.

Will Rogers Sees Great Demand For Front Page Places

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLEY HILLS, Cal., July 6.—I tell you these are sure hard times for fellows fighting to stay on the front page. Coolidge had to catch two fish on one line on his birthday to make the grade. A Belgian millionaire had to jump out of his plane and light running in the English Channel. If it had been two Summers ago he would have drowned a Channel swimmer.

Mayor Walker is out here in Hollywood trying to get in the movies. Hoover says the farmers have got him wrong, that he has always been especially fond of them, and I myself hope that Hearst will be reasonable. I know if I had won I certainly would have been lenient with him. The only thing is Brisbane is liable to want his commission out of it.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

POPULARITY OF MILK ON INCREASE HERE

Consumption Rose From 100 Quarts Per Capita in 1914 to 139 in 1926.

FEDERAL REPORT ISSUED

Expert Suggests Changes in Dairy Methods to Balance Demand and Supply.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—A survey of the consumer demand for milk in the metropolitan area of New York, just completed by the Department of Agriculture and Cornell University, the results of which were made public today, shows that both the population and the per capita consumption of milk increased at about the same rate from 1912 to 1918, but from then until 1926 the latter was relatively higher.

The combined effect of these two factors, the report stated, was to send the total milk receipts in 1926 to 185 per cent. of the 1910-14 average.

H. A. Ross, marketing specialist of the department, says that the per capita consumption of milk in New York in 1926 was 139 quarts, or 39 per cent. higher than during the 1910-14 base period when it was about one hundred quarts.

Respecting the effect of price upon demand, Mr. Ross declares that this study and a similar one of the Chicago market indicate very little elasticity in demand when the consuming public becomes accustomed to a retail price which changes occasionally. Milk, he says, is recognized as an "inexpensive and essential food," and if the costs of producing milk rise the retail price can be advanced 1 cent at a time with very little effect on sale.

"But there is undoubtedly a limit," he says, "beyond which the price cannot be advanced without a sharp fall in demand.

"The seasonal supply of milk," he continues, "can be changed more readily than can the demand, and the adjustment will have to come about by making the producers change their present practice. A supply slightly in excess of the average requirement at any given period must be maintained to take care of irregular fluctuations."

TAXICAB KILLS BOY, 6.

Another Lad Crushed by Truck in Bayonne—Aged Victim Identified.

A taxicab struck Victor Burfass, 6 years old, of 221 East Broadway, last night at 6 o'clock in front of his home. Dr. Wolf rushed the boy to Gouverneur Hospital, where he died. The police arrested Harry Kneller of 342 East Third Street, driver of the cab, on a technical charge of homicide.

Henry Ciriello, 26, of 266 Avenue B, Bayonne, was run over and crushed yesterday noon by the rear wheels of a truck belonging to Samuel Perlow of 270 Avenue B. The youngster had hitched to the rear end of the truck. Perlow took the injured boy to the Bayonne Hospital, where he died. The driver was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter, which he will answer to in police court today.

The body of a man killed by a motor truck on Wednesday night at Twenty-fifth Street and First Avenue was identified yesterday at the morgue as that of Thomas Keegan, 61 years old, a hospital orderly, of the Owl Tree Inn, 326 East Twenty-third Street. The driver of the truck, Samuel Speeler, 28, of 32 Clinton Street, was arrested at the time of the accident.

A speeding hit-and-run motorcyclist knocked down 8-year-old James Fusco of 2,126 First Avenue at First Avenue and 114th Street last night. The boy was attended at Beth David Hospital for cuts on the head and sent home.

Jacob Siegelman, 75 years old, of 276 Eighteenth Avenue, Newark, was struck by a truck and killed last night while crossing Eighteenth Avenue at Lillie Street, Newark. The driver, Abe Goldstein, of 638 Eighteenth Avenue, was held by the police pending an investigation of the accident.

DOVER, N. J., July 6.—Harry O. Seeley, 51 years old, of 34 South Munn Avenue, East Orange, President of the Seeley Tube and Box Company of Newark, died today in Dover General Hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident yesterday. Seeley was alone in his automobile when it skidded and overturned in the ditch at Succasunna, about five miles west of here. Another motorist brought him to the hospital.

LINDEN, N. J., July 6.—Charles Yarsick, 50 years old, of 555 Railway Avenue, Linden, was killed today at Lincoln Highway and Johns Street when struck by a truck owned by the General Bakeries Company of Newark and driven by John McGory of South Orange. McGory told police he was unable to see Yarsick because of the rain. He was held on a technical charge of manslaughter.

CLUB OWNER ROBBED OF $10,000 JEWELS

J. E. Merrill and Wife Held Up at Forest Hills Home by Well-Informed Trio.

CALL FOR GEMS WANTED

Robbers Had Knowledge of Every Piece Worn Night Before at Cabaret.

FORCE VICTIMS TO GIVE AID

Maid Is Bound, Phone Wires Cut, Enabling Thieves to Make Clean Getaway in Auto.

Three young men, with the efficiency of night-club bouncers and all the aplomb of so many headwaiters, robbed James E. Merrill, manager of the Club Madrid, and his wife of $10,000 in cash and jewels at their Forest Hills home early yesterday morning.

The bandits were so familiar with the jewelry Mrs. Merrill wore that they described in detail the gems she had on the night before at the Club Madrid, in West Fifty-fourth Street, and sent her upstairs in her Forest Hills home to get them. In the dark they were able to call for the diamond ring which customarily adorned Merrill's little finger. They got it.

They accomplished the robbery with great thoroughness, pinioning their involuntary host and hostess, and not forgetting to tie up the maid or to cut the telephone wires. They acted with leisure and made an unobtrusive departure in an automobile.

Trio Wait in Garage.

The trio were waiting for Merrill in the obscurity of his garage, behind the house at 110 Fifty-first Street, Forest Hills, when he drove in at about 5 o'clock yesterday morning. As he stepped out of the car the men surrounded him, pistols in evidence. They used an old slip-cover, found in the garage, to cover his head.

"Let's have that rock you wear on your little finger," one demanded. Merrill gave it up. Meanwhile the others went through his pockets, getting about $100 in cash. They tied his hands behind his back and led him to the house. On the way they rehearsed him in his duties to come, the first of which was to call his wife to open the door. He did so, warning her not to worry and to do as the gentlemen said.

Wearing a handkerchief mask, one of the bandits entered the room of Mary Tee, negro maid, woke her, draped a sheet over her and tied her ankles with it. He stood the girl in a corner and told her to be quiet for safety's sake.

Send for Jewelry.

The spokesman then sent Mrs. Merrill to her bedroom to get her jewelry. When she returned with several pieces, they remonstrated.

"You had a diamond pendant on last night," they said, "a diamond bracelet and some rings." Mrs. Merrill went back and got them. Altogether the haul included fourteen pieces of jewelry, including the pendant, two wrist watches, two diamond bracelets and a number of rings and pins.

The three left the house, ran to a car parked across the street, and drove off. When the Merrills tried to telephone they found the wires cut. They awakened a neighbor, who sent for the police. Detective James Smith and others from the Newtown station are working on the case with others from Manhattan who know the midtown resorts and their underworld clients.

The Merrills visited New York Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon and looked over the likenesses in the rogues' gallery. The police are working on fingerprints they found in the house at Forest Hills.

KLAN TO APPEAL LOST SUIT.

Argues Pittsburgh Court Erred in Deciding for Ex-Members.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 6.—Attorneys for the Ku Klux Klan filed an appeal today in Federal court against the decision handed down in the Federal District Court April 13 by Judge Thompson, which bitterly assailed the Klan.

The appeal requests a review of the case by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Thompson decision dismissed the suit of the Klan against a group of members led by Attorney Van A. Barrickman, whose avowed intention was to "clean up" the organization. The decision was a crushing defeat for the Klan in its efforts to prevent Mr. Barrickman and others from acting as Klansmen.

July 23 was named as the date for appearance in court on the appeal.

The appellants argued the Court erred in admitting testimony dealing with the Carnegie riot, the riot at Niles, Ohio, and other allegations which the defendants presented in detail against the Klan administration.

DOCTOR HELD FOR PERJURY.

Accused of Testifying Falsely in Lawsuit Which He Won.

Special to The New York Times.

VINELAND, N. J., July 6.—Dr. George N. Thomas was held tonight in $5,000 bail for the Cumberland County Grand Jury on a charge of perjury by Justice of the Peace Harry Dewitt. Bail was provided. The next Grand Jury will meet in September.

The charge against Dr. Thomas is the outgrowth of a suit for malpractice brought against him by Andrew Belawsky, whose wife died, after treatment by Dr. Thomas, in the Newcomb Hospital. Dr. Thomas alleged in the suit, which was decided in his favor, that he had performed an operation in an attempt to save the woman's life. Dr. M. H. Deitrich of the hospital and Dr. Frank Mantell, an interne there, said an autopsy for which the woman's husband paid had shown that no such operation as Dr. Thomas had sworn to had been performed.

Counsel for Dr. Thomas asserted that the charge against the physician was due to "persecution."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Decline Again—Call Money 5½%, Sterling and Francs at Low Level.

On the basis apparently of the overnight statements of brokers' loans and borrowings from the Federal Reserve, yesterday's stock market again reversed itself, losing the greater part of the preceding day's advance. Declines in the more active speculative shares ranged from 2 to 7 points, but most of them recovered partially before the close. Call money held all day at 5½ per cent.; there were some indications that it might go slightly higher. The foreign exchanges appeared to reflect that view; both sterling and francs remained at virtually the low price of the year. Nevertheless, announcement was made of another $12,000,000 engagement of gold for export to Paris.

Outside of these incidents in the markets, nothing occurred to change the drift of financial sentiment. The Third Liberty 4¼s, which had advanced nearly a point on Thursday, following the Treasury's announcement of its conversion offer, declined about 1-3 point yesterday, closing at the lowest. This would indicate that the price is adjusting itself to allow for the double interest, promised up to maturity of the "Third Liberties" on both those bonds which shall be converted and the new 3¾s exchanged for them. The result of this offer, all the numerous surrounding conditions considered, will be interesting. As a whole, the day's bond market was irregular, but neither distinctly weak nor strong. The general drift of values is fairly measured by the "averages," which are fractionally above those of a week ago and ½ point above the year's low level of June 12, when the stock speculation culminated, but approximately 2½ points below the high average of May. Transactions in stocks decreased some 400,000 shares from Thursday's market, but still exceeded the total of other days this week.

The report on bank checks drawn in the United States last month is again vitiated as a measure of ordinary trade activity by the overshadowing influence of Stock Exchange transactions. The total increased $7,586,000,000 over June, 1927, or nearly 16 per cent., but of that total increase $6,862,000,000 occurred in New York City alone. Volume of daily stock trading varied greatly from day to day last month; on June 12 it broke all records at 5,052,000 shares, whereas on June 22 it fell to a full-day aggregate of 1,420,000. But the month as a whole scored increase over 1927, on the New York Stock Exchange, of more than 16,000,000 shares, or 25 per cent. Since the increase in bank clearings is reckoned at 24% per cent. in New York City, it may fairly be presumed that checks drawn for ordinary business purposes have not increased at all. Outside of this city the bank clearings increased only $723,000,000, or 3% per cent., and the stock markets must be responsible for part of that.

No fresh light is obtainable from the week-end mercantile reviews, except for the fact that they are comparatively cheerful and appear to attach little or no importance, so far as regards the course of actual business, either to the Wall Street money stringency or to the recent break in stocks. Generally, they report less decrease in trade activities than is usually expected for midsummer, and merely reiterate the now familiar complaint of low prices and narrow margin of merchants' profits.

BANK CLEARINGS REACH $11,542,634,000 TOTAL

Aggregate for Leading Cities in Past Week Was 14.9 Per Cent. Above a Year Ago.

Bank clearings this week in the leading cities of the United States totaled $11,542,634,000, or 14.9 per cent. above the corresponding week last year. New York clearings were 21.5 per cent. larger than those of a year ago, while at leading outside centres the increase was 2.6 per cent.

Of the twenty-two cities included in the tabulation, fourteen reported increases over the same week last year. The more prominent gains outside New York City were made at Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Minneapolis, Omaha, Dallas and Pacific Coast points. The weeks in both years included only five business days, but the heavy totals reflected the exceptionally heavy half-yearly settlements this year. In New York City Tuesday's clearings greatly exceeded any earlier record for one day. Figures for the week, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., and average daily bank clearings for the year to date are compared here with for two years:

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Speculative interests were insistent yesterday that conditions in the bond market were responsible for the large increase in brokers' loans announced by the Federal Reserve Board on the preceding afternoon. At the same time the stock market moved nervously, as if expecting that it would have to bear the brunt of whatever "corrective process" might be applied. Leading stocks on the Stock Exchange swung about irregularly and the general list was reactionary at the close of trading. The selling came in waves, but it was fairly well absorbed and there were no spectacular breaks. Commission houses had a rumor earlier in the day that the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank would increase its rediscount rate, and some of the selling appeared to come from this in spite of the fact that such reports in the past have assayed about 99 per cent. fiction, as they did yesterday.

Making It Easier to Trade.

Some of the brokerage houses which tightened up their margin requirements when the market was breaking rapidly a short time ago were said yesterday to have relaxed somewhat in this respect, with the result that traders were finding it easier to do business. So far as could be learned, no house has sent out notices of more liberal margin terms, but it was learned that a number of them are now less exacting with their customers. The conclusion which many drew from this is that the market has stabilized itself in the eyes of the commission house interests.

Public Interest Not Large.

By general admission of the brokers, public interest in the stock market since the sharp decline of June has been at low ebb. In the first place, the reaction came so quickly that market fatalities were numerous. Again, it is the teaching of experience that after so severe a reaction a month or more must elapse before outsiders can once again be coaxed back into the market. However, the opinion was expressed in many speculative quarters yesterday that the "year's bull market" is by no means ended, and that an expansion of the present rate of trading is to be expected before another month has gone by. It is pointed out as significant that Stock Exchange firms which augmented their staffs to handle the volume of 4,000,000-share days have retained most of these employes. At least, they have hopes that the 4,000,000-share days will return.

Puzzles in Money Market.

The action of the money market yesterday was considered puzzling, and one banker went so far as to say that the present ease is just as surprising as was the advance to 10 per cent. in the call loan rate on last Monday. The rate held at 5½ per cent. yesterday, with outside loans available at 5¾ per cent. The large increase in rediscounting shown by this week's Federal Reserve statement had given rise to the belief that the banks, once the mid-year strain was past, would concentrate on repaying indebtedness to the Federal Reserve Banks, and that this would result in firm money. Many forecasts had set 6½ or 7 per cent. as the most probable call money level for the week-end. On the contrary, however, the corporations which drew out funds to pay dividends and interest were believed yesterday to be putting considerable amounts back into the market, and there were understood to be large supplies of foreign-owned money available here for Street loans.

Opposing Theories of the Market.

Operators who still are committed to the decline were arguing yesterday through many channels that the market, having had no reaction of consequence in ten days, had worked itself into a less favorable technical position. This fact, they reasoned, had made traders on the other side of the market more cautious. Pool operators, however, continued to promote activity in many issues, on the theory apparently that the market was ripe for an advance.

Investment Trust Holdings.

The fact that many investment trusts make it a practice not to disclose holdings has come in for considerable criticism on the part of people curious to know just how the recent declines in the stock market have affected them. As a matter of fact, it is believed that, owing to the changing nature of these investments, any list published by the average investment trust would be out of date before it could be printed. In the matter of foreign securities, in which most of the large profit lies, the managers of these investment companies hold to the opinion that the knowledge of whether a given trust employs 60 per cent. of its funds in German securities, 20 per cent. in French, and so on, would give the investor no hint as to the profit accruing to the trust. The theory is readily expounded to the curious, however, that the investment trust aims to buy in those markets of the world where prices are low and to sell other securities in markets where prices have appreciated.

Gold Shipments Resumed.

The renewed movement of gold to France has come as a surprise to Wall Street, because it had been believed that these shipments would cease shortly after the stabilization plan went into effect. The last two days have seen shipments of $26,000,000 of the metal for Paris, and it was said in banking circles yesterday that large additional amounts are going. The Federal Reserve summary at the end of last month indicated that $57,000,000 of gold had been added to the stocks ear-marked here for foreign account, and it is believed now that all of this metal was purchased here by France. It is understood that all of it will be sent to France within the next few weeks.

JUNE CLEARINGS FALL BELOW THOSE FOR MAY

Month-to-Month Loss Slight—Heaviest June Turnover on Record—Half-Year Total Big.

Bank checks drawn on American banks during June showed a slight drop from the total of the preceding month in a compilation just issued by the principal clearing houses of the country. June's total of $55,275,894,886 is 4.6 per cent. less than that for May, which so far stands as the heaviest for all time, but it exceeds the total for June, 1927, by 15.9 per cent. and is the largest for that month on record.

Notwithstanding the shrinkage in June from that in May, five Reserve districts out of the twelve reported heavier exchanges, these being Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Minneapolis and Kansas City.

For the first six months of this year exchanges totaled $316,678,474,506, compared with $271,910,103,432 in the first half of 1927, or a gain of 16.5 per cent.

Clearings in New York City during June aggregated $34,738,742,012, a drop of 5.3 per cent. from the May figure, but 24.6 per cent. in excess of that for June, 1927. Outside of New York City exchanges totaled $20,537,152,874, which was 3.2 per cent. less than May, but 3.7 per cent. larger than the total in June, 1927.

June clearings for the country, compiled by The Financial Chronicle, compare as follows with those of previous months and years:

June, '28	$55,275,894,886	June, '27	$47,689,198,950

Friday, July 6, 1928.

Notwithstanding good supply while demand was only fair, Stock Exchange call money was firm all day at 5½ per cent., a fractional advance over Thursday's final. Street loans went at 5¼. Withdrawals amounted to $15,000,000. Borrowers are holding back in their quest for period accommodation, looking for lower rates and bringing about a deadlock so far as volume business is concerned. Quotations were unchanged at 5¾@5⅞ per cent., with moderate amounts going either way. Call loans against acceptances eased ½, to 5 per cent.

First in Gains and Volume in Financial Advertising

IN SIX MONTHS OF 1928 The New York Times printed 2,138,092 agate lines of financial advertising—more than 1,000,000 lines in excess of any other New York newspaper.

THE Times gain over the corresponding six months of 1927 was 437,948 agate lines—a gain more than twice as large as any other New York newspaper and greater than the combined gain of all five other New York morning newspapers.

THE censorship of The New York Times over financial and all other advertising is known to be the most careful of any newspaper.

CONFERENCE ADOPTS BRITISH WIRE DEAL

Plan for Fusion of All Empire's Communication Lines Receives Unanimous Approval.

DOMINIONS WILL DECIDE

Merger of All Services Into Single Company Will Be Submitted to Governments.

LONDON, July 6 (Canadian Press Cable).—An official communiqué issued at the final meeting today of the Imperial Wireless and Cable Conference announced that unanimous approval had been given to a signed report embodying recommendations for readjustment of Empire communications which will be submitted forthwith to the Governments concerned.

At the closing proceedings the Chairman, Sir John Gilmour, said:

"Our discussions have been prolonged, but not unduly so, having regard to the nature of the problem referred to us. It is a matter for satisfaction that in view of the large issues and the many interests involved, we have been able to arrive at unanimity in putting forward our recommendations. It is now for the Governments concerned to consider those "recommendations" and decide whether they shall be adopted entirely or not. Until such time as the Governments authorize publication, our report must remain secret."

After thanking the delegates for their untiring efforts and energy, and especially for their whole-hearted cooperation in tackling what had proved to be a very difficult and complex problem, the Chairman concluded:

"Much, of course, still remains to be done, even if our recommendations are approved, before they can be put into effect. As a conference our task is concluded, If, as I hope, the results of the conference lead to the establishment of a really sound, efficient, cheap and rapid system of communications between the various parts of the Empire, our efforts will not have been in vain."

Law Restricts American Mergers.

The unanimous report agreed upon by the Conference of Imperial Communications at London, after nearly four months' work, provides for the fusion of all communication services of the British Empire into a single company, in which the Government would hold sufficient stock to prevent either radio or the cable interests from predominating.

This gigantic plan, now nearing completion, has been viewed with some concern by American companies engaged in the communications business. Upon its conception, early in March, it found an immediate reaction here in the fusion of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation and the Mackay Companies, formerly non-competing companies, but this was as far as United States laws would permit such consolidations to go.

The heads of the American companies engaged in communications would not comment yesterday on the impending conclusion of the British conference's work, preferring to await full details of the plan evolved before expressing themselves with respect to what influence on American interests the British merger would have. Sosthenes Behn, President of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, is abroad, and John L. Merrill, President of All America Cables, Inc., was also out of town. Clarence H. Mackay, head of the Mackay system; Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and Major Gen. James G. Harbord, President of the Radio Corporation of America, all preferred to withhold comment for the present.

There is, however, no secret as to the attitude of the American companies toward the British consolidation, affecting as it does wireless and cable communications reaching around the whole world, and predominating especially throughout Europe, Asia, Africa and Australasia.

Other Such Mergers Afoot.

Owen D. Young, Chairman of the Radio Corporation, has frequently expressed criticism of the restrictions imposed upon the consolidation of American concerns by the laws of the country. Late in March, following a meeting of R. C. A. directors, he said that they had discussed the situation which resulted from the British plans, and that they had found their hands bound by the Radio act of 1927, which prevented any combination of radio and cable properties in the United States.

David Sarnoff, Vice President of the Radio Corporation, on his return from Europe a few days ago, pointed out that mergers of communication interests were taking place, not only in Britain but in France, Germany, Italy and other countries as well, with the respective Governments aiding and abetting the plans, so much so that practical nationalization of communication interests is being accomplished throughout the world.

Although the British Conference of Imperial Communications has completed its task, the last word has not been said with regard to the proposed merger. The Dominion and Imperial Parliaments will undoubtedly take the matter into fullest consideration before permitting such a deal to go through. There has been in recent months an intensive campaign in England to obtain public favor for the merger, somewhat at the expense of Uncle Sam.

F. G. Kellaway, managing director of Marconi International-Marine Communication Company, Ltd., told the stockholders at their annual meeting that "the great telegraph organizations of the United States, with their practically unlimited capital resources, are steadily increasing their hold over the communications systems, not only in North and South America, but in some European countries and in other parts of the world."

Vast Capital Involved.

The combined capital of the British Marconi, Eastern Telegraph and associated cable companies is reported as having a market value of £175,000,000, or $875,000,000. The combined capitals of the International Telephone and Telegraph system and the Western Union system in this country have a market value of about $375,500,000 at yesterday's closing prices. The Radio Corporation, while not fundamentally a communications company, because of its merchandising, broadcasting and other operations, has capital with a market value of $234,750,000, giving a combined market value of $610,250,000 to the capital of the three major American systems engaging in international communications.

The value of assets of the British systems is not available, but the comparison of capitals, on the above basis, show that even without including the important British Government-owned communications properties to be included in the merger, the stock markets place a rating $264,750,000 higher on stocks of the British companies than on stocks of the American companies, which, together with the fact that the American companies are not wholly cable or radio properties, shows that there has been no serious challenge by American finance to the integrity of the British systems.

In communications circles it is pointed out that disastrous competition between British Marconi and the English cables on the Indian, African and Australian routes is the real motive for the British combination, and that it has been furthered the more by the very start by the British Government in order to prevent its cable systems from going under in a fruitless rate war.

BRITISH M. P. SUED HERE FOR $100,000

Sir George Loyd Courthope Loses Plea to Dismiss an Action by H. C. Eastman.

PLAINTIFF IS ALSO A BRITON

Seeks Damages After Discharge as Engineer—Defendant Served as He Passes Through City.

A suit for $100,000 damages brought by Harry Campbell Eastman against Sir George Loyd Courthope, English financier, statesman and Member of Parliament, in which the papers were served on Courthope while he was passing through New York and was a passenger on the Mauretania, came up before Supreme Court Justice Valente yesterday on an application by the defendant to dismiss the complaint. The plea was based on allegations that both parties are British subjects, that under the English law the case is barred by the statute of limitations, and that the plaintiff has assigned any claim he might have against the defendant.

The complaint alleged that in March, 1920, Courthope was Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Grain Belt Construction and Development Company, Ltd., which was engaged in acquiring and developing lands, mines and railways in Canada and elsewhere, and that the plaintiff was hired at $12,500 a year as a civil engineer and went to Canada for the company. He alleges that he investigated properties there for which the company was negotiating and found that the Mount Wilson coal mines for which the company was about to pay $3,000,000, were worth only $1,000,000. The complaint alleged also that one of the directors of the Grain Belt company was to receive $150,000 if the deal went through.

Eastman said he reported this fact at a meeting of the directors in London, and a committee heard his report and voted not to buy, but that later the other directors refused to accept the committee's report, the defendant stating that if they did so they would "all be liable for Old Bailey."

The complaint added that Eastman had borrowed $10,000 from the Union Bank of Canada in behalf of the company, but after the company had paid only $5,000, the defendant, for the urpose of injuring Eastman so he could not use his information in any stockholders' action he might bring, caused the company to refuse to pay the balance, and then induced the bank to file bankruptcy proceedings against Eastman as a result of which all of his property was lost.

He declared he was discharged by the company but that the High Court of Justice in England awarded £2,500 to him on the ground that he had been discharged illegally.

Justice Valente denied the application to dismiss the complaint, asserting that it did not appear to be barred by the statute of limitations, but said many of the objections made to the suit should be raised in the answer.

Sir George, who was knighted in 1925, has represented the Rye Division of Sussex in Parliament as a Conservative since 1906. He was wounded in Flanders. Among the companies of which he is now a director is the Southern Railway of England. He is a barrister and member of the Inner Temple.

BEAM RADIO COMING HERE.

Canadian Marconi Gets License for Montreal-New York Service.

Early establishment of beam wireless communication between New York and Montreal is forecast by the license granted this week by the Canadian Government to the Canadian Marconi Company permitting it to conduct beam radio services between those cities.

The first commercial wireless operations between New York and Montreal began in June as a feeder system intended to connect New York with the beam radio services between Canada and Australia, with the Rocky Point, L. I., transmitting station of the Radio Corporation of America and its Riverhead receiving station used as links.

The date on which a beam station may be put into use here could not be ascertained last night, and it is thought likely that the beam feature will first be inaugurated at the Montreal end, to be followed later by beam transmission from here.

RICHFIELD OIL FORMS PAN-AMERICAN BOARD

Former Takes Over Petroleum Concern—Stock Increase to Absorb Exchange.

Eleven directors of the Richfield Oil Company were yesterday elected directors of the Pan-American Western Petroleum Company, control of which recently passed to Richfield. Officials of the Richfield company also were elected as officers of the Pan-American Western.

The directors of Pan-American Western elected yesterday follow: J. A. Talbot, C. M. Fuller, Joseph Toplitzky, S. M. Haskins, C. F. Hill, R. R. Rogers, George Newberger, F. W. Flint Jr, J. W. Henderson, N. R. Tucker and T. W. Streeter.

The new officers of Pan-American Western are J. A. Talbot, President; C. M. Fuller, John McKeon, J. S. Wallace and G. Young, Vice Presidents; R. W. McKee, Secretary and Treasurer, and R. M. Sands, John Mooney and A. L. Stamler, Assistant Secretaries. The election completes the reorganization of Pan-American incident to the acquisition of control of the company by Richfield.

Directors of the Richfield company yesterday increased the cash dividend rate on Richfield stock from $1 to $2 annually. Mr. Talbot made the following statement:

"In order to provide in small part for the exchange of Richfield shares with Pan-American Western B stockholders, announcement of which will be made shortly, and also to provide for future expansion, the directors have authorized a special stockholders' meeting on July 20 for the purpose of increasing common shares from 2,000,000 to 5,000,000. No stock dividends or stock subscriptions are contemplated at this time."

ATLANTA PAPER WINS SUIT.

Judge Rules That Contract on Constitution's Stock Was One-Sided.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 6 (AP).—The suit of Luke Lee and Rogers Caldwell of Nashville, Tenn., seeking to compel the delivery of 3,205 shares of stock in the Atlanta Constitution Publishing Company, owned by Clark Howell, Clark Howell Jr. and Albert Howell Jr., at a price of $54,350.85, was decided in favor of the Howells by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley here today.

The suit was based on a contract alleged to have been executed upon a representation that the income of the stock was $20 per share and carrying a provision that the agreed price of $1,050,000 should be reduced in proportion if auditors found that the income was not as represented. Plaintiffs had contended that the actual earnings were shown by their audit to have been $1.01 per share over a given period, instead of $20 per share.

Judge Sibley held that the contract was manifestly "one sided" and that "an accident" does not authorize the Court to take a million dollars away from one party and give it to another. He ruled that unfulfilled subscriptions, an issue in the litigation, may properly be treated as assets because of their contribution to good-will and advertising pull, rather than liabilities, as contended by the plaintiffs.

Bankruptcy Petition on Shoemakers

ST. LOUIS, July 6 (AP).—An involuntary bankruptcy petition and application for a receiver were filed late today against the Menzies Shoe Company of Wisconsin, which has headquarters here and eight factories in middle western cities. Three creditors filed the petitions after the company made unsuccessful efforts to settle on the basis of 20 cents on the dollar according to an accountant's report made public ten days ago. The company had claims of $360,000against it, with cash on hand of $1,830.

BOND MARKET LED BY TREASURY ISSUES

Large Part of Turnover Due to Exchange of Third Liberties for New Securities.

PRICES GENERALLY DECLINE

Trading in Other Obligations Dull and Irregular—Slight Gains in Foreign Section.

Continued broad activity in United States Government obligations, a reflection of the Treasury's new financing, was the chief feature of the bond market yesterday. Sales of Liberty and Treasury bonds totaled $2,514,000 on the Stock Exchange, and there were also large transactions in them in the over-the-counter market. The main trend in prices was downward.

A total of $787,000 of Third Liberty 4¼ per cent. bonds changed hands, representing mainly transactions connected with the exchange offer of the new 3⅜ per cent. Treasury bonds. The market valuation of the new issue went somewhat lower. The Third 4¼s, which are exchangeable for the 3⅜s, closed at 100 19-32, as against a close at 101 on the previous day, when a high record of 101¼ had been established. The Treasury 3⅜s, which were marketed in exchange for Second Liberty Loan bonds a year ago closed at a net decline of 15-16 point yesterday, and there were fractional losses in Treasury 3⅜s, 4s and 4¼s. Fourth Liberty 4¼s advanced 3-32 point under fairly active trading.

The selling of the 3⅜s issued last year, in which the widest decline of the day took place, brought that issue nearer in line with the new issue bearing the same rate, which is being offered at par by the Treasury but which went to a premium on announcement of the Treasury's terms. The 3⅜ per cent. Treasury notes, traded in over the counter, were slightly lower, but short-term securities held about steady.

Bankers again emphasized yesterday the favorable position in which the Treasury will find itself as a result of the new financing. The money coming in from the sale of the new bonds is not needed for any purpose except the retirement of Third Liberty bonds, which will mature in September. When the present exchange offer expires the Thirds are expected to lose their present market premium and the Treasury will be enabled to buy them in at par. It is virtually assured that only short-term financing will be required at the retirement of the last of Third Liberty Loan in September.

The general bond market was dull yesterday, with sales totaling less than $11,000,000. Small declines and advances took place in various sections of the list. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s, which have been advancing strongly for a week, closed a full point lower under a turnover of more than $500,000 of bonds. Market Street 7s were active at a fractional advance. Foreign bonds mostly were slightly higher.

LEGAL LIST FORMS SLOWLY.

Many Municipalities Dilatory in Replying to Questionnaire.

The changes in the State Banking Department's legal list of investments for savings banks and trust funds, published yesterday and containing the elimination of 133 municipalities and the adding of eighty-five others, was said yesterday to reflect the slowness with which cities and other political subdivisions throughout the country are responding to the questionnaire sent out by the Banking Department several months ago. This list of changes is by no means complete, as it has been estimated that it will take several more months to receive all of the replies.

Several municipalities which have been very infrequent borrowers in the municipal bond market here have treated the matter indifferently, although it has been pointed out repeatedly that unless a full financial report is received a smaller city cannot expect to obtain the most favorable terms when borrowing in the future. In some cases bankers have taken the initiative and have seen to it that the Banking Department is supplied with figures of the debts of cities in which they are interested. No date has been set for a further revision of the legal list.

OFFER NEW STOCK ISSUES.

Industrial Bankers to Sell 12,500 Common and $1,250,000 Preferred.

Directors of the Industrial Bankers of America, Inc., at a meeting yesterday authorized the issue of an additional $1,250,000 preferred and 12,500 shares of common stock on a basis to yield slightly more than seven per cent. The authorization follows the recent offering of $2,500,000 of seven per cent. preferred and 25,000 shares of common stock.

Announcement was made at the meeting that twenty-two additional subsidiaries have been opened in as many cities since the preceding directors' meeting.

Asks Deposit of Paper Co. Stock.

The committee under the plan for the formation of the International Paper and Power Company, which will acquire all of the paper and power properties of the International Paper Company and its subsidiaries, has issued a call for deposits of the preferred and common stock of the International Paper Company which are to be exchanged for securities of the new company. Deposits may be made with the Chase National Bank, the First National Bank of Boston or the Montreal Trust Company. No final date has been set for deposits.

Schroder Banking Shows Increases.

The J. Henry Schroder Banking Corporation reports as of June 30 total resources of $57,686,738, a new high record and an increase of $8,510,353 over the total on Dec. 31, 1927. Acceptances outstanding totaled $27,897,029, also a new high record, compared with $21,428,441 at the end of last year. Capital and surplus paid in totaled $3,200,000, while undivided profits were $2,878,504, a gain of $426,283 since the end of 1927.

Low Biddera for Iron Pipe.

The United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company was low bidder on 500 tons of 12-inch cast iron pipe for Yonkers. The Warren Foundry and Pipe Company submitted a low price on 300 tons of 8 and 12 inch pipe for the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of New York City.

Photostat Machine Now Used To Speed Opinions on Bonds

The Manufacturers and Traders-Peoples Trust Company of Buffalo, which is the official depository of the file of legal opinions on municipal bonds for the Investment Bankers' Association, has installed a photostat machine to facilitate furnishing of opinions called for.

Although the removal of the records from New York to Buffalo last February was done at considerable expense, announcement is made through the Investment Bankers' Association that the depository is now operating on practically a sustaining basis.

MUNICIPAL LOANS

Announcements and Awards of Public Securities for Various Purposes.

The City of Cleveland announced yesterday that bids would be opened on July 30 on a new issue of $1,500,000 4 per cent. school bonds, maturing serially on Oct. 1, 1929 to 1948. The last sale held by the city was on Dec. 27, 1927, when an issue of $2,000,000 school bonds was awarded to a syndicate here. The price obtained was 102.30, or a 3.96 per cent. interest cost to the city.

Award of an issue of $218,200 City of Malden (Mass.) 4 per cent. bonds, due from 1929 to 1948, has been made to Curtis & Sanger at a price of 100.277. The city also awarded a temporary loan of $400,000, due on Dec. 21, 1928, to the First National Bank of Boston at a discount of 4.74 per cent.

Glen Ridge (N. J.) School District will open bids on July 19 on a new issue of $340,000 school bonds, due on Aug. 1, 1930 to 1959. Bidders are asked to specify the rate of interest at not to exceed 4½ per cent.

Bids will be opened on July 24 by Fort Wayne (Ind.) School District on 4 per cent. school bonds, due serially, July 1, 1929 to 1948.

NEW SECURITIES COMPANY.

Formed by Fidelity Union Trust and Public Service of New Jersey.

Formation of the Fidelity Union Stock and Bond Company by the Fidelity Union Trust Company and the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey was announced yesterday. The new company will take over the business of the Public Service Stock and Bond Company and that of the securities department of the Fidelity Union Trust. Its capitalization consists of 180,000 shares of $25 par stock to be issued at $50 a share. The Public Service Corporation will subscribe for 100,000 shares and the remainder will be taken by the trust company.

It is understood that common stockholders of the Public Service Corporation may participate in the subscription for the new stock in approximately the proportion of one share for each forty shares of Public Service common held, and that shareholders of the Fidelity Union Trust will participate to the extent of one new share for every three shares now held. If the plans are completed in time, a call for the first payment of 25 per cent. will be made on Oct. 1.

The new corporation will deal in all classes of securities, underwritings, and in addition will do a general dealers' and brokerage business. J. Henry Bachellor will be Chairman of the Board of Directors and Charles G. Colyer will be President. Other directors will include Uzal H. McCarter, William Scheerer, Edmund W. Wakelee, P. S. Young and Thomas N. McCarter.

Vienna Reports That British Refused Money for Stabilization.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, July 6.—What the Rumanian Government thought was an oasis containing gold to replenish the national coffers and stabilize the currency, so as to make the country stronger for the difficult journey still between its present position and national consolidation, has proved on closer inspection to be a mirage.

This, according to reports from Bucharest, was revealed to Premier Bratianu today by former Minister Antonescu, who has been in London seeking a loan. M. Antonescu is reported to have informed the Government that the negotiations failed because the British were adamant that Rumania must first regulate the financial questions outstanding with Germany.

City Makes Special Bond Terms.

The City of Sanford, Fla., which will open bids on Monday on an issue of $425,000 bonds which originally were scheduled to be sold on June 13, has included some unusual specifications in its terms of sale. Bidders are asked to specify the interest rate in multiples of ¼ per cent, at not to exceed 6 per cent., and also may enter split-rate bids. The city reserves the right to sell only $345,000 of the bonds, but in such case the successful bidder will be permitted to name the maturities, provided they range from Jan. 1, 1931, to Jan. 1, 1953.

Honored by General Electric.

Three men of the General Electric Company have been elected to the newly created office of Honorary Vice President. They are J. R. Lovejoy, who has been with the company for forty-two years; George F. Morrison, who has been with it forty-five years, and B. G. Tremaine, one of the organizers of the national lamp division of the company. T. W. French has been elected Vice President in charge of the incandescent lamp division and W. R. Whitney has been elected Vice President and director of the research laboratory.

MUNICIPAL LOANS HEAVY ON MONDAY

Bond and Note Issues for More Than $6,000,000 to Be Awarded.

NEXT WEEK'S TOTAL SMALL

$10,000,000 Less Than Average—Price Trend Still Downward—Market Sluggish.

For the first time in several weeks the schedule of awards of municipal bonds to be made in the coming week shows practically neither gain nor loss from the total for the preceding week. Next week's aggregate is $21,342,214, whereas the total was $21,098,661 this week. The weekly average for the year to date is $31,838,313.

The bulk of the financing next week will take place on Monday, being headed by the largest offering of the week, the issue of $3,200,000 City and County of San Francisco (Cal.) 4½s. On the same day $1,100,000 Orange County (Fla.) bonds and $1,500,000 City of Boston and $1,000,000 City of Cambridge (Mass.) notes will be sold. The issues of $2,500,000 Brevard County (Fla.), $2,296,000 City of Minneapolis and $1,000,000 State of West Virginia bonds on Wednesday will complete the list of principal items for the week.

Mississippi's Prospects.

Not all the bonds scheduled for sale this week were awarded, the notable exception being the issue of $5,845,000 State of Mississippi bonds, bids on which were rejected for the second time, although the top bid for these bonds on Monday was a shade higher than the maximum one received at the previous opening of bids on June 21. No date has been set for reoffering of the issue by the State Bond Commission, but it is considered unlikely that this will be done before Fall.

As a rule the bids made for new issues this week reflected the downward trend of prices in the market. Few changes of importance were made on first-grade issues this week, so that most of the adjustments occurred in the second and third grade bonds yielding substantially more than 4 per cent.

The disposal of the remaining block of $4,000,000 State of New York 3½, 3¾ and 4 per cent. bonds of the March offering of $22,500,000 to a single buyer relieved the market at a time when high-priced issues are extremely slow to move. The placing of these bonds on a 3.85 per cent. basis was in line with the new prices established by recent sales. It is understood that these bonds will not immediately be reoffered and in all probability may remain out of the market for at least sixty days.

Dealers who stock up with bonds early in the year are now taking losses on the majority of these issues, although in a few cases the bonds have been withdrawn entirely from the market. The slump has affected Canadian municipals sold here as well as domestic issues, although the fact that the Province of New Brunswick and the Government of Newfoundland issues did not reach this market aided matters considerably.

Little Borrowing in June.

A survey of the municipal financing which has been done during the first six months of 1928 shows that the total is about $70,000,000 less than for the corresponding period in 1927, chiefly because of the falling off in new borrowing in June.

Several dealers have shortened the size of their offering sheets this week to conform with the smaller lists of bonds in their portfolios. However, many dealers make it a practice not to list more than $500,000 of any issue, no matter how many more of the bonds are actually in their hands, while others go to the other extreme of listing the entire amount owned by the syndicate of which they are members. A few, but not many, houses allow the exact amount of bonds owned on their offering sheets.

According to traders in close touch with the market, the visible supply of bonds is smaller than it was a month ago, due in part to the decrease in awards and to one or two large orders from institutions. The usual Summer period of inactivity is at hand, and this year is certainly proving no exception to the rule. In fact, the shrinkage of the demand in the Spring months with the advent of high money rates was taken to presage a dull Summer season.

However, one healthy sign is that few blocks of bonds are being brought out of retirement to be thrown on the market for what they will bring. For one thing, the present trend of prices does not encourage this sort of thing, and of all times of the year the Summer season is the least propitious.

ACCOUNTING URGED FOR CITY UTILITIES

Bankers' Committee Advises System to Determine the Earnings for Bonds.

MISSISSIPPI LEVEE ISSUES

Report Comments on Defaults as Result of Flood—Predicts Refinancing of Obligations.

The report of the Municipal Securities Committee of the Investment Bankers' Association, of which John J. English of the William R. Compton Company is Chairman, published in the current bulletin of the association, strongly urges the use of proper accounting methods in determining earnings and value of municipally owned public utility properties. This applies primarily to such properties as are financed by the issuance of securities payable solely from the revenues derived from such systems.

The situation regarding drainage and levee district bonds affected by the flood in the Mississippi River Valley is summed up as follows:

"The effect of the flood calamity experienced last year in the Mississippi River Valley is being felt by investors in drainage and levee bonds issued by districts in the overflowed section. Numerous defaults have already occurred, and those in close touch with the situation expect many more.

"The market for securities of this type has been practically destroyed for the time being, and the owners of the property are not in a position to carry the present tax burden and finance the necessary rehabilitation work. Their salvation depends upon Government or State aid.

"The Mississippi State Legislature, one of the few in session this year, recently passed the Wynn bill, otherwise known as the Rehabilitation act. Briefly, this gives counties in the sections directly affected by the overflow of the Mississippi River the power to issue bonds and to use the proceeds to finance the purchase of interest and principal of the obligations of school, road, drainage and levee districts maturing within the next three years. The interest on the county bonds is limited to 4½ per cent.

"The Mississippi Legislature also passed a law making it possible to refund drainage and levee district bonds. Similar relief undoubtedly will be afforded by the Legislatures in other States affected when these bodies again convene. Considerable refinancing of drainage and levee district issues, involving reduction of interest rates and extension of maturities, will be necessary in order to work out a number of situations now in trouble."

The committee, which scrutinizes all municipal bond circulars, reports that there are few cases of willful misrepresentation, but adds that there is a growing tendency to make financial statements of municipalities more attractive by the deduction of indebtedness, which, in many instances, is open to question. A subcommittee on bond circulars has been appointed, headed by J. R. Kimball, Vice President of the Guaranty Company.

INTEREST PAID ALIENS.

Receipts of Foreign Bondholders Last Year Compiled by Bureau.

Statistics showing the amount of interest paid during the calendar year 1927 to non-resident holders of bonds of domestic corporations have recently been compiled from data shown on ownership certificates filed with the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue, according to T. C. Atkeson of the bureau's Records Division.

The regulations issued under Section 221 of the Revenue act of 1926, Mr. Atkeson states, require the preparation of ownership certificates by non-resident alien individuals, partnerships and corporations holding bonds issued by domestic corporations. This certificate is presented with bond coupons at the time interest is collected and is required whether or not the bond contains a tax-free covenant and whether or not the bondholder is subject to tax.

The ownership certificates represent interest from bonds held in this country for the account of foreigners and also interest from bonds physically held abroad. The presumption is, according to Mr. Atkeson, that where certificates are prepared by alien holders or their agents in a foreign country the bonds are physically held there. In those cases where the bonds are held in this country by banks for the account of the alien it is customary for the certificate to show the American bank as agent. Segregation of certificates according to these conditions has not been made. A review of the certificates indicates that they would be equally divided were such a separation effected. Mr. Atkeson says.

Statistics compiled by the Records Division show the amount of interest, segregated according to country, paid to non-resident alien bondholders on bonds issued by domestic corporations, as follows:

Equitable Life's Mortgages on Farms Total $1,141,989 in Five States.

Mortgage loans in the amount of $7,409,289 were authorized during June by the Finance Committee of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. Of the total, $6,267,300 represented city loans and $1,141,989 farm loans.

City loans on residences and apartments numbered 1,074, while thirteen loans were made on business properties in various cities. The principal States in which farm loans were approved were Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, South Dakota and Oklahoma.

Employes Hold 70% Simmons Stock

The New York Stock Exchange firm of Jackson Brothers, Boesel & Co. has issued an analysis of the Simmons Company, in which it is revealed that about 70 per cent. of the 1,100,000 shares of stock outstanding is owned by 6,000 employes of the company. The floating supply therefore is fixed at 30 per cent.

$13,148,000 BONDS MARKETED IN WEEK

LARGEST LOAN $3,400,000

Foreign and Domestic Issues of Fair Size Scheduled for Flotation Soon.

A combination of unsettled money market conditions and the Fourth of July holiday kept new bond offerings down to $13,148,000 in the week ended yesterday, by far the lowest total of this year and comparing with $114,580,000 last week and $49,695,000 in the corresponding week of last year.

The offerings, by groups, of this and last week follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Foreign	$3,400,000	$23,000,000
Industrial	2,850,000	63,400,000
State and municipal	5,798,000	21,730,000
Public utility	1,000,000	6,450,000
Railroad	1,500,000	.....
Miscellaneous	1,000,000	.....

For several weeks the high money rates and the lagging tendency in the bond market have held back a considerable number of foreign and domestic offerings that had been under negotiation, and this situation was intensified on last Monday when the call-money rate advanced to 10 per cent., its highest point since 1920, amid the general confusion caused by tremendous disbursements of dividends and interest, demands for currency for holiday purposes and month-end settlements. Although this was followed by a drop in the call loan rate to 5 per cent., conditions remained unsettled and the general tendency among investment houses was to postpone the flotation of new issues until a later date. New offerings of stocks contracted similarly during the week.

Under ordinary conditions, the total of this week would constitute an exceptionally small aggregate for one day of new financing. The largest issue of the week was a $3,400,000 loan to the Hungarian Discount and Exchange Bank. Offerings throughout the other groups were correspondingly small. Several fair-sized domestic and foreign issues are scheduled for offering next week, but the total is expected to remain somewhat below normal.

FRANCE CONTINUES GOLD WITHDRAWAL

Total of $56,000,000 Expected for Revived Movement as $12,000,000 More Leaves.

$26,000,000 NOW ON WAY

$256,560,000 Has Been Sent Since December—Insurance Possible for $30,000,000 Shipment.

A shipment of $12,000,000 of gold destined for France was carried on the French Line steamship France, which sailed from New York early today, and bankers said yesterday large additional amounts would be sent forward in the next few weeks. The renewed movement of the metal got under way on Thursday, when $14,000,000 was sent on the steamship de Grasse.

The Federal Reserve Bank's summary at the end of last month showed that $57,000,000 gold had been added to the supplies ear-marked for foreign account in June, and the bulk represented metal which had been purchased for France. It was said yesterday that, including the $26,000,000 already sent this week, a total of $56,000,000 probably would go to France on the revived movement. The next shipment will be made on the Rochambeau, sailing next week.

The shipments follow reports that the gold movement to France was likely to cease after the stabilization plan went into effect. Since the beginning of the movement last December a total of $256,560,000 of gold has been sent from New York to France, and if present schedules are carried out the aggregate will mount to more than $312,000,000. The largest shipments for any one month were $81,553,000, sent in June.

Contrary to reports in Wall Street that $14,000,000 of gold was about the maximum for which insurance could be obtained for shipment on one vessel, it was definitely established yesterday that much larger amounts could be sent, fully protected. Pierre de Malglaive, general representative of the French Line for the United States and Canada, made inquiries of his insurance broker on this point and was assured that the underwriters could furnish insurance for as much as $30,000,000 of gold on one of the larger vessels of the French Line.

Nearly all the shipments to France have been in lots of about $12,000,000 and a few shipments of $14,000,000 have been made. Several weeks ago preparations were made to send $18,000,000 on one ship, but the plan was changed and only $14,000,000 was sent. This was responsible for the reports that insurance could not be obtained for more than $14,000,000 at one time. M. Malglaive, however, was assured by his insurance brokers that one fully insured shipment of $19,000,000 of gold had been sent to Argentina on one steamship. That was the largest on record.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Sterling Gains After Erratic Start —Franc and Lira Weak.

While sterling steadied up at the close yesterday, showing a gain of ½ cent at $4.86⅛ for checks, it was after an erratic session in which traders experienced a trying time in trading, the pound looking weak one moment, followed almost immediately by appearance of large block buying and a resultant improvement in price. The latter feature accounted for the firm closing.

Francs and lire continued weak, however, the supply of each being fully as heavy as on earlier days of the week with both establishing new lows right at the close at 3.91⅜ and 5.24⅜ cents, respectively. Scandinavians were irregular, but German, Holland, Swiss, Spanish and Belgian were steady.

Japanese yen was weak, but the Chinese currencies were higher. South Americans were heavy.

WIN EQUAL RIGHTS IN PARIS.

American Owners of Business Property Get Full Native Privileges.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 6.—A judgment of considerable importance to Americans owning commercial property in France was rendered today by the Tribunal of the Seine, which held that, in virtue of a diplomatic convention signed between the United States and France in 1853, Americans have the same civil rights in France as Frenchmen.

The case arose over the question whether an American owning a building in France has the right to give the lessees the regular notice to vacate so that he can resume occupancy in accordance with the present French law governing commercial property. This French law provides, however, that citizens of countries which do not grant French citizens the same privileges in their country cannot benefit by it, and as there is no similar law in the United States the lessee contended that the American could not benefit under the Commercial Property law.

Maitre Daniel Viraut, however, argued for the American that as the diplomatic agreement was never abrogated and is still in force it gives Americans the same civil rights as Frenchmen, and he obtained a judgment from the tribunal.

PHONE TO NORWAY OPENED.

Minister in Oslo and Kellogg Are Among First to Use Service.

"Your early explorers in stanch little ships were the first to cross the North Atlantic," said the first American voice to converse yesterday with Norway, when the opening to the public of regular telephone services between Oslo, Norway, and the United States, Cuba, leading cities of Canada and Mexico, was officially opened by Director General Nikelsen of Norwegian telegraphs and telephones and, T. G. Miller, general manager of the Long Lines Department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"As the new world representative," Mr. Miller added in his conversation, "may I congratulate you upon now being within all of 30 per cent. of the world's telephones. Your voice from the Land of the Midnight Sun may now be heard in the tropical reaches of Mexico or along the beaches of the Pacific Ocean, a third of the way around the globe."

The Norwegian Minister of Commerce, Mr. Oftedale, then spoke with Hans Fay, Norwegian Consul General in New York, and two calls to Washington were then completed, American Minister L. S. Swenson in Oslo talking with Secretary of State Kellogg and Assistant Secretary Castle. J. Herbert Case, acting governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, exchanged greetings with Mr. Thorkildsen of the Bank of Norway, and the Tidens Tegn of Oslo interviewed the Norwegian Consul General here by telephone.

Harrimans Doubt Soviet Report.

Officials of W. A. Harriman & Co. stated yesterday that no word had been received from the offices of the Harriman manganese concession in the Republic of Georgia confirming an alleged announcement made Tuesday by Soviet Government authorities that the concession had been given up. They were inclined to be skeptical of the authority of the announcement.

MARKETS IN LONDON, BERLIN AND PARIS

British Prices Steady, With Rises in Many Shares as Trading Becomes Quieter.

LONDON MONEY IS EASY

French Prices Rise With Little Trading—German Boerse Closes Firm After Climbing.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 6.—After yesterday's excitement the stock market was comparatively steady today.

Business generally was quiet. With settlement near there was a disposition to await its outcome before entertaining new engagements and in some cases stock was offered by operators as a precautionary measure.

The gilt-edged department maintained a firm tone and the miscellaneous market showed more rises than falls. Tobaccos, talking machines, British Celanese preference and a number of other shares lately in favor all closed higher.

Cable stocks were firm without showing much change, but a rise in Marconi was checked by sales by speculators in view of the carry-over. International Holding and Hydroelectric showed only limited movement. The former closed with little change at about $145 and the latter rather firmer at $40.50.

In the South African market Rand Mines was a thirty-second higher on French support and De Beers rose a sixteenth.

Money was plentiful as ever in Lombard Street and borrowers found no difficulty in obtaining accommodation over the week-end at 2.5 per cent. Before the close balances were offered down to 2 per cent.

American exchange continued to move in favor of the dollar. Although there was no great volume of buying, it was sufficient to keep the rate on the downgrade. In the afternoon New York was inclined to offer sterling and the rate fell to $4.87⅛, but reacted to $4.87¼, or a decline of an eighth on the day's balance.

Tax Prospects Encourage Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 6.—The Boerse today recovered with surprising rapidity from the severe slump caused by the Lowenstein tragedy. The improvement already noticeable at yesterday's closing hour continued strongly despite the fact that the number of orders from the provinces and abroad was comparatively small and trading was completely in the hands of the large brokers and speculators.

Stocks in which Captain Lowenstein was largely interested, especially artificial silk, glazed textiles, Bemberg and Polyphone, gained from 13 to 27 points within a short time. A few other specialties, such as potash, paper pulp and German linoleum, likewise advanced between 7 and 26 points.

The market was further strengthened in the afternoon by a conviction that the new Federal Government is stable and that Herr Hilferding, the Finance Minister, will succeed in forcing through further tax reforms. After temporary fluctuations the upward movement continued and the market closed decidedly firm.

Tomorrow the Exchange will remain closed under the midsummer regulations.

Foreign stocks were active and generally higher. The money market was tighter, with call money heavily demanded at 7 and 9 per cent.

Paris Money Remains Tight.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 6.—The flurry caused on the Bourse yesterday by the Lowenstein mystery had abated today and, while trading did not develop to any great extent, the tendency definitely was toward improvement. Even Lowenstein stocks rose slightly.

Brokers to some extent were disappointed to find that the improvement in the call money situation in New York apparently was without effect here, but it is noted that unfavorable conditions in New York immediately react in Paris, while improvement has seldom much visible result here.

Rentes, without being much exchanged, remained firm and closed with 5s at 69.60; 1917 4s, 79.25; 1918 4s, 79.25; 1915 5s, 92.70; 1920 amortizable 5s, 111.05, and 6s, 101.35.

COAST FINANCING THRIVES.

Two California Concerns Issue Favorable Reports.

Two Pacific Coast financial institutions idicated substantial progress in their statements as of June 30 issued yesterday.

The North American Investment Corporation, a San Francisco investment trust, reported gross earnings for the six months ended June 30 of $246,745, compared with $74,868 for the same period last year.

The combined statement of the Crocker First National Bank and Crocker First Federal Trust Company of San Francisco shows surplus and undivided profits of $5,282,254, as compared with $4,803,875 on June 30, 1927, an increase of $428,679.

ACCEPTANCE TOTALS AT RECORD LEVELS

Remained Above $1,000,000,000 for Entire Past Half Year, but Rates Were Steady.

Never before has the total of bankers' acceptances remained at more than $1,000,000,000 for an entire half year as it has in 1928 and beyond that date to November, 1927, according to the American Acceptance Council. During 1927 the average bills outstanding aggregated $784,930,624 for the first six months, compared with $1,065,311,077 for the first half of the current year.

The bankers' acceptance totals, tabulated monthly from Dec. 31 to May 31, follow:

Dec. 31	$1,080,580,565	$755,300,281
Jan. 31	1,037,980,196	773,604,424
Feb. 29	1,056,886,782	785,487,908
Mar. 31	1,085,468,742	809,440,721
Apr. 30	1,070,712,002	810,965,535
May 31	1,040,735,176	774,719,885

From Jan. 1 to May 15, with rates for all other kinds of credit shifting wildly, acceptance market rates varied only five-eighths of 1 per cent. and were never more than 1 per cent. away from their first of the year quotation, even when, late in June, all other rates soared to record levels. The economy that may be effected through the use of acceptance credits is well illustrated by reference to the six months' average rate for this form of credit, compared with the average rate for commercial paper and time money.

The average bid and asked rate on prime acceptances from Jan. 1 to June 15 was as follows:

	Bid.	Asked.
60 days	3.703%	3.578%
120 days	3.901%	3.770%
180 days	4.021%	3.896%

This compares with other rates during the same period, showing an average for each class:

Call Loans, secured by bankers' Acceptances	3.958% average
Call Loans, Renewal	4.892% average
Commercial Paper	4.212% average
90-Day Time Money	4.771% average

Canada to Cut Tire and Tube Prices.

TORONTO, July 6 (AP).—Reduction in the price of rubber will apply only to tires and tubes, according to statements made by manufacturers today. A. B. Hanney, manager of the Rubber Association of Canada, declared reports that price changes would result in all lines were misleading.

RUMANIA TO HONOR FORD.

Decoration Will Be Formally Given at Detroit Plant Today.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., July 6.—Henry Ford will receive a decoration from the Rumanian Government at 10:30 A. M. tomorrow in his laboratory at the Dearborn headquarters of the Ford Motor Company.

This decoration, authorized by the Rumanian Government, is to be for "outstanding achievements in manufacturing."

Ford will be decorated by chief consul Popovich, who will arrive here from Washington, D. C. Popovich will be accompanied by the Rumanian Legation staff from Washington and consular agents from other parts of the United States.

The decoration will be made in presence of officials of the Ford Motor Company, members of Mr. Ford's family, and friends of the motor manufacturer.

I. C. Popovich, Rumanian consular agent for Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia, stationed at Cleveland, is to participate in the ceremony.

Harold H. Emmons, Detroit attorney, also was mentioned as a candidate for a decoration from the Rumanian Government.

Mr. Emmons last night declared that he had no knowledge that a decoration had been awarded to him. Officials of the Ford Company said they understood that a decoration would be given to Emmons this Fall.

SOVIET OIL OUTPUT RISES.

1,115,000 Tons in May a Record—Production in Other Industries.

Oil production during May by the Soviet Union reached a record total of 1,115,000 tons, representing an increase of 22 per cent. over April, according to cable reports received by the Amtorg Trading Corporation yesterday. Other major industries are also reported to have increased production over April. Compared with May, 1927, Soviet large-scale production increased about 20 per cent.

Pig iron production during May totaled 299,600 metric tons, a gain of 7.2 per cent. over the preceding month. Steel production of 349,800 tons showed an increase of 2.5 per cent., while production of finished cotton cloth, amounting to 218,000,000 meters, increased 19 per cent. over the previous month.

STOCKS IRREGULAR ON CURB EXCHANGE

Reflect Nervousness on 'Big Board,' but General List Closes Above Previous Day.

Price movements were highly irregular on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday, most stocks exhibiting about the same degree of nervousness as was shown in the general list on the "Big Board." The main body of stocks, however, closed above the final level of the day before, but somewhat below the best prices of yesterday.

Mining stocks continued to absorb a large share of interest. Noranda was again a feature, swinging between a low of 56⅞ and a high of 64 and closing at 59, with a net gain of 1 point. Trading was uncommonly heavy. Newmont Mining, which had been active for some days, declined sharply yesterday.

Oil issues generally were strong, holding good part of their gains. The active issues in this group included Standard of Indiana, Darby Petroleum, Prairie Oil, International Petroleum and Creole.

General Public Service and Southeastern Power and Light were leaders in the utility group.

SPAIN URGES AIR MERGER.

Cabinet Wants Two Bidders for Monopoly to Combine.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 6.—The Ministerial Council, after discussing the airlines monopoly today, proposed the amalgamation of the two principal bidders, the Aerea Union and the Iberia Company. If this fusion cannot be arranged the Council seems disposed to favor granting the monopoly to Aerea under certain strict stipulations.

The first of these will be a provision for a minimum required flight schedule on all lines. Another provision for the utilization of Spanish-manufactured material throughout would be included, with a permission to substitute Junkers material when none from Spain is available.

The prospects for the Compania Transatlantica, now holding concessions for air communications to South America and the Philippines, of receiving the monopoly are considered slight, as the financial proposition made by this concern is less advantageous.

17.4% GAIN IN JUNE FOR 12 STORE CHAINS

Report Aggregate Sales of $68,744,297 in Month, Against $58,534,803 Year Ago.

UP 12.8% IN HALF-YEAR

Increase Largely Due to New Units —Woolworth Shows Rise of 9.8% and 7.3% for the Two Periods.

Total sales reported to date by twelve chain store organizations for June and for the first six months of the current year have increased 17.4 per cent. and 12.8 per cent. respectively, over the same periods last year. The reports include several of the largest chains and they are therefore indicative of the trend of chain store business.

The volume of sales by the twelve reporting chains for June was $68,744,297, against $58,534,803 in June last year, an increase of $10,209,494. For the first half of the year these organizations reported sales of $356,273,414, against $315,849,902 in the corresponding period last year, an increase of $40,424,512.

Almost all chains are constantly expanding and a heavy proportion of the increase reported is due to the opening of new units. Several of the larger organizations differentiate between increases due to old stores and to new units.

The F. W. Woolworth Company, with an increase in June over June of last year of $1,993,062, or 9.8 per cent., indicated that old stores were responsible for a gain of $997,038, or 4.9 per cent., while for the six months' period the old stores contributed $2,708,403 to the total gain of $3,512,862, old units thus showing an increase of 2.4 per cent. Similarly, the S. S. Kresge Company reported a gain of 4.5 per cent. by old stores in the first half of the year, whereas the total gain with new stores included was 12.3 per cent.

The Woolworth chain reported a total of 1,652 stores in operation at the end of June, while the S. S. Kresge Company had 451 in operation at the same date. C. B. Van Dusen, President of the Kresge chain, said yesterday that forty-five more stores would be opened by his company during the second six months of the year.

The reports issued yesterday follow:

Reaffirm New Bedford Opening.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 6 (AP). A determination to reopen the cotton mills here on Monday was reaffirmed by an official statement of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association, which was issued after a general meeting of that body here today. Members of the organization had been expected to champion arbitration, but the association statement asserts "the subject was not taken up."

STEADY TONE PREVAILS OVER-THE-COUNTER

Strength Is Shown in All Groups Except the Sugars, Which Remain Unchanged.

Following gains in the previous session, the over-the-counter market displayed a steady tone yesterday. Except for the sugars, which remained unchanged, all groups were stronger, with price changes confined to a small number of issues.

Strength was shown in Industrial Finance common and A. O. Smith common in the industrial section. A better tone was displayed by Crocker Wheeler common, Manhattan Rubber and Industrial Acceptance preferred. Technicolor advanced slightly. Syracuse Washing Machine common B and Colt Manufacturing common dropped slightly.

In the chain-store group Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company common continued its upward trend. Metropolitan Chain Stores common and Leonard, Fitzpatrick & Mueller common showed small gains. Schiff Company common and Federal Bake Shops common and preferred had slight declines.

Among the bank and trust company shares Manhattan and Seventh National gained several points, as did Public and New York Trust. Claremont, Bronx, New York Title and Mortgage, Textile, Chatham Phenix and Municipal showed minus signs at the close, as did American Exchange, Manufacturers Trust, Empire, Equitable, Bank of United States and Mechanics of Brooklyn.

Aetna Fire led the insurance stocks with a good gain, while Pacific Fire and New Jersey scored declines. American District Telegraph of New Jersey in the communication group made a slight gain, while Southern New England Telephone eased a point.

New Pedrick Receiver Named.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 6.—Vice Chancellor R. H. Ingersoll appointed today Hiram Steelman, attorney, as receiver for the Amherst Improvement, the fourth of the enterprises of Frank J. Pedrick & Son, realty developers, to become involved in financial difficulties. Last Summer Steelman was named trustee in bankruptcy for Frank J. Pedrick & Son. The application on which the receiver was appointed today was made by Yexley Dein, who recently obtained a judgment for $3,237 against the company.

TO PAY ON CASUALTY CASES.

Beha Reports on Liquidation of City Service Mutual.

Creditors of the City Service Mutual Casualty Corporation are to receive 20 per cent. of their claims, which have been allowed, according to the second report of the Superintendent of Insurance, James A. Beha, on the corporation. The report deals with the liquidation of the corporation, which was placed in the hands of the State Insurance Department on Dec. 15, 1925, by an order of the Supreme Court, due to insolvency.

Claims filed aggregated $513,277, while the total amount allowed was $377,098. Suspended, estimated and undetermined claims amounting to $164,384 will receive further consideration by the liquidator.

On July 2 the first dividend of 20 per cent. was declared. When the liquidator took possession of the company there were approximately 1,500 actions by injured persons pending in the courts. Many of these have been settled.

Fewer Peerless Cars Shipped.

Preliminary figures of shipments of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation in June show approximately 1,050 cars shipped, according to L. R. German, President. This compares with about 1,200 cars in May and about 1,250 cars in June, 1927.

COTTON PRICES RISE NEARLY $2 A BALE

October and December Lead Advance—Gains Reduced in Last Hour.

LIVERPOOL MOVES INTO LINE

Bombay and Continental Interests Buy Heavily—Estimate of Acreage Due on Monday.

After five days of generally fair and favoring weather, rains occurred over a large part of Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas, and cotton prices recovered nearly $2 a bale on the Cotton Exchange yesterday. Aggressive buying encountered a limited supply of contracts until October sold above 22¾ cents and December at more than 22½ cents, where the market ran into heavy selling of contracts by spot interests as well as profit-taking operations in advance of the Government report on acreage, which is to be made on Monday. A setback of quarter of a cent in the last hour left final quotations 9 to 13 points higher on the day after a large volume of business had been transacted.

Strength in Liverpool was a feature of the session. The foreign market has merely followed the general upward movement in American markets for the last month, and that with considerable reluctance. As a result, quotations in New York frequently have been as much as $1 a bale out of line with what the trade considers a normal parity between the two markets in view of the existing supply of cotton at home and abroad and the price level. Yesterday, however, for the first time in several weeks, buying by foreign mill interests, including Bombay, caused an unusually sharp rise in Liverpool, which left that market relatively higher than New York. Continental interests bought both in Liverpool and here on a scale that stimulated professional and commission-house activity.

During the general realizing movement at the close of last week and the early part of this week the outstanding long interest had been considerably reduced, many contracts passing into trade hands. With an unfavorable weekly report on Wednesday and less satisfactory weather in Atlantic sections, buying power increased under a rapid recovery in prices. From a level below 22 cents on Tuesday October rose sharply 85 points, which carried that delivery within 7 points of high record of the year.

The Garside Service estimated the increase in acreage at 8.1 per cent., whereas the average increase reflected in other private estimates was around 5 per cent. The Department of Agriculture will give the acreage under cultivation on July 1, which will be less than the area seeded, as weather in the last month has been such as to compel planters to abandon fields in several States.

WINS $77,148 TAX SUIT.

Mrs. Van Alen Was Assessed Too Much, Rhode Island Court Rules.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 6.—Under a decision handed down by the State Supreme Court today the State must return to Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen $77,148.73 in taxes on her late husband's estate which she paid under protest.

The tax had to do with a legacy which Mr. Van Alen received under the will of his grandfather who died in 1886. Mrs. Van Alen's claim that this was not taxable was sustained.

CANADIAN CROPS THRIVING.

Spring Grains in Better Condition and Pastures Show Improvement.

Splendid progress has been made by crops throughout Canada, with Spring grains in particular in better condition than for some years back, the Bank of Montreal reports. Early sown wheat in the southern areas is well under way, while in Quebec all crops are doing well under the stimulus of unusually favorable weather conditions.

Pastures, meadows and Spring grains in Ontario have improved greatly during the last week; in the maritime provinces crops everywhere are making excellent progress and in British Columbia grains and root crops are promising, with pasturage excellent.

Excessively hot weather in Manitoba has caused some trouble, but conditions as a whole are satisfactory. Ontario also is suffering somewhat from an excess of moisture. Corn is growing nicely, but dry, warm weather is required. Continued cool weather in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick has made conditions there less favorable.

WHEAT PRICES HIT WEEK'S LOW POINT

Pressure of Hedging Sales Is the Chief Factor in Sending Values Down.

EXPORT SALES ARE SMALL

Corn Market Is Unsettled and There Is a Noticeable Lack of Pressure.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 6.—The continued pressure of hedging sales from the Southwest carried local wheat prices off today to a new low for the week. The finish was at the bottom, with net losses of 2 cents. Numerous stop-loss orders were caught on the way down. Buying against bids and short covering furnished the bulk of the support. At the inside September was off 6¾ cents from the high on Monday, but the rapid increase in the new crop movement in the Southwest and resultant hedging pressure have more than offset everything of a bullish character.

There has been a noticeable lack of aggressive buying, while comparatively little new wheat has been sold for export. Export sales in all positions were estimated at 500,000 bushels. Winnipeg gained on Chicago and closed 1 to 1¼ cents lower for the day. Liverpool was 1⅝ to 1¾ pence lower. The Winnipeg-Kansas City July spread at the last was 11¼ cents, or about 4 cents wider than recently. Black rust is now being found in Minnesota, but as yet no damage has been reported.

Aggregate receipts today at Salina, Hutchins, Wichita and Kansas City were 1,395 cars wheat, largely new grain, with the basis at Kansas City steady at 2 cents lower. Primary points received 1,819,000 bushels; week ago, 767,000 bushels; last year, 1,509,000 bushels. Shipments, 899,000 bushels; week ago, 470,000 bushels; last year, 553,000 bushels.

The corn market was unsettled, with a noticeable lack of pressure on the July and December. The former closed ¼ cent higher and the crop month was up ½ cent. The advance in the latter was in the face of decidedly favorable crop and weather reports from the interior. September lost ¼ cent for the day as the result of spreading. Purchases to arrive were 85,000 bushels. Primary arrivals today, 504,000 bushels; week ago, 555,000 bushels; last year, 446,000 bushels. Shipments 494,000 bushels; week ago, 837,000 bushels; last year, 375,000 bushels.

Oats lost ⅜ to 1⅞ cents for the day, with new July leading. Weakness in wheat had a depressing effect on rye and net losses range to 1¾ cents. Export sales of 300,000 bushels or more were estimated in all positions the past two days.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

ONCE FAMOUS YACHT NOW FISHING CRAFT

Commodore Gould's Neaira Just the Au Revoir Plying Out of Sheepshead Bay.

FINE TRIMMINGS REMAIN

Aristocrat of Fishermen's Fleet Makes Long Excursions and Dwarfs Humbler Fry.

Many visitors to the fishing docks along Emmens Avenue, Sheepshead Bay, have been astonished at the size and beauty of one of the fishing vessels there, the Au Revoir. Her white bulk projects further out into the bay, and her masts and single stack dwarf the other vessels as she lies at the dock.

The Au Revoir was once the Neaira, the private yacht of Commodore Charles A. Gould of the American Yacht Club. Under his ownership she crossed the Atlantic several times and cruised the North Sea a number of seasons. She was originally built by the du Ponts of Wilmington, Del., at a cost said to exceed $250,000. In the settlement of the estate of Commodore Gould, who died January, 1926, the Neaira was appraised at $20,000.

Captain William W. Stephens, now master and owner of the ship whose name he changed to Au Revoir, was just Bill Stephens to fishermen around Jamaica Bay for years. He had been successful with fishing boats and had progressed from the open cat boat Meta to the Velocity, a large motor craft, in twenty-three years of fishing.

When he purchased the Gould yacht from the estate of its owner, he found that the name Au Revoir was much better suited to fishing service than Neaira.

A genial negro known only as "Joe the Chef" guides visitors around the boat, showing them how the former magnificence of the yacht has been little changed by its adaptation to fishing conditions.

Partitions have been taken out and others built, but the hardwood trimmings, the brasswork and the solid build of the craft remains. She belongs to the so-called "nobility" of Sheepshead Bay fishing fleet.

The Au Revoir is 181 feet long and has a twenty-five-foot beam. Three furnaces and low-pressure triple-expansion engines can drive her at seventeen and one-half knots an hour. She can carry 293 persons, giving them every kind of service from electric light to steam heat and ventilation. Besides fishing trips the craft occasionally makes trips to Atlantic City.

WANT NO BURLAP EXCHANGE

Trade Leaders See No "Sound Reason" in Favor of Proposal.

That a burlap and jute exchange would be "detrimental, superfluous, uneconomic and unwanted" was the gist of a report rendered by a trade investigating committee to a meeting of burlap bag manufacturers, burlap importers and brokers held yesterday in the offices of Stein, Hall & Co., Inc., 285 Madison Avenue. The report, which was approved by those present, was prepared after the committee had conferred with the sponsors of the exchange and received from them a statement of their plans and purposes.

At the close of the meeting more than sixty leading factors in the burlap, burlap brokerage and burlap bag business, comprising over 95 per cent. of those regularly engaged in it, signed a letter addressed to the proposed exchange, which said, in part: We have found numerous reasons as to why a burlap exchange would be against the better interests of our industry and also the ultimate consumers. We have found no sound reason in favor of it. We therefore feel that in justice to our industry we must decline to join your exchange."

Among the signers of the letter were W. R. Grace & Co., the Bemis Bro. Bag Company, the Chase Bag Company, the Hethorn Litzrodt Corporation, Mitsui & Co., Stein, Hall & Co., Inc., Epstein & Gallie and W. C. Ramer. T. M. Gallie was Chairman of the Investigating Committee.

RUBBER TRADING QUIET.

Sales Total Only 188 Lots—Prices Show Upward Trend.

Trading interest in crude rubber futures was at low ebb yesterday, total sales on the Rubber Exchange involving 188 lots, with closing prices 10 points down to 20 points higher. The session was one of the most quiet in months, for a full day, and the price range was confined to narrow limits.

Improved cables from London and the primary market helped the list off to a moderately firm start, but thereafter any incentive for a definite and concerted movement was missing until near the close, when some positions were shaded. March closed unchanged at 18.60-70, while May finished 20 points up at 18.70 bid, after an early gain of 40 points. September wound up at 18.80, 10 points up, its only price with the exception of the initial sale at 19. December showed a 10-point loss at 18.70.

London was steady most of the day, but closed quiet with the near-by positions stronger. Spot and July closed ¼d up at 9¾d. August also closed at 9¾d, unchanged; October-December gained ⅛d at 9¼d, and January-March ¼d at 9¼d.

TO SURVEY ALABAMA ROADS.

New York Engineers Engaged by State to Report Bridge Traffic.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Ala., July 6.—Ford, Bacon & Davis, New York traffic engineers, have been employed by the State to make a complete highway traffic survey of Alabama.

Representatives of the concern have arrived in Montgomery and started work today.

The survey is to be completed by September and is principally for the information of bond buyers interested in the purchase of $5,000,000 of bonds offered by the Alabama State Bridge Corporation to procure the erection of 15 highway toll bridges in various parts of the State. Locations have been selected for all but one of the bridges.

CORAL GABLES BUYERS CHARGE FUNDS MISUSED

Declare Many Lot Owners Are Without Title—Ask to Restrain Disruption of Assets.

MIAMI, Fla., July 6 (AP).—A restraining order to prevent alleged disruption of assets of the Coral Gables Corporation was asked in a supplementary application for receivership filed in Federal Court today.

Creditors who yesterday instituted involuntary bankruptcy proceedings against the corporation in the supplementary application today charged that it is "in process of dissolution and liquidation by committees working in the interest of certain creditors, to whom the affairs of the corporation have been abandoned."

Collections, it was charged, were being utilized to pay certain "preferred creditors," and for "illegal, wasteful administration expenses." This, the petition alleged, has made it impossible for many owners to obtain clear titles to property sold by the concern because the corporation has not fulfilled its obligations and obtained release from the original owners.

Unless a receiver is appointed, the petitioners said, foreclosure suits against the corporation will wipe out the equity of the Coral Gables Corporation in the property it has purchased. A restraining order to prevent execution of judgments already granted was asked.

The petitioners, Walton and Spencer Company of Chicago, claiming $3,600; Annin and Company of New York, $200, and the Four Seas Company of Boston, $250, alleged the corporation purchased acreage, paying part cash and arranging for release of parts of this property as lots when payments on the original tracts were sufficiently far advanced. The lots were then sold to persons throughout the country with promise to deliver them free of all encumbrances. The petitioners charged also that collections by the corporation, were not applied to payment of mortgages on the land as agreed.

Liabilities of the corporation were estimated recently at $99,000,000, said to be mostly for land purchases by refinancing operators. The operators, headed by Seneca D. Eldredge of New York, Lynn H. Dinkins and Lester Alexander of New Orleans, and R. M. Price, F. G. Ralley and Adrian T. McCune of Miami, recently assumed the task of completing the project. They urged the creditors to accept reductions in claims and avoid court action.

HOSPITAL SALE IS APPROVED

Court Allows Midtown Institute to Dispose of Property for $395,000.

Supreme Court Justice McGoldrick signed an order yesterday permitting the Midtown Hospital, formerly the New York Throat and Nose Hospital at 227-233 East Fifty-seventh Street, to sell its property there to the Rayon Holding Corporation for $395,000. The hospital will pay off a present mortgage for $32,283 on the property and use the remainder of the money to acquire a new site in the neighborhood and build a modern hospital plant.

George A. Helme, President of the hospital, which was organized in 1886, said that it occupies four lots on which old dwelling houses were remodeled into a hospital, but that the place has now become inadequate and is in need of repair for which the hospital has no available funds. It will lease the present building from the purchaser for eighteen months.

FORESEE GOOD BUSINESS.

Shippers' Boards View Third Quarter of 1928 With Confidence.

Confidence regarding the business trend in the third quarter of 1928 was expressed by three shippers' advisory boards which met recently. Business in general, as evidenced by twenty-six of the principal basic commodities originating in the Great Lakes Regional Advisory Board District, will show an increase of 3.8 per cent. in the third quarter of this year, as compared with the same period last year, according to a bulletin of the Committee of Public Relations of the Eastern Railroads, giving summaries of the regional reports. This forecast is based on reports of the various commodity committees at the twenty-first regular and fifth annual meeting of the Great Lakes Regional Board of Buffalo on June 20.

Of the twenty-six commodities reported, there were only five in which decreases were expected. These were live stock, 9.8 per cent.; sugar, syrup, &c., 26 per cent., and the following three, each of which expect a decrease of less than 1 per cent.: Coal and Coke, ore, forest products.

There were six commodities shown as expecting increasing business well above the average increase of slightly less than 4 per cent. Among these were automobiles, fresh fruits and vegetables, hay, chemical and explosives.

"Optimism as to grain crops, agricultural conditions, business and industrial activity and freight traffic volume in the Central West in the third quarter of this year featured addresses and committee reports of the twenty-first regular meeting of the Trans-Missouri Kansas Shippers Board, at Wichita, Kan., in June," says the committee.

"An increase of 58.2 per cent. in shipments of grain in the jurisdiction of this board is forecast for the third quarter compared with a year ago. Commodity committee reports indicate an increase in shipments of the following products: Agricultural implements, automobiles, cement, dairy and poultry products, fresh fruits and vegetables, grain products, potatoes.

"Decreases are expected in the following lines: Clay products, coke, lime, plaster and gypsum, lumber and forest products, salt, sand, stone and gravel.

"Shipments of these products are expected to be the same as last year: coal, hay, straw and alfalfa.

"The forecast of all traffic in the territory covered by this board will show an increase of approximately 3 per cent. over the third quarter of 1927.

"Adequate transportation facilities, sound economic conditions with fair and optimistic outlook on prices and production is the pleasing situation facing the States of California, Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico, entering upon one of the heaviest production and marketing movements in their history. This was the analysis made by the 400 shippers, producers and railroad executives at the meeting of the Pacific Coast Transportation Advisory Board at Fresno, June 28.

WOULD GET TRANSIT IN EIGHTEEN MONTHS

Plan for the Rockaways Is Outlined by Charles Wille of Board of Trade.

WANTS RAILROAD HOOK-UP

1,200-Foot Spur at Rego Park Would Effect Union With City Subways, He Says.

That the Rockaways could be given rapid transit facilities within the next eighteen months provided the city purchased the Rockaway Beach and Far Rockaway Divisions of the Long Island Railroad was the opinion expressed yesterday by Charles Wille, Chairman of the Transit Committee of the Rockaway Beach Board of Trade, following an investigation into the proposed subway projects contemplated for Queens.

Mr. Willie said he had found the Patrick McGovern Construction Company had made a remarkable record in subway construction work. "It has completed the newest section of the subway in one-quarter of the estimated time," said Mr. Wille. "That is because it did not encounter any utility mains, such as hamper progress in Manhattan, and has been able to excavate without interruption. The same condition will hold true in the work from Woodside to Jamaica. At the former point the McGovern contract ends, and whoever gets the contract from Woodside to Jamaica will have no obstructions to overcome in excavating.

"Within three months the contract for this section should be let and after that it is only a matter of a little more than a year before the subway will be completed to White Pot Junction."

White Pot Junction is situated in the vicinity of the Rego Park Station of the Long Island Railroad and from the Junction to Queens Boulevard is only a distance of about 1,200 feet. It is contended by Mr. Wille that if the city purchased the Rockaway Beach and Far Rockaway Divisions of the Long Island Railroad, a connection could be made between the new subway route and the Long Island Railroad tracks with little difficulty.

The railroad has been anxious to sell its two divisions and has agreed that the actual purchase price need not be paid for a period of ten years, provided that the city agrees to pay the interest on the principal over that period.

Meantime, Commissioner Francis X. Sullivan of the Board of Transportation has completed a report dealing with the rapid transit needs of the Rockaways which will be acted upon at an early date. Commissioner Sullivan has spent several months investigating the plan submitted by J. W. Carpenter, Chairman of the Transit Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the Rockaways, which provides for the purchase of the Far Rockaway and Rockaway Beach Divisions of the Long Island Railroad and hooking them up with the proposed new Fifty-third Street subway route.

SUSPECT BESSARABIAN PLOT

Rumanian Police Arrest Russians Following Woman Spy's Confession.

KISHINEV, Rumania, July 6 (AP).—With the confession of a Soviet woman spy as a guide, the police today believed they were on the trail of a plot to bring about the return of Bessarabia to Russian rule.

They began to unravel the tangled skein of plot and counterplot when Ivan Jacobovitch, editor of a monarchist newspaper, was found murdered. The authorities found that he was acting as a spy for both Governments, sending military information to the Soviet and furnishing information about the Soviet to the Rumanian security police. He was murdered, it is asserted, by a Soviet agent.

After arresting the Soviet agent's landlady, Mme. Kollantay, the police said, they obtained a confession from her in which she told them she was a spy for the Moscow General Staff. It was claimed that she was an aunt of Mme. Alexandra Kollantay, Soviet Minister to Norway.

The landlady was alleged to have betrayed those who had cooperated with her, and a number of persons who posed as monarchists were rounded up as a result of her revelations.

ASKS MINERS TO END STRIKE

Lehigh Coal Company Appeals to Men to Keep Union Agreement.

LANSFORD, Pa., July 6 (AP).—The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company today issued an appeal to its 7,500 men to return to work and live within the spirit of the agreement which now operates and binds the United Mine Workers with the Anthracite Operators' Association.

A strike was called by the men when the company announced that certain operations would be shut down during the month of July. The workers declared they desired all men to share in the work of the company during the month.

The company stated it was ready to reopen all but the Lansford and Coaldale operations, which are flooded with water.

Union officials said there was no change in the situation, but they were not certain that the call of the company would not be heeded. They denied, however, that hundreds of protests against the strike had been lodged at the district headquarters at Hazleton.

The belief is held here in some quarters that the strike will come to an end by tomorrow and that a general resumption may be expected next week.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Hogs were steady to 10 cents higher early, but closed with the advance lost. Top was unchanged at $11.60, while the day's average was 5 cents higher at $10.85. Bulk of the 160 to 200 pound averages sold at $10 to $11.60, with 200 to 250 pound kinds at $10.40 to $11.60 and 250 to 350 pound butchers at $10.40 to $11.55. Packing sows sold at $9.10 to $10.40. Packers bought 16,400 and shippers 6,000, with 6,000 left over. Receipts 18,000, with 6,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Cattle prices generally were little changed, although grass fads were weaker. Grain fed offerings were small with best at $15.85 and bulk of beef cattle at $14.25 to $15.75. Receipts 1,500. Fat lambs were generally 25 cents higher, with natives at $13.25 to $16.75 and Western at $15 to $16.75. Sheep were steady at $5 to $6.50. Receipts 8,000.

RICH BOSTONIANS TELL OF AIDING SWINDLER

Lawyers and Business Men Reveal Investments for 1,000 Per Cent. Gain—Prisoner Convicted.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., July 6.—George K. Moore, adventuring globe-trotter, received a seven-year sentence and was fined $3,500 in Police Court here today after seven wealthy attorneys and business men had sheepishly told the court how they invested $25,000 with Moore to enable him to bring millions of dollars worth of opium, lamb skins and other valuables from Russia so that they might reap from 500 to 1,000 per cent. on their speculations. Another lawyer told how a similar group of Boston men had spent another $25,000 on Moore's scheme from 1917 to 1922.

The rich speculators expected, after listening to Moore, to get the millions of dollars worth of goods for nothing with the exception of what it cost him to ship them out of Soviet Russia. Moore, who was unprepossessing as he stood in the dock, told them he was the son of missionary parents and was born in Turkey. He said that he bought $5,000,000 worth of goods and gave his notes to Russian owners. The owners had all been killed and even their heirs had been massacred, the two last to succumb being two children.

In 1917 a prominent Boston attorney, Michael L. Fahey, and some associates first listened to Moore's story. Moore was a fascinating and convincing talker. They gave him $20,000. He went to Europe and returned in a year with many Siberian experiences to relate, but with no goods. He secured several thousands more and went to Russia again. In 1921 Mr. Fahey met Moore in Paris and was told that for $10,000 a Turkish Pasha would get the goods, then twenty miles from the Turkish coast, to the sea.

In 1926, Fahey heard, Moore was again in Boston and tried to get him arrested, but did not succeed before the second contingent of Boston investors had sent Moore out with their $25,000.

Moore would tell the police nothing and after listening to his accusers with amused interest today he declined to offer any defense.

LESS TRAFFIC ON D., L. & W.

President of Company Forecasts Drop in June Income.

Predicting that gross revenues and net operating income for June would be less than a year ago, John M. Davis, President of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, said yesterday that the decrease would be largely due to the falling off in anthracite tonnage, the decrease in passenger revenue and to a heavy maintenance program.

"General merchandise and miscellaneous freight shipments are holding up well," said Mr. Davis, "while cars received from connections are running ahead of a year ago. A large factor in our expenditures so far this year has been our rail laying program, the entire program being completed in the first six months of the year."

African Railway Buys British Cars.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, July 6 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuters).—The South African Railway board has placed an order with the British firm of Metropolitan Vickers for 900 steel cars to cost in the neighborhood of $500,000.

Row Was Not Aboard the Miramar.

After a police investigation into the near riot which developed on an outing of the Yorkville Nut Club last Sunday, it was reported yesterday that the excursion boat carrying the party back from Glenwood Landing, L. I., was the Thomas C. Milliard and not the Miramar, as stated immediately after the incident. The Nassau County police incorrectly identified the steamer when a request was made to the New York police to intercept the boat, and the police launches missed the Thomas C. Milliard, which landed and sent three injured men to the Italian Hospital.

MAY IMMIGRATION LED BY GERMANY

In May last, the Bureau of Immigration reports, 43,972 aliens were admitted to the United States, including 26,158 immigrants and 17,814 non-immigrants. The exodus of aliens in that month totaled 25,512, more than 75 per cent., or 19,272, of whom were non-emigrants going abroad for a short stay or leaving after a visit in this country. The remaining 6,240 were emigrants leaving for permanent residence in some foreign country. In the same month 28,407 American citizens returned to the United States and 24,993 departed for foreign countries.

Of the 43,972 aliens entering the country in May, 33,076 came in at the seaports, and of these 27,006, or 81.6 per cent., landed at New York. Aliens entering from Canada and Mexico, via the land border ports, numbered 5,467 and 5,429, respectively. Eighty-eight per cent. of the New York admissions were born in Europe, 23,780 being natives of countries in that continent, principally Germany, Italy, Great Britain and the Irish Free State; while 2,669 were born in Canada and other countries in the Western Hemisphere, 421 in Asia, 76 in Australia and the Pacific Islands, and 60 in Africa. Of the Canadian border arrivals 3,908, or 71 per cent. of the aliens coming that way, were born in Canada; 1,390 were natives of Europe and 169 of other countries. Practically all the Mexican border arrivals are Mexicans, 5,161, or 96 per cent., of the aliens coming in over the southern land border being natives of Mexico, while 268 gave other countries as their place of birth.

Of the 27,006 aliens admitted during May at the port of New York, 11,657 came in under the Immigration act of 1924 as quota immigrants, 6,501 as returning residents, 3,719 as visitors for business or pleasure, and 1,523 as transits passing through the country, destined mainly to Canada. Aliens admitted that month at the same port as wives and children of American citizens numbered 2,455, of whom more than three-fifths, or 1,552, were born in Italy. Other entrants at New York that month included 998 aliens admitted as natives of non-quota countries and 443 students, ministers, &c.

Of the 26,158 immigrant aliens admitted in May at all ports, 4,118 came from Germany, 2,848 from the Irish Free State, 2,005 from Italy and 1,671 from Great Britain, 70 per cent. of the immigration from Europe coming from these four countries. Other European countries supplied 4,524 immigrants. The Western Hemisphere contributed 10,824 immigrants, 5,059 coming from Mexico, 4,486 from Canada and 1,299 from other American countries.

$88,179,013, INCOME OF CARRIERS IN MAY

Class I Roads' Net Earnings at Annual Rate of 4.70% on Property Investment.

FIVE-MONTH FIGURES GIVEN

Return of 4.41% Reported, Against 4.62% in Same Part of Previous Year.

Net operating income of Class I railroads during May amounted to $88,179,013, which, for that month, was at the annual rate of return of 4.71 per cent. on their property investment, according to reports filed by the carriers with the Bureau of Railway Economics. This compares with $86,007,707, or 4.70 per cent. on their property investment, in the corresponding month of last year. This compilation is based on reports from 185 Class I railroads representing a total mileage of 289,322.

Gross operating revenues for May amounted to $510,714,148, compared with $519,569,844 in the same month a year ago, a decrease of 1.7 per cent. Operating expenses totaled $381,836,287, compared with $391,555,475, a decrease of 2.5 per cent.

The railroads in May paid $30,737,178 in taxes, or 4.5 per cent. less than in the same month of 1927. This brought their tax bill for the first five months in 1928 to $150,325,150, which was $2,921,633, or 1.9 per cent. less than in the corresponding period last year.

For the first five months of the current year the Class I railroads had a net operating income of $376,027,819, which was at the annual rate of return of 4.41 per cent. on their property investment. During the corresponding period of the preceding year their net operating income totaled $385,045,081, or 4.62 per cent. on property investment. Gross operating revenues for the same period aggregated $2,404,382,639, compared with $2,507,487,897 during the corresponding period in 1927, a decrease of 4.1 per cent. Operating expenses for the five months of 1928 totaled $1,830,579,871, compared with $1,922,290,226 during the same period the year previous, a decrease of 4.7 per cent.

The net railway operating income of the Class I roads by districts for the first five months, with the percentage of return based on property investment on an annual basis, follows:

New England Region	$ 14,442,704	5.00%

SHIPPERS' CONFERENCE BACKS RAIL RATE RISE

Trunk Line Agent Explains Need of Higher Charges in Tariff to Southeast Territory.

The Shippers' Conference of Greater New York, meeting yesterday afternoon in the assembly rooms of the Merchants' Association, approved the proposals of the trunk line railroads with respect to minimum rates to the Southeast, following an explanation given by W. S. Curlett, agent of the Trunk Line Association.

The proposals of the trunk lines were to increase somewhat the minimum rates in Southeastern tariffs, in a modified plan which has been accepted by shippers in other sections of the territory. As the suspended tariff expires on Aug. 15, the trunk lines wished to get the sentiment of shippers in this territory before applying formally to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to substitute their modified plan for the one now under suspension.

The changes included in the modified plan were in accordance with suggestions made by the Central Freight, Illinois Freight and Southern Freight Associations at recent meetings. Pointing out that the difficulties in drawing up the proposals had to do not with rates but with classifications, Mr. Curlett said that "if the proposals are found to work hardships on any part of the public, we will carefully consider whatever changes may be necessary to correct them."

ROAD WINS ON AIR RIGHTS.

Illinois Central Gets Court Permit for Deals in Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Circuit Judge Friend today entered a decree authorizing the Illinois Central Railroad to sell or transfer air rights on its property. He thereby removed a legal obstacle to the prospective erection of buildings worth $500,000,000 above the railroad's lake-front right-of-way.

The Illinois Central brought the question before Judge Friend in a friendly suit to establish its right of sale.

The defendants named were the United States Trust Company, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, all holders of $15,000,000 mortgage bonds issued by the railroad in 1874.

The decree provides that proceeds from air right sales be paid over to the United States Trust Company as trustee and applied to purchase of other property to be held as a substitute security on the mortgage bonds. The bonds expire in 1951.

Renew Fight on Pittsburgh Line.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Renewing the fight against construction by the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad of a thirty-eight-mile extension of its line from near Pittsburgh to Connellsville, Pa., the Baltimore & Ohio and Nickel Plate railroads today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to reopen the case. The petition alleges there were numerous errors in the commission's report authorizing building of the new line.

Road Orders 20 Passenger Cars.

The New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Co. has placed orders for twenty passenger cars to be delivered this year. The railroad proposes to convert five trailer cars into motor cars. Approval has been granted by the Transit Commission for the purchase of the new cars.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

Long liquidation and the selling of May and July positions of next year caused raw sugar futures to develop an easier tone on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange yesterday. Later in the day the demand for actual sugar sent prices slightly higher. Initial quotations were 1 point lower to 1 point higher. Traders were more optimistic regarding the refined situation. The market closed weaker with prices from 3 to 5 points lower.

Price ranges for raw sugar futures yesterday were:

Coffee.

Although cables from Brazil and the Continent were better, coffee futures were quiet during the week-end session yesterday. The A contracts opened from 2 to 14 points higher, while the D contracts were 4 points higher. One Victoria notice was issued. Prices moved irregularly and there was little change at the close. In the spot market Rio 7s were quoted at 15¾ cents. The A contracts closed from 7 to 14 points higher, while the D contracts closed from 3 to 5 points higher.

Price ranges for raw coffee futures yesterday were:

Cocoa.

Only a small turnover was noted in the cocoa futures market on the New York Cocoa Exchange yesterday. Trading for the most part was uninteresting and featureless. Local dealers sold September and October with local trade houses on the buying side. There were 10 tenders against July contracts, all of which were taken by dealers and Wall Street houses. There was a slight recession toward the close. Prices were off from 7 to 11 points. The actual market was steadier at 14 cents, and cables were easier.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Mixed Trend in Cash Markets—Corn Up, Other Grains Off—Cotton Improves.

Cash markets were irregular in their price trend yesterday, particularly the grains, where corn alone advanced, while wheat, rye, oats and flour sagged. Butter moved forward 1 cent, but eggs remained unchanged. Cotton improved. Metals as a group were firm and unchanged.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities in the New York market, unless otherwise noted, were:

COTTONSEED OIL.

Trading in cottonseed oil on the New York Produce Exchange was comparatively quiet yesterday. The total turnover was 42,000 barrels, the bulk of which represented September and October. Prices at the close were from 5 to 10 points lower. The market held within a narrow range all day and there was no aggressive pressure. The crude oil market was nominal.

BETTER PACE SET BY RETAIL TRADE

Commercial Reviews Comment on Increase, Partly Due to Vacation Buying.

MAJOR INDUSTRIES SLACKEN

Seasonal Recessions, However, Are Smaller Than Usual—Consumption Maintained.

High temperatures over the country during the first week in July gave a stimulus to retail trade and to crops, the former, with the added impetus of vacation buying, setting up a really good week's record, according to the weekly reviews of business. The strength in grain prices, credited to buying of wheat in European centres, was considered a third important favorable development.

In the major industries there has been less of a let-down than ordinarily appears at the turn of a half year, except in the textile field, and the satisfactory volume of steel business has been encouraging. Complaints continue to be heard about the commercial situation and some adverse phases naturally prevail, but the underlying stability of trade has not been seriously impaired.

Bradstreet's review commented as follows:

"Developments of the week have to do with the continued good reports from the automobile trade, in which employment at the advent of July is still close to the year's peak, over against which are the quieting down of steel production, mainly a seasonal development, and the rather more than seasonal curtailment of cotton manufacturing announced last week to rule throughout the first third of July. In the iron and steel industry, the receipt of large orders for cast iron pipe is a favorable feature, over against which is a further softening of scrap prices. Pig iron production sagged further during June, and the half year's production is estimated at 4.6 per cent. below a year ago and the smallest since 1924. In steel, a small gain to a new high output for the half year is symptomatic of the sharp differences revealed in these two branches of this basic trade."

Dun's Review said, in part:

"It has been demonstrated clearly that the general buying power is well sustained, despite elements that have tended to curtail it in some sections, and the recent expansion in purchasing by consumers has reacted favorably upon numerous wholesale and producing branches. The development of such a phase has been plainly foreseen, and its realization has served to strengthen sentiment in the lines benefited. Conversely, the conditions that have given an impetus to activities in some channels have repressed operations in certain other quarters, yet this Record Output of Rayon.

Production of rayon for this year will probably exceed 110,000,000 pounds, according to E. L. Starr, Director of the Rayon Institute. Authoritative figures just compiled for the first six months show that 46,575,000 pounds were produced. Production during the second half will in all probability be heavier, Mr. Starr said, leading to the expectation that the year's total will approximate the record figure indicated.

Discuss Dress Arbitration Plan.

A plan for arbitrating disputes between American buyers and French couture houses was proposed yesterday by Executive Chairman David N. Mosessohn of the Associated Dress Industries of America at a conference in Paris with Jacques Worth, head of the Chambre Syndicale de la Couture, a cable received by the association said. It is similar to the method which has proved so successful in settling disputes in this country between dress manufacturers and textile and trimming houses. Mr. Mosessohn later will take up the plan with other couture leaders. After a survey of conditions, he has decided to open a Paris office of the association.

"Day Wear" Shades Creeping In.

One of the most important of the ready-to-wear trends of the new season, and one which is being reflected in the fabric trades, is the growing invasion of the evening wear field by the so-called street shades. There is still a wide showing of the high colors generally regarded in recent seasons as correct for formal wear, but makers of the higher-grade lines of this apparel are more and more stressing modifications of them. This trend is expected here to become even more marked as the season advances. It is already very noticeable in cutters' purchases of evening wear silks, and promises also to have an important bearing on the color trend of the season's dress accessories.

Misses' Apparel in Fall Show.

One hundred and twenty models will be displayed by forty-three exhibitors at the Fall fashion show of the Garment Retailers of America to be held at the Hotel Astor next Tuesday evening, it was announced yesterday by John W. Hahn, managing director. A departure from former shows will be the inclusion of garments for the junior miss in sizes from 13 to 17. This, Mr. Hahn said, will be in recognition of the growing importance of the type of apparel. The other showings will comprise dresses, coats, furs and sports wear. Four new shades for Fall will be sponsored at the exhibit.

See Good Season on Derbies.

Regardless of whether brown derbies stage a revival during the Fall because of the example set by Governor Smith, the men's hat trade is quite confident regarding the prospect for black ones. Nice advance orders for the latter have been placed, manufacturers here say, and the indications are that the business done will compare well with last Fall. Retailers are being urged to feature the derby as an extra hat for formal wear early in November, this allowing time for the exploitation of felts beginning Sept. 15.

Glass Tariff Meeting Scheduled.

Of major interest in the flat glass trade this week was the announcement of the United States Tariff Commission that a public hearing in the pending window glass tariff investigation will be held on Aug. 7 in Washington, the American Glass Review will say today. The domestic manufacturers seek relief from European competition. The report of the commission's findings in this investigation is not likely to be submitted to the President before late Fall. Within the next month, however, it is expected that the commission will submit its report on the plate glass investigation, which has been in progress for some months.

Fabric Jobbers Expect Demand.

Jobbers of women's wear woolens look for the Fall to be productive of many hurry calls for fabrics from the cutters-up. Many of the mills, it was said yesterday, will be unable to meet the quick delivery demands likely to result from the cautious advance buying, and the jobbers expect to benefit to the extent of substantial premiums. Suèdes and broadcloths are the main weaves on which these traders have stocked up.

Hard Coal Demand at Standstill.

The holiday and the hot weather combined this week to bring business nearly to a standstill in the anthracite trade, Saward's Journal will say today. Many collieries did not start up at all until Thursday, which reduced their weekly operating time to less than 50 per cent. Even so, the loss of tonnage was probably not much greater than during the latter part of June, when half time was the rule. For the week ended June 23 production was only about 50 per cent. of the tonnage mined in the last full week of May. Little business has been transacted in the bituminous market since the first of the month.

Mexican Piece Goods Market Poor.

American exporters are cautioned to use the greatest care in extension of credit for the cotton piece goods market in Mexico in a dispatch received by the Merchants' Association from a correspondent in Mexico. The association has been investigating conditions in Mexico and is informed that they have been in a very depressed state and the demand for textiles in Mexico has been very dull for many months. Both imported and domestic products are affected, the report states, and most of the native mills are operating on a reduced scale.

Not Much Done in Gray Goods.

Gray goods trading did not run into very large volume in this market yesterday. About the best business of the day was done in spot and near-by 39-inch 68-72s, which sold at 9¼ cents. Spot business in 38½-inch 60-48s and in 39-inch 56-44s (Southern) was done at 7 and 6¾ cents, respectively. Prompt shipments of 38½-inch 44-40s sold at 5¾ cents. Nine cents was paid for 37-inch 48-square, four-yard sheetings, and there was trading in 36-inch 64-60s at 6½ cents. The rest of the market was none too active, although business in drills was done on the basis of 14 cents for 37-inch 2.35s and 10 cents for 30-inch 3.25s.

SUGAR DISTRIBUTION HIGHER IN HALF YEAR

Institute Reports Gain of 140,670 Tons Over 1927, in Spite of Bad Weather for Consumption.

Estimated sugar distribution by all refiners and one importer between Jan. 1 and June 2 shows an increase of 140,670 tons over the corresponding period last year, according to the Sugar Institute. This includes the distribution of domestic beet sugar and receipts of refined sugar from other Cuban importers and Porto Rico for direct consumption.

Classified in the first five months for the two years, the distribution of sugar follows:

	1928	1927
Distribution (Sugar Inst.)	1,710,725	1,735,055
Domestic beet sugar dist.	450,000	327,000
Porto R. & other Cub. ref.	55,000	15,000
	2,215,725	2,075,055

During the first five months of the current year refiners' stocks of refined sugar were diminished by 811 tons, while last year they were increased 245,423 tons. This is a clear indication that refiners have not been working this year, as in past years, toward stocking up heavily during the early months, says the Sugar Institute, but that they have confined themselves to meeting the bare requirements.

Distribution for the first six months has been larger than last year in spite of adverse weather for consumption. There is no reason to doubt, the report says, that consumption in 1928 will closely approximate that of 1926, when it was 5,671,335 tons refined value, or 6,100,000 tons raw value.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company will resume the melting of raw sugar early next week, and will continue to melt throughout the year, according to an announcement made yesterday by the company. A full assortment of various grades of refined will be made, and the refined product will be sold in accordance with the differential list.

Prices Up on Tin Plate Demand.

An increased demand for tin plate among foreign consumers has resulted in American mills receiving about 15 cents a base box higher on export sales. The high rate of operations is shown by the fact that September shipment is the earliest that independent producers can give on export orders, according to the Daily Metal Trade. The only exception to this condition is the United States Steel Products Company, which has booked tin plate business for July export shipment.

WOOL MARKET DULL.

Dealers Generally Awaiting Resumption of London Sales.

BOSTON, July 6.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "The week in the wool trade has been exceedingly dull. Prices have shown little further change, although the market still favors the buyer both here and in the Western markets.

"There is a distinct disposition in all world markets to await the opening of the London sales Tuesday. The offerings of 100,000 bales constitute the smallest quantity ever put up for a July series in London. Predictions Bradford are that cross-breds will rule firm and merinos may slightly favor the buyer.

"The goods market still languishes, but is not without some encouraging features and the trade fully expects a good repeat business in heavyweight goods in the course of the current month."

DEFERS DECISION ON GANNON CHARGES

Magistrate Dale Hears Evidence Against Ousted Brooklyn Official in Ash Deal.

YUNKER TESTIFIES AGAIN

Brother-in-Law, Remsen Co-Agent, Denies Knowing Gannon Had Post With Concern.

Magistrate Dale, sitting in the official referee's chambers in the Brooklyn Municipal Building, reserved decision yesterday on a motion to dismiss the charge against Frank C. Gannon, suspended Brooklyn Borough Superintendent of the Street Cleaning Department, that he violated the City Charter by benefiting from a contract between an ash removal company and the city.

Gannon, who was suspended from duty in June by Street Cleaning Commissioner Taylor as the result of testimony adduced by Commissioner of Accounts Higgins in his city-wide investigation of the department, was alleged to have shared, as a partner in the Remsen Sand Company, $9,000 received by the sand company from the Brooklyn Ash Removal Company for permission to dump refuse in lots in Canarsie owned by the Remsen Company.

Edward Yunker, brother-in-law of the superintendent, of 120-20 209th Street, Belleaire, Queens, was being questioned on the relationship of the sand company, for which he acted as agent, and the ash removal company, when Thomas C. Hughes, Gannon's lawyer, entered an objection, and demanded that the charge be dismissed. The magistrate said he would give his decision in the Bridge Plaza Court next Friday.

Yunker, who had testified before Commissioner Higgins, told the magistrate of receiving money from the Brooklyn Ash Removal Company for the privilege of dumping ashes in the Canarsie property. He said he deposited the money in a bank to his own account, and later delivered most of it to the Remsen Company. He denied that he knew that Gannon had any connection with the Remsen Company.

Michael Holzman, another witness, who admitted he was part owner of the Remsen Company denied knowledge that Gannon was connected with either the Remsen Company or the ash removal company.

Commissioner Higgins did not indicate yesterday when he would resume his investigation of the street cleaning situation.

WOMAN KILLED IN FALL FROM HOTEL WINDOW

Young Widow Complained of Heat—Police Call Seven-Story Drop Accidental.

Mrs. Emma H. Harris, 35 years old, a widow of less than four months, was instantly killed yesterday morning when she fell from a window in her mother's apartment on the seventh floor of the Hotel Broadmoor, 235 West 102d Street.

John McCormack, superintendent of the building, heard the body strike the courtyard flagstones. He notified the police and Dr. H. Marr of the Knickerbocker Hospital, who came with an ambulance, pronounced the woman dead.

Dr. Marr treated Mrs. Augusta B. Huffa, mother of Mrs. Harris, for hysteria. She told Dr. Marr and detectives that Mrs. Harris had been nervous and complained during the morning about the heat. According to the police, while Mrs. Huffa was preparing breakfast for herself and daughter, Mrs. Harris went to the window, ostensibly to raise it to get more air. Detective May, who afterward tried to raise and lower the window, said it worked rather stiffly. As Mrs. Huffa entered the room with the breakfast tray, she saw the open window. Her daughter was nowhere in the room. She leaned over the sill and looked down into the courtyard, where she saw the body of her daughter.

At the hotel it was said Mrs. Harris moved into her mother's apartment about four months ago following the death of her husband. It was said that Mrs. Harris had nursed her husband during his illness of eight months and this, together with his death, made her nervous and despondent.

At the West 100th Street station the death was reported as an accident.

CHINESE ASK WRIT TO BAR GUARD AT CLUB

Crowe Opposes Move, Asserting Place Is Gambling Resort—19 Taken in Recent Raid.

In the course of argument yesterday by Assistant Corporation Counsel Crowe in opposing an injunction application by the Chinese Social Club, Inc., to restrain the police from interfering with the clubhouse at 5 East Broadway on the ground that it is a social organization, he told Supreme Court Justice Townley a policeman has been stationed at the door because the place is regarded as a gambling club. The place was raided on June 2 last and nineteen Chinese arrested. After Detective Cassidy, who made the raid, had explained to Magistrate Veil that he could not prove the gambling charge because the prisoners pretended inability to speak English, all were discharged.

Samuel Dickstein, attorney for the club, told Justice Townley yesterday that all could speak English fluently, and that several were American university graduates. He denied that gambling is permitted in the club.

Mr. Crowe said that the Chinese gambling is concentrated in Newark and that the Police Department is trying to prevent the Chinatown gamblers from bringing it back. He asserted that Charlie Boston, for years one of the notable figures in Chinatown, is head of the syndicate and that recently he offered Police Inspector McAuliffe $500 a week to refrain from molesting gambling if it is brought back to New York. Inspector McAuliffe replied that he would continue to do everything in his power to keep gambling outside the city, the lawyer said.

Justice Townley reserved decision.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REAL ESTATE

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

Few Deals Are Reported—Two Important Transactions on Broadway Pending.

RISE IN BUILDING PROJECTS

Plot on 63d St., Between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues Is Assembled.

Trading in the real estate market continued light yesterday. Sales reported closed were scattered over a wide area, especially in Manhattan. Even the east side, which has been unusually active, failed to produce its daily quota of deals.

Several sales are pending, however, one involving a large building in lower Broadway in the financial section, and another a Broadway theatre in the Times Square section. It is not expected that either transaction will be closed before the first of next week, when a revival of activity is looked for.

It was reported that George W. Lytle, the buyer of Zola Court at 352 Cathedral Parkway, intended to convert the structure for occupancy by negroes. The buyer said yesterday that he had no intention of disturbing white tenants now in the building, but that if he could not fill it up with white people he would lease to colored tenants. This will mark the first invasion of the Parkway by negroes.

Several side streets to the north adjacent to Eighth Avenue, are tenanted by negroes and one or two in the vicinity of 100th Street.

One-family houses were in demand in Brooklyn. In Queens and Westchester also the purchase of small houses for occupancy constituted the bulk of trading. Most of the structures have been erected recently.

New Jersey deals, in addition to home purchases, included sales of plots upon which groups of houses are to be erected.

Public projects were more numerous in the past week in contemplated construction operations announced throughout the country. This brought the total sum involved in proposed work in all classes of heavy construction projects to $75,500,000, which compares with $76,950,000 in the corresponding week last year. The McGraw-Hill Construction Daily reports. Continued activity in large commercial buildings also stood out in the week's developments in the construction industry.

Proposed construction announced during the week, by classifications, follows: Public work, $30,250,000; office buildings, stores and lofts, $13,850,000; apartment houses and hotels, $12,200,000; educational buildings, $7,450,000; industrial projects, $4,000,000; hospitals, $2,100,000; theatres, $1,650,000, and unclassified jobs, $4,000,000.

Catherine Murphy sold the five-story apartment house at 136 West Sixty-third Street, held at $55,000, to a client of George V. McNally, broker. The broker recently sold 132 and 134. The purchaser now controls a plot 75 by 100 feet between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues.

Shroder & Koppel, builders, have bought from Arthur A. La Porte, operator, the five-story tenement at 346 East Fifty-third Street.

Dwight, Voorhis & Perry, Inc., sold for H. C. Myers the two four-story dwellings at 402-404 West Forty-seventh Street.

J. F. Cahill & Co., Inc., who last week sold the three-story house at 427 West Nineteenth Street for Mae Flynn to L. Kurland, have resold the same property to an investing client of Peter P. McElligott.

POLICE ROOKIES GRADUATED

104 Probationary Patrolmen Finish Two Months' Training Here.

Graduating exercises of the Police Academy of the New York Police Department were held last night at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory at Twenty-fifth Street and Lexington Avenue, where 104 probationary patrolmen who have successfully completed two months of training were graduated in the presence of Commissioner Warren and Deputy Commissioners Philip D. Hoyt and Joseph J. Boag and Col. William J. Costigan, reviewing officer.

The graduating exercises comprised two hours of military drill, drill calisthenics and various manoeuvres, all of which were applauded by the large crowd which filled the armory. An honor award was presented to Probationary Patrolman Herman J. Lammers, who attained the highest general average in all subjects. He received the Bloomingdale Trophy, a regulation service revolver.

Upon formation of the guard, the patrolmen were ordered to report for duty today at their various precincts. Each man will become a full-fledged patrolman with pay six months from the day he received his shield.

STEPHENSON WINS HEARING.

Judge Richter Will Investigate Klan Convict's Charges of Persecution.

LA PORTE, Ind., July 6 (AP).—Judge John C. Richter, in Circuit Court today ordered that D. C. Stephenson, serving a life term for murder, should be brought into his court on July 18, at which time an investigation of Stephenson's charges that he is being persecuted by prison and State officials will be held. The Judge, however, sustained the State's motion to quash mandamus proceeding instigated by Stephenson's attorneys against prison officers.

In ordering Stephenson into court, Judge Richter remarked that a convict should not be so treated that his business affairs could not be handled by his attorney.

Stephenson claimed that because he had been denied private interviews with his attorneys he was suffering financial losses of "thousands of dollars".

Stephenson, former Grand Dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, was sentenced to life for the death of Madge Oberholtzer of Indianapolis, who took her life after an enforced trip to Hammond. Since his conviction he has been out of prison to testify before several grand juries at Indianapolis investigating alleged political corruption.

Army School Seeks 30 Recruits.

The Army Ordnance Specialists' School at Metuchen, N. J., will be open for direct enlistment from civil life until thirty young men with at least two years of high school work or its equivalent to their credit have been accepted from New York State, New Jersey and Delaware, according to War Department orders received yesterday at Governors Island.

Site in Chelsea Section Sold For Six-Story Apartment

A six-story apartment house containing suites of two and three rooms is to be erected in the Chelsea section as a result of a transaction announced yesterday. Builders have purchased for the purpose the property at 413-415 West Twenty-fourth Street from Charles A. Robinson and the property at 417-419 West Twenty-fourth Street from the estate of James M. Simpson.

The proposed building will occupy a plot 100 feet square and will adjoin the six-story apartment recently erected at 421-423 West Twenty-fourth Street. Morris Strunsky represented the buyers and Dwight, Voorhis & Perry, Inc., acted for the Simpson estate.

LEASEHOLD DEALS

Manhattan Parcels Reported Under New Control

CHINESE AS PIONEERS IN USE OF FIREARMS

Field Museum Collection Illustrates Spread of Gunpowder Weapons Throughout Asia.

When the American Indians were discovered by the Spaniards, among the principal means employed by the invaders to subdue them were horses and firearms. The Indians had neither horses nor firearms. When, however, the Spaniards and Portuguese set out to conquer parts of Asia the story was different, it was pointed out recently by Dr. Berthold Laufer, Curator of Anthropology at Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago and writer on the Orient, in discussing the history of firearms as illustrated in the museum's collections.

In 1571 the Spaniards entered the Bay of Manila and, to their surprise, were greeted by cannon fire from the citadels of two fortified towns. Antonio de Morga, a Spanish writer, relates that long before the arrival of the Spaniards the Philippine Islanders had bronze culverins and castiron pieces for defense. When the Portuguese took Malacca in 1510 they captured 3,000 artillery pieces, 2,000 of which were of bronze, the rest of iron.

After the Spaniards settled in the Philippines, according to the researches of Dr. Laufer, they sent spies to China to find out whether that country could be conquered as easily as Mexico and Peru. These emissaries were Augustinian friars, whose reports are still extant. They returned and reported that it could not be done because China was very populous and had standing armies equipped with bows, gunpowder and firearms. This deterred the Spanish Governors from any attempt to invade China, and it may be said that it was the invention of gunpowder that saved China from the fate of Mexico and Peru, says Dr. Laufer.

Firearms were employed in China, India, Java, Sumatra, Borneo, Siam, Cambodia and Korea long before the arrival of people of any European nation in Asia. Gunpowder was invented in China about the middle of the sixth century and was first employed in the manufacture of firecrackers and fireworks. Large guns were made there beginning about the twelfth century.

In the recently opened Philippine Hall of Field Museum are exhibited nine bronze cannons, so-called lantaka, captured by American forces from the Moros on Mindanao Island. Some of these are of Chinese manufacture and are decorated with ancient Chinese designs, some were made by the Moros themselves in imitation of the Chinese models and others were imported from Borneo.

In the museum's Korean exhibits are two copper cannons and an iron mortar. One cannon bears an inscription in Chinese characters which reveals that it was made for the Imperial Palace at Seoul in 1747. It weight is thirty-one pounds.

Gunpowder is a mixture of saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal. From the Chinese the Arabs learned the formula. They exported saltpeter from China under the name of "Chinese snow." After the conquest of Spain the Arabs introduced there the secret of gunpowder and guns. From Spain this knowledge spread to all other countries of Europe.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—The Atlantic Coast disturbance is moving slowly seaward, being centred Friday evening south of Nantucket. The western disturbance covers the Central Plains States and southern Rocky Mountain region, while pressure is high from Southern Florida east-northeastward to the Azores, and over the Canadian maritime provinces and off the North Pacific Coast.

The indications are for mostly fair weather Saturday and Sunday in the Washington forecast district, except for scattered thunder showers in portions of the Southern States and for showers Sunday over the Lake region and the Ohio Valley.

It will be slightly warmer over Northern districts.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday and the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. GUNS SALUTE DE STEIGUER.

The Texas, Leaving Navy Yard, Honors New Commandant.

The U. S. S. Texas, flagship of the United States Fleet, swung out into the East River from Brooklyn Navy Yard shortly after noon yesterday and sounded thirteen guns. In return, the sound of nine more guns were heard from the direction of the yard receiving ship, the U. S. S. Seattle.

It was explained at the Navy Yard that the flagship had been tied up ever since the new commandant, Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer, arrived on the post. The ship's first opportunity to salute the new commandant came yesterday as she swung into the river. The receiving ship fired nine guns in return, saluting the ship's captain.

At the office of the Captain of the Yard it was learned that the Texas left for New London, Conn., and that she would return to New York July 12 for repairs.

The U. S. S. Utah left the yard about a half hour after the Texas to join the Florida and the Arkansas at sea. The Utah, Arkansas and Florida comprise the midshipmen's Summer cruise fleet, the last two of which have been anchored in the Hudson River at Ninety-sixth Street. The battleships will visit Boston and Rockland, Me., and then go south to Guantanamo Bay for manoeuvres with the fleet.

CALIFORNIA FACES SHIPPING PROBLEMS

Exportation of Fresh Fruits Is Hindered by Transit Difficulties.

GRAPES STAND UP WELL

State's Exports Last Year Totaled $5,430,180, Almost Double Those of 1926.

California possesses ssveral important foreign outlets for its surplus production of fresh fruits, but various difficulties concerned with the problems of refrigeration and long-distance steamer transportation remain to be overcome, according to the American Trust Review of the Pacific, before any considerable quantities can enter the State's export trade. At present the principal varieties of California's fresh fruits marketed abroad are oranges, lemons, grapefruit, apples and grapes, with only very small amounts of other fruits.

The increasing production of fruit in California, the Review points out, has for a long time emphasized the need for the development of new markets overseas and the expansion of markets at home. Except in occasional unfavorable years the State unsually produces a surplus of fruit in excess of the requirements of the packer and canner and the demands of the fresh-fruit consumer. Various agencies, including the University of California's agricultural department, shippers, growers and commission merchants, are giving their attention to ways and means for expanding the markets in the direction of the Far East and Europe. Already, the Review states, it has been ascertained that a very real problem exists in the selection of the right types of fruit that can withstand the long journey to the Orient even under careful conditions of refrigeration.

Citrus fruits, according to the Review, fare much better in transit, as a rule, than do deciduous fruits, a situation that probably is accounted for by their thicker protective skins. Apples are also a hardy fruit and can be shipped to distant countries with minimum of spoilage. It is pointed out that, curiously enough, the highly perishable grape can be transported many thousands of miles without material damage.

Methods employed in packing grapes for foreign destinations differ materially from the packing of other fresh fruits. They are packed in barrels or cases with pine or redwood sawdust, and as but little air can reach the fruit, the danger of over-ripening or rot is largely eliminated. Peaches, pears and berries present separate and distinct problems in packing, and there is still much experimenting to be done, it is stated, before these classes of fruit can be safely and satisfactorily set down in foreign ports.

Seattle Main Export Point.

A small export trade is carried on by San Francisco and Los Angeles in pears, peaches and berries, but the heaviest foreign shipments of these fruits on the Pacific Coast are made by Seattle, the principal ports of destination being Vancouver and Victoria, in British Columbia, a journey of only a few hours. Europe, the Philippines, and other Far Eastern countries also receive these fruits in limited quantities from both Seattle and Portland.

Last year California shipped abroad fresh fruits to the value of $5,430,180, a figure almost twice as great as the value of the fresh fruit exports from the State in 1926. The increase in values was accounted for principally by larger shipments of oranges and grapefruit, and to a lesser extent by increases in the exports of apples, grapes and pears. Oranges represented 67 per cent., or $3,656,841, of the total value of California's fruit exports in 1927, and they comprised by far the greater part of all fresh-fruit shipments from Los Angeles. The Los Angeles exports totaled $3,392,458, and of this amount $3,037,525 represeand oranges.

Grapefruit was the next largest fruit export from Los Angeles, the quantity being 84,493 boxes, valued at $284,793, as compared with the 1926 exports of 41,062 boxes, valued at $150,163. There was but little difference in the quantity of lemons exported from Los Angeles in 1926 and 1927, the totals respectively being 9,225 boxes and 9,151 boxes. The price level, however, was greatly in favor of the 1927 shipments. The value of the 1926 lemon exports was $37,699, and in 1927 it was $48,699.

The three citrus items in the Los Angeles exports accounted for 99 per cent. of the value of all the fresh fruit sent abroad. The remaining items consisted mainly of apples and various unclassified fresh fruits, the latter, for the most part, being shipped to nearby Mexican border towns. The most important market last year for the Los Angeles exports of oranges and grapefruit was the United Kingdom. More than 75 per cent. of all the oranges, and nearly 90 per cent. of the grapefruit, was taken by that country. Canada received more than half the lemons, and Japan most of the remainder.

San Francisco's fresh fruit exports last year exceeded those of Los Angeles except in the case of oranges and grapefruit. The lemon exports from San Francisco were approximately eight times greater than those of the Southern port. San Francisco's largest fresh fruit export was apples, the amount being 345,831 boxes, valued at $629,462. Oranges ranked second in value, with exports totaling $619,316. San Francisco's gains over 1926 extended to almost every fruit that is shipped in large quantities. The peach exports decreased slightly. Grapes, oranges, grapefruit, lemons, apples, pears and unclassified fresh fruits all showed substantial increases over the preceding year. The total values last year were $2,067,722, as compared with $1,536,692 in 1926.

More Grapes, Apples and Pears.

"Apart from the citrus fruits, the San Francisco increases were particularly impressive in grapes, apples and pears," says the Review. "Grapes increased to 2,670,305 pounds, valued at $213,224, as compared with 1926 exports of 1,654,803 pounds, valued at $158,913; apples, to 345,831 boxes, valued at $629,462, from 251,475 boxes, valued at $419,505, and pears, to 504,576 pounds, valued at $60,172, from 307,965 pounds, valued at $28,993.

"California grapes, especially Malagas and Emperors, enjoy a wide foreign distribution, but the largest market lies in the Philippines, which last year took 1,150,000 pounds, or 43 per cent. of the total exports from San Francisco. Other important markets include Hongkong, which took 376,000 pounds; New Zealand, 270,000 pounds; British Malaya, 268,000 pounds; China 144,000 pounds; Salvador, 134,000 pounds; Java and Madura, 92,000 pounds; Ceylon, 36,000 pounds; Costa Rica, 42,000 pounds; Australia, 32,000 pounds, and the Netherlands, 10,000 pounds.

"The United Kingdom took 478,000 pounds, or 80 per cent. of all the pears exported from San Francisco last year. Twenty other countries also received California pears in quantities ranging from 135 pounds for British Oceania to 16,000 pounds for Denmark. The pears chiefly were Lake County Bartletts.

"Such widely separated countries as the Philippines, Denmark and Uruguay are the principal markets for peaches, but the exports were of small quantity, the total for all countries being 35,460 pounds, valued at $3,010.

"Customarily, oranges lead in value in San Francisco's fresh fruit exports, but last year there was a reversal of the order and boxed apples ranked first in value. New high marks were made by both apples and oranges in the year's shipments, but the greater increase was made by apples, and amounted to 345,831 boxes, valued at $629,462. The 1926 apple exports totaled 251,475 boxes, valued at $419,505.

"England continues to be San Francisco's best market for apples, and, incidentally, it is Great Britain that also receives the largest part of all the apples shipped from the various Pacific Coast ports. Of the apple shipments from San Francisco, Great Britain took 221,983 boxes, or 61 per cent. of the total. Thirty-six other countries, including Egypt and Palestine, enjoyed the products of California's apple orchards. British Malaya, the Philippines, Ceylon, Hongkong, Mexico and Salvador were the principal consuming markets for apples next in rank below Great Britain."

DESIGNS SAFER LIFEBOAT.

Briton Offers Idea for Unsinkable Craft to Navy and Ship Board.

Plans for an improved type of nonsinkable lifeboat, designed to be safe in launching and propulsion, have been submitted to the Navy Department by Charlton Ogburn, 27 William Street, acting for its inventor, David S. Neill, a British attorney, practicing in Genoa, Italy. Mr. Ogburn also will forward plans to Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the Shipping Board, with an offer of free patent rights if the idea is considered favorably.

Mr. Neill's boat is constructed of light, high-resistance metal and is mechanically propelled, with oars as auxiliary propulsion. It is about thirty feet long, is permanently covered and so ballasted as to be self-righting. All apertures can be made water tight. Entrance is through lateral, sliding doors, arranged to seal easily and hermetically. Attached are fender rollers which permit the boat to roll smoothly down the side of a listing ship.

The model is large enough to accommodate eighty persons, and is propelled by a motor capable of being handled when afloat by one experienced man. A conning tower amidships serves as evit and supplementary entrance.

Mr. Neill turned his attention to the idea of a safe lifeboat while representing British insurance companies in the loss of 296 lives by the sinking in 1927 of the Principessa Mafalda. He holds that these lives could have been saved had the ship been equipped with proper lifeboats.

RAISES U. S. LINE WAGES.

Shipping Board Grants Increases to Deck Officers and Engineers.

The United States Shipping Board has granted salary increases ranging from $10 to $50 monthly to about 100 deck officers and engineers of the United States Line, effective July 1, it was announced yesterday. The increases were made at the request of the Neptune Association, whose secretary, Captain John F. Milliken, stated the case to the board about two weeks ago.

Increases were denied men of the same ratings on other lines of the board and the salary agreements were continued for one year. The board designated in its agreement that the engineers of the Leviathan benefit with engineers of the other ships of the United States Line.

Captain Milliken said yesterday that he would continue his efforts to obtain the increased wages for the deck officers and engineers of all ships owned by the Shipping Board and would again ask that allowance for uniforms be granted.

WILL CONFER ON SMUGGLING

Railroad and Customs Men to Discuss Guarding Canadian Line.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—With a view to suppressing smuggling across the northern border, Assistant Secretary Lowman of the Treasury announced today that a conference would be held here on July 18 in which executives of railroads operating between the United States and Canada will take part.

At this gathering Mr. Lowman is hopeful a plan will be devised by the railroad representatives and customs officials that will be effective in curtailing smuggling to and from Canada of various articles of merchandise, including liquor and diamonds.

Among the railroads to be represented at the conference are the Pere Marquette, Canadian Pacific, Canadian National, the New York Central and the Delaware & Hudson.

New Post for Captain Yarnell.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Captain Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the airplane carrier Saratoga, was today named to be Chief of the Naval Bureau of Engineering, succeeding Captain John Halligan Jr., who, at his own request for sea duty, has been selected to command the Saratoga. The exchange of posts was made after Captain Yarnell had been selected for promotion to Rear Admiral. Captain Halligan had held the temporary rank of Rear Admiral as Chief of the Bureau of Engineering. He has been ordered to the Pensacola naval air station for aviation training and to assume his command in the Fall.

RESERVE OFFICERS CALLED.

Detailed to Join Manoeuvres of the 77th Division at Camp Dix.

One of the largest detachments of Reserve Officers will leave this city tomorrow to report at Camp Dix, N. J., where it will take over its duties with the 306th Infantry (reserve) and participate in the manoeuvres of the 77th Division under Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Those named for duty by Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely were:

Lieut.-Colonels Lucian S. Breckinridge, James W. Burrows, and William H. Draper; Captains Robbins L. Conn, Charles Dreschel Reginald Durrant, Charles J. Saunders, and Meredith Wood; First Lieutenants J. J. Bennett Jr., John M. Bowlin, Elmer Brenton, Daniel J. Campbell, Michael J. Davidson, John C. Fiesta, Lawrence A. Harte, Alfred J. Homan, Llewellyn Lloyd, Samuel McKee Jr., John F. Nichols, Alfonso A. Putt, Louis Roth, John F. Schnepf, Frank L. Stephenson, William I. Tucker, and Grady I. Turner.

ORDER LARGEST SHIP AMERICA EVER BUILT

Panama Line Officials Will Run 35,000-Ton Liner From New York to Pacific Coast.

ACCOMMODATIONS FOR 800

Three More Ships Will Be Started Before New Turbo-Electric Vessel Is Completed.

P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, announced yesterday the signing of contracts with the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company for the construction of a new 35,000-ton turbo-electric ship for the Panama-Pacific Line, to be operated in its New York-Pacific Coast service. She will be completed in December, 1929, or January, 1930, and will be the largest ship yet built in the United States.

The new ship will be operated with the California, which has been in the service five months, and the Virginia, which is now being completed at Newport News and which is scheduled to sail from New York on Nov. 26 on her maiden voyage to the Coast. She will be 612 feet long over all, with an 82-foot beam, and will be equipped to maintain a sea speed of eighteen knots. The California, which now holds the record for size of ships built in this country, is 601 feet long and the Virginia will be somewhat larger. Neither is as large, however, as the ship whose proposed construction was announced yesterday.

Mr. Franklin, in telling of his company's plans, said that three new ships were to be built subsequent to her completion, and that the company proposed, with the completion of that program, to inaugurate weekly sailings between New York and the Coast. At present the California is operated with the Manchuria and the Mongolia, which will be withdrawn when the Virginia and the new sister ship are ready. Fortnightly sailings will be possible with this trio, developing as the later three are built until the fleet of six is in service.

The most modern equipment will be installed in the new ship, Mr. Franklin said, with accommodations for about 800 passengers, 400 of whom will be first class and 400 tourist. Every room will be on the outside, and private bath and shower will be furnished. A refrigeration plant will be provided, making possible the carrying of perishable freight. Mr. Franklin would not estimate the cost of the ship, but in view of the fact that the California cost $7,000,000 it is expected that the sister ship will set a record beyond this mark. She will make the trip to San Francisco, via Havana, the Canal and Los Angeles, in thirteen days.

The General Electric Company will furnish the operating plant, which, like that of the California, will consist of twin electric motors deriving their energy from high-speed turbo-generators. Improvements on the electrically operated equipment that are considered advisable in the light of the California's performance will be made in outfitting the new ship. She will be built to be readily converted to military use in case of emergency and will meet the requirements of the Government as set forth in the Jones-White bill, making her eligible for construction under a Government loan to the extent of 75 per cent. of her total cost.

"Every time this ship passes through the Panama Canal," said Mr. Franklin, "the cost will be high in toll charges. Her owners will be obliged to pay the Government $15,000, or $30,000 for every round trip she completes. There has been much talk of late about the building and operating of ships under the American flag, and certainly we show our desire to do our utmost in the building of this ship and, we hope, three more. But it is a tremendous strain when we are obliged to pay these canal tolls, especially when we consider that the canal was built for military use rather than as a commercial venture."

It is said the new ship will be named the New York, but nothing definite has been decided on this score.

Fewer New Hampshire Convicts.

The number of prisoners in the New Hampshire State Prison on Jan. 1, 1928, was 126, as compared with 150 on Jan. 1, 1926, according to census statistics recently reported by the Department of Commerce at Washington. On January 1 last their were 27.7 prisoners in confinement to 100,000 of the general population, as compared with 33.1 prisoners per 100,000 on Jan. 1, 1926. The number of prisoners in confinement and also the ratio of such prisoners per 100,000 of the population have shown considerable fluctuation since 1910, but have been decreasing steadily since 1926. The prison had a total of fifty prisoners received from the courts in 1927, as compared with forty-three in 1910. Of the prisoners received from the courts in 1927, forty-seven were males, and three were females; and of the prisoners present on Jan. 1, 1928, 121 were males, and five were females.

DON ENGINEERS HEAR FATE UNDISMAYED

Surrounded by Guards, They Stand Up Boldly as Sentences Are Slowly Read.

MOVIE CAMERA CLICKS ON

Arc Lights Flash Vivid Rays as Judges Enter Court at Midnight, Eight Hours Late.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 6.—The great "Shakhta" trial ended at 1:30 A. M. today with eleven death sentences, thirty-eight imprisonments, ranging from one to ten years, and four acquittals, including the Germans, Meyer and Otto; the third accused German, Badstieber, was sentenced to one year imprisonment, conditional, which in fact means no imprisonment at all. The Court recommended to mercy six of those sentenced to death, including the double-dyed traitors Berezowski and Matof, "for services in elucidating facts during the trial and the preliminary inquiry." So their denunciations of former associates saved their necks, and old Rabinovitch gets six years imprisonment, Kusma three and Imeneetof eighteen months. No comment is possible save that it is a victory for Krylenko.

The closing scenes formed a suitable pendant to the drama that has gripped the Soviet Union for the past six weeks. First, it was announced that the verdict would be read at 4 P. M. yesterday, and an hour before that time a dense crowd was besieging the doors of the former Nobles' Club. The hours slid by, but nothing happened. But at 8 P. M. the doors opened and it was stated that the verdict would be read in an hour. At 9 P. M. the prisoners were brought into court and State Prosecutor Krylenko took his seat. Nothing happened minute after minute, hour after hour, until the suspense became almost unbearable. But exactly at midnight the Judges came in and the audience rose.

Prisoners Stand Firm.

It was an amazing picture, intensifying the dramatic values with a sure touch. In the centre the five judges stood high behind the red draped table. To their right was the little group of lawyers, and behind them were the motionless rows of prisoners, pale and exhausted but upheld by the mysterious fatalism of the Slav. Throughout the whole hour and a half that followed none of them weakened or whimpered. The guards, with fixed bayonets, flanked them, standing rigid as statues, and at the foot of the stage, by the press seats, there were other soldiers stationed at intervals of five paces, so rigidly still that only their eyes seemed to be living. To the left of the Judges stood Krylenko, with his assistant, and behind him was a group of supplementary accusers.

The rear of the stage was occupied by a group of "supers," some in uniform and some in civilian dress. Their presence filled in the picture perfectly. Five big Jupiter arc lights were darting livid rays now on the prisoners, now on the judges or on Krylenko, and often blazing over the standing public while the movie camera clicked so that the whole Soviet Union from Moscow to Murmansk, from Tiflis to Vladivostok, might share in the final scene.

The Presiding Judge Rishinski read the lengthy document in a rapid, toneless gabble. Two or three times were repeated the apparently interminable list of the prisoner's names, interspersed with a bewildering number of articles of the legal code under which they were charged.

"There Is No Appeal."

When he finally reached the sentences, first the acquittals were read, then the sentences of one year's imprisonment, up through the list to the deaths. There was a tiny gasp of interest repeated when Otto's name was announced among the acquitted, and again when Rabinovitch was given six years in prison. The old man's face twisted in dismay, but it was swiftly controlled. So far as the representative of THE NEW YORK TIMES saw, however, the other accused met their fate impassively, and Krylenko's countenance, which has expressed such a gamut of emotions throughout the trial, was set like a stone.

Then came the end, like the knell of doom.

"Against this verdict of the Supreme Court of Special Instance there is no appeal."

In the coming days the Soviet press will write paens about the triumph of proletarian justice against the enemies of the people.

Most of the accused, I am convinced, deserve their fate, but I hear again the concluding words of the remarkable old Jewish Punchinello, Imeneetof, who, shifting suddenly from gay to grave at the end of his testimony, cried in a strong, resonant voice:

"There are guilty ones among us, I know, but there are innocent also. You will do wrong, citizens of the Court, and you, Comrade Krylenko, if you condemn innocent men. Perhaps Krylenko, as you pass the prison, you will remember I sit there rotting, but, I tell you, there will arise one day a Soviet Zola to write a new "J'Accuse" about this trial and to restore our names to honor."

Russian Societies Here Protest.

Resolutions protesting against the conviction of Russian and German engineers on charges of anti-Soviet sabotage in the Donetz coal mines were adopted last night at a joint meeting of the Russian Lawyers' Association in the United States and the Russian Engineers' Mutual Aid Society at 23 West 124th Street.

"In the course of the last few months," the resolutions said, "mock trials have been framed by the Soviet authorities against the engineers which have already resulted in the murder of twenty innocent men and in death sentences pending against fifty-three engineers.

"There is neither testimonial nor documentary evidence against the defendants, though admissions have been made by many of the defendants. But it is quite evident that these admissions were extorted by the torture so common among the Communists, torture such as not permitting the defendants to sleep at night.

"It is incredible and ridiculous to assert, as Prosecutor Krylenko does, that the defendants were bribed by Russian emigrés. The latter, having been robbed in Russia of their property, are now struggling to make their living in foreign countries, being employed chiefly as laborers. It is likewise absurd to think that the former owners of the mines, whose sole hope is to re-enter into possession of their property, should pay their former employes for blowing up or submerging the mines.

"The reason for the framing of the trials was the necessity for finding scapegoats who might be charged with the downfall of the mining industry, for which the foolish Communist system, and the corruption and incompetence of the Communist authorities, have been solely responsible.

"We therefore make an appeal to the public opinion of the whole civilized world against the cruelties which are being committed by the communists against the Russian population, which has been bereft of impartial courts, the services of independent lawyers and of all human rights."

BERLIN PRESS JIBES AT DON SABOTAGE TRIAL

Germans Are Likely to Ask Further Guarantees Before Sending More Engineers to Russia.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 6.—The sentences handed down in the Don coal sabotage trial in Moscow, in which three Germans were involved, caused little surprise here. That two of the Germans would be acquitted and the third receive a technical sentence was expected, as well as the death sentences pronounced on a number of the Russians.

The entire affair was due, according to the general view of the press, to the belief that Russia needed a trial of this kind to impress Russians and Reds throughout the world with the idea that sinister forces are at work trying to undermine the workers' régime.

The immediate effect of the trial will be to force Russia, in future commercial transaction involving the sending of Germans to the Soviet Republic, to give very definite and substantial guarantees against a repetition of this affair. The Prussian Zeitung says:

"The trial shows the uncertainty in Russo-German relations. Certainly Russia has not gained in any way by the trial."

The Abend, a Socialist organ, says: "A dictatorial system requires some one to be the goat," adding that the Communists showed more than "their usual incompetence" when they dragged Germany and industry into the "mess."

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung asks whether this "theatrical monstrosity" will awaken people to the true state of affairs underneath the "Russian autocracy." The only paper to defend the Soviets is the Rote Fahne, the Communist organ, which continues to print stereotyped articles inspired by Moscow, intended to show how near to the brink the land of the dictatorship of the proletariat was shoved by capitalistic greed.

Locks Maid in Closet to Steal $100.

A robber forced his way into the apartment of David Smolin at 1770 Davidson Avenue, the Bronx, yesterday afternoon, locked Louise McVi, the negro maid, in a closet, ransacked the place, and took money and jewels worth about $100. Half an hour later, Donald Smolin, 4 years old, came home from play, heard the servant's screams and let her out. She described the thief as about 40 years old, wearing a gray suit, a gray hat and brown shoes.

Tokio to Recall 7,000 From China.

Full Relations Restored Between Rome and Vienna

VIENNA, July 6 (AP).—Full diplomatic relations between Austria and Italy were resumed today when Signor Auriti, the Italian Minister, resumed his post after a four months' absence in Rome. He had left Vienna in March because of difficulties between the two Governments growing out of Austrian criticism of the Italian policy in the South Tyrol [Upper Adige].

He brought to Chancellor Seipel today a warm message of appreciation from Premier Mussolini for the Chancellor's extremely conciliatory note saying that Austria regarded the question of the South Tyrol as an Italian internal affair.

"I hope that nothing will occur in the future to impair the good relations which should subsist between two such close neighbors as Italy and Austria," said the message.

BRITISH JURY FINDS MRS. PACE INNOCENT

Judge Says Evidence That She Poisoned Her Husband Is Not Sufficient.

CROWD IN COURT CHEERS

Thousands Demonstrate Outside Court House as Inquest Verdict of Murder Is Reversed.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 6.—One of the most sensational murder trials ever held in this country ended today with the acquittal of Mrs. Pace. She was charged with poisoning her husband, a small farmer, with arsenic. The husband died on Jan. 10 and the funeral was stopped by order of the Coroner and an inquest was held. From that time until today Mrs. Pace had to submit to an agonizing ordeal. Fifteen times the inquest was adjourned, and at every resumption she had to attend. In the meantime the police put her through a close examination, and many times she was on the point of collapse. Finally, the Coroner's jury reached a verdict that Pace had been murdered by his wife.

Her ordeal came to a dramatic end today when the Judge presiding over the trial directed the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty," as the evidence against her did not warrant the continuance of the case.

Remarkable scenes followed the acquittal of Mrs. Pace. People in court cheered and friends rushed to the dock to shake her hand. Thousands of men and women surged outside the court house to greet her, and the police had to be strongly reinforced to keep the crowd under control. The members of the dead man's family who gave evidence for the prosecution were received with hostile cries and a storm of booing, and the police had to give them protection. In the meantime Mrs. Pace remained inside the court house to order to escape the attentions of the crowd, but as it bcame evident that the crowd had no intention of dispersing she finally made her appearance.

It was the signal for a mild demonstration. The people cheered and waved handkerchiefs, and the police had the greatest difficulty in clearing a passage for the motor car which carried her away.

The newspapers approve of the Judge's decision and of the jury's promptness in accepting it.

According to the evidence given at the trial Mrs. Pace had proved herself a devoted nurse to her husband throughout his illness, although she had a family of several children, including a baby, to attend to. On the other hand it was alleged her husband treated her cruelly from the day of their marriage, and that he had several times threatened to kill her and the children. It was also stated that he consorted with other women.

A Liberal member of Parliament is going to ask the Prime Minister in the House of Commons if steps will be taken to have the verdict of the Coroner's jury quashed and if he contemplates removing from office the Coroner who conduct the inquest.

The Coroner at first refused to accept the jury's verdict that Pace died from arsenical poisoning "administered by some person or persons other than himself." He sent the jury back to name a person, and they named Mrs. Pace.

ATHENS, July 6 (AP).—A decree was published today dissolving Parliament and fixing the new elections for Aug. 19. The new Parliament will meet on Sept. 17.

TRAFFIC CODE EXPERTS PRAISED BY HOOVER

They Meet in Capital to Complete Uniform Ordinance for Over 3,000 Cities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Secretary Hoover today commended traffic experts for their efforts to control the growing traffic problem of American cities, the occasion being a meeting of the Committee on Municipal Traffic Ordinances and Regulations of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, of which he is Chairman. He was in attendance only long enough to extend a greeting to the committee in the Department of Commerce Building.

Mr. Hoover said the committee, which is drafting a model ordinance for traffic regulation, is engaged in a splendid and constructive work. That ten States had adopted the uniform State motor vehicle code and that fifteen or twenty more are now considering it, he declared was proof of the importance of the traffic conference held here four years ago. He expressed appreciation for the large amount of preparatory effort by the ordinance committee.

In one of the code sections pedestrians obtain the right of way over vehicles at crossings, except where policemen or lights are directing movements.

The committee discussed in detail the language desirable in the proposed ordinance affecting parking, loading zones, bus stands, lights and many other subjects.

The problem of lights proved one of the biggest encountered, differences arising as to whether the three-color signal system of red, green and amber should be recommended, or the two-color system of red and green lights.

When the ordinance is finished it is hoped it will serve as a guide for more than 3,000 municipalities in handling their traffic problems. William E. Metzger of Detroit, chairman of the committee, said of the ordinance, which was virtually completed tonight, that it paves the way for the establishment of a uniform traffic system throughout the country and safeguards the pedestrian as well as the motorist. It will be submitted to all municipalities within a few weeks.
